KEEP THE OLD FRIEND.

Make new friends, but keep the old:
  Those are silver, these are gold:
New made friendships, like new wine,
  Age will mellow and refine.

Friendsplhs that have stood the test,—
  Time and change,—are surely best;
Brows may wrinkle, hair grow gray,
  Friendship never knows decay.

For, 'mid old friends, tried and true,
  Once more we our youth renew.
But old friends, alas! may die,
  Now friends must their place supply.

Cherish friendship in your breast,
  New is good, but old is best;
Make new friends, but keep the old,
  Those are silver, these are gold.

COPLEY'S EYEGLASSES.

We had been talking over a lively incident in the life of one of our friends—his name was Thwaites—which had led to a peculiarly strong development of that individual's nose. Three of us knew Thwaites quite well, and one of the three had told the story to the others. The fourth man did not know Thwaites personally, but he did know a story of another man of which he said, this story about Thwaites reminded him.

"You know that eyeglasses make a great difference in the looks of a man, don't they? Well, this is how Copley came to wear eyeglasses:

"His eyes? They may have suffered from the artificial help they have been getting from those glasses all these years, though I believe he has had the good sense all along to wear simple lenses that make not the least difference to his vision. But he certainly never took up with those eyeglasses for the good of his eyes. It began in a matter of policy with Copley.

"When I knew him first we were both students in a big London hospital, trying to become doctors.

"Copley was very much in earnest, you see. He may have been naturally disposed to have his larks in one way or another, but he always had a certain shrewdness which kept him from playing tricks calculated to bring the professor down on him. In particular he knew how good a thing it was to stand well with the dean of the faculty.

"I ought to explain, in case you do not know, that there the dean of the faculty is the professor who has held office longest, and at that particular hospital the statutes made him very much of an autocrat. For instance, there were three big 'exams' to pass in the five years, and no student could present himself at any one of these without a certificate from the hospital he belonged to that he had attended lectures and demonstrations duly and faithfully' for a certain number of terms. Those certificates were signed at our hospital by the dean of the faculty alone. He took the reports of the other professors, but in the last resort his signing or not signing might be very much a matter of his own personal estimate of the individual student. See? The dean could practically stop a man from getting his degree, even if that man knew as much about medicine as Galen.

"Fortunately our dean was a good old fellow, and he used his power not only with justice, but with mercy. Perhaps his botanical studies made him mild. I have noticed that people who have much to do with plants and flowers are mostly of a gentle disposition. He was professor of 'materia medica.'

"One day he seemed fidgety and distraced when he took his place to begin the lecture. He seemed to be looking over the class in search of some one. Presently his eye fell on Copley. The old man puckered up his brow and stared at Copley through his spectacles.

"Then he began in a nervous, irritable way: 'Yes, sir, you. I don't know your name, sir. You, sir. What is your name, if you please?'

"Copley made no pretense of not seeing that he was the person in question. He frankly answered, 'My name is Copley, sir.'

"'Copley? Ah, very well, Mr. Copley,' says the old man. 'Mr. Copley, I have to tell you in the presence of this class unless your character undergoes a change you will never be fit to practice the healing art. You have no humanity, sir. You are cruel, sir—cruel.'

"Copley had no idea what the dean was talking about, and none of his friends could enlighten him. Some of the class could guess, but they did not happen to know Copley well enough to volunteer a hint. The truth was that some student had been making an ass of himself that morning with the schoolboy trick of fastening walnut shells on the feet of a cat, and then turning the beast loose in the lecture room corridor. The janitor had at last been obliged to kill the cat with a shotgun. The dean thought he had found the perpetrator of this outrage, but he was wrong. Poor Copley had not even been in the college and he knew nothing about it.

"As Copley had no idea what the dean was driving at, he could only submit to a harangue, after lecture, go and ask the dean what it all meant. But the dean only stared at Copley as a particularly imprudent specimen of a normally impudent genus—the London medical student.

"'Go away, sir. Go away, Mr. Copley, and remember that I have my eye on you.'

"But after that the dean seemed to have it in for Copley. Twice again in that same term Copley was reprimanded for outrageous behavior of which he had no sort of knowledge. The second time he was threatened with expulsion for having willfully and deliberately intoxicated a little street arab and then put him to sleep in the dissecting room, where he afterward came to himself in a terrible fright and very nearly had a fit.

"Whoever was the perpetrator of this villainy, the dean had, as he thought, the evidence of his own senses as to the perpetrator's identity.

"'I saw you, sir, when you brought that unfortunate child into the inner courtyard,' said the dean. 'I saw you and wondered what you were doing with him.'

"Copley kept his head this time. It was a very serious affair, and he saw the necessity of using all his wits.

"The faculty never did find out who was guilty. It was a most unsatisfactory investigation. Copley's innocence was clearly established, but a disagreeable suspicion of several first-year and second-year men also grew up. Copley, I ought to say, was in his fourth year.

"The story of the street arab who had been frightened nearly to death got into the newspapers and made a sensation. There was no doubt that it would injure the reputation of the hospital. The board of directors debated over the affair at a special meeting, and all the 700 students debated over it on all occasions.

"It was a nurse—of all possible people—who gave us the first hint of a way to put a stop to the persecution of poor Copley. She was chatting with him, myself and a senior student, all of us on night duty in her ward.

"'The thing is quite plain to me,' she said. 'In fact, I believe I could put my hand on the guilty party to-morrow morning, if I wanted to. But the scandal has nearly blown over now, and the young man has been badly frightened. So we might as well let well enough alone.'

"'And how about me?' says Copley.

"'Well, then,' she said, 'Mr. Copley has a double—yes, a double. Mr. Copley's double is a young limb of Satan in his first year. I have noticed the likeness over and over again, but, as you gentlemen never see anything of the first-year students—'

"Of course, now that she had mentioned it, we all saw just how it was. The nurse did not tell us the name of this young man, but we three quietly kept on the lookout for Copley's double among the first-year men, and in less than twenty-four hours we found the double of Copley in a youth by the name of Wixem. We all three pitched upon the same man. There was no room for the least doubt. The only difference between Copley and Wixem at ten yards' range was that Wixem was already serious and even grave in his demeanor, and Copley had a gay, devil-may-care way, in spite of his troubles. Any one would have taken Wixem for a sober, earnest, ambitious student, which is just what he was not, and Copley was.

"Copley was so exasperated that he attacked Wixem on the sidewalk, just outside the principal gate of the hospital and gave him a terrible black eye. Copley was arrested by a passing policeman, but Wixem was too cunning to appear in court. He knew that people were still talking about the dissecting-room scandal.

"'Well, anyhow,' I said to Copley, 'that black eye will help the dean to distinguish between you and Wixem for some time to come.'

"But for several weeks Wixem did nothing that could get Copley into trouble. The dean looked at Copley very hard, with a puzzled expression, from time to time, and Copley bravely returned the stare.

"Then came Copley's eyeglasses.

"You see, we all, including the friendly nurse, agreed that Copley could not go on blackening Wixem's eyes periodically to keep from being mistaken for that young miscreant. So the nurse suggested that Copley would look very well, and immensely professional, in gold-rimmed eyeglasses. And after that there was no possibility of mistake."

"And so," one of the three asked, "your friend Copley stuck to the identifying glasses for life?"

"Yes, but wait a minute. The funny thing was that the first day Copley appeared in the hospital with his new glasses—I was with him at the time—he also wore a dark frock coat and a high hat, and it happened that he had never before appeared there in such a sober get-up. Just as we entered the inner courtyard, which happened to be deserted, Mr. Wixem, looking very solemn, which meant that he had been up to some devilish pranks, met us as he was coming from the museum wing. Copley glared at him, as if he would like to black his eye just once more.

"Wixem stopped short and said: 'Why, sir, I had no idea you were in town!'

"'Hadn't you, sir?' says Copley. 'Then, sir, let me recommend you to bear in mind that I am in town.'

"Wixem only stared for a moment, said 'Oh!' in a manner that indicated both astonishment and relief, and passed on.

"'Copley,' I said, 'that young man took you for his father.'

"'I'll father him if he doesn't mind what he's about,' says Copley.

"The general effect of the eyeglasses was wonderfully effective for good in Copley's career. In the first place, the dean discovered that he had made a good man a victim of his own mistakes. He wanted to reopen the inquiry about the dissecting-room, only the board wouldn't let him. But he became a fast friend to Copley, and that fact helped him on considerably long after he had begun practice.

"No, it isn't merely as a souvenir that Copley continues to wear his glasses. The fact is that the friendly nurse wouldn't hear of his taking them off. She is Mrs. Copley now."

Friendly Assistance.

"Can I help you to anything?" asked Boarder No. 6.

"Yes," replied the newcomer at the foot of the table. "You might give me a claw to this hash."—Philadelphia North American.

A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.
Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 30? Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

THE WONDERLY GOLD MINING COMPANY, Limited.

CAPITAL $1,000,000, Divided into Shares of $1.00 each.

Incorporated under Ontario Laws. Non-assessable.

This Company was formed for the purpose of purchasing and working seven gold claims on the Saskatchewan river, near Edmonton.

These claims have been worked some, and in the summer of 1900 D. F. Loveland, the former owner and president of the Company, had a dredge at work, and although only able to handle 200 yards of earth per day, there was from $30.00 to $50.00 of gold taken from that amount of earth daily, and thus demonstrating beyond doubt the great value of these claims.

The Company proposes to purchase one of the Risdon dredges, with a capacity of 2 500 cubic yds. a day.

The expense of running such dredge will be about $175.00 per week, and even if the dredge handles only 1.000 cubic yards a day, in six days, there will be taken out $1,500.00 worth of gold, with a profit of $1,325.00 in one week.

Sufficient stock will be sold at 25 cents per share to raise money to purchase the necessary dredge, after which the books will be closed and no more stock will be offered for sale.

There is no gold proposition on the market to-day equal to this one.

Application for stock can be made to any of the Directors, or to the Secretary, or to W. T. McNeil, broker, St. Catharines.

On Saturday, Dec. 29th, the armature department of the Canadian General Electric Works was the scene of a very pleasing event, when the young ladies of this department presented Miss Emma Lockington, Inspector, with a handsome opal ring, asking her to accept same, not for its intrinsic value, but as an assurance of their appreciation of her valued services as Inspector in this department, and courteous treatment received at her hands at all times. They closed by all joining in wishing her a Happy and Prosperous New Year. Miss Lockington, in a few well chosen words made a suitable and feeling reply.

STEAMER CUT IN TWO.

The Steamer Eclipse Undergoing Extensive and Important Repairs.

Commodore Calcutt, President of the Peterborough Navigation Company, is determined to have a fine fleet of steamers on the Rice Lake waters this season. As our readers already know, the steamer City of Peterborough is undergoing a complete overhauling, the old machinery having been taken out and new and modern machinery taking its place. The boat will be a credit to the town when completed.

The steamer Eclipse has been cut in two, preparatory to adding 20 feet to the length of the craft. The steamer is also being supplied with powerful machinery, and will be otherwise greatly improved.

The new century will open a new era in the annals of the Peterborough Navigation Co., and one that promises great and far-reaching results.

WESTERN RAILROADS.

C. P. R. Takes Over the Nelson and Fort Shepherd Road.

Montreal, Jan 1.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company continues to extend its lines in British Columbia. It is announced that to-day the section of the Nelson and Fort Shepherd road, between Nelsn and Five miole Point, B. C. will be taken over by the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is said in this connection that the Canadian Pacific has spent large sums of money at Nelbetween Nelson and Five mile Point, thus practically discarding the old line followed by the Nelson and Fort Shepherd road. Freight trains are now running over the new section, which is proving a powerful aid to the rapid delivery of freight. The Nelson road will retain running privilages over the Canadian Pacific, and will have the use of the new station and yards at Nelson.

Another announcement just made is that the work begun about a year ago on the Lardeau line will be completed early next spring. This will open the district known as the Lardeau-Dunan, which is said to contain deposits of silver lead ores bearing much resemblance in a general way to the finds that rendered Leadville, Col., famous some twenty years ago. The shipments so far warrant the Canadian Pacific in continuing the extension, and the work will be pushed next year more vigourously than ever. The indications are that this new district of British Columbia will yield additional millions to the mineral products of the Dominion.

Alderman Denne requests his friends and supporters to meet in the Committee Rooms, on George street, Wednesday Evg.

GOOD FOR ASHBURNHAM.

Candidates Agree to do no Canvassing For Votes.

Ashburnham has set Peterborough and the rest of the Province an example worthy of imitation. At the nominations yesterday, the candidates for the Council agreed to do no soliciting of votes.

Mr. Frank Adams was again elected to the Reeveship by acclamation.

The nominations for Councillors are Robt. Pollock, Alex. Rutherford, J. H. Smith, Robert Sheridan and W. J. Johnston.

Mr. Johnston is the new candidate for municipal honors.

There is also going to be a fight for the school board. The three retiring members, Messrs. J. Agnew, Jas. Fowler and F. Adams are again seeking re-election, in addition to Messrs. R. B. Rogers and Walter Pakenham.

Mr. R. B. Rogers brought up the matter of the union of the municipalities of Peterborough and Ashburnham.

Reeve Adams explained that the Peterborough Council delegated the question to a few of its members who were known to be opposed to the scheme, and so nothing had come of the matter.

Councillor Smith gave the same explanation, adding that Peterborough had wished to allow Ashburnham only two representatives in the Council, when the ward system was in vogue.

Councillor Smith also referred to the evils of canvassing, and moved that none of the candidates for the council or school board do any soliciting of votes this year.

The motion was seconded by all the nominees, and carried unanimously on a standing vote.

Many Nominees in the Field for Aldermen—Nominations for Public School Trustees—Ald. Dawson Gives an Explanation as to Why He Retired.—The Campaign Now on in Earnest

The Town Council Chamber was crowded yesterday morning, when nominations for Mayor, Aldermen and School Trustees for 1901 were received. Up to Saturday it looked as though Ald. Denne would be elected for Mayor by acclamation, but at the last moment another candidate was prevailed upon to accept of nomination, and now the Mayoralty race is on in earnest. The nominations are as follows:

A YOUNG MAN.

In nominating Ald. Denne for Mayor, Mr. Peter Hamilton remarked that his nominee was a young man, who had been brought up in the town and well known to all. He has proved to be a thoroughly successful business man, and no doubt would fill the Mayor's chair in a very creditable manner.

AS GOOD AS THE AVERAGE.

Referring to Municipal affairs in general Mr. Hamilton asserted that most towns and cities in dealing with large manufacturing interests, deal with them as of the greatest importance to the town. He suggested that it was unwise to assess the plant of industries, as the machinery should rather be looked on simply as the tools of the operatives and therefore exempt. The towns in Western Ontario recognized these matters in the administration of their affairs. The speaker hoped the future of the town would be bright and thought that the municipality had nothing to be ashamed of in the past. It could not be expected that men like Van Horne and Hayes could be persuaded to sit in a council and direct its affairs as they would a railway. No council was perfect. All were liable to make mistakes and he was of the opinion that last year's council was as good as the average.

A ZEALOUS ALDERMAN.

Mr. F. J. Matthews in seconding Ald. Denne's nomination, remarked that all citizens should be proud of the way the town affairs were managed. Not many towns had sidewalks and roadways that could be compared to those of Peterborough and at the same time have so small a debt. No alderman had been more zealous than Mr. Denne in securing so desirable a state of affairs, and he was proud to nominate him as a Mayoralty candidate for the first year in the century. If he had opposition he was confident Mr. Denne would be elected as Mayor for 1901.

ALD. DAWSON EXPLAINS.

Mr. D. W. Dumble here invited Ald. Dawson to explain why he had retired from the Mayoralty contest.

Ald. Dawson in compliance, expressed his regret at his reference at last Wednesday's meeting to the lack of progress in St John's Church, but he could not withdraw anything else he had said. The statements of Rev. J. C. Davidson, likening the council to the dead men in the cemetery, he still considered uncalled for. It was not the duty of the Council to look the country over for new industries. That should fall to the Board of Trade, which was formed for that particular purpose. Although retiring in accordance with his statement of Wednesday night, he was of the opinion that he could have been the Mayor of the town for 1901 had he remained in the field.

OVER SENSITIVE.

Mr. Dumble followed with a few remarks, in which he thought the town owed such men as Mr. Dawson a debt of gratitude. Although he might be a little over sensitive, everyone would agree with him that Mr. Dawson had been an honest councillor.

ALDERMAN DENNE.

In accepting the nomination expressed appreciation for the honor accorded him. He referred to Mr. Peter Hamilton, his nominator, as a very successful manufacturer and a prominent citizen, and it was a source of gratification to him to learn that Mr. Hamilton had that confidence in him to nominate him for the mayoralty. All know his seconder, Mr. T. F. Matthews, as one of the most progressive manufacturers in the town. This was the young men's day. Mr. Matthews was even younger than the speaker, yet he was the manager of one of the town's best industries. Many said that he (Mr. Denne) was too young for the Chief Magistrate's chair, but in connection with any statement of this nature, it must be taken into consideration that he had been a member of the council for six years. Four years ago he had been chosen by the council as chairman of the Finance Committee, and each successive council since that time had selected him to fill the same position. When he first entered the council he had been under the impression that great measures could be undertaken by that body, but he soon learned that the councils of previous years had looked so carefully to the education of the children and other matters requiring the issue of debentures, that after the demands of the different sinking funds had been met there was very little money left to spend. In the last six years, however, eight miles of sewer had been constructed, where the town was almost destitute of sewerage before that time. Permanent paving had been unknown in Peterborough then but now we had seven and a half miles of it. Concerning the contest for the Mayoralty Mr. Denne said that the fight was a most peculiar one. All knew of how his two previous opponents had been disposed of, and in regard to the last one he would have to dispose of him at the polls.

MR. W. H. MOORE.

Thanked his nominator and seconder, and stated that he had been associated with the town and its interests for over thirty years.

Mr. W. H. Moore, after thanking his nominator and seconder, stated that he had been known in the town for over thirty years, and had been a member of the council for seven or eight terms. He had come out as a Mayoralty candidate a few years ago, but had been defeated by Mr. William Yelland, mainly because of being considered too juvenile. This state of affairs he considered should now apply to Mr. Denne. He was disappointed that a gentleman like Mr. Denne, who had now been in the field for about a year, had advanced no program of what he intended to do during the year. Mr. Denne might have brought up the question of the purchase of the waterworks, of the electric light franchise, the uniting of the town with Ashburnham, the matter of health and the encouragement to be offered to manufacturers. At the recent public meeting Mr. Denne had referred to the matter of purchasing the waterworks in a manner which indicated that he was averse to the town taking over the proprietorship.

Mr. Denne—"That is not so."

Continuing the speaker advocated the town purchasing the waterworks, and said he was anxious to see Peterborough and Ashburnham incorporated as a city.

He did not believe in tempting industries from other towns in Ontario, but many manufacturers in the States were looking for sites in Canada, and the town's advantages should be set forth, as nowhere could better railway facilities or water power be found. In connection with the health of the town, he would have that improved by the most thorough inspection of the lanes and back yards in the business portion of the community.

HOCKEY.

Hockey is beginning to boom now; the seniors, intermediates and juniors are all hard at work. Last night the seniors and intermediates were out in good force, and had the best practice they have had for years. The prospects for the coming season are brightening and it is expected that when the season opens Peterborough will be in line. Captain Hollingshead put the boys through their facings at the practice, and tried the new men in the different positions. Boyce and Glover are playing well at point, Hollings Glover are playing well at point, Hollingshead and Clarke will be the men for cover. It is hard to say who the forwards of the senior team will be. Last night, Simpson, Graham, Parnell, Watt, Crowley, Lynch and several others were tried there in various combinations. All are showing good speed and good checking, but need a little more practice in shooting. It is expected that that defect will be remedied before long. Every one is keen and just waiting for a start to show what he can do. Every one expects to be able to shine this year.

The seniors are to have an exhibition game next Saturday evening. Arrangements have been made with the St. George's of Toronto. This is one of the best teams in Toronto, and Peterborough had considerable difficulty in getting on a game with them on account of the team being so much in demand. They will certainly make things lively for our aggregation. A good match is sure to result.

The seniors will have a good hard practice on Wednesday evening and the Colts this evening.

THE NEW CRIMINAL CODE OF CANADA

Some Most Important Amendments Come Into Force all Over the Dominion

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—The legislature of the session of 1900, saw, among other important measures, an act further to amend the Criminal Code, which comes into force on January 1, 1901, and may be briefly described as containing several momentous amendments to the criminal law, and numerous important amendments in the mode of criminal procedure.

The bill, which covers 26 pages is little more than a schedule, but it contains very much of general interest.

The first important clause is an amendment to clause 166 of the old code (1892) which consists of the addition of the following sub-clause:

"166A. Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to one year's imprisonment, who, by failing to perform any legal duty, permits a person in his lawful custody, on a criminal charge to escape therefrom."

This clause providing again negligent escape was contained in the bill of 1891, and also in the Bill of 1892, but it was struck out in Committee of the Whole in the House of Commons. The suggestion was that the offence was not essentially a criminal one. From two or three quarters it has been proposed that the Code should contain such a provision. There was a corresponding provision in the pre-existing law and the clause now is re-enacted.

This is followed by amendments to clauses 179 to 189 of the Code, all of which refer to offences against public decency and morals.

THE LOTTERY'S DOOM.

An amendment to clause 205 follows, and is the most important section of the whole Act to Montreal and the vicinity, doing away in toto with the exemption which under the old law allowed so-called art societies to really carry on lotteries. The attention of the authorities was called largely by the exposures made in 1899 to several societies, nominally art unions, but to all intents and purposes lotteries in money prizes, as directly or indirectly they gave ticket holders an option to take money. The following is the clause as amended, the changes being the insertion of the words in brackets, and the striking out of the paragraph as to Art Societies.

"8. This section does not apply to

(a) the division by lot or chance of any property by joint tenants or tenants in common, or persons having joint interests (droits indivis) in any such property, or

(b) raffles for prizes of small value at any bazar held for any charitable (or religious) object if permission to hold the same has been obtained from the city or other municipal council, or from the mayor, reeve or other chief officer of the city, town or other municipality, wherein such bazar is held and the articles, raffled for thereat, have first been offered for sale and none of them are of a value exceeding fifty dollars; or

(c) the Credit Foncier du Bas-Canada, or the Credit Foncier Franco-Canadien."

PROTECTION OF ANIMALS.

Clause 331 is important to the west as it deals with cattle stealing, providing that owner's marks on cattle shall be admitted as prima facie evidence.

Section 332 deals with the crime of stealing any dog, bird, beast, or other animal ordinarily kept in a state of confinement, and greatly increases the penalties for stealing valuable pets, or stud animals. The amended clause reads:

"332. Every one who steals any dog, or any bird, beast or other animal ordinarily kept in a state of confinement or for any domestic purpose, or for any lawful purpose or profit or advantage, is, (if the value of the property stolen exceeds twenty dollars), guilty of an (indictable offence and liable to a penalty not exceeding (fifty) over and above the value of the property stolen, or to (two year's imprisonment, or to both, and if the value of the property stolen does not exceed twenty dollars), is guilty of an offence and liable upon summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars over and above such value, or to one month's imprisonment with hard labor.

Every one who, having been previously convicted of an offence under this section, is summarily convicted of another offence thereunder, is liable to three months' imprisonment with hard labour."

The words in brackets are the newly added portions, in this and other clauses quoted.

FLOGGING FOR BURGLARS.

Section 410 is amended so as to provide for the flogging of burglars found in possession of offensive weapons. The amendment consists of the addition of the following sub-section:

"(Every one convicted of an offence under this section, who, when arrested, or when he committed such offence, had upon his person any offensive weapon, shall, in addition to the imprisonment above prescribed, be liable to be whipped.")

It had been represented that crimes of this nature have been alarmingly frequent of late, and that in many cases they are committed by professional tramps, which class is year by year becoming a greater menace to the peace and safety of residents of small towns and of villages and rural districts. A provision such as the above will probably be the most effective preventive, as imprisonment alone has not sufficient terrors for the class referred to. The Code already provides the punishment of whipping for the crime of robbery with violence.

COUNTERFEITING.

The next amendment is of importance in mercantile communities, and substitutes the following for section 479 of the Code:

"479.—In this part the expression 'counterfeit token of value' means any spurious or counterfeit coin, paper money, inland revenue stamp, postage stamp, or other evidence of value, by whatever technical, trivial or deceptive designation the same may be described, (and includes also any coin or paper money, which, although genuine, has no value as money, but in the case of such last mentioned coin or paper money it is necessary in order to constitute an offence under this part that there should be knowledge on the part of the person charged that such coin or paper money was of no value as money, and a fraudulent intent on his part in his dealings with or with respect to the same.)"

The object of the amendment is obvious; cases not covered by the terms of the section of the code as it stood and requiring to be provided for have frequently been brought to the attention of the authorities, especially in the case of bills of defunct banks, and notes of the Confederate States.

Section 550 of the Code is amended by allowing the exclusion of the public from the court-room during the hearing of any case injurious to public morals. It has been the custom of judges and presiding magistrates to have their courts cleared under such circumstances, and this amendment gives them the legal authority to do so.

These amendments are followed by numerous amendments to the sections of the act which affect criminal procedure, and which are highly technical.

Section 701 is amended by making provision that where it becomes necessary to prove the age of any boy or girl, the record of any incorporated society may be admitted as evidence.

AGAINST GAMBLING.

Sections 703 and 973 are very important amendments. They provide that the possession of gambling utensils shall be prima facie evidence of guilt, and make certain evidence sufficient on the trial of a prosecution under section 199, as it already is on the trial of a prosecution under section 198.

The amended clauses read as follows:

"702.—When any cards, dice, balls, counters, tables or other instruments of gaming used in playing any unlawful game are found in any house, room or place suspected to be used as a common gaming house, and entered under a warrant or order issued under this Act, or about the person of any of those who are found therein, it shall be prima facie evidence, on the trial of a prosecution under section 198 (or section 199), that such house, room or place is used as a common gaming house, and that the persons found in the room or place where such tables or instruments of gaming are found were playing therein, although no play was actually going on in the presence of the officer entering the same under such warrant or order, or in the presence of those persons by whom he is accompanied as aforesaid."

"703.—In any prosecution under section 198 for keeping a common gaming house, or under section 199 for playing or looking on while any other person is playing in a common gaming house, it shall be prima facie evidence that a house, room or place is used as a common gaming house, and that the persons found therein were unlawfully playing therein—

(a) If any constable or officer authorized to enter the house, room or place, is wilfully prevented from, or obstructed or delayed in entering the same or any part thereof; or

(b.) If any such house, room or place is found fitted or provided with any means or contrivance for unlawful gaming, or with any means or contrivance for concealing, removing or destroying any instruments of gaming."

The last amendment of great public importance is that of section 785, as follows:

"785.—If any person in the province of Ontario, before a police magistrate or before a stipendiary magistrate in any county, district or provisional county in such province, without having committed any offence for which he may be tried at a Court of General Sessions of the Peace, or if any person is committed to a jail in the county, district or provisional county, under the warrant of any justice of the peace, for trial on a charge of being guilty of any such offence, such person may, with his own consent, be tried before such magistrate, and may, if found guilty, be sentenced by the magistrate to the same punishment as he would have been liable to if he had been tried before the Court of General Sessions of the Peace.

"2.—This section shall apply also to police and stipendiary magistrates of cities and incorporated towns in every other part of Canada, and to recorders where they exercise functions.

3.—Sections 787 and 788 do not extend or apply to cases tried under this section; but where the magistrate has jurisdiction by virtue of this section only, no person shall be summarily tried thereunder without his own consent."

The only change is in the addition of subsections two and three.

Section 785 at present applies to Ontario only, and it is proposed to extend it to cities and incorporated towns elsewhere.

The new sub-section 3 is intended to make clear that where a prisoner elects to be tried under this section the punishment, if he is found guilty, is to be the same as if he were tried otherwise. This was no doubt the intention of the present section 785. Sections 787 and 788 provide for the punishment by the magistrate in ordinary cases under the Summary Trials Part. Section 785 declares that in cases under that section a prisoner may be sentenced to the same punishment to which he would have been liable if he had been tried before the Court of General Sessions of the Peace, and at such general sessions a greater punishment might by law be inflicted than where the magistrate convicts under sections 787 and 788. A doubt having been expressed whether, notwithstanding the terms of section 785, the punishment to be imposed thereunder is not limited by sections 787 and 788, it was deemed expedient to remove any such possible doubt. Hence the enactment of the above sub-sections.

Good Hay-Weather Here

The prosperity and boom which this country is enjoying look especially beautiful when compared with some things that are becoming conspicuous in Europe. From Germany comes the assertion that "the wave of industrial prosperity in Europe, which has steadily risen since 1895, has taken a turn and begun to recede;" that all signs point to a crisis in industrial lines before two years have passed, and that any political disturbance might bring on the inevitable crash with extreme suddenness. In verification of these discouraging predictions it is pointed out that house rents and industrial stocks have begun to decline, that factories are closing and that the shipping interests and war material industries are making the most of the South African and Chinese disturbances. German students of economics analyze the situation as being the result of overproduction. In France there has been a collapse in the wool market that has carried down extensive business concerns. In England shipowners are discouraged and find great difficulty in making even a meager profit. In Scotland the weaving trades are demoralized. Generally the shoe manufacturers are being interfered with by the invasion of American goods. The outlook in all lines apparently is for worse instead of better times.

Let us make hay while the sun shines. The sun may not always shine here, and we shall want some hay when it doesn't.

TO BEGIN THE 20th CENTURY

Australia is United and a Big Demonstration Held

MESSAGE BY THE QUEEN.

Her Majesty Sends Greeting to the New Commonwealth

Sydney, N.S.W., Jan. 1.—The new century and the new era of federation were ushered in for Australia with every sign of public rejoicing. To-day was a public holiday, and business has been practically suspended for a week to come. The city is decorated with unprecedented lavishness.

The Queen's message evoked prolonged cheering. This was followed by a second message, as follows:

"Her Majesty's Government sends cordial greeting to the commonwealth of Australia. They welcome her to her place among the nations united under Her Majesty's sovereignty, and confidently anticipate for the new federation a future of ever-increasing prosperity and influence. They recognize in the long-desired consummation of the hopes of patriotic Australians a further step in the direction of permanent unity of the British Empire, and they are satisfied that the wider powers and responsibilities henceforth secured to Australia will give a fresh opportunity for a display of that generous loyalty and devotion to the throne of the Empire which has characterized the nation in the part of its several States."

Three cheers were given for the Governor-General and another salute was fired. Ten thousand pupils of the public schools sang the hymn "Australia Fair," and the proceedings were concluded by the choir singing "Te Deum," the "Hallelujh Chorus," and "God Save the Queen."

The Earl of Hopetoun was sworn in as the first Governor-General of the Federated Australian Colonies, amidst scenes of pageantry such as never before had been attempted on this side of the world. He was the recipient of numerous messages of congratulation. The rejoicing of the commonwealth was intensified by a message which Queen Victoria sent through Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, as follows:

"The Queen commands me to express through you to the people of Australia Her Majesty's heartfelt interest in the inauguration of the commonwealth and her earnest wish that under Divine Providence it may insure increased prosperity and well-being to her loyal and beloved subjects in Australia."

The weather for such an occasion was not of the best, but it did not deter immense crowds from thronging the streets from an early hour. A procession, formed of Ministers, officials, judges, clergy, members of the House of Commons, and trade unions and all kinds of societies, allegorical cars, colonial, Indian, and Imperial troops and bluejackets, moved down the troop-lined route towards the Government House. Shortly after noon the procession entered the park, and thousands of the public followed, swelling the multitude that had already assembled on the hills, which formed a vast amphitheatre overlooking the pavilion which had been erected for the ceremonies connected with the inauguration.

The Governor's arrival was marked by a thousand voices singing, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." A special prayer by the Archbishop followed.

After his commission had been read the Earl of Hopetoun took the oath of office and signed it at a table which had been presented by the Queen.

To The Electors of the Town of Peterborough

At the request of a number of influential citizens, who claimed that my long connection with municipal affairs in the Council and on the Town Trust Commission, fitted me for the responsible position of Mayor, I have accepted nomination for that office for the year 1901. If elected I shall give the best service I am capable of for the benefit and prosperity of the town.

There are a number of questions which will demand the attention of the Council during the next year. Among these are:

(1) Health and improved sanitary conditions, a cleaner town and pure water.

(2) The purchase of the water works and the public lighting, thus giving these franchises to the people who created value in them and to whom they properly and naturally belong, and supplying these necessities of life to the consumers, and for the town's use, at greatly reduced charges and at actual cost, which would be little more than half we now pay.

(3) The consummation of a union between Peterborough and Ashburnham on just and fair terms and with full and proper protection of the town's interests.

(4) Persistently and energetically seeking for and securing manufacturing industries to utilize our vast water power and in like proportion engage capital and labor.

I make no reflection on the Council for the past year. I believe they did the best the conditions permitted of and made a sincere effort in their premises. I would discountenance in any manner an attempt to steal industries from other towns, yet there is to my mind an increasing field in which the Council may operate. Our ability to furnish the power, the premises, the railway and other facilities, so vastly superior to those of any other city or town in the province, that with an aggressive policy on the part of the Council, particularly from the head of it, we should, and I believe we will, secure large additions to our present industries. If, to this our taxation of industries is placed on proper lines of encouragement to them, amongst others, so that the machinery shall as nearly as can be treated for assessment, as workman's tools, then we may confidently expect enlargement of the various manufactories now in operation and new works of first importance.

The above and kindred matters I shall enlarge upon at the public meeting in the opera house, Friday evening, at which I trust there will be a good attendance, for I shall not otherwise have an opportunity of laying my views before the electorate.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. MOORE.

MASS OF CHINESE WISH FOR PEACE

Uprising by no Means Popular With the Natives

San Francisco, Jan. 2.—John Goodnow, United States Consul-General to China, with residence at Shanghai, has arrived here on the City of Peking. After a brief visit to Washington he will spend his sixty day's leave of absence at his old home in Minnesota.

In speaking of the probable outcome of the Chinese troubles the Consul-General said:—"I believe a satisfactory settlement will be reached along the lines laid down by the President. Those Chinese who are working for the integrity of their country are ready to assist in a prompt and amicable settlement. The uprising was by no means a popular move with the great mass of the people in Chinese population. From the first they deplored the acts of their fellow-countrymen."

A. E. Chanot, proprietor of the Hotel De Peking, which was destroyed during the Boxer outrages, also is here. He and his wife were intrenched in the hotel during the terrible seige, and miraculously escaped the deadly fire of sharpnel, which ultimately leveled the hotel building to the ground. Chanot brought with him a pony, which was to have been sacrificed for food in the very day that rescue came from the allied armies.

Letters from the People on Interesting Topics.

(NOTE.—The Times does not hold itself in any way responsible for the opinions expressed by its correspondents.—Ed. Times.)

MR. KENNEDY WITHDRAWS.

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—I wish through the columns of your paper to announce my withdrawal as a candidate for Alderman for the year 1901, and to thank the mover and seconder of my nomination, besides the many friends who promised me their hearty support.

After careful consideration I have decided it would be unwise, as, in the event of being elected, I felt my own business would have to be neglected in order to give the town the service that the position of Alderman demands. I remains, yours very respectfully,

H. P. KENNEDY.

THE MAYORALTY.

Editor Morning Times

Sir,—The awakening of the citizens to the need of the hour in respect to the choice of a mayor and council for 1901 has resulted in bringing into the field as a candidate for the mayoralty a gentleman whose long and faithful service in the Council and in the Town Trust Commission, and whose long residence in the town, have fully demonstrated his fitness for that important office.

In Mr. Moore will be found a man fully qualified, a man of mature mind, well informed, capable of forming a right judgment, and with sufficient character to impress his views and help in shaping public policy—as the premier of a town should. The office calls for such a man, and is now seeking him, and it is hoped that, now he has yielded to the urgent pressure of his townsmen, they will do their full duty to him and to the town by seating him in the mayor's chair.

It is claimed that Mr. Deene's six years' service in the Council entitles him to much consideration—admitted—but what about Mr. Moore's eight years of faithful service in the Council and six years in the Town Trust. If the merits are equal Mr. Moore has the superior claim be seniority.

In Mr. Deene the town has a young gentleman, who at some future day may render good service, but the importance of the present emergency calls for one of riper years and more experience in such important measures as are likely to engage the Council of 1901. We all know that the town must arbitrate in 1901 in order to take over the waterworks system in 1902, as provided in the contract with the town, or wait another five years. The figures involved are over $200,000, to be fixed by arbitration. We want a strong, caution and prudent man to watch the town's interests. Then the question of union with Ashburnham may come up. That calls for care and skill. The street railway, sanitary measures, and our manufacturing interests will call for wisdom and skill of the highest order, and to select for the mayoralty at this juncture any but the most experienced and capable man would be a huge mistake.

'Tis well the citizens realize the importance of prudent action, and have thus awakened to a sense of duty and to a determination not to let the great interests of the town go adrift. We must not forget that the future King of England may visit our town this year, as did his father in 1860.

Hoping for a year of prosperity and harmony under the guidance of a good mayor and council, I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,
D. W. DUMBLE.

VERY LITTLE SUCCESS FOR THE INVADERS

Boer Invaders in Cape Colong are Being Headed off at Every Turn

Capetown, Jan. 2.

The invaders have reached Glen Harrig, a few miles north of Graaf Reinet, in the heart of the disaffected portion of the colony.

DEWET HEADED OFF.

London, Jan. 2.

The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Kitchener: "DeWet tried to move toward Bethlehem but he was headed off by Pilcher, and retreated toward Lindley or Reitz. One hundred and thirty Boer horses have been captured near Thaba Nchu. The railway has been damaged south of Perfontein. Williams engaged the Boers southwest of Middleburg, Cape Colony, and the British now occupy Graaf Reine."

London, Jan. 2.—A despatch from Colesberg, Cape Colony, Monday, Dec. 31, says: Two hundred and fifty Boers captured 14 men of Nesbitt's Horse, 50 miles southeast of Colesberg. The enemy, since increased to 800, has since appeared near Welterbreden, and is driving off the stock.

A train having on board 60 of the Prince Alfred Guards, who were returning from the front, and about 40 passengers, women and children, was held up at Rosmead Junction. The Boers numbered two hundred, with supports that could be seen in the distance. The soldiers defended themselves until their small quantity of ammunition was exhausted, when all were captured, though subsequently released. The passengers had narrow escapes. An officer and three soldiers were severely wounded.

COLONIAL DEFENCE FORCE.

Recruiting in connection with the Cape Government's call for civilians to arm to aid the military in repelling the Boer invasion of the Cape Colony will begin to-morrow. The force will be called the Colonial Defence force, and will be under military control.

There is still no evidence of an appreciable number of the Dutch colonists joining the invaders, but the latter themselves have now considerable numbers. They, however, are apparently not acting in combination, having divided into numerous small bodies. They are carrying on a guerilla war.

WERE FORCED TO FIGHT.

General Kitchener has telegraphed to the War Office as follows:—

"Pretoria, Dec. 31.—General Knox, who has been following up De Wet, reports that he has captured some horses, five wagons with supplies, and 6,000 rounds of ammunition. He has released, and allowed to go to their farms, 76 Boer prisoners who were taken at De Wet's laager, and who were being forced to fight.

"General French recently captured 12 prisoners, and a large quantity of carts and cattle. Among the prisoners was a despatch rider bearing a letter from Leyers for Smuts."

NEW YEAR'S HONORS.

Only One Canadian Shares in the Rather Light Distribution This Year.

The names of one Canadian and one militia officer who lived for a time in Canada compose the Canadian share of New Year's list of Imperial honors as cabled to Lord Minto by the Colonial Secretary:

"It gives me much pleasure to inform you that Her Majesty has been greatly pleased to approve of Colonel Kitson and Lieut.-Col. Irwin, C.M.G. (Signed) Chamberlain."

It was generally believed that the honors would be military this time, but it is evident that those called forth by the war are to be held over until later. Colonel Kitson was for about four years Commandant of the Royal Military College.

Lieut.-Col. Irwin was formerly Inspector-General of Artillery, but is now on the retired list. He is the secretary of the Canadian Patriotic Fund Association.

LORD ROBERTS AND THE QUEEN

He is Received at the Isle of Wight With Unusual Honor

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 2.—The Queen bestowed an earldom on Lord Roberts, with a special remainder for his daughters. He was made a Knight of the Garter also.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 2.—The steamer Canada, with Field Marshal Lord Roberts on board, anchored off Osborne at 11.45 a.m., to-day.

The ships in the Roads were gaily dressed, the sea-front was elaborately decorated with bunting, and Venetian masts, with festoons, adorned the route to Osborne House, at the entrance of which was erected a unique tribute of the Queen's appreciation of the Field Marshal's work, in the shape of an arch of laurel. This was the first time such an arch had ever appeared there in honor of any subject of her Majesty.

After Lord Roberts' audience of the Queen he was to re-join the Canada at Southampton, and remain on board till morning.

A large concourse of people awaited Lord Roberts' arrival at Trinity Pier and landing. The Field Marshal landed from the Royal launch at 3.30, and there were deafening shouts of welcome. Princess Beatrice, in her capacity as Governor of the Isle of Wight, and the Duke of Connaught, representing the Queen, awaited Lord Roberts, whose arm was still in a sling as a result of being thrown from his horse in South Africa. He was warmly greeted, and the party started in royal carriages for Osborne House. The route was lined with troops and thronged with cheering sightseers.

Y. M. C. A. Reception

The annual reception by the Y.M.C.A. on New Year's day was a decided success. The arrangements were perfect, and everything passed of most agreeably. The coffee room was open all day, and was supplied with an abundance of refreshments, so kindly provided by the ladies of the town, as well as other friends of the young men and boys. In connection with this the Social Committee wish to publicly express their warm thanks to those who sent in contributions. The morning was given to the boys, the gymnasium being the chief attraction. In the parlor games and music were the features. In the evening the basket ball match drew a large audience, the result of the game being a victory for the home team. At the conclusion of the game the visitors were banqueted in the coffee room, Messrs. Harding and McCallum acting as hosts. At the close Mr. R. F. McWilliams, chairman of the Physical Committee, took charge of the toast list. 'The Visitors' was responded to by Mr. McVey, of Toronto, and Mr. Sanderson, Physical Director of Trinity School, Port Hope. 'The Ladies" was responded to by Messrs. Williamson and MacLeod; "The Hosts" by Messrs. McCallum and Harding, and "The Queen" was responded to by all singing heartily, "God Save the Queen."

The Canadians Popular.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—E. W. B. Morrison, writing from Belfast, South Africa, says "We did not know how popular we Canadians were until the time came for us to go. Everybody seemed really sorry. Even the Boers said nice things about us. An old woman said to me: 'We like you Canadians. I hope you will go home safe to your friends.' The artillery offered to entrain our guns for us, the Royal Irish Band played us out to the tune of Auld Lang Syne,' and the Gordons lined the track, officers and men, and cheered themselves hoarse.

"At every camp we passed the men turned out to cheer us. The general and his staff came down to see us off, but arrived too late. He sent word after by the C.M.R., who were on the train following, expressing regret that he had not been able to say good-bye to us personally."

Rode Into the Boers.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—Lt.-Col. Steele has sent a most interesting, though for him long, report of the Strathcona Horse, to the Minister of Militia. The report is dated Potchefstroom, Nov. 27, and covers the time intervening from October 20.

The regiment did excellent service on November 10 at Flagfoot. In covering what was intended to be General Barton's passage of the valley. The movement was unsuccessful, owing to the failure of the Imperial troops to do their share. Col. Steele was then sent to recall the Imperial Light Horse that had crossed the valley. The Light Horse had retired, and instead rode into a body of the enemy, who opened fire at short range. Pte. Read had his horse shot, and surrendered, but during the night caught his guard napping and escaped.

General Barton makes special mention of the regiment in general orders, and has commended them to the Commander-in-Chief.

Mr. Boddy Seated.

A very pleasing event occurred on New Year's Day, when Mr. T. E. Boddy, the genial and popular city agent of the C.P.R., was presented by the employees of the office with a handsome revolving office chair of antique oak, upholstered with leather. Mr. Boddy was, metaphorically speaking, completely knocked of his pins, and took the seat without a word of protest. The gift so kindly bestowed is heartily appreciated, a fact which Mr. Boddy endeavored to explain at the time, but only with partial success. We are sure "Tom's" scores of friends in town and district will heartily join the Times in the wish that he may long fill the chair.

A New Year's Dance

An assembly of a very enjoyable character was given in Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club. There was an attendance of over seventy couples, who tripped the light fantastic to music furnished by Butcher's orchestra. The decorations of the hall were most artistic. Mottoes expressing appropriate sentiment had been tastefully arranged. An excellent supper prepared by Harry Long was partaken of during the evening. J. J. Turner & Sons did the decorating.

Death of Mr Harry English

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Harry English, of Keene, which sad event occurred yesterday morning. The deceased had been a sufferer from consumption for some time, and his death was not unexpected. He was unmarried, and was 42 years of age. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon, Friday, at one o'clock, from the residence of his brother at Keene. The Times extends its sincere sympathy to the sorrowing relatives.

Death of Mr. Thos. Nicholls

The death is announced of Mr. Thomas Nicholls, who passed away yesterday morning at the family residence, London st., aged 47 years. Mr. Nicholls was much respected. He leaves a wife and four children.

THE "WHITE DEATH"

The Terrible Frozen Fog of the Rocky Mountains

Of all the natural phenomena peculiar to the Rocky Mountain region none is more strange or terrible than the mysterious storm known to the Indians as "the white death." Scientific men have never yet had an opportunity of investigating it, because it comes at the most unexpected times and may keep away from a certain locality for years. Well-read men who have been through it say that it is really a frozen fog. But where the fog comes from is more than any one can say. This phenomenon occurs most frequently in the northern part of Colorado, in Wyoming, and occasionally in Montana.

Will Sparks, writing in Ainslie's Magazine of this singular phenomenon, tells this authentic story of it:

"About two years ago a party of three women and two men were crossing North Park in a wagon in February. The air was bitterly cold, but dry as a bone and motionless. The sun shone with almost startling brilliancy. As the five people drove along over the crisp snow they did not experience the least cold, but really felt most comfortable, and rather enjoyed the trip. Mountain peaks fifty miles away could be seen as distinctly as the pine trees by the roadside.

"Suddenly one of the women put her hand up to her face and remarked that something had stung her. Then other members of the party did the same thing, although not a sign of an insect could be seen. All marveled greatly at this. A moment later they noticed that the distant mountains were disappearing behind a cloud of mist. Mist in Colorado in February! Surely there must be some mistake. But there was no mistake, because within ten minutes a gentle wind began to blow and the air became filled with fine particles of something that scintillated like diamond dust in the sunshine. Still the people drove on until they came to a cabin where a man signaled to them to stop. With his head tied up in a bundle of mufflers, he rushed out and handed the driver a piece of paper on which was written: 'Come into the house quick, or this storm will kill all of you. Don't talk outside here.'

"Of course no time was lost in getting under cover and putting the horses in the stables. But they were a little late, for in less than an hour the whole party was sick with violent coughs and fever. Before the next morning one of the women died with all the symptoms of pneumonia. The others were violently ill of it, but managed to pull through after long sickness.

"'I seen you people driving along the road long before you got to my house, and I knowed you didn't know what you were drivin' through,' said the man, as soon as the surviving members of the party were able to talk. 'That stuff ye seen in the air is small pieces of ice, froze so cold it goes clear down into your lungs without melting. If any man stayed out a few hours without his head covered up he would be sure to die. One winter about eight years ago it cleaned out a whole Indian tribe across the Wyoming line. They are more afraid of it than they are of rattlesnakes. That's the reason they call it the "white death."'"

Everybody's Girl.

There is a type of girl that everybody likes. Nobody can tell exactly why, but after you have met her you turn away to some other woman, and you say, "Don't you like Miss So-and-so?" Now, the reason you like her is a subtle one; without knowing all about her, you feel just the sort of girl she is.

She is the girl who is not "too bright and good" to be able to find joy and pleasure all over the world.

She is the girl who appreciates the fact that she cannot always have the first choice of everything in the world.

She is the girl who is not aggressive and does not find joy in inciting aggressive people.

She is the girl who has tact enough not to say the very thing that will cause the skeleton in her friend's closet to rattle his bones.

She is the girl who, whether it is warm or cold, clear, or stormy, finds no fault with the weather.

She is the girl who, when you invite her anywhere, compliments you by looking her best.

She is the girl who is sweet and womanly to look at and listen to, and who doesn't strike you as a poor imitation of a vulgar boy.

She is the girl who makes this world a pleasant place because she is so pleasant herself.

PEN, PENCIL AND BRUSH.

Now that John Ruskin is dead a "Ruskin union" has been formed in London for the purpose of studying his works.

Emperor William has commissioned William Pape, the artist, to paint the scene of Archbishop Simar rendering homage.

The name of Samuel Smiles has been so long forgotten by the reading public that many will probably be surprised to learn that the author of "Self Help" is still alive. He lives in London.

Winston Spencer Churchill, the British war correspondent now in the Transvaal, has published his first novel. It bears the title "Savrola" and depicts the political intrigue and revolution in the imaginary republic of Laurania.

The clay model for the bust of the late Joseph Medill of Chicago has been badly damaged in some way in the studio of the sculptor, Richard H. Park of Chicago, and he will have to reproduce it from memory.

INK AS A WITNESS.

Results In One Case Which Amazed the Attorneys.

In a case in the supreme court it was alleged that interlineations had been made in the papers after they were filed, and the papers were submitted to expert chemists to decide whether the interlineations had been made after the papers were filed or at the time the paper was drawn. The process followed by the chemists was simple, though tedious.

Hypochloride of soda was the only chemical used by the expert, but the result was the same as that arrived at by the other experts. Tests were made on each line of the document. The soda bleached the ink, and, as the writing in some parts was done many years ago, the first drop of soda was placed on a line which was not in controversy. The writing slowly faded, and it was 51 seconds before it was bleached.

A drop on another interlineation faded the writing in 49 seconds, on another in 51 seconds, and the interlineations made when the paper was first written faded in about 50 seconds on an average. Suddenly the ink of one of the interlineations faded in 15 seconds, and the conclusion was at once reached that it was fresher ink than the others, as the ink had not had time to thoroughly permeate the fiber of the paper.

Several interlineations were found to fade in from 13 to 16 seconds, and these were marked as having been made at a more recent date.

After all interlineations had been so marked, the next step was to ascertain as nearly as possible at what date the interlineations were made, and for this purpose many manuscripts in which similar ink was used on the same kind of paper were taken. The exact date of the writing of each manuscript was known, and soda was dropped on each, beginning with the date of writing of the manuscript in controversy. The time necessary to fade the ink gradually decreased from 52 and 50 seconds as the soda was dropped on the manuscripts of more recent years.

When the fading took place in 20 seconds, manuscripts but a month apart in writing were used, and the fading in 14 and 15 seconds was thus fixed in a certain month. The examining chemists knew nothing of the points in the controversy, and the report was made that certain interlineations were probably made in the specified month. The attorneys in the case were amazed, as the month named was that in which they believed the more recent writing had been done.—Indianapolis Press.

Uses For Bicycles.

There are many uses to which an old cycle can be put. It is said that a theater manager has made rather an excellent chandelier out of his old wheel. He also uses an old tricycle for producing the effect of wind, hail and railway trains. A navvy is said to have made a clock almost all out of parts of an old machine. The bell strikes the hours, and a length of solid rubber tire holds the pendulum, which is a bicycle fork. At one small place a man has turned a discarded wheel into a kind of pump, and the tires do duty for the pipe hose. Another has made a treadle sewing machine out of his wheel. A grocer has turned part of a cycle into a coffee grinding machine, and a bell ringer, being rather feeble in the arm, has an old cycle which he has raised and fixed in one position, and so by a pulley arrangement he can when gently pedaling ring the bell vigorously. Many folks use their old wheels for flower stands, and there is a man who is making quite a decent living by turning old bicycles into conveyances on which washerwomen can take home the weekly load.—London Globe.

The Crusades and Embroidery.

The crusades had a marked effect on the demand for embroidery, as besides the decoration of their cloaks and pouches the kings and their followers wanted gorgeously worked hangings for their tents and heraldic blazons for their banners. The last were difficult of execution, and new stitches were invented, and applique work was introduced about this time. The Spaniards are said to have learned the use of spangles and other metal and bead ornaments as applied to stuffs from the Saracens. Later precious stones and pearls were used, and in 1414 Charles of Orleans spent about £40 for 960 pearls which were to be used in ornamenting a great coat on the sleeves of which were embroidered the verses of a song beginning with "Madam, I am all joyous." The musical accompaniment of the words was also embroidered.—Spectator.

Worth Seeing.

A Newcastle laborer recently resolved to treat himself to a night at the theater, and, entering the pit by the back of the orchestra, he happened to see the double bass viol set up against a music stand.

Having never seen anything of the kind before, he leaned his arm on the orchestra rail and stood transfixed with amazement. The pit was filling rapidly, and an acquaintance, tapping him on the shoulder, said if he didn't take a seat they would soon be all occupied.

"Wey, wey, hinny," he exclaimed excitedly, "neever heed a seat. Aal I want is a look o' the chap that's gaan to put that fiddle oonder his chin."—London Fun.

A Woman's Face

Tells its own story. A laugh is often a lie on a woman's lips. It belies the pain which is tearing at the nerves. But the eyes have no part in the laugh. Their purple rings speak of suffering. There are lines too about the mouth which only pain can give. Many women look forward to a week of such misery each month. Three months of each year are given up to suffering. It weakens them. It ages them. It robs them of social pleasures and family joys. Can there be any excuse for such women who fail to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? It has cured thousands of such sufferers. Cured them perfectly and permanently. It cures ninety-eight out of every hundred who give it a fair and faithful trial. It's sure to help. It's almost sure to cure.

"I had falling of internal organs and had to go to bed every month; had irregular monthly periods which would sometimes last ten or twelve days," writes Mrs. Alice L. Holmes, of Coolspring Street, Uniontown, Pa. "Had indigestion so bad that I could not eat anything hardly. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

Free. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for paper-bound book or 50 stamps for cloth binding to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00. Write to day for a dozen and make money. Dear Sirs,—In accordance with your wishes I have had both the red and white wines and the champagne tested by several connoisseurs, French and English. THEIR SILVER WEDDING.

Only Three Things Wrong About His Story.

They were celebrating their silver wedding and the friends were admiring them as people always do other people when they are getting a lot of presents. You have noticed, of course, how people always look at you when you show them something somebody has given you. They are surprised and they envy you. They always wonder, however, in themselves what on earth any one could see in you to give you anything so handsome. That is unless it is your husband. Then they smile and wonder what he has been doing that his conscience needs rest. But if you'll notice you'll find that persons who get many presents have many friends. You may have many friends but get precious few presents. Presents make friends; friends don't make presents. Married people increase the circle of their friends with every anniversary of their wedding, because the presents get handsomer and more expensive. You can work this paradox out for yourselves, I haven't time.

They were celebrating their silver wedding, and of course the couple were very happy and very affectionate.

"Yes," said the husband, "this is the only woman I ever loved. I shall never forget the first time I proposed to her."

"How did you do it?" burst out a young man who had been squeezing a pretty girl's hand in a corner. They all laughed and he blushed; but the girl carried it off bravely.

"Well, I remember as well as if it were yesterday. It was away back in Maine. We had been out to a picnic, and she and I got wandering alone together. Don't you remember, my dear?"

The wife nodded and smiled.

"We sat on the trunk of an old tree. You haven't forgotten have you love?"

The wife nodded and smiled again.

"She began writing in the dust with the point of her parasol. You recall it, sweet, don't you?"

The same old smile and nod.

"She wrote her name 'Minnie,' and I said, 'let me put the other name to it.' And I took the parasol and wrote my name—Smith—after it."

"How lovely," broke out a little maid who was beaming in a suspicious way on a tall chap with a blonde mustache.

"And she took back the parasol and wrote below it, 'No I won't.' And we went home. You remember it darling. I see you do."

Then he kissed her and the company murmured, "How nice."

The guests had all departed and the happy couple were left alone.

"Wasn't it nice, Minnie, to see all our friends around us and so happy."

"Yes it was. But John, that reminiscence."

"Ah, it seems as if it was only yesterday."

"Yes, dear; there are only three things you're wrong about in that story."

"Wrong? Oh, no!"

"John, I'm sorry you told that story because I never went to a picnic with you before our marriage; I was never in Maine in my life and I never went through that parasol business with you."

"My darling, you are wrong."

"I'm not wrong. You know I have an excellent memory. We have been married twenty-five years but I never knew about that minx Minnie. You never told me of her before."

I guess that she'll forgive, but it is doubtful if she forgets.

He Needed the Money.

A local real estate dealer tells this story:

Some time ago he had an allotment on the market and one day a foreign-looking individual walked into his office and said he wanted to inquire about the lots. He looked over the plat and finally picked out one that suited him.

"Vot's der price?" he asked when the location was decided upon.

"Eight hundred dollars."

"I give you six houndred cash."

"Very well," said the dealer, "you can have it."

Then the customer lowered his voice.

"I vant der price of dot lot seex houndred to me, but eight houndred to effrybody else. You understand?"

"Yes," said the dealer. "That will be all right."

"Vell, you see, it's like dees—I'm goin' to get married. I've got der girl picked out, und she has money. You see you vill sell der lot to her for $800 Den you vill motion to me, und ve vill go into der next room und you will pay me dot $200. See?"

"You want the $200 for a commission?" said the dealer. "That will be all right, too."

The customer looked relieved.

"It's chost this way," he said "I must have dot two hundred or I can't get married."

"You shall have it," said the dealer.

A few days later the future bride her mother and the coming bridegroom entered the office. The papers were quickly prepared and signed, and the mother from the intricacies of her skirts produced a wad of bills, which proved to be the necessary $800.

Then the bridegroom lingered behind as the bride and her mother passed into the hall. The dealer hastily counted off the $200 and thrust it into the bridegroom's hand.

"I have to have it," whispered the latter.

"All right," said the dealer.

"I couldn't get married without it."

"I understand," said the dealer.

The man with the two hundred paused, with his hand on the doorknob.

"I have to have it," he hoarsely murmured, "it is for my first wife's funeral expenses!"

SECOND HAND COFFINS

They May Be Bought or Rented in New York City.

One of the queerest places in Greater New York is a little undertaker shop in Mulberry Bend, where second-hand coffins are kept. Its owner does a thriving business among the poor Italians of that section, and the same coffin often does duty on many occasions. One can either buy or rent a coffin from the obliging gentleman in charge.

To renters the price depends not only upon the original price of the casket selected but upon the length of time it is kept. From $5 to $10 is usually the price.

Here coffins may be hired by the day or month like dress suits. Poor people find this a convenience, since many of them are unable to buy a decent casket outright. The Mulberry Bend undertaker solves this difficulty as well as adds a ludicrous feature to a gruesome occupation by merely renting a coffin for a funeral.

When the corpse is lowered into the grave and the mourners have left, it is slipped into a heavy pine box and the coffin comes back in the hearse.

In the rear of this unique establishment is an altar fitted up for services, and when the home is small the funeral is held here. Some of the coffins are now in a most dilapidated condition. For years they have been in frequent use.

How Not to Get Sick.

Never lean with back upon anything that is cold.

Never take warm drinks and then immediately go out into the cold.

Keep the back, especially between the shoulder blades, well covered; also the chest well protected. In sleeping in a cold room establish the habit of breathing through the nose, and never with the mouth open.

Never go to bed with cold or damp feet.

These are the sensible suggestions of a writer in Table Talk, who then goes on with the following hygenic advice:

Never omit regular bathing, for unless the skin is in active condition the cold will close the pores and favor congestion or other diseases.

After exercise of any kind never ride in an open carriage or near the window of a train for a moment; it is dangerous to health and life.

When hoarse, speak as little as possible until the hoarseness is recovered from, else the voice may be permanently lost or difficulties of the throat be produced.

Merely warm the back by the fire, and never continue keeping the back exposed to heat after it has become comfortably warm. To do otherwise is debilitating.

When going from a warm atmosphere into a cooler one, keep the mouth closed, so that the air may be warmed by its passage through the nose ere it reaches the lungs.

An Overwhelming Thought.

Our sun is a third-rate sun, situated in the milky way, one of myriads of stars, and the milky way is itself one of myriads of sectional star accumulations, for these seem to be countless, and to be spread over infinity. At some period of their existence each of these suns had planets circling around it, which, after untold ages, are fit for some sort of human beings to inhabit them for a comparatively brief period, after which they still continue for years to circle around without atmosphere, vegetation or inhabitants, as the moon does around our planet. There is nothing so calculated to take the conceit out of an individual who thinks himself an important unit in the universe as astronomy. It teaches that we are less, compared with the universe, than a colony of ants is to us, and that the difference between men is less than that between one ant and another.—London Truth.

Greater Than Royalty.

When Robert T. Stewart was governor of Missouri it was in the days when everybody drank whiskey, and the governor was no exception to the rule. Years ago, when the Prince of Wales was on a visit to this country, they gave a grand ball in his honor in St. Louis. Governor Stewart came down from Jefferson City to honor the event with his presence. In the course of the evening the enthusiastic governor drank rather too much. He became exceedingly happy, as well as proud and enthusiastic. He and the prince were seated on the platform, while the beauty and aristocracy of St. Louis swept past them in gorgeous review. Stewart's feelings and bosom swelled. Eventually, in a mighty impulse of glow and glory, he administered a tremendous slap upon the prince's back, exclaiming with intense animation:

"Say, prince, don't you wish you were governor of Missouri?"

England's heir took it all in good part, and laughed, and paid no further attention to the governor's familiarity, otherwise his dignity might have sustained a severe shock. Harry Norman in the St. Louis Republican.

Sucked the Poison From 18 Wounded Men.

One of the stories of history which is always of interest to the young is that of Queen Eleanor sucking the poison from King Henry's wound after that monarch had been stabbed with a poisoned dagger. The Queen's devotion saved the life of the King, according to the story which the more austere historians look upon as apocryphal. But here is a modern instance which proves that the story is probably true:

In the recent fighting around L'mu, in Nigeria, in West Africa, a detachment of British were ambushed by a force of natives, who poured in a shower of poisoned arrows upon them. Colonel Lowry-Cole and Captains Abadie and Bryan, three officers out of the four commanding the detachment, were hit by arrows. The poison which the natives use for their arrows has been known to prove fatal in a few minutes.

Dr. Thompson, the surgeon of the expedition, as soon as the officers were hit, sucked the blood from the wounds and with it the poison. As soon as he had attended to the officers he looked after the men, and found that fifteen had been hit. He gave the same treatment to them. All recovered. The doctor experienced no ill effects from his action.

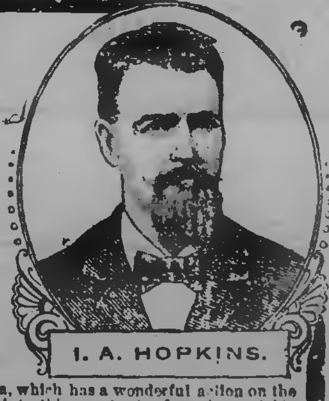
A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.



I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours,
I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 503 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

THE WONDERLY GOLD MINING COMPANY, Limited.

CAPITAL $1,000,000, Divided into Shares of $1.00 each.

Incorporated under Ontario Laws. Non-assessable.

This Company was formed for the purpose of purchasing and working seven gold claims on the Saskatchewan river, near Edmonton.

These claims have been worked some, and in the summer of 1900 D. F. Loveland, the former owner and president of the Company, had a dredge at work, and although only able to handle 200 yards of earth per day, there was from $30.00 to $50.00 of gold taken from that amount of earth daily, and thus demonstrating beyond doubt the great value of these claims.

The Company proposes to purchase one of the Risdon dredges, with a capacity of 2 500 cubic yds. a day.

The expense of running such dredge will be about $175.00 per week, and even if the dredge handles only 1,000 cubic yards a day, in six days, there will be taken out $1,500.00 worth of gold, with a profit of $1,325.00 in one week.

Sufficient stock will be sold at 25 cents per share to raise money to purchase the necessary dredge, after which the books will be closed and no more stock will be offered for sale.

There is no gold proposition on the market to-day equal to this one.

Application for stock can be made to any of the Directors, or to the Secretary, or to W. T. McNeil, broker, St. Catharines.

The animals yesterday were no exception to the rule, being of the very best.

Death of Miss Annie Russel.

There passed away in Cleveland, Ohio, Miss Annie Russel, youngest daughter of the late James Russel, of Ashburnham, aged 29 years. Miss Russel had for some months been a sufferer from lung trouble, which carried her off. She was a sister of Mr. Fred Russel, conductor on the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, Mrs. Geo. Sloane and Mrs. (Ald.) C. B. Robertson. The remains were brought to town yesterday and interred in the Little Lake Cemetery.

Capt. Donnelly, who is well known to many throughout this district, especially steamboat men, is a candidate for the position of Chief Magistrate of the Limestone City. If Capt. He will make a capital Mayor, possessing as he does all the qualities that fit him for the position. With Mayor Donnelly at the head of Kingston's civic government, the city will be sure to make substantial progress.

A Pretty Wedding

A wedding of more than local interest took place on New Year's Day, when Mr. Victor Peace Thewlis, of the Auburn Woollen Mills Co., was united in marriage to Miss Mabel Frances, second daughter of Mr. Francis Mason. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father, 49 Argyle street, in the presence of a number of intimate friends and relatives, Rev. Mr. Wilson, of the George Street Methodist Church tying the nuptial knot. The large number of beautiful and costly presents testified to the esteem in which the young couple are held by their friends. The Times joins in wishing them a long and happy life.

Death of Mr. Wm. Stothart.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Wm. Stothart, which occurred on Tuesday morning, after an illness of several months. Mr. Stothart was a sufferer from rheumatism, which finally carried him off. He was 47 years of age, and was the son of the late John Stothart, of Smith. The deceased was born in Smith, where he lived the greater part of his life. He married Miss Charlotte Lafferty, of Kingston, who, with one daughter, survives him. Messrs. Thomas, John and James Stothart, of this locality, are brothers of deceased. The funeral will take place from the family residence Edinburgh street at three o'clock this afternoon and will proceed to Little Lake Cemetery.

—Friday, January 25th, being the anniversary of Burn's birthday, Mr. Gilddon is preparing a special National Scotch programme for that evening. The numbers will include Godfrey's "Reminiscences of Scotland," and many other selections of a like character, which will be particularly interesting to the Sons and Daughters of "Auld Scotia."

The Stanley Piano Co. requests all purchasers of Pianos to communicate direct with or call at the Factory, where Mr. Stanley will take pleasure in showing the special merits of the Stanley Piano, which on doubt has contributed to the great success and rapidly increased sale experienced by the Company.

RESOLUTION OF REGRET

Presented to Mr. Geo. S. Matthews by the Sabbath School

A pleasant incident occurred on Sunday last in connection with Murray Street Baptist Sunday School. There was an open session of the school, during the course of which Mr. Geo. S. Matthews, who for the past three years has been the efficient Superintendent of the School, was presented with the following resolution of regret at his retirement from the position.

Whereas, George S. Matthews, Esq., our beloved Superintendent for three years has requested us to relieve him of the responsibilities of his office;

Resolved, that we, the teachers and officers, while we regretfully accede to his request, embrace the opportunity to express to him our cordial and grateful appreciation of his uniform, kind courteous and Christian bearing to all connected with the school and his wise, conscientious, tactful and efficient management of the school during the whole period of his superintendency;

Resolved, that we shall ever hold him in affectionate remembrance, and pray that every blessing from the Father of Mercies may be his.

Resolved, that we request that, though released from the cares and labours of the leadership of the school, he may always continue with us as an earnest fellow-labourer in this important department of Christian service.

By order of the teachers and officers,
M. L. STRATTON,
Secretary.
Peterborough, December 30th, 1900.

Mr. Matthews replied in suitable language and in order that he might still be of some service to the school, he accepted the office of Assistant Superintendent.

An excellent programme of music was rendered by the children of the school throughout the afternoon.

SCAVENGER OF THE VELDT.

The Aasvogel, Which Keeps the Wide Plains Clean.

Although the term "vulture" has been used for all time as a term of the vilest opprobrium, no one who knows the bird, its appearance and its habits could doubt for a moment that it expresses a depth of degradation which is barely conceivable.

And yet the vulture does a great deal of good in acting as the scavenger of the veldt. But for his quick eye, carrion taste and love of dead meat the disease germs in the carcasses of dead oxen would be far more prolific and dangerous.

Throughout South Africa is found the aasvogel. Go anywhere you like on the veldt, and sooner or later—and in all probability the former—you will find the remains of his ghastly meal. There are hundreds of thousands of oxen used in the transport and trekking service. Many of them die from exhaustion, want of water or cruelty from their Boer masters. Or they may eat of the poisonous tulp, a bulbous plant growing in marshy places.

A kurneyor, or teamster, soon knows if any one or more of his oxen have been eating tulp. The neck of the ox swells, his eyes close up, he gives short, sharp coughs, and his case is generally hopeless. Sometimes, however, he may be saved, and this by a peculiar, homeopathic sort of remedy. If the bulb of the tulp plant is crushed into pulp, mashed with hot water and forced boiling hot down the throat of the ox he may recover.

The quickness of the eye of the aasvogel is simply astounding. An ox falls out of the team, evidently ill. He is outspanned from his yoke fellow, and he goes down to the spruit, or stream. The sky above and away to the horizon on all sides is absolutely clear and cloudless.

Hardly has the breath left the body of the poor ox than you may observe far, far away up in the sky a tiny black speck, then another and another and another, until there are 20 of them. Gradually they get larger and larger, circling round in ever diminishing circles all the while they descend. The dead ox forms the center of the circumference of their flight. Within a few minutes the grisly horde swoop down upon the still warm beast and commence their ghoulish task.

An hour afterward there is nothing in the spruit but a bundle of bleached white bones that might have been there for months. The sky is clear and speckless again. The aasvogel has scavenged the veldt.

Whittier's Predicament.

Whittier held "Gail Hamilton" (Abigail Dodge) in the highest esteem, and the letters that passed between them are really most delightful. Here is one of the series in The Ladies' Home Journal that is truly characteristic of Whittier. It was written in 1866:

"I must tell thee something droll. Last week the Amoskeag veterans from New Hampshire and a Massachusetts company, with military bands, came and paraded before our house, and Governor Smyth of New Hampshire and one or two officers called on me. When they left and I stepped out to see them civilly off, the men in epaulets got up a grand military salute, with music and three cheers to wind up with! Was ever a Quaker in such a predicament? I did, I fear, somewhat compromise myself by lifting, almost involuntarily, my hand to my hat. But I resisted the temptation and only pulled my hat lower down over my brows by way of testimony."

Awful Experience with Heart Disease.—Mr L J Law, Toronto, Can, writes: "I was so sorely troubled with heart disease that I was unable for 18 months to lie down in bed lest I smother. After taking one dose of Dr Agnew's Heart Cure, I retired and slept soundly. I used one bottle and the trouble has not returned."—99

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having been nominated for the office of Alderman of the Town for the year 1901, I have decided to become a candidate and respectfully solicit your votes. I have been a resident of the Town for a great many years and have always taken an active interest in its affairs, and if elected will give my best attention to the duties of the office. It will be impossible for me to make a general canvass and I therefore take this opportunity of asking each of you for your support at the approaching elections.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year,
I remain, Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH BATTEN.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE Town of Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—At the request of a large number of ratepayers of the town, I am a candidate for the position of Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1901. I have been a member of the Town Council for six years, and the experience I have gained in that time would, I believe, be of service to the town if I am elected. I believe in a progressive policy for the town, and for that reason a liberal policy with respect to manufacturing industries, so long as advancement may be obtained without any sacrifice of the interests of the ratepayers and I would endeavor to secure the best service on the streets and in other ways at as little cost as is consistant with good work.

I shall not be able to see you all personally, and I therefore in this way respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,

INHABITANTS ARE JOINING BOERS

The Natives of Bechuanaland Again in Rebellion

ACTIVITY IN TRANSVAAL

De Wet Held in Check, but British Forced to Abandon Positions.

Cape Town, January 3

The Boers in Bechuanaland have been again joined by the inhabithnts who once before rebelled. Commandoes are reported to be at Blikfontein, Boetsap and Daniels, and their objective is said tobe Griquatown, which is occupied by the British.

Five hundred citizens enlisted to-day, the enrollment being very active. It is hoped that the first batch of mounted men will leave within three days for Worcester.

The Boers in the Transvaal have been exceedingly active for the last week or so, daily attacking trains, convoys and isolated posts. In most instances they have been repulsed with loss.

The invaders on the west who were expected at Fraserburg to-day have altered their course and are now moving in the direction of Williston on the northwest. The British have occupied Fraserburg.

Capetown, Jan. 3.

The military authorities are preparing for all contingencies. It has been decided to transport the Boer prisoners from the camps to transports. Farmers coming in to Carnarvon describe the Boers as trekking in parallel columns, with numerous flanking parties, sweeping the country of horses, plundering loyalists and carrying off everything eatable. It appears that they are accompanied by strings of pack horses, lightly loaded.

A Colesburg telegraph says that Kritsinger's commando is crossing the Middleburg district, but is getting few if any recruits.

Capetown, Dec. 3.

Such business men as are unable to leave are organizing a town guard, composed of the leading citizens. The commercial companies have asked the Mayor to call a mass meeting to urge the Government to suppress disloyal newspapers and to proclaim Marshall law.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier, replying to Sir John Gordon Spriggs, thanking the Canadian contingents cables the Cape Colony premier as follows:—

"Canada will be repaid for the little she has done, if her example helps to bring peace and harmony and confidence among all Her Majesty's subjects in South Africa."

A party of Boers has passed Middleburg to Roode Hoogte, and another has reached Glenharry, 20 miles north of Graaf Reinet, one of the chief centers of anti-British sentiment in the colony. Gen. Kitchener's official despatch allays any anxiety regarding the capture of the town at present.

A report from Cape Town states that 700 Boers have broken the British cordon at Zuerberg and are looting and burning within a few miles of Richmond, which town is threatened. There are some rumors of engagements between the invaders and their pursuers.

Martial law has been proclaimed in five more districts.

KNOX HOLDS DEWET.

The effect of the withdrawal of troops from the Transvaal and Orange River Colony to deal with the invaders in Cape Colony is seen in the continued activity of the Boers there. Gen. Knox is holding Dewet, who has been pushing further north, but the Boers have reoccupied Jagersfontein, the richest and most British town in the Orange River Colony. They are also probably in possession of Fauresmith, which place the British abandoned on Christmas day concurrently with their abandonment of Jagersfontein. The inhabitants, with hundreds of wagons and carts loaded with their belongings mmournfully moved to Edinburg, where they encamped. The men had defended the town for months, but the military authorities decided that it was impracticable to continue sending them supplies, as they were so far from the railway.

Reports from Durban state that amred Boers are in the neighborhood of Ladysmith, possibly seeking a chance to release the Boer prisoners there.

NOT MANY RECRUITS.

A despatch from Cape Town says:

An pimportant seizure of bullets and dynamite has been made in the Fraserburg district. The explosives arrived form Cape Town packed in condensed milk cans.

It is learned that the Boers invading Cape Colony obtained only six recruits among the Africander residents in the Hopetown district. It is believed here that their measure of success in other districts was equally small, the Dutch sedition-mongers fearing to translate Recruiting is proceeding at an active rate. The new regiment, the Prince of Wales' Light Horse, has established a recruiting record.

General Methuen is concentratign a fire force at Vryburg, with the object of checking the raiders in the Kuruman district. It is assumed that Kimberley is not now menaced, as 1,000 men have been sent thither to join Gen. Methuen.

HORSES ARE TIRED.

A despatch from Carnarvon says that the Boes commanded by Herrtzog, Wessels, Pretorious and Nisuwenhaut are continuing their march on Fraserburg. It is reported that they have arrived at Spionberg. Looting continues. The Boers' horses are footsore, and are in great want of fodder, as the country is barren.

Communication with Fraserburg is suspended, and it is doubtful when it will be restored, inasmuch as the Boers are travelling along the line.

Col. Thorneycroft and Col. Delisle are continuing the chase, but their horseds and mules are very tired.

Blew up the Safe

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3.—Six masked men entered the Tivoli brewery about 2 o'clock this morning, overpowered the night engineer, and after binding him hand and foot proceeded to break into the office and blow up the safe. It is thought by the engineer that they made away with about two thousand dollars or more, besides ransacking everything which bore any indication of containing valuables.

Engineer Rutz managed to get one hand loose after the robbers had gone, and by dint of hard work succeeded in releasing himself about 2.30 o'clock. He at once telephoned the Central Police Station and Capt Culver detailed Detectives Lombard and Downy to investigate the robbery.

Growth of Methodism

contains some interesting statistics regarding the growth of the Methodist Church in Canada during the century from a membership of 2,259, with 16 ministers in 1801, till in 1901 its members and adherents number 847,469, and its numberical position is in advance of any of the other Protestant churches of the Dominion.

In the year 1825 there were 83 Methodist ministers in the country, and 10,904 members.

The Methodist church enters the new century with a membership of 284,091 and 2,032 ministers. Its churches number more than three thousand three hundred and fifty, and are valued at nearly twelve million dollars, and it has nineteen college and other educational institutions, valued at over a million and a half dollars, while last year the contributions to missions alone were $361,084.

LORD ROBERTS RECEIVES A BIG WELCOME IN LONDON

He Landed at Southampton and Proceeded to London Where He was Given an Enthusiastic Reception--Elaborate Precautions to Prevent Repetition of Disturbances.

Southampton, Jan. 3.—A dense fog this morning disarranged the program heer for the reception of Field Marshal Lord Roberts, and it was an hour after the appointed time when he arrived. Amid scenes of great jubilation, commingled with cheering and the singing of patriotic airs in accompaniment of the bands of music, Lord Roberts landed, and drove through the richly decorated streets to the Hartley Institute.

The Mayor, surrounded by the members of the corporation, in full robes of office, presented him with the freedom of the city in a gold casket. The institute was crowded to its capacity, and there was a remarkable demonstration as the Field Marshal, in the uniform of his rank, stepped on a raised platform. The proceedings were most brief. Lord Roberts in a few words of thanks referred to the war in terms similar to those which he used yesterday.

On returning to the railroad station he was greeted with continuous plaudits from the assembled throngs. At 11.30 a.m. the Field Marshal's train started for London.

Crowds of people to-day flocked to points of vantage along the route to be followed by Lord Roberts from Paddington Station to Buckingham Palace, but the numbers in no way compared with those present on the occasion of the demonstration in honr of the return of the City Imperial Volunteers from South Africa. Fears of a repetition of the riotous behaviour on that occasion deterred many persons from joining in the public welcome. Warned by the occurrence of the time of the Volunteers' return, the authorities to-day furnished barriers to prevent crushing, and fifteen thousand regular troops, in addition to thousands of police, lined the route, blocked the side streets, and were concentrated in the wide spaces to guard against dangerous rushes.

Lord Roberts reached Paddington Station only 20 minutes behind the schedule time. As he descended from his saloon carriage to the platform of the elaborately decorated railway station, he was greeted by the Princeof Wales, the Princess of Wales, the Duke and the Dutchess of York, the Duke of Connaught, and the Duke of Cambridge. The members of the Royal family shook hands heartily with the Field Marshal, while the bands played the National Anthem. The Princess of Wales engaged Lord Roberts in a conversation of some length.

The scene was altogether brilliant. Everywhere were masses of bunting, troops, ladies in bright costumes, Cabinet Ministers and staff officers.

The people on the stand opposite the carpeted platform could see little but cocked hats and ladies' bonnets. The First Captain of the Empire, five feet two high, was invisible except from the front of the circle. After congratulations had been exchanged Lord Roberts walked with the Princeof Wales, the Duke of York, and the Adjutant-General, General Sir Evelyn Wood, and reviewed the Guard of Honor. The veteran Field Marshal, who appeared to be in perfect health, with pink cheeks, bore himself jauntily and with evident enjoyment. He walked down each rank, saluting with his left hand, as his right hand is still in a sling, speaking to the sergeants, and occasionally picking out a private for a few words, recalling pervious service together.

After the inspection Lord Roberts had a few minutes' conversation with his old comrades before he went out into the station enclosure to meet London's multitudes.

The Prince of Wales with Lady in a Royal carriage drawn by six Roberts soon left the railroad station in a royal carriage drawn by six horses and escorted by Life Guards, preceding Lord Roberts to Buckingham Palace. The returning Field Marshal was then presented with an address from the municipality of Paddington.

After Lord Roberts had replied, the procession was formed, the headquarters staff, in six carriages, following immediately behind the Field Marshal, who occupied a State carriage, escorted by Indian cavalry. The secretary of State for War, Mr. William St. John Brodrick, and the Secretayr of State for Foreign Affairs, the Marquis of Lansdowne, were seated in another carriage. A detachment of cavalry brought up the rear. The party proceeded to Buckingham Palace by way of Hyde Park and Piccadilly. Deafening cheers greeted the Field Marshal and new Commander-in-Chief of the forces along all parts of the route. Clubland wa ablaze with color, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. The ladies admitted to the hallowed precincts thronged the windows and the balconies. The hotels and other buildings were all lavishly bedecked, and all crowded from top to bottom with cheering spectators.

The roar of welcome rolled on incessantly until the veteran commander entered the gates of the palace.

REV. MR. POTTER HONORED

He was Presented with a Pair of Gauntlets on Wednesday Evening.

A very pleasing event took place after prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, when Rev. J. G. Potter, the esteemed pastor of St. Andrew's Church was made the recipient of an address and a pair of Persian lamb gauntlets. The address and gift came from the members of the Bible class and the Christian Endeavor and was read by Miss M. Forsythe, the presentation being made by Mr. W. G. Miller. The address read as follows:—

To Rev. J. G. Potter, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear and Beloved Pastor,—We, the members of your Bible class and Christian Endeavor Society, feel that we can not let this golden era of all opportunities pass without an expression of our appreciation for the blessings bestowed upon us by Almighty God in giving us a pastor who is so interested in our spiritual welfare, and who, by his untiring efforts, in reaching souls and leading them to the Saviour.

You are constantly endeavoring to make the work among our young people the source of true spiritual growth, and the instruction and encouragement you inspire in us from time to time is being greatly blessed unto our souls.

We ask you to accept this pair of fur gauntlets as a small expression of our love and esteem for you.

We pray that God's richest blessings may rest upon you and your family, and that your ministration among us may continue to be owned by God and blessed by Him to the salvation of precious souls. May you long be spared to work with us in the Master's service, and prepare us, with yousclf, to at last receive that welcome commendation, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of your Lord."

On behalf of the Bible class and Y.P.S. C.E.

W. G. MILLER,
H. BATHGATE.

Peterborough, Jan. 2nd, 1901.

Rev. Mr. Potter acknowledged the kind address and the gift in a few suitable remarks.

KITCHENER APPROVES OF METHODS OF MINISTERS

Well Mounted Men are Most Required to Surround Boers and Drive them North.

Cape Town, Jan. 3—General Kitchener has sent a despatch to General Forestier-Walker (in command of the British forces at Cape Town) saying: "I am glad to hear of the Ministers' action. Give them all the assistance in your power. Use trains to get these colonists south of the enemy. Ask the Premier to inform me if I can help in any way. Inform him that the enemy are few but very mobile. Well mounted men are most required to surround them or drive them north."

ELECTION NOTES

A Public Meeting Called to Discuss Municipal Matters

The Mayor has issued his notice calling a public meeting of the ratepayers for to-night at the Opera House to discuss municipal matters. It is expected that not only will the Mayoralty candidates declare themselves on leading local questions but those aspiring to Aldermanic honors will also be on hand, and explain their views.

The ratepayers have an opportunity to choose between two citizens for the office of Mayor. Mr. Moore, who enters the field at the last moment, is one of our most esteemed citizens. He is thoroughly posted in municipal matters, and has had the benefit of considerable experience at the Council board. His address, which is printed elsewhere, shows that Mr. Moore is progressive, and fully alive to the requirements of the town

Mr. Denne's record is before the people. He has for some years held the position of Chairman of the most important committee—that of Finance. During that time Mr Denne has given much of his time to municipal affairs, and was always foremost in promoting the interests of the corporation. Possessed of a clear business head, he has made a success of his own affairs. It is such men who are needed around the Council board. The position of the town requires the most capable men to manage its affairs. The ratepayers no doubt will attend the meeting in force to-night, in order that they may know for whom to cast their votes. The Times will have something further to say after the candidates have declared themselves.

From the Rocky Mountains to the Bay of Fundy Canada is pretty much in the hands of the ice monarch, and in all that stretch of country the thermometer touched zero Wednesday night except in Southern Ontario and Nova Scotia. In Peterborough the temperature was eight below, though at noon it had risen considerably. The temperature at different points was as follows:

At Malone it was 16 below; Dannemora, 13 below; Saranac Lake, 31 below; Paul Smith's, 33 below, and at Lake Placid at 10 o'clock this morning it was still 28 below. LOCAL-NEWS LETTERS

DUMMER.

The old council was re-elected by acclamation, as follows: H. A. Moore, Reeve; C. J. Darling, Wm. Miles, Daniel Sedgwick and Thos. Webster, Councillors.

EMILY.

A very pretty wedding took place New Year's evening at the residence of Mrs. James McGee, Emily, when her daughter, Miss Tena McGee, was wed to Mr. Harry Bland, of Mount Pleasant. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Rowe, Methodist minister, of Otonabee. A large number of guests were in attendance. The bride received many handsome presents. The Times extends hearty congratulations.

BENSFORT.

Bensfort had its usual number of visitors for Christmas.

The farmers are apparently well satisfied with the present prices paid on the Peterborough market for poultry.

We understand Mr. D. Chambers intends leaving Bensfort.

The cheese factory will be again in the hands of Mr. J. R. Andres.

Mr. Joseph Morrison of Montreal, spent Christmas with friends here. Mr. Morrison is an old Peterborough boy and we are always pleased to see him.

Mr. J. A. Turnbull, a former resident of Bensfort, is taking a flying visit through this vicinity.

There has been good skating on Rice Lake for the past week.

DOURO.

(From our own correspondent.)

The elections are now on and the contest promises to be exciting. For the Reeveship Mr. James McCliggott, the present Reeve, and Mr. Dennis Moloney, are facing each other. Mr. Moloney is a strong candidate, and has the confidence and support of a large section of the ratepayers. He has made an excellent councilor, being at all times anxious to promote the best interests of the people. Mr. McCliggott, who is also an old and tried servant of the people, will have to put his best foot foremost if he intends to win. Mr. Moloney has many friends who are working quietly for him, and many of Mr McCliggott's supporters are luke-warm.

For the council there is a sharp contest between Messrs. W. D. Sullivan, James Conlin, Chas Curtis, John R. Allen, Thomas E. Jorey and W. J. Bullock. The ratepayers will have no trouble in selecting a good council from these excellent men.

DOURO

The death occurred, in Douro, on Monday, of Jane Nelson, relict of late David Hamilton. Deceased was eighty years of age and had been suffering from an attack of pneumonia which was ultimately the cause of her demise.

The late Mrs. Hamilton was a native of Ireland, having been born in that country in the year 1820 and emigrated to this country about fifty-three years ago. She subsequently married her late husband in Peterborough and moved out to Douro, where she has resided ever since. Her husband pre-deceased her about twenty-five years. Deceased was an ardent member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of town.

The following sons and daughters are left to mourn her demise,—Miss Agnes, who resides at home, Mrs. Thomas Chamberlain, of Otonabee. Messrs. David, of Peterborough, James and George at home and Robert of British Columbia.

The funeral took place from the family residence Lot 4, Concession 6, Douro, at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon and proceeded to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

YOUNG'S POINT.

The annual tea meeting and entertainment held in connection with St. Aidan's church, Young's Point, on New Year's day, was well attended and turned out a financial success. The tea was held in the basement of the church and lasted from 5 till 7 p.m. Everyone seemed to have had an excellent meal.

The entertainment began at 7.30 at Heard's hall (by the kind permission of Mr. R. Heard). Rev W. Creswick gave a short address in which he said our Lord wished us to enjoy ourselves as long as we did no harm to ourselves or our neighbors. The entertainment started with "God Save the Queen." Several part songs and choruses were sung by a trained choir of girls under the direction of Rev. Mr. Creswick. "The Soldier's Bride" was nicely sung by Miss Ethel Wilson. Three short recitations and a dialogue were well performed by some small girls of the parish. Mr. Dickinson, sang tw osongs, which the audience thoroughly appreciated. Two part songs were sung by Mrs. Creswick and Messrs. Creswick aand Kirkman, which called forth applause. Mr. and Mrs. Creswick sang songs, as did little Miss Heard, all of which were well received. A humorous reading, "Fare ye well, Brother Watkins," by Mr. Kirkman, called forth deep sighs from the audience, and a step dance in costume by the same gentleman brought down the house.

BOWMANVILLE.

WEDDING BELLS — "Happy is the bride that the sun shines on," so runs the old adage. It hid itself from us behind the clouds for some days, but burst forth in brilliancy on Wednesday, December 26th, the bridal morn of Miss E. Sophia James and Mr. Jas. A. Phillips, a Canadian who has had a successful business career contracting and building in New York city. The marriage ceremony which united the young couple in wedlock was performed by Rev. J. J. Rae at "Lorne Villa," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. James. The union was solemnized promptly at 4.30 p.m. in the parlor before a high bank of palms, begonias and foliage. The bride was becomingly gowned in white duchesse satin, en traine, with the yoke and sleeves of all-over lace. Miss E. Amanda Bond, Oshawa, attended her cousin attired in a dress of white organdie with lace and insertion trimmings, and wore a ruby and diamond ring, gift of the groom. The bride carried a cluster of white roses and the bridesmaid a choice bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Edwin C. Cunningham, of New York city. After receiving the congratulations of the guests the bridal party partook of a choice wedding dejeuner, the table being prettily decorated in pink and white. Messages of congratulation were received during the evening from New York, Providence, R.I., and Montreal; and later from Exmouth, England. The bride received many substantial gifts from relatives and friends bearing testimony of the respect and good wishes of their numerous friends. Later the happy couple were escorted to the G.T.R. station by a number of the guests, where amidst a shower of rice and good wishes they departed for Toronto, thence to Ottawa, L'Orignal and Huntingdon, Que. The bride's going-away costume was grey camel's hair cloth with toque of rose panne velvet and mink. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will reside at 452 West 57th street, New York, where they will be at home after February 6. The guests from a distance were Miss E. Muda Phillips, Philadelphia, Penn.; Dr. and Mrs. W. A White, New York; Dr. M. J. A. James, Albion, New York; Dr. Julia Thomas, Toronto; Miss Idel Rogers, Cobourg, and Miss Effa Bond, Oshawa.

Staff Diary of Officers Commanding Canadian Rifles and Artillery

COMMISSION FOR KING

Mounted Men Concentrated on December 22 for First Time in Months.

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—Lieut.-Col. Drury, O. C., R.C.F.A., sends his staff diary from November 8th to December 5th. On Nov. 14th he received orders from army headquarters to proceed to Cape Town to arrange for the embarkation of the troops. He left Pretoria on November 2nd, reaching Cape Town on the 25th, being joined at De Aar by Major Ogilvie. On December 1st Major Ogilvie received a wire from Captain Costigan ordering "E" Battery to re-draw horses and ammunition and entrain for Worcester, where a meeting of Colonial malcontents was to be held on December 6th.

Before leaving Pretoria Colonel Drury disposed of all "C" and "D" Battery horses. Lieut. Van Tuyl of "D" Battery, is on I.M.R. service. Lieut. Benyon, transferred from Strathcona Horse, has a month's leave in England. Lieut. W. King, "C" Battery, has applied for and probably obtained a commission in the South African Constabulary.

Lieut.-Col. Evans, O.C., C.M.R., diary shows that Major Saunders reported for duty on December 22nd, and on that day the battalion concentrated for the first time since August 23rd.

Colonel Otter, O.C., Third Royal Canadian Regiment, sends the general report and staff diary to the week ending December 29th.

This, he points out, is his final weekly report. It gives the account of the arrival of the Lake Champlain at Halifax harbor at 4 o'clock on Dec. 23, and the arrival on board of Dr. Jones and Col. Foster at 7.30 a.m. At 11 a.m. the paying-off was complete, and the baggage taken off. Considerable delay now took place in the entrainment of the officers and men, caused in lateness in the despatch of the special mail train, and it was not until 11.30 p.m. that they began the journey westward.

Col. Otter gives great praise to the comfort on the train, and records the events of the reception given the regiment along the line and in Toronto.

THE MAYORALTY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I have been a resident of Peterborough for the last twenty-eight years and have not taken any great interest in its affairs for the simple reason that I never thought the ward system a proper one, and that the practice of going hat in hand soliciting the privilege of serving in the Council unbecoming the dignity of a proper thinking man. However, these opinions are irrelevant to the question before the electors as to the Mayoralty. No one, I think, will question Mr. Denne's past record as good and favorable, but as to his ability to adequately fill the Mayor's chair for 1901 a large portion of the people have grave doubts, and I will just say here that, if his address to the electors on Monday last is an indication of his ability in that direction, they should pause before they cast their votes in his favor. In distinction to his little labored oration, how broad was the future policy outlined by Mr. Moore? He completely understood the requirements of the town and showed that time and study of municipal matters had made him a very intelligent man.

In conclusion permit me to say I have the deepest respect for Mr. Denne in his aspirations and would be glad to see him one of our Aldermen and to give him my support in that direction, and that without solicititation, but he is, as to the Mayoralty, altogether outclassed by Mr. Moore.

I am too British to sign myself otherwise than by the name by which I am well known.

Your obedient servant,
THOMAS GLADMAN.

MUNICIPAL COAL AND OTHER THINGS

An interesting suggestion was made recently in a Toronto paper by Phillips Thompson, the well known writer on economics topics.

"I bought a ton of coal the other day," he tells us, "real good, hard nut coal — none of this cheap trash that burns out twice as quickly as coal ought to —and what do you suppose I paid for it? The general public pays $6 for the same article, but I got it for $5.25, as a slight tribute of the esteem in which the members of the Ontario Civil Service are deservedly held. To put it plainly, there is an arrangement by which Government employes get their coal at the same rate at which the Government contracts for its winter supply. Being a 'visionary socialist' the idea occurred to me, 'Why could not the city of Toronto, which every year makes large contracts to secure the best terms for its coal supply, undertake to supply not merely a few favored individuals, but all the citizens, with fuel at the lowest figures?' Why should the poor pay $6 or $6.50 per ton—or a much larger rate, when they buy in small quantities —when it only needs a little organization and system for the city to become general fuel-provider at an enormous saving to the public. Is there anything dreamy or Utopian in such a proposition? Yes; I'm afraid there is; in fact, in the present state of public opinion, I'm sure there is is. There is only one obstacle in the way — the stupidity and ignorance of the very people who would be most benefited by such a reform."

The suggestion is quite feasible and it is probable that in due time that and many other forms of business concentration will be common enough, the tendency of the age being apparently in that direction. The first effect of municipalizing the coal business would be, of course, the driving out of business of every individual coal dealer who could not sell coal at a profit while the municipality sold it practically at cost. And if the scheme is applicable to coal it is applicable to any number of other businesses. In due time, doubtless, we will have municipal coal yards, supplying citizens with coal at cost, plus the cost of distribution; municipal dairies supplying milk to every house on the same basis; municipal groceries, municipal butcher shops, etc.

It would turn the old world topsy turvy were it to come all at once, but it probably will come instead by such easy stages that after it has come people will wonder why on earth their forefathers ever, for an instant, existed contentedly under any other system.

REPARTEE ON DRESS PARADE

An Incident of One of the English Reviews at Aldershot.

During some manoeuvres at Aldershot to gain practice in the vedette system of employing cavalry to watch and report the movements of an enemy the mounted troops employed on the occasion were extended at intervals in a long line reaching some miles.

The major at one end of the line had occasion to send a message to the captain, who was at the opposite end:

"The enemy are in force in front."

The signal was passed along the line all right till it came to a man stationed about midway, who thought fit to add a private message of his own, intended for the benefit of his neighbor:

"Have you a chaw of tobacco?"

Unluckily, his comrade thought these words were part of the signal message, and they were passed from man to man until they reached the captain.

The latter was somewhat astonished at this request, but sent back this answer:

"I don't use tobacco, but there are two cigars."

The major found the cigars welcome, and as he lighted one, sent back the answer: "Who said you did?"

M. Faure's Irreverence.

Here is a laughable and true little anecdote about President Faure's historic visit to St. Petersburg. It seems that the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul at St. Petersburg has a remarkable repeating echo, which is nowhere so pronounced as in the passages leading to the subterranean crypt where the famous collection of holy relics is stored. Moreover, as might be expected, the approaches to the crypt are somewhat drafty. Just at the moment when in solemn silence the group of ecclesiastical and other dignitaries in attendance on the president and czar were ushering their illustrious visitors into the hallowed vaults, M. Faure's voice was heard in the half darkness to this effect: "Mollard!"

Immediately and as if by enchantment, innumerable other eerie voices resounded and re-echoed the word on all sides.

"Mollard! Mollard! Mo-oll-a-rd!"

M. Mollard is a diplomatist of parts, but it was distinctly uncanny to hear his homely name thundering away thus in the obscurity of the crypt. The Russian clergy present were scandalized, the laymen were astounded.

But the astonishment became more intense when the president's voice droned out once more:

"My hat!"

And once more the noisy echoes took up the words and bandied them to and fro among the gloomy arches: "My hat! My hat! My ha-at!"

M. Mollard brought the president's hat. And M. Faure immediately and unconsciously did the cause of the third republic much mischief by putting it on while he made his obeisance to the sacred relics of the imperial church of Russia.

DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery

"I had suffered from indigestion, and only those who have suffered from it know what it really is," writes Mrs. M. J. Fagan, of 1613 East Genesee Street, Syracuse, N. Y. "I had severe attacks of headache and dizziness with cold hands and feet; everything I ate distressed me, bowels were constipated, and I was growing very thin and nervous. I cannot half express the bad feelings I had when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took nine bottles of the 'Discovery' and several bottles of the 'Pellets.' I commenced feeling better with the first bottle, and kept on improving. Now I am so greatly improved in health my friends often speak of it. I most heartily recommend those medicines to all suffering as I was."

ROYAL NAMES A HOODOO.

One of the Strongest Superstitions of the English Navy.

One of the very strongest and most ineffaceable of all superstitions in the royal navy, a superstition that is almost as strong today as ever it was, is that vessels bearing the names of royal personages are doomed to ill luck, and, strange as it may seem, there is an undeniable historic basis for this feeling.

Some of the most terrible disasters ever known in connection with our navy have concerned war vessels with royal names. Two vessels called the Royal James came to disastrous ends. One of them exploded, and some 800 officers and seamen perished. The other ship so named was actually carried out of the mouth of the Thames by the Dutch Admiral de Ruyter under circumstances disgraceful to those in charge of the craft.

Then there is the forever memorable disaster to the Royal George, an unlucky ship previously, that turned over and sank in sight of crowds at Spithead, over 1,000 souls, among whom were 300 women, being sacrificed. And second only to this hideous disaster is that which afterward befell the Royal Charlotte, which, after a career of much vicissitude, was consumed by fire off Leghorn, over 800 of the very flower of the navy perishing with her.

When in 1893 the Victoria, a new vessel and the very triumph of modern invention so far as naval architecture went, was rammed and sank at once in sight of the whole fleet and when hundreds of lives were lost, there was not a sailor, however matter of fact he might be, who did not remember the dire fate of the royally named craft. These instances are only the greater ones. A score of smaller ones are reeled off by every royal navy man.—Tit-Bits.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to-day for a dozen and make money. OUR GRIME--HOW IT ENDED.

"Old man, I want your advice."

Debenham broke a piece of silence that had lasted some ten minutes or so.

"It's rather a curious affair," he began, diffidently. "It happened last night. I wanted to go out to Bayswater to see my old nurse, who lives there. I took the 'bus at Oxford circus. As I dare say, you remember it was a nasty night, wet and foggy, and the vehicle was soon full; in fact, by the time we reached Westbourne Grove there was only room for another. Here we picked up our last passenger. She was a young lady."

"And of course you contrived that she should sit by you," I said.

"You would have done the same yourself," Debenham retorted. "Any man would, for she had the sweetest face. It's haunted me all night—it has, really. I dare say she was about eighteen, or perhaps twenty—not more. She had brown eyes, very brown eyes—you know the kind that seem to speak almost—and they were shaded by long lashes. She had brown hair, too—the kind of hair that twists itself into a lot of little curls—natural curls, you know. I wonder why all girls don't wear their hair that way. Then her mouth—her mouth—"

"Never mind her mouth," I interposed, hastily, seeing that he was about to indulge in an extravagant flood of rhapsody. "It was an ideal mouth, I haven't a doubt."

"She sat down next to me," he went on. "There wasn't much room, and she thanked me when I moved. She had the sweetest voice."

"Well, there's nothing curious about that. I believe you said—"

"I'm coming to it if you'll only give me time," he returned, in an aggrieved tone. "You've no patience. It was when the conductor came round for fares. Then she felt for her purse: she found it was missing. At first she thought she must have dropped it, and I searched the floor and under the seat. However, it wasn't there. Poor girl! I never saw any one so distressed in my life. It seemed she had £5 in it and it was evidently quite a fortune to her. Well, I paid her fare for her, and we got out together."

"I don't thing you need tell me any more," I said, drily.

Debenham stared.

"Why not?"

"Because I know the rest."

"How the—"

"Yes, I do. You lent her the £5, of course. My dear fellow, you've been 'had.'"

"I didn't do anything of the kind!" Debenham retorted hotly. "She would not let me. That's what I came to ask your advice about. I thought that as you were a lawyer you might be able to suggest something, but I wish I'd never mentioned it to you."

Of course I hastened to soothe his ruffled plumes and in a little while he went on with his tale. It appeared that he had seen her home, and that he had learned her name. It was Charnley—Kate Charnley. She was a dressmaker and lived with her sister.

"And you want to help them, eh?" I said, after a time.

"Yes, but it'll be a difficult matter. They're a clergyman's daughters, and very proud. I don't see what I can do. It's awfully riling, you know, Kennion, to have a pile of money and not be able to do a little good with it once in a while. It's a shame that this girl should have to slave at a sewing machine all day while a great strong beggar like me lounges around killing time."

"I suppose you want to refund this £5?"

"Yes; I can't do more, but I don't even see how I can do that."

"Well, you might order a gown of some sort from them."

"Don't be an ass; men don't buy gowns."

"You could say it was for your sister."

"But I haven't got a sister, and if I had she'd never let me choose her gowns for her; besides, she'd have to be fitted on and all that, you know."

I was obliged to admit the force of these arguments, and a fresh period of silence intervened. Debenham had risen and was pacing the floor in a state of perplexity.

"How would it be if I enclosed the money in an envelope and sent it anonymously?" he said at length.

"You might do that, certainly," I replied, after a little consideration.

"But she'd be sure to know who sent it."

"Well, that doesn't matter, as you are not likely to see her again."

Debenham stopped and turned his eyes full upon me.

"What's that? Not see her again! But I must see her again. I—I feel that my fate is—er—linked with that girl, Kennion."

"Oh, very well; then that squashes the idea entirely, unless— Look here, why not assume the character of the thief yourself, and send her a letter saying you have repented and return the money?"

"But I don't want her to think that I'm a bad lot."

"Well, she needn't know that you sent it. You can pretend to be an ordinary pickpocket."

"So I can. I never thought of that. By jove, it's a capital idea! Where's the pen and ink? What shall I say? Give us a bit of a lift, old chap. You're a dab hand at this sort of thing."

I took up my pen, and after a little thought dashed off the following letter:

"Dere miss: This is from me, the bloke wot tuk yer purse I sens the muny bak bekause yer father wos once very kind ter me when I wos down on mi luck, an I noas yer needs it a sight more than I does, yer humble servant.

BILL NOKES."

"How will that do?" I said, as I tossed it across the table.

"Splendidly—splendidly!" he cried as he ran his eyes over it. "It's worthy of Bill Sykes himself. I'll send it off this very minute." And he trust it in an envelope with a £5 note.

"You'll let me know how it answers?" I said, as he took his hat.

"Oh, yes." And then, with a hasty good night he went flying down the stairs to catch the post.

The following morning it happened that a matter of business took me in the vicinity of Debenham's chambers and having half an hour to spare I determined to call and see if he had heard anything in connection with his plot.

As I was about to enter his sitting room, however, I heard the sound of voices, and a hasty glance showed me that he was engaged. A young lady was standing by the table, facing Debenham, who looked as guilty as a schoolboy caught in an orchard.

"I got it back this morning," said the girl. "A man who is employed on the railway picked it up as he was on his way to his work."

"I—I am very glad," Debenham murmured, nervously. "He must have been an honest fellow."

"Yes," she said. "But the strange part of it is that by this morning's post there came a letter from a—a thief, enclosing a £5 note. You can read it if you like."

And she handed him the precious missive I had concocted.

He read it in feigned astonishment.

"I never heard of such a curious thing," he murmured. "It's positively—isn't it, you know?"

Of course this childlike attempt at deception didn't deceive the girl.

"Mr. Debenham," she said, "you wrote this letter—you sent this note."

"I? Really, miss—"

"Oh, yes, you did. It's no use denying it. No one else knew of our loss."

There was a pause. Debenham stood looking very red and foolish.

"Come, you'd better confess," she said, at length.

He rumpled his hair in a reckless fashion.

"It seems impossible for a fellow to do a good action in this world," he cried. "He's sure to be found out."

"Then you did send it?"

"Ye-es. You see, you wouldn't let me help you, and so—so it struck me that it would be a capital idea to pretend that I was a thief" (the humbug! his idea, indeed!) "I never thought for a moment that you'd see your purse again, and if you hadn't done so, my little dodge would never have come to light."

"No, I don't think it would," she answered; "for that was a most realistic letter you wrote."

Debenham groaned.

"You can't think what an effort it cost me," he said.

"What an effort, indeed!"

"I do hope you will let me keep it as a memento?"

"Yes—if you will promise to forgive me."

"Oh; there is nothing to forgive! It was very good of you."

At this very moment I caught a glimpse of her face, and I was forced to admit that Debenham had some reason for his extravagant praise.

"And you will not think the worse of me for—for trying to deceive you?" he went on. Really, he was getting positively absurd; from his voice one would have supposed that he was a prisoner suing for his life.

"Oh, I think better of you!" she cried. "I shall never forget your kindness." And as she gave him her hand she blushed in a ridiculous fashion.

Then Debenham made an ass of himself. Instead of simply shaking hands and saying good morning, he held her fingers and said nothing, but just stared at her in a moonstruck kind of way that was quite idiotic, and she drooped her head like a little silly and went the color of a peony; then—. But at this point I could stand it no longer and I quietly withdrew.

Of course I was not in the least astonished when Debenham rushed into my chambers the same afternoon and with a good deal of stammering confessed that he was engaged. He seemed amazed when I betrayed no surprise, but I didn't tell him that I had been a witness of his folly.

I was presented to the future Mrs. Debenham and her sister a few days later. When Debenham asked me what I thought of her, I told him she was one of the nicest girls I had ever met, but, as a matter of fact, she is much inferior to her sister, who, I don't mind admitting, indeed, is the nicest girl I have ever met, and I shouldn't wonder—

But there, that's "another story."—London Answers.

A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 503 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

THE WONDERLY GOLD MINING COMPANY, Limited.

CAPITAL $1,000,000, Divided into Shares of $1.00 each.

Incorporated under Ontario Laws. Non-assessable.

This Company was formed for the purpose of purchasing and working seven gold claims on the Saskatchewan river, near Edmonton.

These claims have been worked some, and in the summer of 1900 D. F. Loveland, the former owner and president of the Company, had a dredge at work, and although only able to handle 200 yards of earth per day, there was from $30.00 to $50.00 of gold taken from that amount of earth daily, and thus demonstrating beyond doubt the great value of these claims.

The Company proposes to purchase one of the Risdon dredges, with a capacity of 2 500 cubic yds. a day.

The expense of running such dredge will be about $175.00 per week, and even if the dredge handles only 1.000 cubic yards a day, in six days, there will be taken out $1,500.00 worth of gold, with a profit of $1,325.00 in one week.

Sufficient stock will be sold at 25 cents per share to raise money to purchase the necessary dredge, after which the books will be closed and no more stock will be offered for sale.

There is no gold proposition on the market to-day equal to this one.

Application for stock can be made to any of the Directors, or to the Secretary, or to W. T. McNeil, broker, St. Catharines.

Christmas Aftermath

There is a large stock of beautiful novelties still on hand at the Times Bookstore, which will be disposed of at cost and under. It is worth your while to call and price some of our goods.

Into a Window

A horse driven by Miss Lizzie Harrison, of Cavan, ran away on George street on Wednesday evening, and crashed into the window of Macdonald's drug store, smashing the plate glass. Miss Harrison was thrown out, but was not seriously hurt.

Mr. Moore's Committee Rooms

Mr. Moore being unable to secure a suitable committee room, will be pleased to meet those who wish to actively forward his election, at his office, over the Bank of Toronto, this evening. Let there be a large attendance.

Ex-Alderman Best.

A large majority of the ratepayers will be pleased to know that Mr. Henry Best has, after much urging, consented to stand for the Council. Mr. Best has a record that he has no reason to be ashamed of. His voice was always raised against extravagance, and his influence was always in favor of economic government. We hope that Mr. Best will be placed at the head of the poll on Monday next. Instead of Alderman Mr. Best should have been a candidate for the Mayoralty.

Obituary

Mrs. J. J. Neill, nee Miss Minnie Armstrong, died at Scranton, Pa., on Saturday after a lingering illness. The remains were brought to Peterborough to her mother's house, No. 693 George street, from whence the funeral took place privately. The deceased had been ailing for the past twelve months, but her case was not considered dangerous until a few days ago. She leaves behind her a husband and little boy to mourn her loss. Mrs. Neill was a sister of Miss Armstrong, of the Robert Fair Co., who with her mother and brothers has the deep sympathy of the community in which the Times cordially joins.

Demand for Wood.

The Peterborough Navigation Company is advertising for 25 men to take out wood for the use of the steamers next season, the wood is tobe cut and delivered along the water front anywhere between Hastings and Peterborough. Mr. Curtis is also taking out 1000 cords for his brickyard, and is paying choppers 60 cents per cord. It is expected that large quantities of wood will be brought down as far as the Warsaw road from the back country, by the canal, which will no doubt reduce the price.

Municipal Lighting Notes.

—Mayor Houston, of Nelson, B.C., is advocating the installation by the town of a municipal electric light plant.

—The civic lighting committee of Kingston, has recommended that the city put in a municipal electric lighting plant, at $50,000 rather than arbitrate with the company.

—Woodstock, Ont., has carried the by-law to buy out the electric plant at $39,000, and run it as a municipal concern in connection with the waterworks, which are already owned by the town.

—The corporation of the town of Newmarket, who four years ago undertook the operation of the electric lighting plant for street as well as commerical lighting, have found it necessary in order to keep up with the demand for additional street as well as indoor lighting, to increase their plant.

—Chicago has its own electric light plant. The number of lights has been increased in three years from 1,100 to 4,200 arc lights. Formerly, when the plant was owned by a private company, the city paid $136 a year per light; three years ago the cost was $96 now it is reduced to $58. It has evidently paid Chicago to own the electric light plant.

—The corporation of the town of Parrsboro, N. S., have taken up the municipal lighting question, and have placed their order with the Royal Electric Company for one 60 k.w. She also wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white and pink carnations. She was assisted by Miss Aggie Belle Tully, who was becomingly attired, and who also carried a handsome bouquet of pink carnations. The groomsman was Mr. John Mahood, brother of the bride. Only the immediate friends of the bride and groom were present. The wedding gifts, which were useful and costly, showed the high regard in which the bride was held. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of Peterborough, the party sat down to a sumptuous wedding repast, which was greatly enjoyed by all. After a very pleasant evening spent in games and other social enjoyments, the bride and groom left on the 4.45 train for Toronto, Midland and other points west. Returning, they will take up their residence in Otonabee. All their friends join in wishing them a very happy and prosperous wedded life.

Questions That Made the Boy's Father Take a Day Off.

"Going to take the day off, eh?" said the chief of division to the clerk when the latter reported at the office at 9 o'clock and put in a slip for a day's leave. "Nothing the matter, I hope? No sickness at home, is there?"

"No," replied the clerk drearily, leaning heavily on the chief's desk. "No sickness or anything like that. But I've got to put in a day of research. It's this way: That 10-year-old boy of mine sprung a lot of 'em on me when he was going over his lessons after dinner last night that stumped me and put me temporarily out of business. This was one of them:

" 'Three-eighths of a pole stands in the mud, one-fifth in the water, and the remainder of the pole, 21 feet, is above the water. What is the total length of the pole?'

"Sounds dead easy, doesn't it?" went on the clerk. "Well, it just stood me on my head, that's what it did. Y'see, I took my civil service examination over ten years ago, and I've tried earnestly and prayerfully to forget all the digging I had to do to squeeze through that. Then he asked me how old George Washington was when he died, how old the Polack Kosciusko was when he offered his sword to the Revolutionary commanders, the date of the battle of Bunker Hill, the nature of the Missouri compromise and 10 or 15 little ones like that. I had to extinguish him by telling him that I was reading my paper, but I promised him that I'd give him all the answers tomorrow, Sunday, in time for him to be right on them at school on Monday. Now, that kid thinks I'm 'It.' He thinks I know it all. He brags to all the other kids in the neighborhood that his dad can give their dads cards and spades and big cassino and beat them to death when it comes to Brains with an upper case B.

"Well, I want to have him go right on thinking that. I wouldn't lose that young one's exalted opinion of me for a house and lot. It 'ud be a solar plexus finish for me to have him direct the blighting gaze of suspicion at me. So I'm going up to the library, yank out a bundle o' books of reference, get the answers to that list of questions, and tonight I'll spring 'em on the kid in an offhand sort of way, as if I knew 'em all the time, but just didn't have time to give 'em to him. I couldn't stand it to have that kid get on to me; not just yet anyhow. He'll have time to do that when he grows up."—Washington Post.

Amateur Photography.

Let me call attention to one of the most universally popular mistakes that have to do with photography—that of classing supposedly excellent work as professional and using the term amateur to convey the idea of immature productions and to excuse atrociously poor photographs. As a matter of fact nearly all the greatest work is being and has always been done by those who are following photography for the love of it, and not merely for financial reasons. As the name implies, an amateur is one who works for love, and viewed in this light the incorrectness of the popular classification is readily apparent.—Alfred Stieglitz in Scribner's.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE Town of Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—At the request of a large number of ratepayers of the town, I am a candidate for the position of Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1901. I have been a member of the Town Council for six years, and the experience I have gained in that time would, I believe, be of service to the town if I am elected. I believe in a progressive policy for the town, and for that reason a liberal policy with respect to manufacturing industries, so long as advancement may be obtained without any sacrifice of the interests of the rate payers and I would endeavor to secure the best service on the streets and in other ways at as little cost as is consistant with good work.

I shall not be able to see you all personally, and I therefore in this way respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
T. H. G. DENNE

To The Electors of the Town of Peterborough

At the request of a number of influential citizens, who claimed that my long connection with municipal affairs in the Council and on the Town Trust Commission, fitted me for the responsible position of Mayor, I have accepted nomination for that office for the year 1901. If elected I shall give the best service I am capable of for the benefit and prosperity of the town.

There are a number of questions which will demand the attention of the Council during the next year. Among these are:

(1) Health and improved sanitary conditions, a cleaner town and pure water.

(2) The purchase of the water works and the public lighting, thus giving these franchises to the people who created value in them and to whom they properly and naturally belong, and supplying these necessities of life to the consumers, and for the town's use, at greatly reduced charges and at actual cost, which would be little more than half we now pay.

(3) The consummation of a union between Peterborough and Ashburnham on just and fair terms and with full and proper protection of the town's interests.

(4) Persistently and energetically seeking for and securing manufacturing industries to utilize our vast water power and in like proportion engage capital and labor.

I make no reflection on the Council for the past year. I believe they did the best the conditions permitted of and made a sincere effort in their premises. I would discountenance in any manner an attempt to steal industries from other towns, yet there is to my mind an increasing field in which the Council may operate. Our ability to furnish the power, the premises, the railway and other facilities, so vastly superior to those of any other city or town in the province, that with an aggressive policy on the part of the Council, particularly from the head of it, we should, and I believe we will, secure large additions to our present industries. If to this our taxation of industries is placed on proper lines of encouragement to them, amongst others, so that the machinery shall as nearly as can be treated for assessment, as workman's tools, then we may confidently expect enlargement of the various manufactories now in operation and new works of first importance.

The above and kindred matters I shall enlarge upon at the public meeting in the opera house, Friday evening, at which I trust there will be a good attendance, for I shall not otherwise have an opportunity of laying my views before the electorate.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. MOORE.

ANOTHER BIG MEETING OF THE RATEPAYERS

Messrs. Denne, Moore and Others Expound Their Views to a Representative Audience.

A large and exceedingly representative gathering of citizens met in the Opera House last night, when Messrs. Denne and W. H. Moore, candidates in the Mayoralty election, expounded their respective platforms. Mayor Kendrey officiated as chairman, and on the platform, besides the two nominees above referred to, were Ald. Dawson, Ald. G. M. Roger and Mr. Wm. Yelland. The meeting was an exceedingly orderly one throughout and each speaker received a fair hearing. The first speaker was

ALD. DENNE.

Mr. Denne began with a brief review of his municipal career. Six years ago he entered the field for the Council in the second ward and he had been re-elected every year since. Four years ago he was chosen for the responsible position of chairman of the Finance Committee. Peterborough has the proud position of being second lowest in taxation per head of towns and cities of similar size, but inasmuch as the debenture indebtedness is $324,000 we must go cautiously. Once the debt exceeds a certain amount we cannot borrow so cheaply. Mr. Denne affirmed with much emphasis that he was not opposed to municipal ownership of the waterworks and electric light plants. What he claimed was that the question was a large one and required careful consideration. It would cost probably half a million of money to buy the two plants. His position was that the Council, at the expiry of the existing contracts with the water works and electric light companies, should not make new contracts, as they were empowered to do by the statutes, but should obtain all the information possible bearing on the question, and should then submit the question to the ratepayers and have them decide whether or not they should own the plants. After criticising Mr. Dumble's letter to the Times and pointing out that Mr. Moore was a member of the Council of 1893 and a party to the letting of the contract with the electric light company which he now found fault with, Mr. Denne took up the matter of manufacturing establishments, which he said, he always favored. Peterborough has outgrown dependence upon agricultural interests, and the time for lumbering has gone by. The town's future is dependent upon manufactories. He stated that the Council while he was a member left no stone unturned to promote manufacturing, and he wanted to know what Mr. Moore, who in the past twenty years had been off and on eight years in the Council had done in the same direction. He repeated that he wished to impress it thoroughly and firmly upon everyone present that he was in favor of municipal ownership. He was not an orator, but a plain, ordinary business man, and he believed he was able to transact the town's affairs in a business-like manner. He mentioned eight miles of sewers, 7 1-2 miles of permanent sidewalks, much street improvement, new factories and factory extensions, as advancements in which he had a part. During the past year the Council has secured an order from the Privy Council to have gates at the Charlotte and Simcoe crossings of the G.T.R., and perhaps there will also be a gate at the George street crossing of the C.P.R. Negotiations are now pending with two large and one small factory that may be added to the town's industries. In conclusion he promised, if elected, to continue to do his best, and wished the audience a happy century and a prosperous New Year.

The Mayor seized the occasion of introducing Mr. Moore, to mention that the meeting was the most representative one he ever attended in the town. He never before saw so many ratepayers gathered.

MR. MOORE.

Mr. Moore began by saying that he had left his notes behind him and hence he was at some disadvantage. One week ago—even up to 15 minutes to 11 o'clock, on Monday—he had not the remotest intention of being a candidate for the Mayoralty. About that time he walked around to see how the nominations were going, and found himself nominated, contrary to his expressed wishes. He had not the disposition to go from door to door asking for votes. He placed the responsibility for his campaign upon those who had put him in the field, and they had expressed themselves as willing to accept it. Referring to Mr. Denne's remarks about his career in the Council, he said that Mr. Denne should know that he was a member of the Council that secured the biggest establishment in Peterborough, the Canadian General Electric Company. One matter that had not been given sufficient attention in the town is the public health. The town should have all the sanitary appliances of a higher and better civilization. Mr. Moore then dealt at some length and very effectively with the question of purchase by the town of the waterworks and electric light plants. At the time the waterworks were inaugurated that system of supply was in the experimental stage, and it was perhaps right then to make arrangements with a company. We owe that company a debt of gratitude. They have done their work well. They had the courage to enter an untried field and they deserved reward. But the rights now possessed by the company belong in the nature of things to the people as a whole, and the time is at hand when the people should take possession. The town ought to be able to negotiate with the company without arbitration, but if arbitration must come, we are not a day too early in taking up the matter now. In Brockville they were 14 months in getting through with the waterworks arbitration. The company should be given the benefit of every doubt, given full measure, and running over; yet arbitration might be necessary. Ald. Denne's estimate of half a million as the cost of the waterworks and electric light plants, according to Mr. Moore's information, was about $200,000 too much. Mr. Moore quoted from reports he had obtained from towns now owning their waterworks, which, he said, read almost like romance. Brantford's works are driven by steam power, which is much more expensive than water power; and yet the people are supplied with water at a cost one half to two-thirds the cost in Peterborough. In Brockville the cost was above $3,000 more per year under the old system. A letter from Bracebridge, Muskoka, which owns both water works and electric light plants, said that they regarded the plants as a bonanza and expected the day would come when the town would have no taxes but school taxes. In Kingston, in the last year of company administration, the cost of water averaged $27 to every taker. The present average was $8.60. Brantford, with its steam plant and lower water rates than Peterborough, had paid from the water works, over and above sinking fund and interest, $100,000 into the treasury in nine years, and if they had charged the same as the company, that amount would be $250,000. Mr. Moore next took up the subject of manufacturing, showing how one factory attracts another, how American capitalists with their millions are coming to Canada, how Peterborough can show advantages excelled by no other place. In an eloquent peroration he referred to the wonderful nineteenth century and the promise of the twentieth, and paid tribute to the Queen and Royal Family and the greatness of Britain.

BENEATH HIS DIGNITY.

At this juncture Mayor Kendrey remarked that he thought it very kind of the deputation, consisting of Mr. Moore, Ald. Denne and others, to take that little trip of theirs to western towns in search of municipal information; thanked them also for an invitation extended him to join that deputation, but had thought it beneath his dignity, as Mayor of a town like Peterborough, to wander around on such an errand, visiting little bits of towns as those above referred to (laughter). He did not think Peterborough need take a back seat for any town in Ontario (cheers). The Mayor then strongly eulogised Ald. Roger, as chairman of the Board of Works, together with the corporation foreman for the exceedingly creditable condition in which George street has been kept during the past twelve months (applause). He was pleased to see so large a representative gathering of citizens present, and thought it the duty of every citizen to back the Council up in its efforts to conduct municipal affairs in the best interest of the town.

ALD. G. M. ROGER

Was the next speaker called on. He thanked Mayor Kendrey and citizens for the kind resolution of thanks adopted at the mass meeting last week, and explained that last year's Council had been rather handicapped in its transaction of the town's affairs through having to settle up considerable business left over from the preceding year. During the past three years a new departure in permanent improvement had been introduced in the matter of granolithic sidewalks, which had necessitated a partial neglect of the town's roadways. Consequently, these had to receive considerable attention in the year just closed. Their 1899's Council were unfortunately unable to settle up a number of its contracts, which of course had to be dealt with by its successors, upon whom devolved the duty of fixing the frontage tax of granolithic walks, assessing for same, and adjusting appeals in the Court of Revision. All this involved a large amount of time and labor, particularly as a settling up of the same might easily involve the town in vexatious law suits, a couple of which were on the town's hands to-day. If last year's Council had seemed unprogressive it must be borne in mind that considerable unexpected expenditure had cropped up, which he and his colleagues had not anticipated. For instance, the spring freshets did much damage to our bridges, necessitating an outlay of money and work below the road's surface, in the bed of the creek, which was perhaps not apparent to an unobserving citizen. Continuing, he did not agree with so many critics who seemed to think last year's civic board had been an aggregation of "dead heads." (laughter). As a matter of fact, they had very carefully looked after the town's interests, in demonstration of which he would quote one or two cases, viz.: For a long time an agitation had been afoot to secure protection at the several railway crossings. After a good deal of unsatisfactory correspondence on the matter Council decided to bring pressure to bear upon the Government at Ottawa, and sent a deputation there, to interview the Privy Council, which resulted in the Grand Trunk being compelled to afford protection and maintain the same at their own cost (applause). Again, when the C.P.R. had their siding down to the Matthews Co.'s factory it was agreed that property owners at that point should be indemnified for all damages sustained thereby, the town, the railway company and the Matthews Co. each paying one-third of the same. One property owner proved a little refractory, and delayed accepting settlement for some time, in consequence of which the C.P.R. positively refused to pay their share of the damages. But Mayor Kendrey himself petitioned the Privy Council to adjust things, and by its decision the railway company had to pay the WHOLE thing (applause) Continuing, Ald. Roger agreed with the Mayor in thinking Peterborough would compare favorably with any town in Canada. Besides, we are, he argued, on the brink of a great forward movement, and the town has far outspread its original boundaries as laid down at its incipiency. Our great water power, which was undoubtedly taken into consideration when the town was in its infancy, has been scarcely touched, and is now about to be harnessed so as to contribute to our growth and prosperity. The great American Cereal Co, with its unlimited capital, is going to utilize the Dickson raceway, which must of necessity boom Peterborough. Then, last year witnessed history making in a great degree. Great Britain and her colonies are drawing closer together, and will wind up in a mighty consolidated empire, which fact is being recognized by our friends to the south, who are now eager to come over to this Canada of ours, and take advantage of the great imperial sentiment now prevalent. Peterborough can offer many advantages to industries to locate here, and the Trent Valley Canal will add to our immense water stretches, which must bring the town in business touch with districts hitherto unattainable. For these reasons we should look forward to a great future for Peterborough, and should secure the best Council possible. After a brief and humorous reference to the city hall as an educational factor, Ald. Roger concluded a very acceptable speech by remarking that should he be elected he will do the best he can, and if defeated he will accept the verdict gracefully.

ALD. DAWSON

Gave a short address in which he eulogized Mayor Kendrey as having guarded the town's interests better than any of his predecessors. He (Ald. Dawson) urged all citizens to support their members elect, and to give them every encouragement possible.

EX-MAYOR YELLAND

Also responded to repeated calls, and kept his audience in good humor by wading into a humorous account of his own experience on the civic board. He thought the town was making good progress.

EX-MAYOR DAVIS

next took the platform. He thought Peterborough had a good future ahead of it. Its financial standing is of the best, while our taxation per head is of the lowest. For electric light, we pay, he argued, $15 per lamp less than Toronto, and our fire insurance rates are almost at the bottom notch. He thought the Council had done all in their power to secure new industries, but it must be borne in mind that a great many applicants for bonuses had not been desirable ones; they were simply seeking capital with which to establish credit at the bank. Then, the town itself had no power; the raceway belonged to the Dickson Co., who had been reserving the same for an opportunity of disposing of it in bulk. He hoped, when the Cereal Co. is located here, arrangements can be made with the Government for securing those valuable water powers up river.

MR. A. P. POUSSETTE

then spoke in defence of the Dickson Co., whom he claimed had never stood in the way of Peterborough's development, as insinuated by some speakers. They have always been ready to furnish power at a reasonable figure. The carpet factory had been offered cheap power and five acres of land, but the fact is, they were seeking a large bonus. The Rubber Co. had been offered power at the nominal figure of $5 per horse power; one could not surely expect better terms than these. The expenditure in maintaining a dam is a large item, and the Dickson Co. never made more than two or three per cent on their factories. Why, the Donnel factory only paid a rental of $600 a year, which cannot certainly be taken otherwise than as exceedingly generous terms. The trouble has been, that as a rule industries seeking location on the Dickson Co.'s race had not the cash with which to erect the necessary buildings, and the company were certainly not prepared either to give or advance them the money.

The meeting then dispersed.

MAKING READY FOR AN ATTACK

Cape Town Apprehends One From the Boer Invaders.

London, Jan. 4. The intimation conveyed exclusively in this despatch yesterday that one body of the Boer invaders of Cape Colony were making for Cape Town, has been strongly borne out by news from Cape Town. Every preparation is being made there for an attack, the prisoners are being transferred to vessels in the harbor, the better to prevent their release, and guns are being landed from warships, together with strong parties of marines. Meanwhile the invading force has diverged to the west in order to avoid Fraserburg, where a British garrison has forestalled them as at Graaf Reinet. They are only a few days' march from the capital, and it begins to look as if the last forlorn hope of the most desperate of the Boers would end in a second Paardeberg, outside the walls of that place. Nothing else can result from the movement, which is purely a piece of foolhardiness compared with which the most rash actions in military annals are wisdom itself. No further news is to hand regarding the column which was reported as nearing Graaf Reinet to the east, but there is no doubt that their object is Port Elizabeth, only a couple of days' journey away, which is even in greater danger than Cape Town. The next few days will mark one of the most important epochs in the war, for the result of the Boer attack upon the heart of the British territory will be known.

DEATH FOR KIDNAPING.

Nebraska May Make This Crime a Capital Offense.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 5.—Senator Ransom of Omaha introduced in the States Senate yesterday a bill to make kidnaping under certain conditions punishable by death.

It provides for three grades of punishment. For simple kidnaping, three or five years in the penitentiary; kidnaping and extorting money, a life term in prison, and for kidnaping and threatening injury to the victim, hanging.

Three other bills bearing on kidnaping and not greatly different in phraseology were introduced.

ACCUSED OF BIGAMY.

A Prominent New York Man Arrested for Bigamy.

New York, Jan 5.—George W. Howard, a consulting engineer of Boston, representive of the Whitney-Elkins-Widener syndicate, was arrested at the New Amsterdam Hotel last night charged with bigamy.

Last September Howard married Miss Helen Hawkes, a daughter of Deputy Commissioner of Highways Henry Hawkes of Brooklyn. He brought his wife to this city and they put up at the New Amsterdam Hotel.

Howard, it is said, frequently went to Boston, remaining away Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The young wife's parents became suspicious and employed a detective to shadow their son-in-law. The detective says he obtained the evidence on which the warrant was issued.

VANDERBILTS RECONCILED.

Estrangement Caused by Marriage of Cornelius to Grace Wilson is Forgotten.

New York, January 1.—When Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., shook hands with the other members of their family last night, all their friends rejoiced. The reconciliation occurred at a dinner and dance given by the young couple, which is said to have been due to the efforts of Mrs. Astor, who was present. It was at her house, a few days ago, that the first intimation of the reconciliation came out. She gave a dinner, at which young Vanderbilt and William K. were guests.

The estrangement was caused by the marriage of Cornelius and Grace Wilson.

PETERBOROUGH'S BIG BOOM

One or More Large Industries Likely to Come Here

That Peterborough is on the eve of a great commercial boom, is apparent. The sale of the Dickson Company's water power to the American Cereal Company is, we believe, an accomplished fact, which means the establishment here of a large industry. Work is to begin almost immediately on the buildings, which are to cost a large amount of money.

The company are not likely to let the immense power which could be developed on their property, long run to waste, and it is understood that other industries will be induced to locate in Peterborough. The Singer Sewing Machine Company, of New York, whose capital is ten millions, are on the point of choosing for power for their Canadian factory, which will employ several hundred hands.

Altogether the situation is exceedingly hopeful.

RUSHING CHINESE THROUGH.

Canadian Route into U. S. Much Used Owing to Coming Rise in Our Tax.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Eight Chinamen, arrested by North Burke, near Malone, N. Y., Dec. 31, and four others, arrested at the same place on New Year's Day for alleged illegal entry into the United States, were brought to-night and arraigned before United States Commissioner Woodward. The cases were adjourned until to-morrow. Four Chinamen were arrested at Swanton, Vt., and two others at St. Albans, Vt., this week on similar charges. All these Chinamen started from Montreal. There are several hundred Chinamen in Montreal and Ottawa, and desperate attempts are being made to get them into the United States before the imposition of the $100 tax imposed by Canada.

WILL SURPRISE THE WORLD.

A Returned Klondiker Says There is a Rush to Stewart, Indian and Bear Creeks.

Vancouver, January 4.—The Victorian arrived this morning from Skagway bringing the latest news to the outside world. The principal passenger was Corp. Hamilton, of Regina, who is hurrying on to join the next draft for South Africa. He says every body that can leave Dawson and vicinity are leaving for the gold fields on the Stewart, Indian, and Bear Creeks have proved fabulously rich, running from $1.75 to $175 to the pan in coarse gold. As many as 200 in a day are leaving. The Crown's claims sale has not proved a financial success, whole creeks selling at $1 a bunch. Miners simply decided not to bid any higher. Some of the claims proved rich.

Sensational news comes from the American side of Porcupine creek. Very rich placers and hydraulic claims have been located, one of the hydraulic claims being among the richest in America. Mr. Monck, of Montreal, is organizing a company to work this proposition. The claim is full of rich pockets, and numerous assays would indicate that the property would run to the almost incredible richness of $20 an inch. Corp. Hamilton states that Mr. Monck informed him that this estimate was correct. Corp. Hamilton believes that Klondike will again surprise the world next year.

FELL DEAD IN THE BANK.

Terribly Sudden Call of a Well-known Hamilton Man

Hamilton, Jan. 4—James Wedge, one of the oldest carters in the city, dropped dead in the eastend branch of the Bank of Hamilton at 1.30 this afternoon. He had been in the bank only a few minutes before his death. After drawing a cheque on his personal account he had it marked by the ledger keeper and had started for the teller's wicket to get it cashed, when he suddenly dropped to the floor. Clerks rushed to his assistance and found him breathing but unconscious. Dr. Baugh was hurriedly summoned, but arrived only only in time to see the unfortunate man breathe his last. Death was due to heart disease.

Coroner White was notified, but on learning the circumstances decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The ambulance had been summoned and arrived a few minutes after the man's death, but as it is against the rules of the police department to carry a dead body in the ambulance, that useful rig was sent back to the stable. Then an undertaker's wagon was summoned and as the result of these delays the body lay on the floor of the bank for nearly three-quarters of an hour, in the busiest part of the day, with only the dead man's cap to cover his face.

The deceased was about 60 years of age, and resided with his wife and married daughter at No. 198 Wellington street north. He also leaves a grown-up son. The late Mr. Wedge had been in the carting business in this city for nearly 25 years, and a year ago held the contract for collecting the city mails. Latterly he has supplied the patrol rigs for the Electric Light Co.

CHIEF BOERS MADE PEACE PROPOSALS

Lord Kitchener Met them and Promised Lenient Consideration--Cronje's Brother One.

London, Jan. 4—The censorship has just permitted news of the following peace tentatives to emanate from Pretoria,—

About the middle of December a number of prominent burghers who had submitted and were living in the Pretoria district, formed a peace committee. Mr. Van Rensburg, a former member of the First Volksraad of the Transvaal, was elected president of the committee, which included other prominent former members of the Volksraad. The committee resolved to attempt negotiations, and accordingly, in response to a suggestion, Lord Kitchener attended a meeting of the committee on December 21, and addressed the meeting. He said he was glad to meet a committee desirous of bringing the war to a speedy conclusion, and he assured them that they could rely upon his assistance in every way calculated to further that object. He proceeded to point out the folly of a continuance of guerilla warfare, since the British Government would never permit the re-establishment of the Boer Government.

NO HARSHNESS WISHED.

Mr. Chamberlain's statements in parliament, Lord Kitchener contended, clearly showed that there was no wish to oppress the burghers. On the contrary, the British proposals foreshadowed an enlightened Government, in which the burghers would have a prominent share, ensuring the rights of property and the ancient laws and customs of the burghers. Lord Kitchener urged that it was useless to continue the present inhuman struggle, pointing out that the powers had refused Mr. Kruger's requests for intervention. The burghers, he said, had fought a good fight, but they had been overpowered, and there was no dishonor in the leaders recognizing that fact. He reminded them that there were hosts of Boer prisoners waiting to be restored to their families.

Referring to his proclamations to the country, Lord Kitchener said that unfortunately these had not been allowed to reach the burghers, and he trusted the committee would make known the facts to the Boers in the field, as he desires to give them every chance to surrender, and wished to finish the war by the most humane means possible. He promised to give the committee notice if compelled to abandon conciliatory for harsher measures.

Going on to explain his recent proclamations confirming the statement that those who had broken oaths of neutrality would be treated in the same way as the others, he told the committee that all would be accommodated with their families in protected laagers along the line of railway.

TO CLEAR THE COUNTRY

He asserted that it was imperative to clear the country of inhabitants and of food, because so long as food remained the commandoes would be able to continue in the field. He could not be responsible for stock unless it was brought in, adding that he hoped at the end of the war to be able to divide the remaining stock among the various sufferers. No one, he promised, would be sent out of the country, but all who had fought fairly, including the leaders, would receive the consideration due their rank. He advised the formation of local sub-committees to send out agents to the Boer commandoes, explaining that they could communicate through the central committee and the Military Governor, and could also come to see him.

Lord Kitchener bade them tell their friends what they had heard him say and assured them that they could place the most absolute reliance on his giving effect to it. The committee, which included General Cronje's brother, cordially thanked Lord Kitchener, and promised to print the speech in Dutch and circulate it everywhere. Since the meeting orders have been issued against burning farmhouses, unless it should be proved that the actual inhabitants had committed misdeeds.

Fortnightly Club

The next meeting of the Fortnightly Club will be held on Tuesday evening, January 8, in the Y.M.C.A. hall, when a programme of unusual interest will be given. The paper of the evening will be read by Miss Fife, subject, "Browning." Miss Fife is a graduate of Victoria University and is one of Peterborough's bright and clever daughters. Her paper is sure to be a very interesting one. Miss Lillian Burns, of Toronto, who is visiting in town, and whose elocutionary ability is well known throughout the province, will recite two selections from Browning. A good musical programme is being arranged for. It is hoped that there will be a large audience on Tuesday evening.

Tupper Going to England

Ottawa, Jan. 3. Sir Charles Tupper, who arrived here last night, denies that he was favoring his son, Sir Hibbert Tupper, for the leadership. He says that invariably he had refused to give an opinion on the matter.

In answer to a query, Sir Charles set at rest all rumors anent his remaining in Ottawa until the opening of the session to attend the first caucus of the party. He said he would leave Ottawa for London, Eng., just as soon as he could get his household stuff packed, and expected to sail in about two week's time. Sir Charles will be accompanied by Lady Tupper and a granddaughter. His visit to England will be a business errand, and his stay will be determined by the necessities of business.

LEGISLATURE TO MEET

The Provincial Legislature Summoned for the 6th of Next Month.

Toronto, Jan. 4 — The Provincial Legislature has been summoned to meet on Wednesday, Feb. 6, for the transaction of business. This is the same time as the new parliament meets at Ottawa.

A NAKED CASTAWAY.

Turns up at a Des Moines Lumber Camp and Can't Talk.

Ottawa, Jan. 5.—A strange story comes from one of Mr. J. R. Booth's lumber camps on the Des Moines River. A few weeks ago the men working in the camp were startled by the abrupt appearance of an entirely nude man. He was emaciated to a degree and was badly frostbitten. They questioned him, but he informed them by means of signs that he could not speak. The men fed and clothed him and gave him work. According to the latest report, received a few days ago, the stranger had recovered his bodily health, but not that of his mind.

TWO MORE LYNCHINGS.

Another Negro Killed by a Mob of His Own Color.

Atlantic, Ga., Jan. 5.—A special to the Constitution from Quitman, Ga., says:

A negro whose name cannot be learned was lynched by a mob of his own color to-night, nine miles north of Quitman, for assaulting a small negro girl.

Bailiff Peace of this country had the negro in charge and was making his way here. When about to board a train near Kennedy, a mob of negroes who were on the train prevented him doing so and taking the prisoner shot him, with no attempt at concealment.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 5.—A special to the Age-Herald from Wilsonville, Ala., says

Louis McAdams, a negro, who cut and seriously injured J. M. Ray at this place on Christmas Eve and who was arrested in Childersburg yesterday, was taken from officers by a mob of 100 men this afternoon and hanged four miles from this place. The mob quickly dispersed and, as every man wore a mask, there is no clue as to the identity of the lynchers. The contents of about 50 guns were emptied into the body.

LIVED IN THREE CENTURIES.

Mrs. Doty, Now 105 Years Old, Is Still Active Has a Son 82 Years Old.

Jamestown, Jan. 5.—Few persons have been able to see live in three centuries, Chautauqua County has one, however, in the person of Mrs. Deborah Doty of Frewsburg, who is nearing her 106 birthday and is in quite remarkable mental and bodily vigor. She is active in performing household duties. When she was born Washington was President of the United States and before Washington died she was a girl of several summers.

Mrs. Doty was born in Amsterdam on March 4, 1794. "That is a long time to live, is it not?" said she, in response to a comment upon her age. "You see, I have lived under every President the United States has ever had."

Mrs. Doty lives with her son A. H. Doty. He is hale and hearty at 82 years and still able to do a good day's work. Mrs. Doty has two sisters, nearly as old as she, the combined ages of the three being over 300 years.

The Union Jack

which floats over Britain and all her colonies is emblematic of the adage, "In union there is strength." The patriotic ladies of Canada can exemplify that adage, and indulge a patriotic sentiment, by assisting their English, Scotch and Irish cousins who produce the pure machine made GREEN teas of Ceylon and India. Tea drinkers will find the Blue Ribbon, Monsoon and Japan.—Colonist.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES

An interesting suggestion was made The report of the superintendent of Farmers' Institutes for 1899-1900 is to hand. In addition to giving many details as to the growth and progress of the organization, contains selections from 3,128 addresses given at the meetings held during the season, convering a great variety of subjects in connection with agriculture, poultry, etc. These papers embody the experience of the leading practical farmers and others engaged in kindred pursuits, and the results of tests and experiments made by professional instructors and scientists on the more advanced lines. The list is en extensive one. Among the most valuable and interesting are papers by such well known authorities on general agricultural matters as John McMillan, Barlow Cumberland, Henry Glendinning, Duncan Anderson and John I. Hobson. In the live stock department are papers by Prof. A. Craig, J. S. Woodward, James Tolton, A. P. Ketchen and Simpson Rennies. Dairy matters and discussed by Prof. H. H. Dean, A. C. Hallman and W. C. Shearer. The orchard and garden by Prof. Hutt, J. E. Orr, G. C. Caston and A. W. Peart. W. R. Graham and Prof .Gilbert take up poultry for home and foreign markets. In the women's department, Miss L. Rose, Miss B. Maddock, Miss A. Hollingworth, Mrs. F. M. Carpenter and others have written some very practical and interesting articles.

The Farmers' Institute has shown a continued increase of membership which has grown to nearly 19,000 members. There were 715 meetings held during the year which were attended by 189,982 persons. A note-worthy feature is the organization of Women's Institutes on practically similar lines to the Farmers' Institute—the poineer movement in that direction having been inaugurated in Saltfleet township, Wentworth county. This was closely followed by the ladies of South Ontario, and later by an organization in North Grey, East and West Durham, Halton, Peel, East and West York, Amherst Island, West Bruce and East Victoria, where flourishing institutes are now in operation. The report is one of the most elaborate and comprehensive documents of the kind yet issued.

"Good Night."

How few women know what it is to have a good night; a night of sound, restful sleep. They smile and say "good night" in cheery tones, but when the chamber door closes behind them, the smiling mask drops off, and shows the lines of suffering.

Other women have had the bad nights changed to good by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. So may you. Ninety-eight times in every hundred it perfectly cures diseases of the delicate womanly organs. It builds up the nervous system, puts flesh on the body and color on the cheek.

"Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. C. N. Anderson, of Rockbridge Baths, Rockbridge Co., Va., "is a God-send to weak and sickly women, restoring health without subjecting their nerves to the shock of an examination.

"I was all run down in health—could not work but a short while without resting. Was so nervous at times that I could not even write; had a very poor appetite. I decided to write to Dr. Pierce and state my case. I received a favorable reply, and commenced taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pellets.' Took six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one vial of 'Pellets.' I can now work as well as I could before I was taken sick. I think Dr. Pierce's medicines the best in the world for sick and nervous women."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are specially adapted to the use of delicate women. Easy to take, gentle in action.

THIS AND THAT.

"Electricity is a funny force," said the observant motorman. "Last night nearly all the current was suddenly off from the wires in the barn, and after a minute, came on again. Soon an ordor like that of an over cooked dinner filled the power house. On examination, two chickens were found roasting to death on the main wire. For hours the feathered pair had rested in safety on separate wires. The minute Chanticleer reached across to give a good night kiss to his dear Biddy, on an opposite wire, a deadly current was forced through their bodies."—Philadelphia Record.

The recent death of a member of a Sedalia, Mo., firm disclosed the fact that for thirty years the firm had kept no account books. It did a strictly cash business, and divided the day's receipts each night, share and share alike. When a bil of goods was purchased, each member of the firm paid one-half of the money, carried in his pocket.

In Newton, Mass., the other day, a man's $5 bill was blown out of his hand, and he could find it nowhere. A friend cut a piece of paper just the size of the bill and liberated it in the place where the man had lost his money. The paper blew down the street and around into an alley, and there the man found the $5 bill.

A collapsable fly proof dish cover has been designed, which has a central vertical hoop, with pivoted hoops on either side, which swing into a horizontal position to pull the netting which covers the frames down into place around the dish, folding against the central hoop when not in use.

On its great Siberian railroad Russia sells fourth-class tickets from any point in Russia to any of 114 stations in Siberia for two roubles or a little more than 50 cents. Transportation is given, practically, to encourage emigration to Siberia.

Florence Nightingale, who is now over 80 years old, wrote the other day to the nurses of the Cape of Good Hope Red Cross society expressing a regret that she was chained to her room by sickness and could not go to nurse the sick.

The Hindoo system is remarkably complex. Every act of life is a religious act, controlled by the laws of Hindooism. Their very lives depend upon keeping up the system, and they will fight to the death to do it.

One hundred years ago it was considered a wonderful achievement for ten men to manufacture 48,000 pins in a day. Now three men make 7,500,000 pins in the same time.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg
The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer riflemen. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. Those are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. STORIES OF CONGRESSMEN

When Morgan Wasn't Arrested—Stark and the Menagerie.

It is not generally known, perhaps, that Senator Morgan of Alabama was once threatened with arrest for alleged complicity in the assassination of Lincoln. Of course, Senator Morgan was not only innocent but actually did not hear of Lincoln's death until a week after it had occurred. He was then a farmer in Dallas county, his practice of the law having been prohibited by the Federal authorities, and he was ploughing corn when he heard that an order had been received by Gen. McArthur, at Selma, to arrest him and sent him to Washington for complicity in the Lincoln assassination. Senator Morgan went into his house, attired himself in his Confederate General's uniform, with starred epaulettes, belt, sword, and other accoutrements complete. Then he saddled his plough horse and rode to Selma, where he presented himself to Gen. McArthur.

"Good morning, General," he said.

"Good morning, General," replied McArthur, recognizing Morgan's rank. "For what am I indebted for this visit?"

"I have come to be sent to Washington," remarked Morgan. "I understand you have an order to send me there."

Gen. McArthur expressed surprise to learn that the existence of the order was known, and smiled when Gen. Morgan told him that ex-Confederates had not lost their habit of acquiring information. Then he remarked that the order would not be obeyed—or, at least, not until there had been a reasonable delay. This did not suit Morgan, who wanted to go to Washington to present some claims for destroyed cotton and was quite willing to travel at Government expense.

"I want to make one request of you," said Morgan. "When I went into the war I had $15,000 in gold in a bank in Selma. When I came back from the war I found that my gold had given place to $15,000 in Confederate money. With that $15,000 I bought half a box of tobacco. With some of the tobacco I secured coffee and sugar and shoes for my family, and the rest of it went for seventeen shoats. I kept those shoats until they were fat enough to kill, and now I have more meat than any other man in Dallas county. When I go to Washington, General, I want you to put a guard around my smokehouse."

"General," replied McArthur, laughingly, "you had better go home and guard the smokehouse yourself, and by the way," he added, "the restriction against your practice of the law will be removed."

Senator Morgan went back to his family and his plough, and he has never heard anything of the order from that day to this.

When a Congressman campaigns through his district he is sure to have some funny experiences. Sometimes he talks from the top of a sugar barrel, sometimes he utilizes a buggy as a platform, and sometimes, as did Representative Stark of Nebraska, he delivers an oration to the accompaniment of the noise of wild beasts.

It happened in the town of Fairbury, Neb. Col. Stark had been billed to speak in that prairie metropolis but the opera house was engaged by a traveling theatrical company, and the Republicans had leased the only other available hall. On the outskirts of the town a circus was wintering, and it possessed, among other things, a training barn. The Populists hired the barn, filled it with circus seats, secured some gasolene lamps and started their meeting. The chairman mounted an elephant tub and solemnly announced that they had gathered to dedicate a new temple of liberty and justice. Then Congressman Stark arose.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said he.

"Roar-r-r-r," went the lion.

"In this eventful campaign," continued Col. Stark, whereupon the hyena howled.

"I come to speak to you—"

The elephant trumpeted with majestic noise.

"In advocacy of the great principles represented by—"

The camel gave a huge snort, and a man behind the scenes hit the beast a whack that sounded like a frame house falling down.

"—our great and glorious leader, the peerless statesman and matchless orator, William J. Bryan—"

At that moment all the animals in the barn joined in a tremendous chorus. The lions roared, the elephants trumpted, the hyenas howled, the camels snorted. A shiver of fear ran through the audience. "—at the mention of whose name," remarked Congressman Stark, after the noise had subsided, "even the wild beasts lift their voices in a tumult of appreciative joy!"

Anybody who heard Senator Allen of Nebraska deliver his famous fifteen-hour speech against the bill for the repeal of the Sherman silver bill would hardly believe that anything could stump him. Yet there is an experience in the Senator's life which shows that after all, he is like unto other mortals.

"I was campaigning in my State once," said the Senator, "when I had occasion to speak at a fair grounds. The grand stand was full, and the occasion seemed to be full of promise for an orator overflowing, as I was, with political gospel. Just as I had commenced, a man brought out an ostrich hitched to a sulky. I don't know whether you ever saw the trotting ostrich in the East, but out West he was a great attraction. Well, as soon as that bird began to run around the track, I wasn't in it. The ostrich monopolized the attention of every man, woman and child. When the bird stopped the people listened to me, but when he threw out his long legs again there was a roar of laughter and applause which drowned every word I uttered. Finally I gave it up. I let the trotting ostrich have everything his own way."

Every Movement Hurts

When you have rheumatism. Muscles feel stiff and sore and joints are painful. It does not pay to suffer long from this disease when it may be cured so promptly and perfectly by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Ozone for the Blood.

When a drop of blood is examined under a microscope it is found to be made up of a great number of small round cells.

These cells are called blood cells.

They build up every organ of the body, such as the skin, liver, kidneys, heart and lungs, in the same way that a number of bricks placed together erect a house.

The germs of disease sometimes attack these blood cells and render them imperfect in shape and composition.

In the same way that a builder rejects imperfect bricks does nature reject these germ-eaten blood cells.

They form waxy or cheesy kernels, which are thrown into the skin and system, and produce inflammation, sores, pimples and ulcers in the surrounding healthy tissue.

Now, Powley's Liquified Ozone kills the germs and builds up the blood and system with oxygen, because it is liquid oxygen.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is the new and only safe way to treat disease. It removes the cause.

Raw With Sores.

It is with pleasure I give testimony to the curative qualities of Ozone. My daughter was greatly afflicted with Eczema; her body was raw with sores. She was treated by one of the best doctors in Halifax without receiving any benefit. I heard of Ozone; procured it; she received immediate relief. She has taken three bottles, and seems now to be well. Her general health is greatly improved.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is $1.00 large size bottle, 50c small size. At druggists or from the laboratories of the Ozone Co. of Toronto, Limited, 48 Colborne St., Toronto.

A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right. I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours,
I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send A Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all, who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 521 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

THE WONDERLY GOLD MINING COMPANY, Limited.

CAPITAL $1,000,000, Divided into Shares of $1.00 each.

Incorporated under Ontario Laws. Non-assessable.

This Company was formed for the purpose of purchasing and working seven gold claims on the Saskatchewan river, near Edmonton.

These claims have been worked some, and in the summer of 1900 D. F. Loveland, the former owner and president of the Company, had a dredge at work, and although only able to handle 200 yards of earth per day, there was from $30.00 to $50.00 of gold taken from that amount of earth daily, and thus demonstrating beyond doubt the great value of these claims.

The Company proposes to purchase one of the Risdon dredges, with a capacity of 2,500 cubic yds. a day.

The expense of running such dredge will be about $175.00 per week, and even if the dredge handles only 1,000 cubic yards a day, in six days, there will be taken out $1,500.00 worth of gold, with a profit of $1,325.00 in one week.

Sufficient stock will be sold at 25 cents per share to raise money to purchase the necessary dredge after which the books will be closed and no more stock will be offered for sale.

There is no gold proposition on the market to-day equal to this one.

Application for stock can be made to any of the Directors, or to the Secretary, or to W. T. McNeil, broker, St. Catharines.

Fifty Years Ago.

The Times had a call from Mr. Robert Lawrence, of Otonabee, who attended the mayoralty nomination on Monday last. Mr. Lawrence was present when Mr. Benson, the first Mayor of Peterborough, was nominated, fifty years ago. The leading men in our local affairs in those days were the late Edmund Chamberlen, Wm. Lundy, Robert Nicholls, James Edwards, Thos. White and others. Mr. Lawrence looks hale and hearty.

Wedding Anniversary

A very pleasing event occurred on Thursday night in Ashburnham when a number of invited guests assembled at the residence of ex-Councillor J. T Craig, corner Elizabeth and Stewart streets, to celebrate the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Craig. A pleasant evening was spent in games of various kinds, and in social intercourse. Refreshments were served in a very dainty manner. Mr. and Mrs. Craig were the recipients of numerous presents suitable to the occasion, and the entire company wished them many more years of prosperity and happiness.

Want Pointers From Ontario

The Government of British Columbia having heard of the successful manner in which the public institutions of this province have been managed, has applied to Hon. J. R. Stratton, through the Provincial Secretary of that province for pointers from Ontario. The request came in the form of a letter asking that permission be given the superintendent of one of our asylums to go to British Columbia and give the benefit of his experience during a short visit. Accordingly permission has been granted to Dr. C. K. Clark, Superintendent of the Rockwood Asylum, at Kingston, who will leave for British Columbia shortly.

County Council Elections.

In view of the election for the County Council on Monday we publish the following from the Revised Statutes of Ontario, which will no doubt be of interest to many; Chap. 223, Sec. 168. Each person qualified to vote for county councillors shall be entitled to as many votes as there are members of county council to be elected in his county council division; and he may, at his own option, where there are two county councillors to be elected give both of his votes to one candidate, in which case he shall place two crosses, thus, XX, on the right hand side opposite the name of the candidate for whom he votes, or at any other place in the division which contains the name of such candidates; but except in the case aforesaid no person shall give two votes for one candidate.

Swearing off at New Years

"Do the New Year swear-offs make our receipts fall off?" said a well known hotel man to the Times yesterday. "Well, I should say they do. The receipts here drop a full 25 per cent, on January 2, and it takes them a good three months to get back to the old figure again. But they get back. Oh, yes; they get back in time. New Year swear-offs never last forever. The average man keeps his about a month; a week finishes the weak-minded individual, and the exceptionally resolute and strong-willed person endures about twelve weeks. These resolutions, my friends in the business tell me, affect every bar in town. For three months everywhere there is a slump of 25 per cent. in the drink trade. New Year's Day, though, is the best day we have. The resolutions, you see, don't go into effect until 12 o'clock that night, and the resolvers tank up generally in anticipation of it."

New Bank Bills

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—The first of the new bills of the Royal Bank of Canada were issued yesterday to the employees of the American Bank Note Co., which manufactured the notes. They are very handsome in design, and are tinted in four colors by a new process, which prints the four colors at the one time. These are the first bank notes on which this process has been applied in Canada. The bills have been issued in five denominations, five, ten, twenty, fifty and one hundred dollars.

On the back of each note in the center is the royal coat-of-arms. At each end of the bill on this side is printed the denomination in large figures. On the front of the note at one end is an artistic vignette, and at the other end is printed the denomination. The notes bear the date Jan. 2, 1901.

"My Physicians Told Me I Must Die, but South American Kidney Cure cured me of that awful Bright's Disease." This is a sentence from a letter of a well-known business man in a western town who through overwork and worry had contracted this kidney pestilence. It will relieve instantly and cure all kidney diseases.—102

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN

At the request of a number of the ratepayers, I have expressed my willingness to become a candidate for the Town Council of 1901. It is impossible for me to make a general canvass, and to those whom I do not have an opportunity of seeing I wish to state that if elected I will do my untmost to have a clause inserted in every contract given by the town compelling the contractor to give his men a day of nine hours instead of making them work for ten, as has often been the case. By a conscientious discharge of all my duties, I hope to merit your confidence.

"To Do Ill Costs More Than To Do Well."

This might properly read, "It costs more to BE ill than to BE well." The source of all health is rich, strong blood. It is to the body what the mighty streams are to the earth. If the blood is pure, the body thrives; if the blood is weak or impoverished, then every pulse-beat carries weakness instead of strength.

Why make the cost of living more than it need be? Purify your blood and give your constitution a chance to do its level best. The only perfect blood purifier and vigor-maker in existence is the world-famed Hood's Sarsaparilla. It brings good, perfect health. It never disappoints.

Impure Blood—"My wife suffered with pain and distress from an affection of the throat caused by impure blood. She was almost in despair when she turned to Hood's Sarsaparilla. Six bottles of this medicine completely cured her." JOHN WECKMAR, Galt, Ont.

Scrofula—"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of scrofula. I was weak and debilitated but it made me strong and well. After a severe cold had catarrhal fever. Again resorted to this medicine and it cured me." SARAH E. DEROY, Annapolis, N. S.

ELECTION OF ALDERMEN

To the Ratepayers
—OF THE—
TOWN OF PETERBORO.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I take this means of announcing my acceptance of the nomination tendered me for Alderman for the ensuing year.

If you think my ability to serve you warrants you in giving me your voluntary support at the polls, I shall, by a faithful discharge of the duties of Alderman, endeavor to justify your confidence.

Yours respectfully,
BENJ. SHORTLY.

To the Electors
of the
Town of Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having been nominated for the office of Alderman of the Town for the year 1901, I have decided to become a candidate and respectfully solicit your votes. I have been a resident of the Town for a great many years and have always taken an active interest in its affairs, and if elected will give my best attention to the duties of the office. It will be impossible for me to make a general canvass, and I therefore take this opportunity of asking each of you for your support at the approaching elections.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year,
I remain, Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH BATTEN.

To The Electors
of the Town of Peterborough

At the request of a number of influential citizens, who claimed that my long connection with municipal affairs in the Council and on the Town Trust Commission, fitted me for the responsible position of Mayor, I have accepted nomination for that office for the year 1901. If elected I shall give the best service I am capable of for the benefit and prosperity of the town.

There are a number of questions which will demand the attention of the Council during the next year. Among these are

(1) Health and improved sanitary conditions, a cleaner town and pure water.

(2) The purchase of the water works and the public lighting, thus giving these franchises to the people who created value in them and to whom they properly and naturally belong, and supplying these necessities of life to the consumers, and for the town's use, at greatly reduced charges and at actual cost, which would be little more than half we now pay.

(3) The consummation of a union between Peterborough and Ashburnham on just and fair terms and with full and proper protection of the town's interests.

(4) Persistently and energetically seeking for and securing manufacturing industries to utilize our vast water power and in like proportion engage capital and labor.

I make no reflection on the Council for the past year. I believe they did the best the conditions permitted of and made a sincere effort in their premises. I would discountenance in any manner an attempt to steal industries from other towns, yet there is to my mind an increasing field in which the Council may operate. Our ability to furnish the power, the premises, the railway and other facilities, so vastly superior to those of any other city or town in the province, that with an aggressive policy on the part of the Council, particularly from the head of it, we should, and I believe we will, secure large additions to our present industries. If to this our taxation of industries is placed on proper lines of encouragement to them, amongst others, so that the machinery shall as nearly as can be treated for assessment, as workman's tools, then we may confidently expect enlargement of the various manufactories now in operation and new works of first importance.

The above and kindred matters I shall enlarge upon at the public meeting in the opera house, Friday evening, at which I trust there will be a good attendance, for I shall not otherwise have an opportunity of laying my views before the electorate.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. MOORE.

TO THE ELECTORS
OF THE
Town of Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—At the request of a large number of ratepayers of the town, I am a candidate for the position of Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1901. I have been a member of the Town Council for six years, and the experience I have gained in that time would, I believe, be of service to the town if I am elected. I believe in a progressive policy for the town, and for that reason a liberal policy with respect to manufacturing industries, so long as advancement may be obtained without any sacrifice of the interests of the ratepayers and I would endeavor to secure the best service on the streets and in other ways at as little cost as is consistant with good work.

I shall not be able to see you all personally, and I therefore in this way respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,

GEN. FING TSE TSAI FOR YANG TSE VALLEY

Empress Dowager Orders Him to Proceed With His Army to That Place.

Shanghai, Jan. 6.
It is reported from Sian Fu that the Empress Dowager has ordered General Fung Tse (Tsai) commander in the province of Yung Nan to proceed with his army to the Yang Tse Valley, and from that section to move northward.

His force is said to consist of 15,000 men armed with modern weapons.

Count Von Waldersee, it is asserted, has arranged with Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang that the allied troops are not to operate in the prefecture of Shun Fi, Huang Ping and Ta-Ming, in the province of Chi-Li.

MORE MEN CROSS ORANGE RIVER

Another Small Body Enters Cape Colony, Near Aliwal North

London, January 15—The situation in Cape Colony has changed little since yesterday. The Boers who were yesterday reported as being in the neighborhood of Fraserburg have, according to Lord Kitchener, diverged sharply towards Calvinia, a town fully a hundred miles west and slightly north of Fraserburg, and the terminus of a railway from Cape Town. This move not only brings the Boers more in line with Cape Town, which lies almost due south of Calvinia, but also enables them to avoid the British force stationed at Fraserburg. It is exceedingly probable that the only cause of the diversion is the desire of the enemy to avoid a colision and that they will circle round Fraserburg and resume their southern progress, seeing that little is to be gained by actually entering Calvinia, which, though a fertile spot in itself, is in the midst of a not very productive district, away from the center of population. The eastern Boers have evidently been checked at Middleburg, and following the tactics practiced so often by Dewet, have divided into small bodies in order to get round the obstacle. They will likely be heard of when they unite at a point further south and nearer Graaf Reinet. Meanwhile the Boers have re-appeared in the northern part of the Orange River Colony, a favorite raiding ground of General Dewet, who is probably in the neighborhood, and a third small body of the enemy has crossed the Orange River near Aliwal North. The Cape Colony Cabinet is coping energetically with the situation, and is to-day holding an emergency meeting to consider how best to repel the invasion. Considering the splended response to the call to arms it is likely that all the strategic ground between the Boers and Cape Town and Port Elizabeth will be strongly occupied before they arrive within striking distance and that they will meet with defeat, which will be all the more crushing because of their isolation from all support.

LATEST DESPATCH.

London, Jan. 5—Lord Kitchener reports to the War Office, under date of Pretoria, January 4, as follows:

"The Boers have reappeaed along the railway in the neighborhood of Rhenoster, but it is doubtful that Dewet is with them.

"With regard to the situation in Cape Colony the Western commando seems to be making towards Calvinia, and the eastern party appears to have broken up into small parties.

"Another small body crossed the Orange River west of Aliwal North yesterday."

CAPE COLONY CABINET.

Cape Town, Jan. 5—An urgency meeting of the Cabinet was convened at noon to-day, after a long consultation between the British High Commissioner, Sir Alfred Milner, and the Premier, Sir J. Gordon Spriggs. An important pronouncement is expected.

GRENFELL JOINS WILLIAMS.

Cape Town, Jan. 5—Information regarding the invasion is scanty. Col. Williams attacked the Eastern invaders Jan. 1 near Middleburg, but failed to dislodge them. He has since been joined by Lieut.-Col. Grenfel, and the Boers have retired. General Brabant has arrived at Graff Reinet.

CAPE TOWN ARTILLERY.

Cape Town, Jan. 5—Recruiting for the colonial defence force is proceeding satisfactoirly. Nearly 400 men enlisted this morning. An extraordinary gazette will be published to-morrow authorizing the formation of an artillery contingent for active service and to act as a guard for Cape Town. Only one quarter of the effective strength oof the town guard will be called out at any time for active service except in case of emergency. As far as possible the drills will be held outside of office hours. The drilling allowance will be five shillings weekly. A Boer prisoner who is on parole has published an appeal to the burghers of the Transvaal to stop their hopeless and useless struggle, and to throw themselves on England's justice and mercy.

EXTENSION OF MARTIAL LAW.

Cape Town, Jan. 5—Colonial Secretary Graham confirms the report of a seizure of dynamite in the Fraserburg district, but says there was nothing illegal in the shipment of the explosive to that place. The Times expresses satisfaction with the response in Cape Town to the Governor's call to arms. It says it trusts the Government will anticipate all troublesome possibilities by a further and immediate extension of martial law, if not to Cape Town itself, at least to the gates of the city.

AFTER DEWET.

London, Jan. 5—Advices from Masero, Basutoland, say that three separate columns are still pursuing Gen. Dewet, but with no success beyond taking twenty-eight prisoners. Cannon firing is continually heard. All the English have deserted Ficksburg, taking their stocks of grain across the border, and the Boers have looted the town.

THE COLVILLE AFFAIR.

London, Jan. 5—Friends of General Sir Henry Colville are seeking to stir up strife in military circles. They are asserting that Lord Lansdowne consulted Lord Wolseley before exonerating Colville and assigning him to duty at Gibraltar and that Earl Roberts hearing at Maderia what had been done, intervened and insisted that Mr. Brodrick should recall him. They also assume that Sir Evelyn Wood was not consulted, but that the Secretary for War acted in a most arbitrary way. These stories are probably as irresponsible as the current gossip that the Colville affair marks the final stages of the old fued between Lord Wolseley and Earl Roberts. General Colville has lost the sympathy of military men by his indiscretion in bringing on a trial by newspaper, and in reproaching Earl Roberts and Lord Kitchener for failures of staff oticers.

Immediately on the completion of this duty the troops will entrain for their homes on special trains. Lieut D. W. S. Grant, 66th Regiment, attached to No. 5 regimental depot, R.C.R., for duty, will return to his corps on the return of Lieuts. Leduc and Kaye from leave on the 10th inst.

SPORTING NOTES

HOOKEY.

The first match of the season with a visiting team took place at the rink on Saturday evening. It was an exhibition game, the visitors being the St. George's of Toronto. There was a good attendance of spectators, who were generous with applause to the visitors as well as to the home talent. At first it looked like a walk over for Peterborough. The local team scored three times in rapid succession and kept their opponents at the zero mark for 15 or 20 minutes. At half time the score was 7 to 4 in favor of Peterborough. In the second half the visitors woke up and nearly turned the tables. At the end of time the score was a tie—10 to 10. There was some rough play several men being given a rest, and one of the Toronto men being temporarily disabled, but on the whole the game was a clean one. The visitors were given a supper at McCallum's after the game. The Peterborough players lined up as follows: Goal, J. Comstock; point, R. Glover; cover point, H. Hollingshead; center cover, W. Crowley; right wing, W Farnell; center, Chris Graham; left wing, R. Watt.

THE STEAMER JAQUA GOES TO PIECES

Report that Between Thirty and Forty Persons Have Perished.

San Frasciaco, California, Jan. 5.—The steamer Jaqua, which left this city yesterday afternoon for San Diego with a cargo of general merchandise, was wrecked some time last night on Duxbury reef, just outside the Golden Gate; and all on board, with the single exception of Chief Engineer Purrill, are believed to have perished. Purrill was washed ashore on an upturned boat, after being in the water for two hours. There were between thirty and forty persons on board.

The Jaqua sailed from Eureka several days ago for San Pedro, and put in here yesterday to land some passengers. As soon as that duty had been attended to Captain Basch put to sea again.

How the disaster occurred is not known, but there was a heavy swell on outside the Roads last night, and it is probable that the unfortunate vessel drifted on the reef in the haze that overspread the water, and was thrown upon the rocks by the swell. She is a total loss.

Chief Engineer Purrill reached the shore, and telephoned to William J. Mugan, representative of Dolber & Carson, agents for the vessel in this city, saying that the steamer was in distress and asking for assistance. Tugs were at once started for the scene of the disaster, but at 2 o'clock it was reported from Point Reyes that the vessel had gone to pieces.

How the engineer got ashore no one seemed to know, and it thus appeared possible that others from the wreck might have reached points of safety unreported.

MINER'S STRIKE NOT YET SETTLED

Employes Have Found that Their Demands Were not Acceded To.

New Glascow, N. S., Jan. 5.—The final settlement of the coal strike is uncertain, the story of the failure of the negotiations and renewal of hostilities being as follows:

The miners had demanded an increase of fifty cents a day for mechanics and a general increase of twelve per cent. for miners. They state that they understood Mr. Fergie's offer as granting both increases to mechanics. On the strength of that they agreed to call the strike off. Yesterday, however, they learned that the manager would only grant all employees a straight increase of twelve per cent. Upon this they joined issue. Manager Coll of the Acadia Coal Company also would not grant fifty cents a day raise to mechanics. The result is that the Drummond men will go out again.

Two meetings of miners were held yesterday, one at Westville and one at Stellarton. Last night, when the turn of affairs was discussed, the decision of the miners was to continue the strike. All miners will consequently remain idle for some time longer, although it is confidently expected that a settlement will soon be reached.

The men at Thorburn, although voting in favor of a strike, continued at work on receipt of the news of the agreement reached between Manager Fergie and the Drummond miners, but they will now probably join the Westville and Stellarton unions in holding out for an increase of fifty cents for mechanics.

The increase of twelve per cent asked by the miners is not a twelve per cent increase on their present wages, but on their pay in April, as they received in April an increase of ten per cent. They will now be getting an increase of 22 per cent. on their old rate.

TRANSPORTED TO SIBERIA.

Fate of 32 Persons Caught in Russian Poland.

Paris, Jan. 7.—A dispatch from Warsaw says that 32 persons were recently arrested on a charge of high treason, including some Germans and Austrians. With a view to avoiding international complications all the prisoners were sent immediately to Siberia.

It is the general opinion that late Prince Imeretinsky, governor of Russian Poland, was poisoned. Six Socialists were hanged by his orders on the day of his own death. Afterward arsenic was found in his soup. Prince Imeretinsky was generally humane towad the Poles. He left an edict reintroducing Courts of Assize for the trial of civil offenses instead of courts martial.

A new edict prescribes that all trade advertisements and posters must be printed in Russian and be submitted to the censor before they are issued. Any infringement of the edict will be punishable by six months' imprisonment in a fortress.

MADE FORTUNE IN KLONDIKE.

Dawson City's Wealthiest Woman Manages Her Own Mining Properties—Once Was Newspaper Writer.

Among the guests registered at the Snowden House over Sunday was Alice Rollins Crane of Dawson City, Alaska, who in addition to being one of the richest women in the Klondike possesses the unique distinction of being the only woman general manager of a mining company.

Mrs. Crane is a remarkable woman and is regarded in the Klondike as one of the shrewdest and most energetic mining operators in that El Dorado. She personally overlooks the operations of fourteen mining claims, in which she owns a controlling interest. She left Alaska last fall and after her mission home is accomplished she will visit her relatives, some of whom live in Eastern Ontario, and will return to Alaska early in the spring.

Mrs. Crane is about 40 years of age, but in spite of the fact that she has done ay great amount of vigorous work and endured many hardships, she looks fully five years younger. She is a native of New York and her girlhood days were spent in the society circles of Washington, New York, and Boston. She prepared herself for a litterary career and became an artist of no mean ability. After she began to write she drifted into newspaper work, and was at different times connected with some of the leading journals in the country. After the Hay-market riot in Chicago in 1886, while she was connected with the press in that city, disguised as a nurse she entered the Cook County Hospital and helped to care for the wounded reds. Each evening she wrote a story on the information she had acquired during the day from the wounded Anarchists.

Several years afterward Mrs. Crane, with her son Fred, went to Kingston. During this time Mrs. Crane made a careful study of the Indian character, their traditions, and the customs and folklore of the various tribes. She wrote a number of valuable articles concerning the red men, and later, when about to go to Alaska, received a commission for her services from the American Bureau of Ethnology. During her sojourn in Arizona Mrs. Crane became interested in mining in that region. She secured possession of valuable mining property and personally looked after the workings of the mines, thus gaining a thorough knowledge of the subject that became invaluable when she later went to Alaska. These ventures were almost without exception successful and great profits were realized from them.

In 1897, when the cry of gold from Alaska caused a great exodus of fortune-seekers from all parts of Canada and the United States, Mrs. Crane determined to go to the Klondike. The start was made in the fall of 1897. Railroads were utilized as far as possible, and then sledges were used to convey the supplies the remaining distance. Five hundred miles from Dawson City Mrs. Crane was deserted by a treacherous guide, who took with him the greater part of a splendid outfit with which the journey had been commenced. Nothing daunted, she obtained from some friendly Indians a canoe constructed of skins, and in this frail craft with no companion other than an Indian boy, she paddled 500 miles down unknown streams, through swirling rapids till after seven weeks a hardship and privation Dawson City was finally reached. The undertaking was an exceptionally hazardous and daring one.

Upon arriving at Dawson, Mrs. Crane had only a small portion of her original suppiles left and but little money. She secured a small plat of ground, and unaided, laid the foundations for a small house, in errecting which she was aided by several government officials.

A number of capitalists in the States, trusting in her good judgment, had commissioned her to visit for them, and she at once began to prospect in the Klondike district, registered, and brought a number of claims. Several of them did not show pay dirt at first, but after being thoroughly worked began to yield such enormous profits that Mrs. Crane soon acquired one of the largest fortunes in the Klondike. During the time she was there, a period of nearly three years, Mrs. Crane wrote articles for several of the large newspapers. She is an expert photographer and has one of the finest collections of Alaska views in existance.

Upon her return to Uncle Sam's domain a stock company, composed of the capitalists whose mining interests she had cared for while in the Klondike, was formed and Mrs. Crane was chosen general manager, with power of direction over all properties controlled by this company. Mrs. Crane leaves this morning for Lakefield, where she has some friends.

MR. HENRY DENNE STRICKEN

The Towns Esteemed Tax Collector Stricken With Paralysis.

Mr. Henry Denne, the well known and popular tax collector, was suddenly stricken in his office, in the town building, on Saturday morning, with paralysis.

Mr. Denne was at his office Saturday morning, and was in his usual health and spirits. Shortly after eleven o'clock Mr. Chas. Dredge was in paying his taxes, and chatted with Mr. Denne. He was about to leave, when he noticed a change pass over Mr. Denne's face. Seeing that he was ill, he assisted him to a chair and summoned assistance. Medical aid was summoned, and the stricken man was conveyed to his home. He was able to help himself, but was unable to speak.

His condition Saturday and during Sunday was critical. Last night his condition was improved, and there is hope that he will pull through.

HUMAN FLESH SOLD.

Starving Koreans Compelled to Resort to Cannibalism

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 5.—The steamer Rio Jun Maru brings news to the effect that Boxer proclamations have been found in Seoul, calling upon Korean Boxers to expel all foreigners, including Japanese. Similar proclamations have been issued by Hi Yung Hick and party.

The anti-foreign movement in Korea is causing much uneasiness. In South Korea two missionaries were assaulted and robbed. The famine in Shan Si is increasing, and is causing much cannibalism. Human flesh is offered for sale, and officials are unable to prevent it.

Despatches fro. Seoul tell of the Russian advance into Korea, they having captured Hoojo and Anlong Ken. The Japanese Government has made a protest against the invasion.

Needs to be Amended.

The fining of several citizens in the police court up west for neglecting to register births, and the announcement that there are more victims to follow brings forcibly home to Londoners the beauty of the law governing the registration of births, which places the responsibility of registering on both the attendant physician and the parents. As only one registration is necessary for one birth too many cooks spoil the broth. The physician thinks the parents will attend to it, and the parents are equally sure that the physician will attend to it. The result is that the birth isn't registered. It is a sample piece of legislation and should be amended, the duty of registering births being placed either upon the physician or the parents, but not upon both, which often means neither.

WILL SHOW AT PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION

The Dominion Government Will Erect a Building and Co-operate With the Provinces in an Exhibit in Buffalo.

Ottawa, Jan. 5.—The Dominion Government has decided to erect a building and make an exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition next summer. A decision was reached at yesterday's Cabinet meeting to make a grant for this purpose. The vote will not be a large one, as the time is too far advanced now to make a large exhibit, such as Canadians would like to see but nevertheless the building and the display will be creditable to the country. The building will not be large enough to take in the manufactures of the country. They will be distributed in the main building.

Ontario and Manitoba have already decided to send exhibits and now that the Dominion has decided to do so, they will likely co-operate with the Ottawa authorities. Nova Scotia has been talking of sending an exhibit. It is likely that it will do so now, and the probability is that some of the other provinces will follow suit.

George D. Cameron of London, who is one of the Pan-American commissioners for Canada, and who has done good work to interest Canadians in the exposition, had been in Ottawa for some days past in connection with the matter. He left for Toronto last night.

CASTELLANE FEARS ARREST.

George Gould Urges Count and Countess to Leave France.

Paris, Jan. 5.—George Gould has written to his sister that she and the Count ought to leave France immediately and come to America if necessary, but before a Court decision is reached, which may possibly precipitate scandal.

It is presumed that Gould refers to the veiled threat of Wertheimer's lawyers to arrest Count Boni for selling property unpaid for. The Avenue Bois mansion has been hermetically sealed, and the family are residing in a chateau.

A QUESTION OF HONESTY

Before his sermon at All Saints' Church last night Rev. J. C. Davidson made a brief reference to the Municipal elections. He said that the principles raised in regard to it has a distinctively moral side which escaped the attention of many. If the speaker asked a man a question which he had a right to ask it was considered dishonorable to return an evasive or untrue answer. On Monday the town of Peterborough would ask each voter one distinct and definite question. This question was not which candidates are your friends or which live on your street or which belong to your society, but instead of this, which of these men in your judgment is best qualified to direct the affairs of the town and guide its destinies during 1901. The speaker said he was not concerned for whom they voted and no names were in his mind as he spoke, but he was greatly concerned as to how this people did their duty as citizens and fulfilled their moral obligations.

THE SIEGE OF PEKIN.

A Lady Refugee's Account of the Memorable Affair.

Miss Rutherford, a missionary to China who was in the British Legation during the seige at Pekin last summer, gave a thrilling account of her experiences, at Bethany Tabernacle last evening. The audience was very large, it being difficult to provide seats for all. The story of the seige is fresh in the memory of newspaper readers, nevertheless the young lady's clear and graphic account of her ten weeks of deadly peril and suspence was keenly appreciated. The Legation was in a compound or inclosure four or five acres in extent, surrounded by a wall ten feet high and four feet thick. Within this enclosure were the little band of missionaries, the various foreign representatives and their families, and Chinese Christians, defended by only 400 British soldiers and under bombardment by day and by night. Before the bombardment commenced they were offered safe conduct to Tien Tsin, but declined on the advice of the missionaries. The wisdom of this advice was shown when the German Minister, who volunteered to go out and interview the Chinese officials, was foully murdered. The soldiers were short of ammunition, and confined themselves to sharpshooting, at which they were very effective. They silenced one gun by picking off six gunners one after another. One hundred and fifty of the four hundred soldiers passed through hospital and seventy-five died. The refugees were at no time on short rations, but they consumed 85 horses and mules. The Empress Dowager sent them some ice, watermelons and flour. They ate the watermelons and used the ice in hospital, but did not touch the flour, fearing it might be poisoned. British soldiers—Sepoys—were first of the relieving force to enter the legation. For weeks before the outbreak there were signs that trouble was brewing. On the streets the gentle heathen would sometimes salute a foreigner by drawing a hand across the throat and then pointing significantly at the hated intruder.

PRAISE FOR OUR SOLDIER BOYS

Capt. Weldon "Would Choose no Other Mounted Troops in the World Before Them."

A short note received by his mother from Sergt. Percy R. Price, with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, is accompanied by an exceedingly interesting document, being no less than the original letter received by the Canadian commanders from General Smith-Dorrien, in whose brigade the Canadians were. He says this order was received when the Canadians were leaving Belfast.

The order read as follows:

Special orders by Major-General H. L. Smith-Dorrien, D. S. O., commanding Pan to Dalmanutha, Headquarters, Belfast,

20th Nov., 1900.

Major-General Smith-Dorrien cannot allow the Royal Canadian Dragoons, and the left section, D Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, and the Canadian Mounted Rifles to leave his command en route for Canada without thanking them for the grand work they have performed for him in the Belfast flying column.

In 8 of the last 19 days they have been engaged with the Boers and have proved themselves splendidly brave and mobile mounted troops, and it has afforded the Major-General much pleasure to have been able to send through General the Honorable N. Lyttleton to the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief, detailed accounts of their splendid feats of arms and to be able to bring to the special notice of the Commander-in-Chief 5 officers and 7 non-commissioned officers and men for distinguished conduct in the field during these operations.

In wishing them all "Good speed and good luck," he has no words to express how great a loss they will be to the flying column.

He can merely say that he would choose no other mounted troops in the world before them if he had his choice, and he sincerely hopes the day may come when he may have them again under his command.

By order,
F. WELDON, Capt.,
C.S.O. "Smith-Dorrien's Force.

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 7, 1901

THE BITER BITTEN

A rather amusing account is given by the New York Journal of Commerce of the way in which U. S. manufacturers of iron pipe were "sold" in their efforts to take possession of the Canadian market. The duty on tubing varies from five to thirty per cent., and the American tube combination thought the opportunity propitious to come in and "take the country" by a grand commercial coup. The Journal of Commerce says that the iron pipe combination there announced that prices were to be cut so that the two Canadian pipe mills were to be forced to close their works, and iron pipe was quoted at about 50 per cent. below the figures at which wholesalers in the United States could buy. Exports to Canada became heavy, and continued so for some time, but the works of the Canadian pipe mills continued running, and the market absorbed their product, seemingly, just as readily as before. The National Tube Works people then began to wonder, and eventually found out that the pipe was being exported to England, where it was being sold in competition with their own product there. It appears that when the National Tube Works threatened to close up the Canadian pipe mills by quoting such low prices, the Canadian manufacturers asked the customs authorities if the rebate of 99 per cent. allowed on goods exported which had previously been imported from the United States, and afterwards exported, provided it was taken into the mills, the original thread cut cut off, and the British standard thread put on. The answer given by the authorities was inthe affirmative. This advantage attained, pipe made in the United States was taken into Canada as freely as it was offered, and although the customs authorities appraised it for duty at the prices that ruled in the market of production and the thread had been changed, the pipe was promptly exported, thus leaving the Canadian market free for the home manufacturers to supply.

This is a very good joke as it stands. But it has a serious side. Other Canadian manufacturers have not so ready a resourse as the iron pipe men. They all cannot buy from the United States and re-export as was done in this case, even at the slaughter of first cost. They would have to go under as they did in the Seventies before such an onslaught. It was only by raising the tariff as a National Policy that they were enabled to stem the strong currents then, and put themselves on a stable footing. With a reduced tariff, the surplus output of a neighboring country could be again sent in in such quantity as to deluge our industries and swamp them out of existence. Yet this is what Mr. Fielding has promised, to lower the tariff little by little until every vestige of protection shallhave been removed. Will the manufacturers submit to that?

The effort of the professional politicians to introduce party politics into municipal contests should be frowned There are complaints enough about the average council now, without adding further causes for complaint.

Night Work.

Extra strain needs extra strength. When a man begins to add to his hours of labor, and subtract from his hours of rest, he is putting an extra strain on brain and body. In such cases many men make the serious mistake of using stimulating liquors, or alcoholic medicines. These can only injure. The spur forces on the horse, but does not strengthen him. Stimulants are only spurs. The need of the body is strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is invaluable to overworked men and women. It strengthens the stomach, increases the blood supply, nourishes the nerves, and gives vital power to brain and body.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery." It contains no opium, cocaine or other narcotic. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

Mr. Edward Jacobs, of Marengo, Crawford Co., Indiana, writes: "After three years of suffering with liver trouble and malaria I gave up all hopes of ever getting stout again, and the last chance was to try your medicine. I had tried all the home doctors and received but little relief. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I am stout and hearty. It is due entirely to your wonderful medicines."

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN

At the request of a number of the ratepapers, I have expressed my willingness to become a candidate for the Town Council of 1901. It is impossible for me to make a general canvass, and to those whom I do not have an opportunity of seeing I wish to state that if elected I will do my untmost tohave a clause inserted in every contract given by the town compelling the contractor to give his men a day of nine hours instead of making them work for ten, as has often been the case. By a conscientious discharge of all my duties, I hope to merit your confidence.

Yours respectfully.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having been nominated for Alderman for 1901, I have consented to become a candidate, and will be pleased to have your support, freely and voluntarily accorded me.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having been nominated as a candidate for the Council of 1901, and having been urged by my friends to stand, I have consented to do so. ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg
The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts: $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. Home Novelty Mfg. THE PAN-AMERICAN.

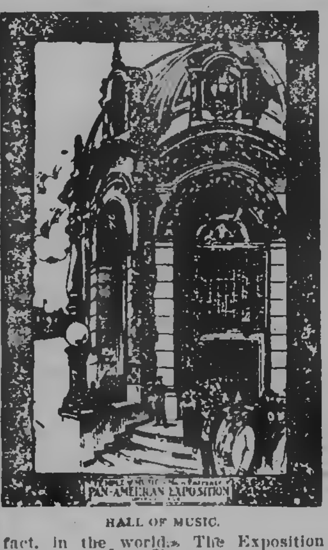
A GLANCE AT THE GREAT ENTERPRISE AND ITS PURPOSES.

True Picture of Nineteenth Century Development Arranged in a Setting of Unsurpassed Beauty and Splendor at Pan-American Exposition.

If one may judge by the presence of thousands of workmen at the grounds of the Pan-American Exposition and the wonderful progress they have made during the last few months, the Exposition will be opened in a condition of completeness upon the 1st of May next.

For the benefit of those who, for any reason, have not been informed concerning the plans and purposes of this vast enterprise I will state that the Exposition grounds are in the northern part of the city of Buffalo and have an area of 350 acres. Buffalo, with its 400,000 population, is preparing the most artistic creation ever produced for the purposes of an exposition. The completed work will cost probably $10,000,000, exclusive of exhibits.

The landscape upon which the buildings stand includes a part of one of the most beautiful parks in Buffalo or, in fact, in the world. The Exposition will thus have the setting of trees, lawns and water features, which have cost the city of Buffalo millions of dollars. The main Exposition buildings are some 20 or more in number and are arranged about a system of beautiful courts some 33 acres in extent. The arrangement is such as to permit the most exquisite decorative effects that the best trained artists of the world may be able to produce.



HALL OF MUSIC.

Space will permit only an enumeration of the principal buildings. These are: The Electric Tower, 375 feet high, which is to be the centerpiece of the most brilliant and novel electric illumination ever conceived; the Propylæ, or architectural screen, at the northern end of the grounds; the Stadium, for sporting and athletic events; the Agriculture building, Manufactures and Liberal Arts building, Ethnology building, the Government group of three great buildings, the Midway restaurant building, Electricity building, the Machinery and Transportation buildings and Railroad Station, the Temple of Music, Graphic Arts, Horticulture, Mines, Forestry, Dairy, Ordnance, Service, and other buildings, the Albright Gallery of Art, costing $400,000; the New York State building, costing $175,000, besides the state and foreign buildings and numerous other structures of beautiful and interesting design for a variety of purposes.

The Midway at the Pan-American Exposition alone will cost more than some large expositions. It is estimated the cost of the Midway will be about $3,000,000, as it will have more than a mile of frontage closely built with the most picturesque structures conceivable and will contain between 30 and 40 entertainment features of most novel and interesting character.

The purposes of the Exposition are not merely to give the people a most magnificent and attractive entertainment, but it will furnish the opportunity for every one to inform himself upon the progress of the nineteenth century. The Exposition is held for the purpose of celebrating the achievements of the western world during a century of unparalleled progress. It is distinctly a western world affair, all the governments of the western hemisphere having been invited to participate in all departments. Official responses have been made by every important government, state and dependency of the western world, and they are preparing to be represented by most creditable exhibits.

The exhibits are classified in the following divisions: Electricity and electrical appliances; fine arts, painting, sculpture and decoration; graphic arts, typography, lithography, steel and copper plate printing, photo mechanical processes, drawing, engraving and bookbinding; liberal arts, education, engineering, public works, constructive architecture, music and drama, sanitation and hygiene; ethnology, archæology, progress of labor and invention, isolated and collective exhibits; agriculture, agricultural implements; machinery and appliances, foods and their accessories, horticulture, viticulture, agriculture, forestry and forest products, fish, fisheries, fish products and apparatus for fishing; mines and metallurgy, machinery, manufactures, transportation, railways, vessels, vehicles, ordnance, exhibits from the Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico, Guam, Tutuila and the Philippine Islands.

The Exposition has the indorsement not only of the state of New York, which appropriated $300,000, but of the national government, which appropriated $500,000 for the purpose of being suitably represented upon this great occasion. The Exposition will continue six months and will furnish an opportunity such as rarely comes for the public to take note, at a glance, of the wonderful progress of the western world. It will be like a great university, at which the young and old will become for the time being students of western civilization.

About 12,000 people have subscribed to the stock of the Exposition, and it is a public enterprise in the broadest sense of the term, the aim being to produce a magnificent spectacle to delight the artistic sense of all who attend and to present through the medium of an army of enterprising exhibitors a true picture of nineteenth century development. John G. Milburn, an eminent lawyer of Buffalo, is president, and the director general is William I. Buchanan, who was director of the departments of agriculture, live stock and forestry at the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago and afterward for six years United States minister to the Argentine Republic.

MARK BENNITT.

"PAN-AM." RESTAURANTS.

The Best of Service Will Be Provided.

The needs of the inner man will be well attended to at the Pan-American Exposition to be held at Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901. At some expositions a great mistake has been made by not providing for good restaurants, where satisfactory meals could be obtained at reasonable prices. Either the food obtained has not been of good quality or prices charged have been exorbitant or the facilities in some particulars have been inadequate to the occasion.

There will be good restaurants in different parts of the grounds of the Pan-American Exposition, so that it will not be necessary for visitors to go outside of the grounds to secure a good meal, well served, at a moderate price. All tastes will be suited in the services rendered, for there will be places where meals will be served on an elaborate plan to suit the most fastidious taste and where prices will be in proportion to those charged at high class restaurants in large cities. There will be other places where the meals will be cheap, but the food appetizing and healthful and the surroundings clean. There will be restaurants in the beautiful building at the entrance to the Midway, another in a similar building at the entrance to the Stadium, another in the Electric Tower, which will be one of the great centers of interest on the Exposition grounds, and another on the Midway. Refreshments will also be served in the Temple of Music, which may be enjoyed by visitors at the same time that they are listening to the concerts in progress in the auditorium. There will also be a New England kitchen, a German restaurant, a Mexican restaurant, an Italian restaurant and other places where various kinds of refreshments will be served.

EAGLES AT THE EXPOSITION.

Remarkable Decoration For Ethnology Building at Buffalo.

The building devoted to the Departments of Ethnology and Archæology at the Pan-American Exposition, which is now approaching completion, will have some remarkable sculptural decorations. Among them will be gigantic figures of eagles and lions, which will be placed upon eight of the 16 panels of the domes. These sculptures in staff will be conspicuous features of the architecture of this beautiful building. Models in clay are first made of the figures, and from them reproductions in staff are cast.

Service Building

SERVICE BUILDING.

The model of the eagle has just been completed. It is of colossal size: in the model nearly 10,000 pounds of clay have been used, and each bird, when cast in staff, will weigh fully two tons. The sculptured eagle will measure nearly 16 feet in height.

Essays on Pan-American.

A movement to interest the public school teachers and public school pupils in the Pan-American Exposition to be held at Buffalo next summer has been started. It originated in some of the public schools of Pennsylvania and is being taken up elsewhere as the wisdom of the plan becomes apparent. The idea is to have the teachers in the public schools write essays for various occasions of an educational character on the objects and aims of the Exposition and the bearing that such a display will have on the commerce of the world. A similar plan regarding the Paris Exposition was found quite successful and resulted in the attendance of a large corps of teachers at that fair. The plan contemplates also essays by pupils. It is believed that in this way much information can be spread regarding the benefits to be derived from cultivating closer relations with the different countries of this hemisphere and that it would result in greater intelligence among the public school teachers and pupils on this subject, as well as a larger attendance among this class of the population at the Exposition.

West Indians Will Attend.

Louis H. Ayme, United States Consul to Guadeloupe, says that in the West Indies the Pan-American Exposition is considered much more important than the Centennial Exposition of 1876 and that hundreds of natives are preparing to come to it.

FREE!
A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who will ask. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. [illegible] Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

THE WONDERLY GOLD MINING COMPANY, Limited.

CAPITAL $1,000,000, Divided into Shares of $1.00 each.

Incorporated under Ontario Laws. Non-assessable.

This Company was formed for the purpose of purchasing and working seven gold claims on the Saskatchewan river, near Edmonton.

These claims have been worked some, and in the summer of 1900 D. F. Loveland, the former owner and president of the Company, had a dredge at work, and although only able to handle 200 yards of earth per day, there was from $30.00 to $50.00 of gold taken from that amount of earth daily, and thus demonstrating beyond doubt the great value of these claims.

The Company proposes to purchase one of the Risdon dredges, with a capacity of 2 500 cubic yds. a day.

The expense of running such dredge will be about $175.00 per week, and even if the dredge handles only 1,000 cubic yards a day, in six days, there will be taken out $1,500.00 worth of gold, with a profit of $1,325 00 in one week.

Sufficient stock will be sold at 25 cents per share to raise money to purchase the necessary dredge after which the books will be closed and no more stock will be offered for sale.

There is no gold proposition on the market to-day equal to this one.

Application for stock can be made to any of the Directors, or to the Secretary, or to W. T. McNeil, broker, St. Catharines.

The Bylaw Today

Ratepayers should not forget that they will be asked to pass upon a by-law to raise the sum of $3,000 for the construction of bridges over the creek at Reid and Donegal streets. It will be wise, we think, to vote for the by-law, as the bridges are a necessity, and must be built.

At a Ripe Old Age.

There passed away, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. H. Rishea, on Friday last, Mrs. Bratte, aged 86 years. The deceased had been in poor health for some time. New Bakery Oven

A large bake oven has just been completed for Messrs. Long Bros., the well known confectioners. It was built by Marsh & Co., of Toronto, who have a reputation for oven building. The oven is 13 x 11 ft., with pressed brick floor, patent draft attachment and a very valuable gauge for indicating the degrees of heat from ½ to 1,000 degrees. It will prove a great acquisition to Long Bros.' establishment.

Mr Pecks Generosity

Last year Mr. E. A. Peck, Chairman of Ashburnham School Board, very kindly gave several prizes in spelling and arithmetic, to the pupils of Ashburnham Public School, and he has offered to repeat the prizes this year. The school appreciates this thoughtful action on the part of Mr. Peck. The prizes to be given by Mr. H. Calcutt in reading and in writing will be given out at the school concert on Friday, January 25th, in Ashburnham Town Hall.

Death of Mrs Cooper

There passed away yesterday morning at Auburn, Mary Ann Hunter, beloved wife of Mr. W. A. Cooper, aged 50 years. Mrs. Cooper had been a victim of spinal trouble for four years, during which period she bore her terrible sufferings with Christian fortitude. She leaves a sorrowing husband and family of two sons and a daughter to mourn her demise. The funeral will leave the family residence, 266 Auburn street, Auburn, at two o'clock to-morrow, and proceed to the Salvation Army barracks, where divine service will be held, and thence to the Little Lake cemetery for interment. The Times extends its sympathy to the bereaved husband and children in their irreparable loss.

A Germ Catechism

THE MANNER IN WHICH POWLEY'S LIQUIFIED OZONE KILLS THE GERM OF DISEASE.

Q. What is disease?

A. Disease is an unnatural condition of the body or organs of the body.

Q. What causes disease?

A. Germs causes disease.

Q. How are germs formed?

A. Germs are formed from decaying vegetable or animal matter.

Q. In what way do germs cause disease?

A. The germs enter the body and form a chemical combination with the animal cells. A chemical combination is peculiar to each disease. Thus a certain germ forms cholera, another consumption, another typhoid fever, another kidney disease, another indigestion and so on.

Q. How can we cure disease?

A. What is required is an antiseptic; something that will kill the germs and restore the diseased portion of the body to health.

Q. What will do that?

A. Powley's Liquified Ozone is the only preparation which will accomplish this.

Q. What is Powley's Liquified Ozone?

A. It is liquified oxygen & nature's cure for disease. It treats disease under a new system. It is simply infallible in its treatment. It has been demonstrated that no germ can live in oxygen or ozone. Powley's Liquified Ozone kills microbes instantly, and in this war cures such terrible diseases as consumption, impure blood, eczema, typhoid fever, tumors, Bright's disease of the kidneys, liver troubles, female weakness, etc.

Stop old-fashioned medicine methods. Powley's Liquified Ozone is liquified Oxygen. It kills germs of every discription. Testimonials prove this. Send for pamphet on general troubles and female diseases. Powley's Liquified Ozone is sold in two sizes, large size $1.00 small size, 50c. at all druggists, or by mail from the Ozone Co., of Toronto, Limited, 49 Colborne St., Toronto. Also by Wm. Madill.

DISTRIBUTION OF SAMPLES OF SEED GRAIN AND POTATOES.

Editor Morning Times,

Sir,—During the past twelve years samples of those varieties of grain, &c., which have succeeded best on the several Experimental Farms have been distributed on application in 3 lb. bags, free through the mail, to farmers in all parts of the Dominion. The objects in view in this distribution has been to add to the productiveness and improve the quality of these important agricultural products throughout the country, by placing within reach every farmer, pure seed of the most vigorous and productive sorts. This work has met with appreciation, and a large measure of success.

Under instruction of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture another distribution will be made this season. Owing to the very large number of applications annually received, it is not practicable to send more than one sample to each applicant,—hence if an individual receives a sample of oats, he cannot receive one of wheat, barley or potatoes, and applications for more than one sample for one household cannot be entertained. These samples will be sent only to those who apply personally, lists of names from societies or individuals cannot be considered. The distribution will consist as heretofore of samples of oats, spring wheat, barley, field pease, Indian corn and potatoes.

Applications should be addressed to the Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and may be sent any time before the 1st of March, 1901, after which date the lists will be closed, so that samples asked for may be sent out in good time for sowing. Parties writing will please mention the sort of sample they would prefer, naming two or threee different varieties of their choice. Should the avilable stock of all the varieties named be exhausted, some other good sort will be sent instead.

The samples of grain will be sent early but potatoes cannot be distributed until danger of injury in transit by frost is over. No provision has been made for any general distribution of any other seeds than those named.

Letters may be sent to the Experimental Farm free of Postage.

WM. SAUNDERS.
Director Experimental Farms.

Religion in the Schools.

No wonder Premier Ross cannot see his way clear to granting the request of a deputation of clergymen to have two half hours a week set apart for the purpose of giving practical religious instruction in the public schools. It is not creditable to a Christian country that there is no religious instruction in the public schools, but until the various sects can agree on some system of teaching to which none will object the safest way is to steer clear of trouble by adhering to the present practice. There is enough bickering over religion elsewhere without having it invade the public schools.

"Welcome, Evil, If Thou Comest Alone."

One evil that cannot come alone is impure blood. If this is allowed, it is attended by kindred ailments galore. This condition means that every vein and artery of the body, instead of carrying to the organs a health-giving flow of life, is laden with a slow and impure fluid that is harming instead of healing.

It is unfortunate when there is "bad blood" inside of you. Hood's Sarsaparilla will not make enemies friends, but it will make "bad blood" good blood, and blood should be of the best quality. Hood's never disappoints.

Erysipelas—"Had a severe attack of erysipelas, suffering from dizziness and nervousness so that I could not rest at night. Tried Hood's Sarsaparilla with good results, and now recommend it to others." M. CHALMERS, Toronto, Ont.

Strength Builder—"Myself, wife and children have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla and it strengthened us. It relieved me of a lame back." DAVID McGEORGE, caretaker, Colt Institute, Galt, Ont.

Rheumatism—"I was badly afflicted with sciatic rheumatism. Consulted doctors without relief. Was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and five bottles gave me relief and enabled me to go to work." WILLIAM R. ROACH, Margaretville, N. S.

ELECTION OF ALDERMEN

To the Ratepayers

—OF THE—

TOWN OF PETERBORO.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I take this means of announcing my acceptance of the nomination tendered me for Alderman for the ensuing year.

If you think my ability to serve you warrants you in giving me your voluntary support at the polls, I shall, by a faithful discharge of the duties of Alderman, endeavor to justify your confidence.

Yours respectfully,
BENJ. SHORTLY.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having been nominated for the office of Alderman of the Town for the year 1901, I have decided to become a candidate and respectfully solicit your votes. I have been a resident of the Town for a great many years and have always taken an active interest in its affairs, and if elected will give my best attention to the duties of the office. It will be impossible for me to make a general canvass and I therefore take this opportunity of asking each of you for your support at the approaching elections.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year,
I remain, Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH BATTEN.

To The Electors of the Town of Peterborough

At the request of a number of influential citizens, who claimed that my long connection with municipal affairs in the Council and on the Town Trust Commission, fitted me for the responsible position of Mayor, I have accepted nomination for that office for the year 1901. If elected I shall give the best service I am capable of for the benefit and prosperity of the town.

There are a number of questions which will demand the attention of the Council during the next year. Among these are:

(1) Health and improved sanitary conditions, a cleaner town and pure water.

(2) The purchase of the water works and the public lighting, thus giving these franchises to the people who created value in them and to whom they properly and naturally belong, and supplying these necessities of life to the consumers, and for the town's use, at greatly reduced charges and at actual cost, which would be little more than half we now pay.

(3) The consummation of a union between Peterborough and Ashburnham on just and fair terms and with full and proper protection of the town's interests.

(4) Persistently and energetically seeking for and securing manufacturing industries to utilize our vast water power and in like proportion engage capital and labor.

I make no reflection on the Council for the past year. I believe they did the best the conditions permitted of and made a sincere effort in their premises. I would discountenance in any manner an attempt to steal industries from other towns, yet there is to my mind an increasing field in which the Council may operate. Our ability to furnish the power, the premises, the railway and other facilities, so vastly superior to those of any other city or town in the province, that with an aggressive policy on the part of the Council, particularly from the head of it, we should, and I believe we will, secure large additions to our present Industries. If to this our taxation of industries is placed on proper lines of encouragement to them, amongst others, so that the machinery shall as nearly as can be treated for assessment, as workman's tools, then we may confidently expect enlargement of the various manufactories now in operation and new works of first importance.

The above and kindred matters I shall enlarge upon at the public meeting in the opera house, Friday evening, at which I trust there will be a good attendance, for I shall not otherwise have an opportunity of laying my views before the electorate.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. MOORE.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE Town of Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—At the request of a large number of ratepayers of the town, I am a candidate for the position of Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1901. I have been a member of the Town Council for six years, and the experience I have gained in that time would, I believe, be of service to the town if I am elected. I believe in a progressive policy for the town, and for that reason a liberal policy with respect to manufacturing industries, so long as advancement may be obtained without any sacrifice of the interests of the ratepayers and I would endeavor to secure the best service on the streets and in other ways at as little cost as is consistant with good work.

I shall not be able to see you all personally, and I therefore in this way respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,

Dear Sirs,—In accordance with your wishes I have had both the red and white wines and the champagne tested by several connoisseurs, French and English. All of these expressed surprise that an article of such merit was produced in Canada, and even manufacturers admit that the brand "L'Empereur" is of excellent quality.

This opinion from critics who are by no means easy to please should be very satisfactory to you, and it gives me pleasure to congratulate you upon it. Yours faithfully,

EDITOR OF AFRICAN NEWSPAPER ARRESTED

Lord Kitchener Reports Delarey Compelled to Retreat After a Fight.

Cape Town, January 7

The editor of Ons-Land, the principal Afrikander newspaper here, has been arrested on the charge of seditious libel.

London, Jan. 7.—The situation in Cape Colony is developing very slowly. The Boers have not gained much from their inroad, and do not appear to be moving very rapidly on Cape Town. In fact it is probable that their path in that direction has now been barred, which may explain their deviation to the westward. This theory is further borne out by the statement that the British are establishing an advanced base at the Piquetburg road station, fifty miles due north of Cape Town, which seems to indicate that the campaign to be waged against the raiders will take place in this locality. It must again be emphasized that the Boer Invasion has not so far proved alarming. When it is pointed out that the enemy have not yet gained any success even a slight one—since they crossed the border, and that they have not been able to occupy any important position or town in the colony, being kept entirely in the open country and away from the railways, this statement is easily borne out. The quietus will be given to the invasion when Lord Kitchener has assembled a sufficiently large force of mounted men to cope with it. The Boers are fighting hopelessly, for all their efforts have not the slightest effect except to exhaust themselves and bring the cessation of hostilities nearer

KITCHENER REPORTS FIGHTING.

London, Jan. 7.—Reporting to the War Office, under date of January 6, Lord Kitchener says:

"Yesterday, Babington engaged Delarey's and Steenkamp's commandoes at Naauwpoort. The enemy was forced to retire to the northwest. Our casualties have not yet been received, but are reported slack. A Boer doctor admitted that twenty Boers were killed or wounded. Commandant Duprez was taken prisoner.

"It appears from reports of the wounded who have arrived at Heilbron that a detachment 120 strong belonging to Knox's command came into contact with a superior force near Lindley. I regret to say that Lieut. Lang, two other officers and fifteen men were killed, and two officers and twenty men wounded. No details have come from Knox of this action."

The Naauwpoort mentioned in Gen. Kitchener's despatch must not be confounded with Naauwpoort Junction, Cape Colony. There are several Naauwpoorts. Possibly the scene of the fight is Naauwpoort on the railroad between Potchefstroom, and Fredekstad, Transvaal.

MORE MEN ARE WANTED.

London, Jan. 7.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Times, who confirms the reports of the multiplicity of the Boer commandoes, says:

"Nearly five-sixths of the British troops are employed to guard the lines of communication and to garrison towns, leaving a very small number partly unmounted, to pursue the enemy. Largle reinforcements are advisable, and these would be cheaper in the end.

"The damage which the Boers did to the Kleinfontein mines is officially estimated at £210,000."

BE READY FOR THE UNEXPECTED.

London, Jan. 7.—In a letter to the Times this morning, the Earl of Dunraven, emphasizing the "very grave situation in South Africa," warns the country to distrust the opinions of experts on the spot, and to be ready for the unexpected. He complains of the "inertia of the authorities," and urges the necessity of large reinforcements.

NO GROUND FOR PESSIMISM.

London, Jan. 7.—The depressing weather in which the new century opened has affected the Englishman's mental horizon. You cannot expect a cheerfulness from a man with a bad cold in his head, and most of this week's newspaper surveys of affairs in South Africa and China have been gloomy enough in all conscience. It has been a common thing to hear responsible men talk like this: "Well, we've had fifteen months of hard fighting; 11,500 brave soldiers and 800 officers have sacrificed their lives, our military forces are reduced by 15,000 on account of the war in South Africa, and we are today as far from the end as ever; South Africa is still seething with discontent, and warfare is open or only half concealed."

But the facts, as known in well-posted quarters, warrant no such pessimism. It is still true to say that the war is virtually over. It needs only a small body of the most mobile force in the world, such as De Wet's men, operating in their own vast and well-known country, to annoy even such a well-seasoned army as Lord Kitchener's 200,000, but responsible military authorities here refuse to believe in the Boers' power to imperil the permanence of the British victory, while Sir Alfred Milner and those who, throughout the crisis, have earned the right to be accepted as judges, say that there is less danger than before of any serious rising of the Cape Dutch. Lord Kitchener is being supplied with the additional mounted men he desires, just such alert horsemen as Canada has furnished in Strathcona's corp from the ranch lands and the prairie. The English cavalry will be made as mobile as possible by reducing a horse's load on the march, which even now averages 266 pounds. Pack animals or carts are being used to carry the discarded impediment, and with these and similar minor measures to be taken the war will not, responsible authorities here believe, outlast the spring.

ROBERTS IS MODEST.

Lord Roberts has comported himself with the modesty of the true soldier since his return, and to-day's official announcements indicate the earnestness with which he is setting about the task which he himself defines as "making the British army as perfect as it can be made." The public learns to-day the exact scope and purpose of the committee of business men and practical soldiers who are to overhaul the whole machinery of the War Office, and, in the phrasing of their official instructions, to suggest how its work may be brought more into harmony with that of large business undertakings. This is exactly what the nation desires. It remains to be seen, whether Mr. Brodrick, the new Secretary for War, and Lord Roberts, as Commander-in-Chief, will be strong enough to resist the enormous social and military influences arrayed against any effective reform. Mr. Brodrick, it must be said, is beginning as though he really meant business—that is to say, as if he meant to apply to army reconstruction the principles of common sense trained to business methods.

FAMILY OF FIVE CONSUMED BY FIRE

A Catastrophe of a Pathetic Nature Near Lewiston, N. Y.

Buffalo, Jan. 7—A special to the Times from Lewiston, N.Y., says,—

A terrible accident, resulting in the death of an entire family named Taylor, occurred at an early hour this morning at Model City, a settlement three miles east of this village.

The family consisted of Edward H. Taylor, his wife and three small children. The eldest was a girl five years old, and the second was a girl about three and the youngest was a boy baby.

Flames were discovered issuing from the house by Clifford Nichols, a neighbor. He gave an alarm and neighbors rushed to the scene. Ladders were procured and an entrance was effected to the upper story. Seeing and hearing nothing of the family it was supposed they had escaped.

The flames were so fierce that the would-be rescuers were forced to make hurried exits.

Investigation later showed that the entire family had perished in the house. It is supposed they were overcome by smoke and suffocated in bed.

Search is being prosecuted for the bodies of the victims. The remains of the oldest girl were found just before this despatch was sent. The fire originated, it is thought, from dumping ashes in a barrel in the rear of the house. The dead man was employed by the Erie Preserving Company.

THE EMPRESS MAKES OBJECTION

Finds Fault With the Leading Clauses in the Treaty.

London, Jan. 7—This week's new and startling development of the China problem has left English public opinion very little moved. Dr. Morrison's announcement in the Times of the Russo-Chinese agreement is generally accepted as tantamount to the establishment of a complete Russian protectorate over the southern province of Manchuria. "Yes," says the typical Englishman, "that is just what we all expected; is it not?" He also accepts the agreement as contrary to the declared policy of the European concert, and especially contrary to the spirit of the Anglo-German agreement. If pressed, the type of Englishman now in predominance in political life will tell you this also was what he expected. Russia, he will tell you, is an adept at breaking pledges. She never really meant to preserve Chinese integrity, and England, having failed, in Mr. Chamberlain's choice phrase, to use a long spoon when supping with the devil, gets no soup.

MINISTERIAL VIEW.

This is probably the view of the Ministry here. It certainly is the view of the dominant Toryism, but that is about as far as public opinion goes. No one listens seriously to the few who would stir up an anti-Russian agitation. The sanest, and, I believe, the most widely held view of England's exact position is expressed thus in the Westminster Gazette,—"We know perfectly well that the integrity formula to which, as used of China, Russia is definitely pledged on paper, is only a diplomatic fiction. Russia is already established at Port Arthur, while her designs on Manchuria, if not openly avowed, have none the less been notorious. The Chinese attack on the Russians, a proceeding altogether distinct from the attack on the legations, gives Russia a grievance over and above that possessed by her in common with all the other powers. She utilizes this grievance, personal to herself, to earmark Manchuria as practically Russian. Our wisest course, in the circumstances, since Asia is not the only continent, is not to put the Russian treaties with China into a parallel with the Russian general avowals, but rather to find out if we are in fact prejudiced by what Russia has done."

INTERESTS NOT PREJUDICED.

And in view of her commitment in South Africa England is quite ready to find that her interests are not prejudiced. The British Government is expected to seek explanations from St. Petersburg, as the German and United States Governments are expected to do, but no one seriously supposes that Russia will not have her way in Manchuria. Germany, again, is not expected to attempt to balk Russia. Rather will she turn the Russian move to her own advantage, if indeed she had not, as some believe, provided for this contingency in an agreement with Russia, before she put her signature to the Anglo-German agreement. England, in a word, has more pressing work elsewhere than in China, and Russia and Germany know it. The one uncertain factor is China herself. If partition is again to be the game, Europe may thereby hastened towards that organized outbreak of Chinese hatred which Sir Robert Hart has foretold. I heard one well-informed Chinese authority declare the other day that he fully expected to add a medal to those already on his well-covered breast, for operations in the Yang Tse valley in 1901.

EMPRESS OBJECTS.

Pekin, Jan. 6—The Empress Dowager of China has objected to the portions of the proposed treaty which (1) demand the razing of the Pekin forts, (2) the establishment of permanent foreign military posts between Pekin and the sea, (3) the Legation guards at Pekin, (4) the prohibition of further importation of arms into China.

A Double shooting

Bethlehem, January 8.—Crazed by liquor, Ezra W. Ache, a cigar-maker, shot his wife to-day and then turned the weapon on himself, inflicting a fatal wound in his abdomen.

Ache, who twenty-years ago was a base ball pitcher of some reputation, had been drinking heavily, since Christmas

Although Mrs. Ache was shot twice, her recovery is assured. Her husband will die. The couple had been married twenty-five years.

SENSATIONAL SERMON

Rev. Mr. Shearer, of Cobourg Makes

SENSATION AT COBOURG

A Cobourg Minister Makes Some Startling Statements.

Hundreds of people were turned away from the Congregational Church, Cobourg, on Sunday night, when the pastor, Rev. Melville Shaver, spoke of "Wrongs in Cobourg which must be made right." The pulpit was covered with bottles of beer, whiskey, cigarettes, cigars and tobacco, which had been purchased at local hotels and stores by small boys. The preacher delivered a sensational address, in which he denounced the laxity of the License Inspector and declared that liquor was sold after hours and on Sunday at every hotel in town. He also denounced the local shooting gallery as an improper resort for young men, and declared that gambling was rampant and on the increase. He gave notice that on the following day 27 charges of infraction of the liquor law would be laid before the Police Magistrate, the proprietor of the shooting gallery would be prosecuted and other charges laid. The hotel men are almost panic stricken as a result of the disclosures. Mr. Shaver referred to the local police as "kidnappers," and urged them to do their duty.

TAKES AND RESTORS LIFE

Experiment of a Chicago Electrician at St. Joseph, Mo.

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 8.—At an experiment in a telephone office in this city to-day it was demonstrated that life taken by electricity can be restored by the same power.

N. Schellinger, an electrician of Chicago, in the presence of a number of persons interested in the progress of science, electrocuted a cat. When the heart of the feline had long cased to beat, the reversed current and the shock restored the heart beats faintly at first, but growing in strength until finally the cat was released and was as playful and frisky as it had even been, none the worse for its electrocution.

To all intents and purposes the cat was dead a few seconds after the current was first turned on. Two hours later, when the current had been reversed. It was a very much live cat, ready for a mouse or midnight promenade. Tesla has conducted experiments on the same line, but the period of suspended animation was never so long in the cases he treated.

HINTS AT WAR

U. S. Senator Hawley Refers to Danger of a Conflict with European Powers.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—During the discussion of the army bill in the Senate to-day Senator Hawley hinted at the probability of a war between the United States and some European power.

He said the necessity for an adequate army was evident to all. He continued.

"We are not out of sight of possibility of war with some European power. We do not know. They are in a great deal of trouble there, and I understand they look with great jealousy upon our talk of a Danish island and our talk about annexing other territory."

He said all that is possible is being done to win the hearts of the Filipinos, but that with some of them progress is necessarily slow because of the past experience of the people with their rulers. He said the Senate Military committee was unanimously of the opinion that a strong army should be kept in the Philippines.

FRANCE MAY TAKE CHINA

Negotiations in Progress Between England and France May Result in Compromise Over the Long Standing Controversy Over the Newfoundland Fisheries.

Paris, Jan. 7.—The announcement that a treaty renewing the modus vivendi between France and Great Britain over the disputed shore of Newfoundland is inexact. The modus vivendi expired last week. A Foreign office attache, who is in a position to know, said to-night that negotiations were in progress between the two by which Great Britain offers to cede to France the territory of Gambia, in west Africa, in exchange for the French shore rights in Newfoundland. Gambia is a valuable piece of territory, and, although held by Great Britain, is entirely surrounded by French territory, and its cession to France in exchange for the Newfoundland dispute might be advantageous to both powers.

PARLIAMENT MUST CONSENT.

It is pointed out, however, that no treaty giving or taking territory can be effective until ratified by Parliament, and if there is any truth in the reported negotiations it must of necessity become public in a short time.

The Paris newspapers almost unanimously oppose the proposition that France shall exchange the shore rights in Newfoundland for a piece of west African territory. They insist that the transfer of the territory would almost certainly be followed by a revolt of the natives.

LOUBET TO VISIT VICTORIA.

The official announcement that Queen Victoria will visit Clemiz, in the early spring, is received with gratification in official circles as an indication that English resentment over the gross caricatures of the Queen printed by the boulevard press during the early period of the Boer war has passed away. President Loubet to-day telegraphed to Osborne asking permission to pay his respects to the Queen as she passes through Nice, and expressing the hope that the existing friendly relations between France and Great Britain would never be broken."

The French gunboat Menhir collided with the torpedo cruiser Fleurus in the bay at Brest this morning. The torpedo boat was badly injured, but no lives were lost.

ENGLAND'S NAVY MASTODONS

Preparations for a Batch of Eighteen Thousand-Ton Battle-ship.

London, Jan. 8.—Plans are now being prepared for a new batch of first-class battleships that will out-Herod Herod in the matter of size. Hitherto we have kept our monsters of the deep down to 15,000 tons, as compared with 12,000 tons odd in the French, German, Russian and United States navies. But France in her latest ships is going to 15,000 tons, and has talked of 18,000. The United States, which was once a partisan of "moderate dimensions," has gone up to 15,000 for her latest ships. On that displacement both nations have got more guns and armor than British designs provide. In order not to be behind, and still to preserve various heavy fads deemed essential for British ships, our Admiralty have decided to put on weight, and the new battleships, Queen and Prince of Wales, will be of 18,000 tons displacement.

The armament is not yet definitely settled, but it will consist of 4 twelve-inch, Mark IX., and probably 8 7.5-inch, 10 six-inch, and twenty or more three-inch, (12-pounders.) The 7.5 is a new gun of which a good deal has been heard for some time, though it has not hitherto appeared afloat. It used to be known as the 7 3-4-inch, its calibre being 7.7-inch. Its adoption now is of a somewhat half-hearted nature Objections have been raised against it on the score of the weight of its projectile, 200 pounds which is rather heavy for manual use. The recent vast improvements in armor—six inches of Krupp armor are equal to a foot of Harvey steel armor, or eighteen inches of iron—have, however, rendered absolutely necessary a more powerful weapon than the convenient 100-pounder six inch. Two years ago it was practically decided to mount the 7.5 inch gun in all new ships, but for some unaccountable reason the decision hung fire.

A feature of the new ships is that, owing to their enormous bulk, they will, it is hoped, risk only comparatively small inconvenience from a torpedo. As that weapon can now be fired with accuracy at ranges of a mile or more, the torpedo is a far more important weapon than it was four or five years ago. Submarines, too, are helping to make the torpedo a serious rival to the gun. Some measure of salvation lies in bulk, for the bigger the ship the more easily can systems of water-tight compartments be amplified.

NEW MATRIMONIAL SWINDLE

Agency Woman Becomes Engaged to Many Men to secure Presents.

Milwaukee, Jan. 8.—Charles Bach and Emma Bucher, who have many aliases, were arrested yesterday charged with working a new form of the matrimonial agency swindle.

Whenever one of their advertisements was answered by a man, Miss Bucher corresponded with him and became engaged to him if she thought anything was to be gained, and later dropped him after getting all the money or jewelry he could be induced to part with. Bech, it is charged, dealt similary with women correspondents.

In this way the Bucher woman became the fiancee of a great number of men. The police have the names of three who will appear against her.

A young fellow from a farm in Michigan gave the woman a diamond ring. The engagement was broken, and she gave him back a paste gem worth 25 cents.

POISONED BY PORK.

Two of Family Dead, and Ten Others Fatally Ill.

St Paul, Minn. 8.—In the Town of New Sweeden, Nicollet County, this State, the entire Forbecook family, consisting of twelve members, is dying off one by one from trichinosis. The family ate sausage which had undergone no cooking, but had merely been smoked. The father and eldest daughter are dead and the condition of the others is pronounced absolutely hopeless. The daughter died on Saturday last and the father followed her Monday. Physicians attending the surviving members of the family are without hope. The victims have been ill for two weeks. A physician summoned from Nicollet at the time they were first stricken believed it to be contagious disease and had the house quarantined. This state of affairs lasted ten days. Then the neighbors interested themselves and notified other doctors and the State Board of health, and additional help was secured.

FLED FROM THE BOXERS

Tale of a Long Flight of Missionaries Through Mongolia to Siberia.

New York, Jan. 8.—Mr. Rodgers, secretary and treasurer of the Albany City Tract & Missionary Society, was at the pier when the New York arrived this morning to meet his daughter, Mary, who is the wife of Frans August Larsen, a missionary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, who was also on the steamer.

Mr. Larsen, who was born in Stockholm and has never been in America, has spent the last eight years in China and Mongolia. He was stationed at Kalgan, from which city his family and 21 other missionary families escaped on the morning of June 11th, just a day or so prior to the massacres perpetrated by the Boxers. The Larsens have two little girls, which were born at Kalgan, on the borders of Mongolia and China and just inside of the Great Wall.

"My husband had been requested by the British vice consul, Mr. Campbell, to organize and conduct an exploring expedition into the interior of Mongolia," said Mrs. Larsen. "With that object in view Mr. Larsen bought a herd of carefully selected horses and camels for so ardous an expedition. It is to the prime condition of the animals that my husband and children and myself and others, who escaped from the Boxers at Kalgan, owe our lives.

"Consul Campbell's expedition had to be abandoned on account of the uprising of the Boxers and it was a providential condition of affairs which permitted us to take the camels and horses which had been intended for that expedition to effect our escape. Had the animals been of a poorer condition they could not have stood the two-month journey and we should have perished.

"The men rode on the camels and horses; the women and children were carried in camel carts. We started from Kalgan very quietly and very early in the morning and rode into Mongolia where about 50 miles from Kalgan we encamped near some Mongolian huts to make more extensive preparations for our long journey of two months. The natives of the village were friendly to us, as we had done some missionary work there and they sold us some more camels. We remained there a few days but, at the request of the mandarin, who was fearful of losing his head if he permitted us to remain, we renewed our flight.

"From Kalgan, which is a large city through which immense caravans, consisting of thousands of camels, heavily laden with tea for the Russian markets, annualy pass, we proceeded by way of the village I have mentioned to Kiatohka in Siberia, a journey which occupied two months. From Kiatohka we took the trans-Siberian Railroad to St. Petersburg."

A GRAND ENTERTAINMENT

What is Said of the Music of the Highlanders Band, the Male Choir and the Scottish Dancing.

The 48th Highlanders band and its male choir, which appear at the Opera House here on Monday, January 14th, gave a concert two weeks ago in Massey Hall, Toronto, after a month's tour in the States. Here is what the World says of the concert:—

"The regimental band of the 48th Highlanders returned to the city on Saturday after a month's successful tour of many of the larger cities in the centre and middle States, where, from all accounts, their advent created quite a furore. Clad in the garb which has caused an admiring U. S. critic to declare it to be "the most picturesque band in America," they, on Saturday evening, gave a most enjoyable and largely attended concert in Massey Hall. Never before has Bandmaster Slatter's organization been heard to better advantage, and the numerous encores were well deserved. The selections throughout were well chosen, and included, among others, a fine arrangement of well known Scotch melodies, Meyerbeer's "La Benediction des Poignards," and a musical travesty, entitled "The Serenade," a portion of which is whistled to band accompaniment with fine effect. The band choir of 14 members made a big hit with "Scots Wha Hae," and had to follow it up with "Dixie" and "Annie Laurie," in which they were equally pleasing. Pipe-Sergeant Johnston's dancing of the Highland fling, sword dance and sailor's hornpipe was decidedly smart, and were loudly applauded, as were also Pipe-Major Beaton's bagpipe selections."

Don't miss this event, which has been placed at a popular price. Admission 50 cents, and all may reserve seats. Gallery, 25 cents. Plan open on Thursday next.

FRANCE MOBILIZES FLEET

Squadrons Ordered to Assemble at Toulon January 15

Paris, Jan. 8.—The Minister of Marine, M. de Lanessan, issued unexpected orders for the mobilization of the entire Mediterranean fleet at Toulon on Tuesday, Jan. 15. The order includes torpedo boats and auxiliaries.

The mobilization order is not understood in Paris, as it cannot be connected with the regular annual maneuvers, which do not take place until midsummer.

It is generally believed, however, that M. de Lanessan desires to exhibit the resources of the navy and its ability to mobilize at a rendezvous within a given time. Under M. de Lanessan's administration many reforms have been instituted, and he has for some time been desirous of testing the naval staff.

The quarrel between Cardinal Richard and Primier Waldeck-Rousseau is rapidly approaching a crisis. A delegation of prominent French Catholics will leave tomorrow for Rome to confer with the Pope over the situation. The Pope will be urged to adopt vigorous measures, and some of the delegates will demand the excommunication of certain members of the Cabinet. The Premier's proposal for the enactment of a law against all religious orders in France is at the base of the quarrel.

WANT TO ENLIST.

Local Men Want to Join the Troops in South Africa

Lt.-Col. Edwards, has received several applications from young men this section applying for enlistment in the Transvaal Police Force. He has been in communication with the D.O.C., in reference to the matter and has received the following reply:

"As soon as definite instructions have been received, the Militia Order respecting enlistment in Transvaal Police will be published for the guidance of those desirous of serving."

Lt.-Col. Edwards has received word from Toronto to the effect that there is no room in either of the military schools in Toronto or London for any desiring a course at these places of instruction.

A LARGE VOTE POLLED

List of Aldermen for the First Year Of the Century.

Mr. Moore has no Reason to Feel Ashamed of the Result—A Short and Sharp Contest for the Civic Seat.

The municipal election passed off very quietly yesterday, there being little excitement. There was a large vote polled, notwithstanding that few rigs were out. Candidates for aldermen in many cases did not even attend the polls, and contented themselves simply with depositing their ballots and coming away. The following is the result:

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 8, 1901

BRITISH OR BOER—WHICH?

The alarming news received in Great Britain of the invasion of Cape Colony by over 5,000 Boers, adds gloom to the already depressed feeling of the nation regarding the South African war. It must be obvious that the Boer military element is very much alive; also, that a spirit of disloyalty infects the western part of Cape Colony where the Dutch mostly predominate. The London Mail's Cape Town correspondent asserts that not more than 30 per cent. of these colonials are "loyal." In the eastern portion of the Colony, the preponderance is decidedly of the British type. The same correspondent asserts "to-days telegrams promise a splendid response to the call to arms of the farmers to withstand the invading Boers." The Cape Town correspondent of the London Times describes the situation in Cape Colony as "gloomy," and adds that this feeling is felt more keenly than at the beginning of 1900. The same correspondent "complains of the inertia and reticence of the authorities," civil, we presume.

Taking the situation generally in connection with these ugly reports, we have to face the alarming fact that Civil War now prevails in Cape Colony, the western portion being preponderately in favor of the Boers, while the eastern portion declares for British connection. The loyal colonials, with the assistance of the British army of protection, have now to enter the field as belligerents in order to protect their own homes from the ravages of the Boer commandoes. Hitherto, the colonials have been too supine, leaning almost exclusively on the British arm, and looking on to a great degree with comparative listlessness. The advance of the Boers in large numbers in their midst will have the effect of rousing the Cape colonials to the gravity of the situation generally; they have to decide, and that, too, quickly, which side they will take in earnest; if the side of British connection they must be up and doing with "Hearts resolved, and hands prepared,

The blessings they enjoy to guard."

As the Highlander observed:—"This is no time for whistling." The Boer commandos who have so daringly penetrated Cape Colony in both the western and eastern portions expect to equip themselves by taking from the enemy, what guns, rifles and ammunition they can seize, and all the horses and food supplies that the farms can afford. The very burghers themselves—loyal or disloyal—will also be commandeered into the ranks, and thus De Wet, Botha and the other leaders will be able to commence operations anew with fresh ardor and abundant supplies, leaving to the north their comrades to carry on their guerilla operations at different points.

In order to meet this altered condition of affairs, the commanding British general, Lord Kitchener, has poured troops into the disturbed districts, but, says the Cape Colony correspondent, "the fugitive tactics of the Boer leaders have to a large extent neutralized his precautions." Of course, this cannot be helped, and the changed conditions will have to be fought out by a combination of British regulars in conjunction with levis of the loyal colonists themselves. To this end, then, the loyal colonials have been called to arms by the government of Cape Colony, which has ordered out the loyalists in twenty-seven districts in Cape Colony, inclusive of Cape Town itself, "to assist the military to repel invasion by the formation of a paid defence force." The following is the text of this colonial call on its own citizens:—

"Owing to the fact that armed forces of the enemy have penetrated south of Carnarvon in the west and south of Middleburg eastward, it is necessary to repel this invasion promptly, and the Government calls upon loyal inhabitants to aid the military in this duty by the formation of a colonial force, for the sole and exclusive purpose of repelling invasion, guarding lines of communication, and maintaining them in the districts."

This acceptable, though tardy, action of the colonial government of Cape Colony brings the loyal colonials face to face with the Boers in arms or non-combatants. The burghers must now decide, and that, too, quickly, under which banner they will enlist. The situation is a momentous one for the Cape colonists, and notwithstanding ominous reports spread by evil persons, there can be little doubt that the loyal colonials will rally to the support of British institutions rather than submit to Boer tyranny, of which ex-President Kruger is still the head. The colonial call to arms is thus encouraged by the Cape Colony officials:—

"Volunteers should enroll with the civil commissioners in their respective districts. They will be paid five shillings per day, with rations, forage, arms, and horses. The term of service is not expected to exceed three months. This notice specially applies to the districts named in it, but other districts may assist. Enlisting will begin Thursday."

The Cape Colony Government having at length acted as if it was its desire to finish up the war with the assistance of General Lord Kitchener and his forces, the prospects for a complete collapse of the Boer movement in Cape Colony are bright. The fighting in the western portion were the Dutch sympathisers are powerful may be keen, but the result cannot be doubted. The Boers' defeat in Cape Colony will then be the signal for a crumbling up of Krugerism in South Africa generally. Defeated in Cape Colony, General Kitchener's forces could not be withdrawn to the north to pursue the trekking Boers in other directions, leaving the peace of Cape Colony as a whole to be cared for by the loyal colonials themselves. Possibly, the new invasion of Cape Colony by the Boers may ultimately turn out the best thing looking towards a general settlement and a finishing up of the war. The Government of Cape Colony sees the necessity for peace in order that the usual avocation of the people may recommence undisturbed by fears of Boer invasions in the future. Had Cape Colony wavered at this crisis, all the endeavors of the British army would have been ineffectual to stay the final Boer triumph. Thus, then, the practical question before the Cape Colonists—British or Boer—which? will be answered in the affirmative.

He Loves Me—?

The dainty flower oracle may tell her true or false, but some day the prince will come and she'll dream the dear dream of home life and motherhood. In that dream she will see herself always happy, always with a smile for the husband and a kiss for the baby. What a pity to wake from such a dream,—to almost loathe her husband and hate her child, because cruel pain has blighted her body and warped her mind. How many a woman has had this sad awakening from her dreams of home and love! There's help and healing for every woman who suffers from womanly diseases, caused by girlish ignorance, wifely neglect or the strain of maternity. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It heals diseases of the delicate organs, practically does away with the pains of maternity and gives the nursing mother vigor and vitality.

"Two years ago," writes Mrs. Kattie Auliker, of 754 Pat Street, Alliance, Ohio, "I used two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and in April a nice baby was born, before the doctor came. I was not very sick. Baby is now fourteen months old and weighs 30 pounds. Before commencing Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I had to vomit every day but after I got the medicine, from the first spoonful that I took, I stopped vomiting. It is a God send for women."

When a laxative is needed use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets with "Favorite Prescription."

Confession of Crime By Hypnotism.

Public interest has been aroused recently on this question by the exortion of a confession from a thief by means of hypnotism.

A confession of crime obtained in this way may or may not be a valid one. It is not necessarily infallible, any more than a voluntary confession would be. It would have to be verified by other evidence before it could be seriously considered.

Hypnotism will not make a liar instantaneously veracious. It is a very common opinion that a hypnotist can completely capture the mind of his patient without his consent, and discover all the secrets of his past life.

Hypnotism only gives us a means whereby we can the more readily get at the divine man within. It is not so much a key to the door of a man's mind as a more effectual way of ringing the door-bell and conversing with the occupant.

Generally speaking, a strong-willed man may still keep his criminal secret in spite of all influences, hypnotic or otherwise. As a rule criminals are very hard to hypnotize, because they set their whole nature against the hypnotist, and when a man is under the influence of liquor it is impossible to do anything with him.

There is no doubt that hypnotism can and will be used to detect crime. But we are only on the threshold of knowledge in this direction, and no one can set limits to the future of hypnotism in overcoming the obstinacy of criminals. The time may come when the old, ineffectual methods of regenerating the moral nature will be superseded by hypnotic treatment. The astonishing results already attained prove this beyond question.

By hypnotism we can reach people who are moral imbeciles, and by no other power known to man can you do this.

We can discover the sense of right and wrong where none seemed to exist. We can overcome evil habits and awaken the higher self which never completely dies in any man or woman.

Where every other influence has failed to restore a man to moral sanity, hypnotism has succeeded. So I would say that if it fails to extract a confession from a criminal no other means can be used with success.

There is such a thing as compulsory hypnotism, which can be applied to any person without his consent. It is possible to shatter a human will as you might break a china vase against a rock. But this is a new and almost undeveloped field, about which little can be said at present.

Everybody reads the Times.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses" sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a large case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who want it. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. [illegible] Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

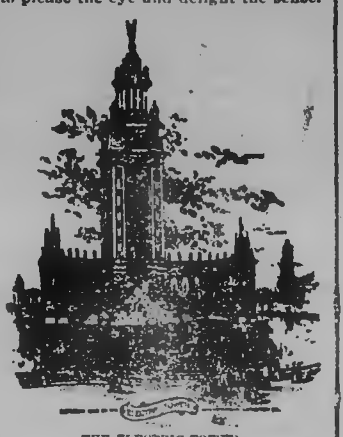
BRILLIANT IN COLORS

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION WILL GLOW WITH WONDERFUL RADIANCE.

Electrical Illuminations and Other Features in Which Buffalo's Fair Will Excel All Former Enterprises of This Description.

Even the Buffalonian cannot comprehend the exquisite character of the great Exposition he is building. Is it any wonder, then, that the distant native still asks what it is to be? Indeed it is to be everything that is graceful, harmonious and beautiful. Form and color will join their wonderful forces to please the eye and delight the sense.



THE ELECTRIC TOWER.

"Magnificent" is not too strong a word to express the character of the completed work. He is a man of dull imagination who, now visiting the grounds, cannot picture in some degree the comeliness and stateliness of the finished enterprise.

The Pan-American Exposition is intended to be in every way an artistic triumph. From the very beginning it has been the purpose of those who have been intrusted with the making of this Exposition to present to the world the most artistic creation ever conceived for a like purpose. The arrangement of the buildings, the style of architecture, the decorative work, the embellishment of the grounds and the electrical illumination are some of the features that will stand out prominently in the Exposition picture. There are 33 acres in the courts around which stand the principal Exposition buildings. While the whole Exposition plot of 350 acres will be as beautiful as nature, with the artistic help of man, can make it, the several courts will be the particular center for formal decorative work. The courts are arranged in the form of a cross, the north and south courts bearing the names of Court of Fountains, Plaza, Fore Court and Approach and being nearly 3,000 feet in extreme length. The Transverse Court is known as the Esplanade and is 1,700 feet from east to west. Two subordinate courts open into the Esplanade, known as the Court of Lilies and Court of Cypresses. The combined area of these courts is approximately two and a half times the area of the courts at the World's Columbian Exposition and for this reason gives a far greater opportunity for artistic treatment.

It has been said of this Exposition that it would outrival all former enterprises in a number of important features. The first of these is in the court settings just described. The second is in the plastic ornamentation of buildings and the elaborate use of sculpture for decorative purposes. As a third may be mentioned the hydraulic and fountain effects. These are of a most elaborate character and are to be seen in all of the courts. A fourth feature is the horticultural decorative work. Sunken gardens and formal floral ornamentation will be employed at every point where the bright colors of foliage and flowers will add to the beauty of the scene. As a fifth feature may be noted the color decoration of the buildings. This is a very elaborate undertaking, the result of mature study upon the part of the best mural painters of the world. Considered a very difficult, if not embarrassing, problem at first, it has been worked out by patient study until results very pleasing and happy have been achieved. A sixth point of excellence will be the electrical illumination of all the courts. Then the brilliance of the gardens and the radiant beauty of the buildings will be heightened by the glow of 200,000 electric lamps arranged with artistic conception and illuminating with fantastic hues the numberless fountains and pools and turning the scene into one of unrivaled splendor.

The style of architecture is what is described as a free adaptation of the Spanish renaissance. It is particularly appropriate for the purposes of an Exposition since it gives opportunity for the employment of many architectural features of a festive character. Thus the visitor may see many lofty towers and lanterns, graceful domes and minarets, airy pavilions and other decorative work that will produce a sky line free from any suggestions of monotony or severity.

The Electric Tower, standing in a broad pool between the Court of Fountains and the Plaza, is to be the centerpiece for electrical illumination. This tower is 80 feet square and 375 feet high, with circular wings curving from the east and west sides to the southward and forming a semicircular space in which are to be many beautiful fountain features. From the southern face of the Tower a cascade will gush from a niche, 70 feet from the ground, and fall upon a terraced base. At night this cascade and the fountains and pools will be illuminated in fantastic colors. Floating lights upon all the pools will form an interesting feature of the general scheme of illumination.

Some 50 or more American sculptors of renown are at work upon the decorative groups which are to have a place at this Exposition. These are to be nearly all original productions under the master direction of Karl Bitter. It will be the most elaborate use of decorative sculpture ever undertaken at an Exposition, there being more than 125 groups. These will adorn the fountains, bridges, entrances to buildings and other salient points.

Besides the pools and fountains, within the several courts will be a grand and stately canal which will surround the entire group of buildings. In the southern reaches of this canal are artificial bodies of water known as the Mirror Lakes, from which lagoons extend in several directions, thickly set with aquatic plants of rare species.

In addition to the sunken gardens and other floral features of the courts will be the horticultural exhibits in the southern part of the grounds. These will consist of several acres of beds of the finest productions of the best nurseries and greenhouses of the western world. The competition for supremacy will be very keen and the lover of flowers will have a rare opportunity to make a comparison of the merits of the productions of competing growers.

MARK BENNITT.

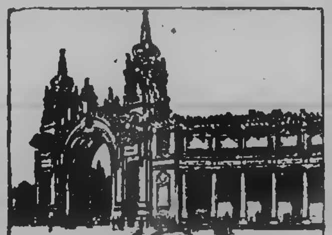
BAY STATE AT BUFFALO.

Fine Historical Exhibit Will Be Made by Massachusetts.

The historic commonwealth of Massachusetts will have a most interesting exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo.

It is being collected through the cooperation of various societies, such as the Sons of the Revolution, Daughters of the Revolution, Sons of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Society of the War of 1812 and kindred organizations. The chairman of the Massachusetts Pan-American commission, Mr. Walter Gilman Page, is a leading spirit in these societies and is anxious that the wealth of historic material possessed by Massachusetts should be adequately represented at the Pan-American Exposition.

The matter of a building has not yet been definitely decided, but it is probable that the old Providence House, which was one of the historic buildings of Boston, will be reproduced as a home for Massachusetts exhibits at the Exposition in Buffalo. This building was typical in its style of the old fashioned Boston architecture and, in addition, possessed a special interest from its historic associations. It formerly stood on the Washington street end of Providence court, partly on the site of what is now Clark's Tavern.



THE PROPYLÆA.

One of the members of the Massachusetts commission to the Paris Exposition, who recently returned from the French fair, secured there about 450 valuable exhibits, which will be transferred to the Pan-American at Buffalo. Ex-Mayor Frederick Fosdick of Fitchburg and City Treasurer E. T. Tifft of Springfield returned recently from a visit of a few days in Buffalo very enthusiastic over the prospects for the success of the Exposition and are anxious to have the good old Bay State well represented there.

Buildings Going Up.

The magnificent buildings which are to house the exhibits of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo next summer are fast progressing toward completion and will soon be ready for the collections which are on the way from all quarters of the American continent. The scene upon the grounds of the Exposition, in the northern part of the city, including part of the famous Delaware Park, is a busy one, and every day sees some definite progress made in the construction work. Conditions have been very favorable to rapid work, and the Pan-American Exposition bids fair to break the record in the matter of swift construction of Exposition buildings and their entire completion before the time arrives to open the gates to the general public.

Connecticut at Pan-American.

The state of Connecticut is getting together a large display that will represent her farm, fruit and dairy interests at the Pan-American Exposition next year. Benjamin H. Lee of Hartford is the commissioner in charge of the work, and he is assisted by a committee composed of N. S. Platt, chairman, New Haven; Professor C. S. Phelps, secretary, agricultural station, Storrs; J. A. Dubon, Poquonock; Professor A. G. Gulley, Agricultural college, Storrs; E. H. Jenkins, agricultural station, New Haven; J. B. Noble, dairy commissioner, Hartford; B. C. Patterson, master of state grange, Torrington.

The Government's Building.

The Government buildings at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo are being built by Rasmussen & Strehlow of Omaha. The contract calls for a group of three buildings connected by curved arcades. The main structure is to be 400 by 130 feet with a dome 250 feet high, and the smaller buildings each 150 feet square. All departments of the government will make up to date exhibits, which [illegible] the Government [illegible] collecting and [illegible]

Postal Information.

The postoffice department of Canada has issued a circular, giving a good deal of information. From it it is learned that the words "post card" need not be written on private post cards. The postage rate to the Orange River Colony, the Transvaal and New Zealand is now two cents per half ounce.

Queer Express Parcel.

An interesting express "parcel" went through on the Dominion Express lately. It consisted of a couple of pussy cats were sent from Port Hope. The express charges were just $6. They have no cats up in Assiniboia, and settlers going up there didn't realize what a valuable household "article" a cat is until they got up there. They have rats and mice galore. So they had to send back to their old homes to get a couple.

A New Coal Company

Mr J. H. McClellan, of the People's Coal Co., has organized in Ottawa, under the name of "the Continental Coal Co." There is a strong combination of coal men in the capital, and Mr McClellan has entered the fight, which will mean the death blow of the monopoly. The People's Coal is regarded by many as the best for domestic purposes as well as for heating purposes, there being no clinkers whatever from the coal. If Mr. McClellan pulls down the price of coal, he will be looked upon as the most popular man in the city.

He leaves a widow, but no children. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock, from the family residence, No. 119 Weller street.

MERIT AND WORTH

Deceptions and Frauds Find the Fate They Deserve.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Still on the Highest Round of the Ladder of Fame

Genuine merit and worth must be the strong and leading characteristics of a medicine in order to make it a chosen home friend.

Speculators and imitators may, for a brief time, create a demand for their deceptive pills and liquid preparations by freely using newspaper space, but unerring human experience soon pronounces the judgment "tried and found wanting." The year just closed has marked the death of many worthless and deceptive medicines which, for a time, robbed the sick and afflicted ones of money and aggravated their burden of misery.

Paine's Celery Compound, has, in the past year, added thousands of victories to its established record as a disease-banisher and health-giver.

Many of the cures effected by Paine's Celery Compound have been so marvellous and striking that able and prominent physicians have, without hesitation, openly praised and recommended the life saver.

No other medicine in the world has ever been accorded such glowing praise by medical men, people of affluence and the toilers of our country. Paine's Celery Compound has never yet disappointed sick and suffering men and women. In every case where fairly used, it has accomplished its work of banishing sickness and giving a new lease of life.

If disease is wasting your system, if you are weak or nerve tired, unfitted for business or the daily work of life, be assured Paine's Celery Compound will bestow nerve energy, strength and health—the blessings you are longing for. Test the virtues of one bottle and be convinced.

I shouldn't have a thing in my store," he added, firmly, "if it sold out the way that ribbon did."

MARK ST. CHURCH NOTES

The pastor, Rev. C. L. Thompson, occupied the pulpit on Sunday. There was a good attendance at both services, and the sermons were especially suitable to the beginning of the new year and the new century.

There will be a union of the E. L. and prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The topic will be taken by Miss Flo Thompson. At the close of this meeting, at 9 o'clock, the annual meeting of the Sabbath School will be held.

Next Sabbath the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. O. H. Fusee, of Warsaw. Rev. Mr. Thompson will preach special sermons at Warsaw.

At the evening service Mr. E. S. Watson rendered the solo, "Jerusalem," in a very pleasing manner.

The Sabbath School was well attended. It meets at 2.45 sharp.

ST. LUKE'S MEN'S GUILD

The Annual Meeting was Held on Friday Evening.

St. Luke's Men's Chapter of the Guild, held its annual meeting for the election of officers and the transaction of other business Friday night in the Vestry of the Church There was a fair attendance and much interest was displayed in the proceedings. The following were elected officers,—

Vice-President—Mr. G. Warde.
Secretary-Treas.—Mr. G. Pratley.

The following committee was appointed to take steps looking to the formation of a Village Club,—Rev. H. Symonds, Messrs. F. Adams, T. H. Adams, E. A. Peck, and G. Warde.

It was decided to hold a congregational reception on Tuesday, Jan. 22, and to give two entertainments, the first on Tuesday, Jan. 29, and the second on Thursday, Feb. 14.

MR. CALCUTT'S ENTERPRISE

He Suggests that the Old Cobourg Railway be Re-Opened.

The Cobourg Post has the following: "Mr. H. Calcutt, of Peterborough, wrote Mayor Huycke and several other gentlemen in town in reference to the purchase or leasing of the old Cobourg and Harwood road from the Grand Trunk, with the intention of operating the line either by electricity or steam power. Up to the present not one of the communications have been answered. Why Mr. Calcutt should receive such discourteous treatment is hard to realize. His letters certainly deserved an answer, and we were surprised to learn that such was the case. Mr. Calcutt is still of the opinion that the line could be successfully operated and would prove beneficial to the merchants and the town generally. The new Council should look into the matter at an early date, and instruct the town clerk to correspond with Mr. Calcutt and, if necessary, invite him to come to Cobourg and unravel his proposed plans. It is quite certain that if a railroad were in operation from the north the town would be benefitted by the natural influx of people living in the vicinity of Rice Lake, and in the summer many passengers would go from town to spend a few hours fishing at that favorite resort. We say let some steps be taken at once to advance the scheme." The Times is of opinion that this road, if properly handled, could be made to pay, well, and would be a great attraction to Cobourg as a summer resort. Mr. Calcutt is on the right track, and should receive every possible encouragement at the hands of the people of Cobourg.

THE STATION AGENT'S STORY

They never did much for me till I got a chance one day,
To take a batter station, and prepared to come away;
I'd worked down there in Watertown for thirteen years and passed
From messenger to agent and was called up here at last.

And when they heard about it they came in with smiles and praise
And told me how it tickled them to hear
I'd got the raise;
They knew I'd have it some day; they had seen it all the time.
"For a fellow with such talents as I had was bound to climb."

And they put their heads together and got up a splendid spread—
A gorgeous farewell dinner, with the Mayor at the head;
And they made a lot of speeches and they praised me to the skies,
And I felt my cheeks turn crimson and the dampness in my eyes.

And the ladies that I danced with, when the band began to play,
Said the place would seem so lonesome
after I had gone away,
And the wealthy banker's daughter who had seemed so proud before Almost confessed she loved me, as we sailed across the floor.

And pretty Janet Flemming, who had let me understand
That she felt herself above me, trembled when I held her hand—
Trembled, sighed, and, looked at me, said
she wish I wouldn't go;
"It'll be so very stupid here without you, don't you know!"

I have never, till that evening, guessed how well they liked me there;
I had worked and hoped and waited and they hadn't seemed to care,
And, oh, what a world of gladness had been mine, if I had known—
But they let me wait and worry and keep toiling on alone.

How I might have held my head up if I only could have guessed—
Had I but known they thought that I was worthy of the best
The wait had been less dreary and my work had been as play—
But they kept their feelings hidden till I had to come away

Yes, it's just the same old story, people somehow never know
What a man is worth, or care to, till it comes his turn to go—
And perhaps it's best they shouldn't for begin to flatter men—
Give them all the praise they earn—and there's no living with them then—
Still, I wish their celebration might have been arranged before.
They found out that I was going and would wander back no more.

Dear Sirs,—In accordance with your wishes I have had both the red and white wines and the champagne tested by several connoisseurs, French and English. All of these expressed surprise that an article of such merit was produced in Canada, and even manufacturers admit that the brand "L'Empereur" is of excellent quality.

This opinion from critics who are by no means easy to please should be very satisfactory to you, and it gives me pleasure to congratulate you upon it. Yours faithfully,

THE TOWN'S SHARE.

Dr. Burnham moved, seconded by Trustee Hartley,—That pursuant to 57 Victoria, chapter 50, section 5, the Municipal Council of the Town of Peterboorough be and they are hereby required to pay the Treasurer of the Board of Education in monthly instalments the money to be raised for current expenditure of the Collegiate Institute and Public schools of the town as follows:

Jan. 15th	$ 1,500 00

December 15th	3,500 00
	$24,000 00

And that the Secretary be instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to the Town Council.—Carried.

It is interesting to note in this connection that while much money has been expended in school improvements, and the number of children attending school has largely increased, during the past few years, the amount of money required from the town has for three years stood at the same figure—$24,000. This reflects great credit on the Board's careful administration, and fully demonstrates that Dr. Burnham is an exceedingly capable Chairman of Finance.

THE NICHOLLS PRIZE.

Dr. Burnham moved, seconded by Trustee McBain,—That, since the examination for which the Nicholls prize of $20 is given is no longer held, the said sum be equally divided between the scholar obtaining the highest marks in Part I junior leaving and the scholar obtaining the highest marks in Part I matriculation.—Carried.

GEORGE STREET SCHOOL.

Trustee Ferguson informed the Board that the lease of George street school expires in September next. The matter was referred to the Property Committee to report at next meeting.

A PRESENTATION.

At this juncture Trustee Stevenson presented to the Collegiate Institute Vol. III, IV and V of "The Proceedings and Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, Second Series," which at his earnest solicitation, Sir John Bourinot had forwarded to him personally. In making the presentation Mr. Stevenson remarked that Sir John, who is the highest authority, not only in Canada, but in Great Britain, on scientific and historical subjects, has promised to send other works for the use of the Institute.

A VOTE OF THANKS.

Trustee Hill moved, seconded by Trustee McBain,—That a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Stevenson not only for these valuable books, but for many precious gifts to the Institute of flags, maps, etc. Also to Sir John Bourinot, for volumes promised.

FROM BOARD TO COUNCIL.

At this juncture Trustee Edgecumbe thanked the Board for its courteous treatment of him, during his eight years' service as Trustee, and expressed regret at his retirement. He had not intended seeking a seat at the Civic board, but, there has been an earnest request for the best available men, and in order to get enough of them, our citizens had been obliged to have resource to the School Board. He felt sure Mr. Langford would prove a valuable acquisition to the Board, which he wished as great a measure of success in the future as had resulted from their untiring energy in the past.

Trustee Hill replied that the town had always looked to the School Board for good Aldermen, and he believed that five of its present members had been sought after to run for 1901's Council. Mr. Edgecumbe, he said, will do credit to the position to which he has been elected, although he, (Mr. Hill) did not think the honor any greater than that of being a member of the Board of Education, which keeps apace with civilization in moulding the character of the coming generation.

The Board then adjourned.

DARING ATTEMPT TO RELEASE BOERS

An Interesting Letter from Private Elmhirst.

THE BRITISH SURROUNDED

But are Driven off with great loss by the Gallant Yeomanry—Stirring Events told by Mr. Elmhirst.

Lindley, Dec. 6.—Dear Times,—I received copies of The Times a few days ago, and they moved interesting reading to the boys. Of course you know what is going on here better, perhaps, than we do ourselves. You have all heard of the unfortunate capture of the 13th Imperial Yeomanry at Lindley, at the end of May, but, curiously enough, little or nothing has been said of the extremely gallant and almost successful attempt of the 3rd Imperial Yeomanry to recapture the unfortunate regiment, on the following day. It may be remembered that news reached Lord Methuen, then some forty miles distant, that the 13th Imperial Yeomanry were surrounded and sorely pressed by some 3,500 Boers under Piet De Wet in the neighborhood of Lindley, but that the regiment could hold out till Saturday. Taking his mounted troops and artillery Lord Methuen made a forced march to Lindley, but on nearing that place on Friday morning found that the regiment had been compelled to capitulate the evening before. He pushed on, and De Wet's rear guard was encountered holding a strong line of heights covering Lindley. It was from that point that the 3rd Imperial Yeomanry commenced the bold movement which was so nearly successful.

Moving off well to the left, they turned the first range, the fire of all small parties of Boers being quietly ignored, but in the open fields beyond a severe and accurate shell and rifle fire was encountered, which it took some time and some loss to fight through. They pushed on again, and the whole of De Wet's convoy with the prisoners, and strongly guarded by mounted men and guns, came into view some seven or eight miles distant, and trekking away at a great pace. The pursuing regiment was commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel G. J. Younghusband, who has learnt the business of fighting in the renowned Corps of Guides, and that officer, at once grasping the importance of the occasion, determined to make a stroke to recover the captives, though the odds were immense. Working on, therefore, steadily, but relentlessly, from ridge to ridge, and driving the Boers before them, the head of the regiment at last reached a position on the flank of De Wet's flight, and only a few hundred yards from it.

At this moment, not only had the shot and shell of the enemy to be faced, but suddenly the regiment came upon an apparently impossible precipice, down which even a goat track was not visible. But their blood was up, and the gallant Yeoman would falter at nothing. Led by their colonel they scrambled, rolled, slid, and tumbled to the bottom, though not without several casualties. In all seven officers and thirty-six Yeoman reached the sheltering nullah below, and there took breath. As no more men could be got down, and as the opportunity was fleeting, the commanding officer decided to make now his dash on the convoy. The point of impact was selected, and was to cut off about twenty waggons, two guns, and, it was hoped, the prisoners also. Stringing out into one long line with about twenty yards interval between each man, the devoted band galloped hard at the convoy. They cut it in two, and by sheer boldness drove a strong party of the enemy out of a kopje just across the road, and occupied it themselves. The dismembered portion of the convoy, the enemy's guns, and, it was hoped, the prisoners, now lay in the hollow behind the victorious Yeoman, and were, to all intents and purposes, captured. On the other hand, forty-three brave fellows found themselves in the middle of a Boer army and more or less isolated from direct support by the aforementioned precipice. At this moment an escaped prisoner of the 13th Imperial Yeomanry came running back to say that the point of the impact had been just behind instead of in front of the prisoners, and their escort, and these were now trekking away as fast as possible.

With so small a force in face of immense odds it was impossible to do more, for a running battle of nine miles on top of a forty-mile force march had left horses and men much exhausted. As they stood, the little band was faced by some hundreds of Boers holding a kopje 500 yards to the right front, whilst from two other directions a hot fire came pouring in. After clinging, therefore, to the position won for upwards of an hour, so as to give such prisoners as cared to make a run for it a chance of escaping, Col. Younghusband had to think of extricating his small force. This was most successful accomplished in the face tremendous odds, each half retiring alternately to a position in the rear, and thence steadily covering the retirement of the other half. Thus, through the astonishing gallantry of one regiment were the captive 13th nearly rescued from the midst of 3,500 Boers, with guns, under De Wet.

Amongst those present in this gallant feat of arms were Lord Scarbrough, Captain Rolleston and Capt. Peirse. The casualties included the three squadron commanders, 26 Yeomen and 74 horses. De Wet a few days afterwards, in conversation with a British officer, confessed that he had never had such a mauvais quart d'heure during the campaign, and his staff confessed that his casualties had been heavy. The misfortune of one Yeomanry regiment on one day was, therefore, gallantly balanced by the intrepid bravery of another Yeomanry regiment on the next.

I see many of the boys have arrived safely at home, and I sometimes wish I was trekking back. But we will probably stay till this [illegible] is over. Once De Wet is captured, the rest, I think will be easy.

Give my regards to all the boys through your excellent paper, and believe me,

Yours Truly

F. ELMHIRST.

END OF LUMBERING

The Pine Fast Disappearing from the Country.

AMERICAN LUMBER TRADE

Statistics Show that the American Lumber is Almost Gone, while our own is rapidly Disappearing.

Only a few years ago Peterborough was the headquarters of a very considerable lumbering industry. This trade is almost now a thing of the past. Outside the Dickson Company's limits, there is practically nothing left in the forests tributary to the Otonabee waters. The large saw mills at Fenlon Falls and other places along these waters have been removed, there being nothing left to cut. There is a growing conviction among the statisticians in the United States and Canada of the lumber industry that a timber famine is imminent in the near future, and that under the most favorable conditions of systematic forestry it will be impossible to grow wood fast enough to permit the maintenance of the current rate of consumption. Chief Geographer Gannett of the United States Geological Survey, from the best data obtainable, estimates the total stand of timber throughout the United States at 1,380,000,000,000 feet. In 1890 the cut was about 25,000,000,000 feet, and since that time it has steadily increased. Natural growth would undoubtedly replace the annual cut if they had only lumbering operations to take into account. Contrary to the general supposition, lumbering, even of the most thorough kind, does not destroy the forest character of land. The lumberman takes only the trees available for the purpose. He selects one here and another there, and for each tree available for reduction to marketable boards he leaves a hundred, or perhaps a thousand, not available; and when he has cut down everything it pays him to fell and haul, the tract remains as much a forest as before. The disappearance of our forests is due to the manufacture of railway ties to the paper stock industry, and in a less degree to the demand for firewood, but more than all to the clearing of the land for farming purposes. It is for this reason that the old-time foresty statistics of replacement by natural growth do not apply. The wood-destroying industries which consume everything in the shape of woody fibre for pulp, have neglected all measures for reboising the areas they have worked over. If available for cultivation, they have been worth more cleared than covered; if not, the wood consumer has let nature take its course, and looked about him for new areas to denude. Unless land is held under a very different tenure from that which obtains in this country, and wood is very much more costly than it has been up to this time, it will be different to popularize tree planting for profit. The investment is too large and the returns too slow to make it attractive as a business proposition.

Meanwhile, however, lumber is becoming more and more scarce. Thus far this has been chiefly a matter of statistical interest, but it looks now as if the present generation would feel the pinch of scarcity. At the present rate of consumption the available supply will last not to exceed fifty years, and perhaps double in price within half that time.

Fortunately wood is no longer indispensable. Indeed, we could do very well with a fraction of that now consumed. In building operations the art of the clay worked is equal to every demand which may be made upon it, and the life of our clay beds will probably be coterminous with that of the earth. With the passing of wood as a structural material, the annual reduction in fire losses would represent a very substantial addition to the National wealth. Paper is also an available substitute for wood, with many advantages, since it can be made impervious to moisture, practically incombustible, and free from any tendency to riot. Vegetable fibre for paper of this sort can be raised in annual crops beyond the greatest requirement of consumption. It is a better use for straw than burning it. Aside, therefore, from the meteorological influence of land denudation and its effect upon the water courses, we may contemplate the enforced abandonment of wood as a structural material with great complacency. It would be better for our cities if lumber was too costly for the purpose of the builder.

BOER COMMITTEE ASKS FOR PEACE

Gen. De Wet and Steyn are the Only Obstacles in the Way of Peace.

Cape Town, Jan. 8.

The Central Peace Committee at Kroonstad has issued a circular, in the course of which it says "the time has arrived for the inhabitants of Orange Colony to make an effort to save the country from further destruction. The country is literally a vast wilderness, the farmers ruined and facing starvation, are obliged to go to the towns for protection, and huge refuge camps have been formed by the British for them. This misery is caused by an obstinate ministry, who will not bow to the inevitable."

The circular points out that the British will never restore independence to the republic and urges the burghers the duty of surrendering and accepting the terms offered. The recent Afrikander congress at Worcester is criticized in the circular as "misleading the Boers and giving false impressions." In conclusion, the Committee says:— "The British Government is willing to settle matters in a way not ungenerous or humiliating to us. We appeal to you to appoint another Congress and to nominate men of influence out of your list to visit Mr. Steyn and General De Wet and to try to persuade them to accept the terms Great Britain offers."

"These two men are the only obstacles to peace. We ask you to believe us when we say that Mr. Kruger and the late Transvaal Government are willing and would have already accepted the British terms, but Mr. Steyn has refused to have anything to do with surrender. He has continued the war and has encouraged the burghers with a hope that we would get European assistance. To-day he is cut off from all communication with the outside world you know, and we know how unfounded the hope is, it is your duty to assist us to make him understand this. We appeal to you to help us to end the unhappy state of affairs which is plunging everybody into poverty and despair. We appeal to you because we know you are able to assist us in the right manner."

The committee includes W. E. Dwet, late Assistant Chief Commandant, three members of the Volksraad and two Justices of the Peace.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of Peterborough District Orange Lodge Last Night

The Peterborough District Orange Lodge met in annual session last night, when representatives from every lodge in the district were present. In fact the event was the most successful one in years. Two resolutions of condolence were passed, one with Bro. Wm. Jones, on the death of his son, and the other with Bro. John D. Brown on the death of his brother.

The following officers were elected:—

John Biggs—District Master.
A McCarthy—Dep. District Master.
Joseph Batten—Chaplain.
Geo. Barkley—Secretary.
Robt. Wilson—Financial Secretary.
Jas. Murray—Treasurer.
H. McCleur—Director of Ceremonies.
Wm. McInnes—Lecturer.

The officers were installed by Past County Master, J. B. McWilliams.

The county meeting will take place on the first Tuesday in February.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB

A Large Attendance and an Interesting Programme Last Night.

There was a good attendance at the Fortnightly Club last night, notwithstanding the rain.

Miss Fife read the paper of the evening on Browning. The talented young lady is a University graduate, and her paper was, as might be supposed, exceedingly interesting.

Miss Lillian Burns, of Toronto, who is visiting in town, and who is an elocutionist of ability, gave two selections from Browning, which were loudly applauded.

Mrs. A. G. Parker rendered vocal selections, which were well received. Altogether the entertainment was one of the most delightful ever given under the auspices of the Club.

COUNTY COUNCIL ELECTION

Full Returns Grom Several Electoral Divisions.

Messrs Casement and Crowe in No. Five and Mr Pearce and Dr. Jeffs in No. Four The Latter Figures are Not Complete

Considerable interest centered in the County Council elections in the three divisions where contests were held. The figures are not complete for No. Four division.

NO. ONE DIVISION.

In No. One division Messrs. Peck and Anderson were elected by acclamation.

NO. TWO DIVISION.

In the Smith and Ennismore division there was a hot fight, and the question that was agitating the campaign was whether North Monaghan would support the Ennismore candidate and thus ensure one representative outside of Smith. The candidates were Messrs. Geo. W. Fitzgerald and J. G. Armstrong, of Smith and Mr Paul Costello, of Ennismore. Smith has a big vote in this division and if Monaghan and Ennismore combine, they are pretty sure to elect one man. Two years ago Mr. Foster was elected from Monaghan with Ennismore support, and this election Monaghan returned the compliment and gave Mr. Costello a loyal support. As a result Mr. Costello headed the poll, a grand record for a new man, while Mr. Fitzgerald, the popular member of the last County Council, was a close second. The result of the vote is as follows:—

MONAGHAN.

	No. 1.	No. 2.	total
Costello	181	50	231

Ennismore	327	45	22
Grand total	749	599	729

NO. THREE DIVISION.

In this division Messrs. Shaw and Eastland were elected by acclamation.

NO. FOUR DIVISION.

In No. Four division, comprising Norwood, Havelock, Belmont, etc., there was a warm fight between Messrs. J. B. Pearce, Dr. Jeffs and W. Buck. Returns are not complete, but it looks as if Mr. Pearce and Dr. Jeffs are elected. The latter is a new man.

NO. FIVE DIVISION.

In this division Messrs. Hawthorne and Crowe, the old members, and W. H. Casement were the candidates. Messrs. Casement and Crowe have been elected. By Mr. Hawthorne's defeat the county loses the services of a good man, but Mr. Casement, who is an old member of the Council, is a valuable addition. The figures are:

	Cas.	Cr.	Haw.
Lakefield	424	30	59
Dummer	40	354	358

THANKS HIS SUPPORTERS

A Letter in Which Mr. Moore Fully States His Position.

Editor Morning Times,

Sir,—I desire, through you, to thank those who expressed approval of my line of conduct during the Mayoralty contest by casting their votes for me; and I have no unkindness towards others who took a different course.

As you know, Sir, there was no seeking of the office on my part, the nomination having been made without my consent and I having informed my friends who proposed me that I would make no canvass of the electors, and this I adhered to. I did not afterwards, as I could have done, repudiate the act in the manner provided by law, because of the insistence of a number of representative citizens, and further, because I would obtain a faovrable opportunity for bringing to public notice and discussion through the press and on the platform, some questions I was convinced would make for the public weal when adopted, but which had received no attention from the press or from Mr. Denne.

The opportunity of having secured this and being able to show the tremendous advantage to be gained by the ratepayers from municipal ownership of the waterworks and of public lighting is ample satisfaction to me for the small sacrifice of time it caused.

True, I gained the enmity of the Water and Light Companies, committed unpardonable sin to them, and brought on myself the force of their bitter hostility for disturbing the equanimity of the pleasant and satisfactory state of things that exists for them, and which they represented as an impertinence on my part. But, Sir, I felt justified from the knowledge I had gained of these subjects in impressing upon those interested the propriety of emancipation from the toils they were in, at the earliest possible moment. The matter of my defeat is of no personal consequence, and the result is sincere and complete indifference to me; the importance of the opportunity for discussing the questions being a gratification that leaves me indebted to my well-wishers.

My motives in the above, and in relation to other subjects referred to by me were misrepresented by some, and misunderstood by others; but of this I [illegible] assure the electors, that I had no other interest in view than that of the satisfaction of believing that my efforts would assist to work an amelioration of conditions that should not exist.

I beg, in conclusion, that no one will think that I am at all discouraged. "The House will yet listen to me" in a very emphatic way, which will soon lead to the relief of the people from a burden out of all proportion to the benefit received.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

W. H. MOORE.

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 9, 1901.

SAVED BY A DREAM

In a neat but plainly furnished room on the third floor of a tenement house two women were engaged in earnest conversation. Two sewing machines, about which were scattered overalls in an unfinished state, were mute witnesses of the straightened circumstances of the occupants.

In a corner of the room, upon an old-fashioned bed, lay a man, sadly worn from the ravages of disease. His deep-sunken eyes burned with a feverish glitter. Just now they were fastened upon the faces of the two women, whose conversation was carried on in an undertone. It required but a casual glance to discover that these two were closely related, the features of the elder being reproduced in the face of the younger, a girl about 17. There was about them an air of refinement not usually apparent among occupants of crowded tenements, and we find ourselves wondering what ill fortune reduced to poverty these people, whose appearances seem to indicate them unaccustomed to their present environments.

The work is neglected while they talk over some subject, the settlement of which appears to be, to the younger, a question of vast importance. She is trying to win the consent of the older woman.

"I will work early and late, mamma dear, to make up for the lost time, and you know I have not been anywhere during this whole wretched summer. Do say I can go, there's a dear little mother. You see I can wear my white dress and, if you will lend me your hat, the expense will be small. I know you do want your poor little girl to have the outing. Just say I can tell Annie when she comes to-night that I can go to-morrow."

So pleading was the expression on her young daughter's face and so eager the pretty bright eyes, that Mrs. Roberts was about to give her consent, when from the bed a voice tremulous and weak called to her: "Mary, what is it? It must be important, or you would never have stopped the clatter of those beastly machines. Tell me what it is—more trouble for us?"

Tenderly, and just as a mother would soothe a fretful child, Mrs. Roberts bent over her husband, rearranging the pillows and wiping the moisture from his face. "Be quiet, dear heart, there's nothing amiss," she said. "Annie Morris met May at the office to-day and told her of an excursion her Sunday-school was to have to-morrow and asked May to go with her and Margaret, and the dear child is so eager, I"—

Before she could utter another word the sick man gave vent to a loud cry, and half raising himself in the bed, cried "My dream! My dream! No! no! May must not go, I say. Whilst I slept here to-day, I was (it seemed to me) standing in the midst of a throng of excited people. I felt the swaying of a boat, and some one, slapping me on the back, said, 'Cheer up, old fellow, she may be saved.' I knew something had happened to May, for she had been by my side a few minutes before, and was not there now. No! no! no! Keep May home, I say, or she will be brought back dead!"

May stood at the foot of the bed as pallid as the sick man, too frightened to move, while Mrs. Roberts, by tender coaxing and firm touch, persuaded the half-crazed man to lie back on his pillow. Almost immediately he sank in sleep of utter exhaustion.

Not until his breathing became regular did mother or daughter venture to speak. Then Mrs. Roberts, pressing the frightened girl to her breast, said: "It is the fever, dear; pay no heed to it. If your father was in health he would be the first to ridicule superstition in anyone, cheer up, banish your fears and see to your dress while I prepare supper," and Mrs Roberts left the room.

But though she had spoken lightly to May of her husband's dream, the mother felt uneasy, and wished she had gone that afternoon to the office instead of sending May.

When she returned to the room May was standing just where her mother had left her.

"May, May; what ails you, daughter? Come, fix the table. A cup of tea will do us both good."

The girl moved in a listless manner toward the cupboard, and, gathered the dishes, did her mother's bidding, but with a face from which all joyous anticipation had vanished. A slight noise in the direction of the bed attracted their attention, and, drawing near, both mother and daughter heard the sick man mutter "Better not go, Annie."

He was quiet again in a moment and just as the two were about to sit down to their frugal meal May said, with an evident effort, "Mother, if you will not think me silly, I'll not go to-morrow, after all, and will try and persuade Annie to do the same."

Before a reply could be given two merry girlish voices were heard, and a quick rap sounded on the door, accompanied by an impatient "May I come in?" Without waiting for an answer, two young women entered. One could scarcely understand anything said, so anxious was each to have the first word.

"All ready, May?" asked Annie Harris.

"No," May hesitatingly replied, "I am not going, Annie."

"Not going! And why not, pray? Your mother is willing, isn't she?"

"Let me take your hats, and, while you rest, I'll tell you all about it," May replied.

And the girls, gazing at her in amused astonishment, acquiesced.

Give up this jaunt, indeed! Why, even now they saw themselves the centre of a merry set of beaux and lassies! Give it up, indeed! Not they! What could May mean? When she told them of her father's dream it fell upon unheeding ears. But May remained firm and the girls left, ridiculing her for being so foolish as to allow a dream to mar a day of pleasure.

The morrow dawned a perfect summer day. A boat, gaily decorated, carrying as many passengers as the law allowed, left the wharf. Those on board were as merry a set of young people as ever existed, none gayer than the two sisters, Annie and Margaret Harris.

The day passed all too swiftly. At its close our young friends turned their faces homeward, tired out, but happy. But what is this?

A cry! Another! O God! The wharf has broken as the people stood ready to board the boat, and merry laughter is changed into piteous cries for help, as hundreds sink into the water. Oh! the horror of that evening! You remember, do you not, the tragedy of the Tivoli, when so many Baltimoreans found a watery grave?

Mrs. Roberts and May had retired to rest, when they were started by a loud cry in the street below: "Terrible accident at Tivoli bridge gave away—hundreds drowned."

Quickly they arose and hastily descended to the street, now thronged with an anxious crowd of men, women and children. It was no idle rumor. Mothers wept bitter tears over daughters who had bidden them farewell in the morning. Fathers groaned over the loss of stalwart sons who were to have helped them bear the burden of old age and infirmity. Pen cannot portray the anguished desolation that lay waste so many homes that summer day 16 years ago.

The learned cynic may scoff at superstition and ridicule the idea of attaching any significance to dreams, but nothing will ever have power to alter the conviction of the Roberts family that May's life was saved by her father's dream. Annie and Margaret Harris lie in one grave in the quiet city of the dead."

IF YOU WANT TO CATCH FISH

Go fishing where fish have been caught by others. If you want to be cured take the medicine which has cured others. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures many diseases which seem remote from the stomach because it cures the stomach in which such diseases have their origin.

"Words fail to express what I suffered for three years, with cold chills, palpitation of heart, shortness of breath, and low spirits," writes Mrs. A. C. Jones of Walterboro, Colleton Co., S. C. "I could not sleep and really thought I would soon die. Had a peculiar roaring through my head all the time. Was so emaciated and weak I could not feed myself. My aunt induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did only to please her, and six bottles cured me. To-day am sound and well. During the three years I was sick I had five different physicians."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the system and regulate the liver.

Testimony of a Babylonian Brick

It is marvellous what a mass of detailed information has come down to us from the perishable brick tablets inscribed, or rather stamped before firing, with minute and complicated inscriptions and preserved in the buried libraries beneath the mounds of the Tigris and Euphrates Valley. Prof Sayce is able, for instance, to tell us from one of these tablets how "a widow brought action before the royal judges to recover her husband's property. She stated that after their marriage she and Ben-Hadad-Nathan had traded together and that a house had been purchased with a portion of her dowery. This house, the value of which was as much as 110 manehs, 50 shekels, or £62 10s., had been assigned to her in perpetuity. The half-brother now claimed everything, including the house. The case was tried at Babylon before six judges in the ninth year of Nabonidus, and they decided in favor of the plaintiff," for a woman's dowry was her own property. This might be an extract from the law reports of the Times, and other details of ancient Babylonian and Assyrian life are not less precise. "In the reign of Ammizadok three men rented a field for three years on terms of partnership, agreeing to give the owner during the first two years one gur of grain upon each acre. The whole of the third harvest was to go to the lessees and the partners were to divide the crop in equal shares on the day of the harvest." This seems a pleasant kind of agreement, worthy of imitation. The third year free of rent must have been delightful.

Dropsy and Heart Disease.—"For ten years I suffered greatly from Heart Disease. Fluttering of the Heart and Smothering Spells made my life a torment. Dropsy set in. My physician told me to prepare for the worst. I tried Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. One dose gave great relief, one bottle cured me completely."—Mrs. James Adams, Syracuse, N.Y.—107

WE CURE STRICTURE

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with this disease—many unconsciously. They may have a smarting sensation, small, twisting stream, sharp cutting pains at times, slight discharge, difficulty in commencing, weak organs, emissions, and all the symptoms of nervous debility—they have STRICTURE. Don't let doctors experiment on you, by cutting, stretching, or tearing you. This will not cure you, as it will return. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT absorbs the stricture tissue; hence removes the stricture permanently. It can never return. No pain, no suffering, no detention from business by our method. The sexual organs are strengthened. The nerves are invigorated, and the bliss of manhood returns.

WE CURE GLEET

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are having their sexual vigor and vitality continually sapped by this disease. They are frequently unconscious of the cause of these symptoms. General Weakness, Unnatural Discharges, Failing Manhood, Nervousness, Poor Memory, Irritability, at times Smarting Sensation, Sunken Eyes, with dark circles, Weak Back, General Depression, Lack of Ambition, Varicocele, Shrunken Parts, etc. GLEET and STRICTURE may be the cause. Don't consult family doctors, as they have no experience in these special diseases—don't allow Quacks to experiment on you. Consult Specialists, who have made a life study of Diseases of Men and Women. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will positively cure you. One thousand dollars for a case we accept for treatment and cannot cure. Terms moderate for a cure.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures. Size 20x21, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 13 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00. Write to-day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right. I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses" sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 503 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

ATTRACTIVE EXHIBIT.

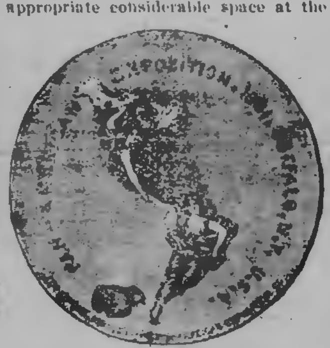
That of Foods and Their Accessories, Including Pan-American Spices.

A very dainty pamphlet has been issued by the Division of Foods and Their Accessories of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo. The food work at the Pan-American comes under the general department of Horticulture, Forestry and Food Products, of which Mr. Frederic W. Taylor is superintendent. Mr. G. Edward Fuller, as assistant superintendent, has entire charge of the Division of Foods and Their Accessories, and he has prepared himself for unusual work in this line by special travel and study such as no one else probably ever undertook with the same object. This pamphlet calls the attention of jobbers of teas, coffees and spices and all dealers in food products generally and their accessories to the interesting, useful and educational work in their lines of business which is going on for the Pan-American Exposition of 1901.

The assistant superintendent, Mr. Fuller, says: "In the far east there are foods and condiments of which we are almost utterly ignorant here, and one of the aims of the food exhibit will be to educate the people of the western hemisphere to the cultivation of the products which flourish in the east. It will be my aim to show how simple and profitable it would be, for instance, to grow in the West Indies what is grown in the East Indies. The climate and soil conditions are remarkably similar, and the conditions are favorable.

"The best proof obtainable or desirable that the soil and the climate of the West Indies is as favorable as that of the East Indies for the production of spices is already available. The products now received from the West Indies are not equaled by those from any other section of the world. At the present time they grow better allspice, ginger and red pepper there than anywhere else on the globe, and the vanilla bean, which is queen of spices, as the nutmeg is king, is found nowhere in the world in such perfection as in Mexico. The coffee grown in Mexico has a flavor obtainable in no other coffee, not even the Mocha or Java surpassing it. Emperor William of Germany appreciates that fact, and all of the coffee used in the royal household is sent from our nearby republic. Venezuelan cacao, from which chocolate is made, is superior to the East Indian product.

"With the view of massing together in one effective, instructive and useful exhibit the economic plants, vines and trees of tropical Pan America which produce teas, coffees, spices and kindred things, it has been decided to appropriate considerable space at the Pan-American Exposition for their display on a scale never before attempted. To show this interesting collection to the best advantage an attractive conservatory has been provided, while a museum, as an annex to this, will contain finished products as well as rare and curious articles to illustrate a variety of features under the head of 'Foods and Their Accessories.'



SEAL OF PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

"It is a fact well known to experts in exhibition matters that a scattered display of special articles loses force, while a condensed exhibit of a line of things pertaining to a specific subject becomes educational. Now, as the object is to increase the production and promote the consumption of the things called for, much trouble and expense is justified in making this collection unique and unparalleled.

"It is intended to make the exhibit of red peppers the finest and most extensive collection ever made, with the object of demonstrating by special exhibit connected with the 'accessories of food' that Pan-America can produce all the red peppers consumed in Pan-America. It is perhaps only known to experts that vast quantities of red peppers are imported from Europe, Asia and Africa every year because Pan-Americans are not actively alive to their own interest in this important matter."

One of Many Enthusiasts.

Joe Mitchell Chapple, editor of The National Magazine, published at Boston, was in Buffalo recently and became much interested in the Exposition. On his return to Boston he wrote to an official of the Exposition as follows: "I was indeed sorry not to have seen you when in Buffalo, but I did see the Exposition and was astonished beyond measure. I wish that you would send on anything that you think might be of interest to our readers and make it as attractive as possible and I shall keep on hammering away at the Exposition editorially until it opens, because I am thoroughly enthused over the subject."

Brazil to Be Represented.

The Brazilian government early in the season sent out invitations to all agricultural and industrial societies to prepare articles for exhibition at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo in 1901. A large number of coffee producers have agreed to send a full line of samples of the best Brazilian grades of this commodity.

HER COMING.

A month ago the year was growing gray;
The restive swallow and the oriole
Had lured the summer southward, and the gay
Deceitful breezes bred a chill that stole
The living green from the confiding leaves,
Deluding them with fickle reds and gold,
And leaden days encamped in empty sheaves
That murmured hollow protests to the cold.
And then you came, a fair enchantress who,
With half relenting smile replaced the skies,
Reproved the dreary autumn with kind eyes,
That offered spring and tenderness and threw
A wealth of roses in my path the day
You turned a sad November into May.

THE SELF MADE MAN.

This Writer Must Have Met One That He Did Not Like.

Notwithstanding the self made man does not reflect unadulterated credit upon his maker, he is himself fully convinced that he is the perfect article.

Even if, as may sometimes be the case, he is conscious of a few imperfections, he refers them to his parents, who were responsible for the man in the rough, so to speak, before he began to mold himself into the ideal creature that you now behold and therefore not chargeable to his account.

It is a constant wonder to him that others with no worse material than he had to found himself upon should have turned out such inferior pieces of work, and it is natural, therefore, that he should contemn the droves of failures that he sees about him.

But happily for him he only observes others sufficiently to exalt his own greatness by comparison. His best hold and his strong suit is introspection. By looking within he has ever before his mental vision an object that swells his bosom with pride to look upon, and he makes the most of the show, which, being a continuous performance, keeps him ever busy and always supremely happy.

To others he may seem a sublime egotist and a conceited ass, but what is that to him? How are these underlings either to recognize or appreciate grandeur which it is impossible to conceive or to understand?

So he goes through the world worshiping his creator incased in an armor of self sufficiency which is impervious to the slings and arrows of the cynical or the contemptuous.

If he could see himself as others see him, he might discover many shortcomings and possibly some glaring defects, but he has no use for others' eyes. His own are good enough for his purpose, which is to admire his own handiwork.

He is a continual satisfaction to himself and is happy, and to others he is not without its uses. He gives them something to laugh at and something, besides, to avoid copying. In fact, who knows how much worse the world would be and how less amusing were it not for the self made man?

So, on the whole, we owe the self made man a great debt for his workmanship, and therefore let us thank him for his achievement.—Boston Transcript.

An Awkward Cigar Holder.

"Probably no one but a German would ever have invented the thing, and now that he has invented it not even a German could tell to what use it could be put."

So commented the buyer for a big department store in search of novelties. The thing commented on appeared to be an umbrella, tight rolled and looking like other umbrellas with natural wood handles except that there was no ferrule at the tip. It turned out to be a cigar holder, for a silver cap on the handle end unscrewed, and there was a place for the butt of the cigar. Through the rod of the umbrella was a tube, and the thing was smoked by pulling at what turned out to be a mouthpiece at the tip.

A more ungainly thing for the purposes of a cigar holder could hardly be devised, and it was useless as an umbrella, for that part of it was a "fake." Yet somebody in Germany manufactures them, and a Chambers street dealer has had a lot shipped to him for sale. Why any one should buy one is a mystery, and what he would do with it after the purchase is an even greater one.—New York Times.

Squirrels and Turkey Calls.

Did it ever occur to you to use a turkey call in squirrel hunting? I once had three gray squirrels up a large gum tree and had tried to slip up to them, but they saw me and hid. I went up as close to the tree as I wanted and sat down to wait for them to come out. I sat there 20 or 30 minutes, and they did not move that I could see. I was in a fairly good turkey country and so got out my turkey call and made a few calls, and in less than two minutes all three squirrels were in sight, and in a good deal less time they were all mine on the ground. I take it that they thought that if it was safe for a turkey to be calling they were in no danger. I would like to know if any one else ever had a like experience, and if I ever get in a like situation I will make experiments until I am satisfied.—Forest and Stream.

Got What He Asked For.

"So you are looking for a position," said the merchant to the youth with the high collar and noisy necktie. "What can you do?"

"Oh, any old thing," replied the young man. "Of course I don't expect the junior partnership at the start, but I want to be sure of an early rise."

"Very well," replied the merchant. "I'll make you assistant janitor. You will rise at 4 o'clock every morning and sweep the doors."—Chicago News.

Easy Start.

"Arthur, we haven't had a quarrel for weeks and weeks."

"Haven't we? Well, we can easily get one up by discussing who was most to blame in the last one we had."—Indianapolis Journal.

It used to be the custom to eat what were called God's cakes on New Year's day. They were of triangular shape, about half an inch thick and filled with a kind of mincemeat.

There are two directly opposite reasons why some people cannot obtain credit. One is because they are not known and the other because they are.

Scrofula the Cause.

Eczema, catarrh, hip disease, white swelling, and even consumption have their origin in scrofulous conditions. With the slightest taint of scrofula in the blood, there is no safety. The remedy for this disease in all its forms is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which goes to the root of the trouble and expels all impurities and disease germs from the blood.

The by-law to raise, by way of debentures, $3,000 to build certain bridges, was carried on Monday by a vote of 697 to 173, being a majority of 424. We published the result yesterday, but were unable to get the exact figures.

From South Africa

Bombardier George T. Brown, who has been serving in South Africa as a member of D battery, will arrive in Peterborough to-day or to-morrow, and deserves the same welcome that has been given others who have been so nobly serving their Queen and country in that distant part of the empire. We hope the matter will not be overlooked.

The Council for 1901

The new Council will have in it four of last year's board—Aldermen Roger, Sawers, Clinkscale and Corkery. The new men are Aldermen Best, Rush Edgecumbe, Batten and Shortly. The Council is made up of a merchant miller, one lawyer, three merchants, one insurance agent, one blacksmith, one contractor, one Government official, and one gentleman of leisure.

The Kilties Exquisite Music

The band of the 48th Highlanders, "The Kilties," who will appear at the Opera House on Monday evening, Jan. 14th, have always given due prominence on their programmes to the works of the great masters, and are equally at home in performing the less pretentious compositions of the popular writers, but they chiefly excel in their own peculiar national music, that of Scotland, and no son of "Old Scotia," should miss the opportunity of hearing the famous Highlanders' band and male choir in patriotic songs so dear to the hearts of a' John Tamson's bairns. It is unnecessary to refer to the exquisite musical beauty of Scottish airs, and the manner in which they appeal to all. Suffice it to say that the faithful interpretation of Scottish music by the Highlanders is so near perfection as anything musical can be. General admission by special arrangements, only 60 cents, and all may reserve seats. Plan opens on Thursday.

A GOOD FRIEND

Thos. Arnold of Lindsay Praises Powley's Liquified Ozone.

IT CURED HIM OF KIDNEY DISEASE

The wonderful way that Powley's Liquified Ozone is making cures, stamps it at once as a most wonderful preparation. You should not continue the old-fashioned medicine method. You should take a treatment which kills the germs of your disease. That treatment is Powley's Liquified Ozone. Thos. Arnold, Esq., is a well known citizen of Lindsay, Ont. If you doubt this testimonial you should write to him. He will answer your questions cheerfully "Some time ago I strained myself; cold set in and very soon I had disease of the bladder which gave me great pain. I was operated upon and pronounced incurable. You recommended your remedy, "Ozone," which I at once tried. Ozone acted at once in a vigorous manner on all my urinary organs and I soon received benifit. I am glad to say I am now about cured, as all my former symptoms are nearly gone. I am free from pain and can work easily and feel physically like a new man. We use your remedy for all ills to any of our family. We feel we would loose a good friend if we could not have your remedy in our house all the time. Very respectfully yours.

THOS. ARNOLD, Lindsay, Ont.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is $1.00 a large bottle, 50c, small size. All druggists, or from the laboratories of the Ozone Co., Toronto, Limited, 48 Colborne St., Toronto.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN

—Footprints in the sands of time
Are but a poet's gush;
And yet, forsooth, they're more sublime
Than footprints in the slush.

—The Men's Association of St. John's church will hold a meeting in the Guild Hall, on Thursday evening next, at 8 p.m.

Rich, warm, healthy blood is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla and thus coughs, colds, and pneumonia are prevented. Take it now.

—We were in error yesterday in stating that the two boys in the Children's Shelter requiring clothes were 14 years of age. We should have said 11.

—A vote was taken on Monday in 66 Ontario municipalities to abolish the statute labor system of keeping up country roads.

—A plate glass window was placed in the front of Macdonald's drug store yesterday morning, in place of the old one that was shattered by a runaway some days ago.

—In all probability an assembly will be held in the ball room of the National Hotel on Friday evening. A meeting to organize the details was held in the Ontario Bank yesterday afternoon.

—The Midland Free Press says there must be at least 40 cases of typhoid fever in that town, as popular report makes the number about 80. That's a fair allowance for rumor.

—Lindsay Post:—Half a dozen of the longest flat cars ever seen on this division were stored in the yard here the other night. They were marked "Yuma Transportation Co., Eldson, Ill.," and held about 25 narrow-gauge dump cars, constructed for the Lakefield Cement Works.

REMEMBERED HER DOLLY

Editor Morning Times

Sir,—One of the sweetest things that ever I saw or heard of took place on Christmas evening.

My husband and I were sitting in the dining room, about 10 o'clock, talking over the happy day our children had spent, when, suddenly, our five-year-old daughter, Myrtle, pattered in in her nightgown and with her feet bare.

"Why, Myrtle," I said, "what is the matter?"

She never made a reply, but going over to her doll, which she had placed on a chair before going to bed, began to take off one of its shoes and stockings.

"Never mind, little dolly, she said, don't cry. I won't hurt you." She then took the dolly's stocking to the mantle'piece and pinned it to the lamb-requin.

"Why, Myrtle!" I exclaimed, "there is no use of your doing that. Santa Claus won't be here any more this year." "Oh! I don't know Mamma, may be he will, because everybody has got something from Santa Claus, and my poor little dolly did not get anything." She then went back to her crib, no doubt satisfied that she could sleep peacefully.

My little girl was right and I was wrong, for the next morning, bright and early, she ran to the stocking, and, sure enough, Santa Claus had come again, for in it there was a small piece of candy. It would not hold any more.

A YOUNG MOTHER.

The Testing of the Vitality of Seed at the Central Experimental Farm.

To the Morning Times:

The past has in certain localities been unfavorable for the perfect maturing of grain. In some districts it has been injured by rain during harvest or from being stacked before fully dry, thus causing it to sprout or heat while in other localities it has suffered more or less from early autumn frost. When exposed to either of these conditions cereals are apt to lose a portion of their vitality or to have it so weakened as to produce when sown an unsatisfactory growth. The character of the crop is greatly influenced by the quality of the seed used, and to obtain the best results it should have its germinating power unimpared, so that when placed in the soil the young plants may make a prompt and vigorous start. Hence it is very important that farmers should ascertain whether the grain they are holding for seed possesses the vitality necessary to produce a good crop.

By instruction of the Honourable Minister of Agriculture, provision has been made whereby the vitality of seed can be ascertained without cost to the individual, and any farmer in the Dominion, who may have any varieties which he desires to have tested can get the information he seeks, by forwarding to the Director of the Experimental Farms, Ottawa, samples of such grain or seeds. Samples may be sent free through the mail and an ounce or two is sufficient for the purpose. About two weeks are required to complete a test. It is hoped that all who desire to avail themselves of the provisions offered will send in their samples early so that the work may be completed in good season.

Wm. SAUNDERS.
Director Experimental Farms.

TO THE ELECTORS

I beg leave to acknowledge the honor which you have done me by electing me as one of your Aldermen for 1901. The honor is all the more appreciated because your support was unsolicited, which makes it doubly valuable. Yours truly,

ROBERT CLINKSCALE.
Peterborough, January 8, 1901.

Card of Thanks

To the Electors of Peterborough:

I desire to cordially thank the electors for returning me again as Alderman, and for placing me next to the head of the poll. I heartily appreciate this additional proof of your confidence coming, as it does, freely and voluntarily, without any canvassing on my part. I will endeavor to justify your confidence by an honest discharge of my duties. Yours truly,

HENRY BEST,
Peterborough, January 8, 1901.

Card of Thanks

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I desire in this public manner to express my thanks to those who by their support in yesterday's election, elected me as an Alderman for 1901. I have special reason to feel gratified at the result, and return my thanks to all those who, unsolicited, secured my election. "Love and a Cough Cannot be Hid."

It is this fact that makes the lover and his sweetheart happy, and sends the sufferer from a cough to his doctor. But there are hidden ills lurking in impure blood. "The liver is wrong," it is thought, "or the kidneys." Did it ever occur to you that the trouble is in your blood?

Purify this river of life with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then illness will be banished, and strong, vigorous health will result. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best known, best endorsed and most natural of all blood purifiers.

Eczema—"I was run down with complaints peculiar to my sex. Large sores broke out on my body, head and limbs. I could not do any work on account of the itching. My trouble was termed eczema and I doctored for it for a long time. I then tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and several bottles effected a cure." MRS. J. G. BROWN, Brantford, Ont.

Organs Affected—"I was run down in health and had spells of coughing which left me prostrate. My lungs, heart and kidneys were affected. Took Hood's Sarsaparilla upon advice and soon felt better. ELEGY WRITTEN IN A COUNTRY GOLF LINKS.

Beneath these rugged elms, that maple's shade,
Where heaves the turf in many a mouldering heap,
Each in his last, eternal bunker laid,
The rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep.

Oft to the harvest did their sickle yield,
Their furrow oft the stubborn glebe has broke—
Ah, but they had no mashies then to wield,
They never learned to use the Vardon stroke.

The poor old souls, they only lived to toil,
To sow and reap and die, at last, obscure;
They never with their niblicks tore the soil—
How sad the golfless annals of the poor!

The pomp of power may once have thrilled the souls
Of unenlightened men—to-day it sinks
Beneath the saving grace of eighteen holes!
The path of glory lead but to the links.

Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid
Some heart that would have quickened to the game;
Hands that lovely baffy might have swayed,
To Colonel Begey's everlasting shame.

Full many a hole was passed by them unseen,
Because no fluttering flag was hoisted there;
Full many a smooth and sacred putting green
They tore up with the plow and didn't care.

Some village Taylor who, with dauntless breast,
Could wang the flail or swing the heavy maul;
Some mute, inglorious Travis here may rest,
Some Harriman who never lost a ball.

Far from the eager foursome's noble strife
They levelled bunkers and they piled the hay,
Content to go uncaddied all through life,
And never were two up with one to play!

No further seek their hardships to disclose,
Nor stand in wonder at their lack of worth;
Here in these bunkers let their dust repose—
They did not know St. Andrew's was on earth!

Card of Thanks

To the Electors of Peterboro

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I take this, the first opportunity of thanking you most cordially for the hearty and united support which has resulted in my return as Mayor of Peterborough for the year 1901. I accept it gratefully as an endorsation of my past efforts to serve the town, and as an expression of confidence in my will and ability to give it still further service. I shall endeavor, in the discharge of the important duty you have imposed upon me, to fully justify your confidence, and will do all in my power to effect good civic government and promote the many interests of the town.

In expressing my thanks for the hearty support accorded me, I would especially include all those who actively, energetically and successfully contributed to the work of promoting my candidature, not forgetting, particularly, my old school-mates. No man was I believe, ever more loyally supported or helped, or no man was, I believe, ever more grateful than myself.

Again heartily thanking all those who by their votes or more active support contributed to my election,

I remain, yours faithfully,
T. H. G. DENNE.

CAPE CYCLIST CORPS WIN RACE WITH BOERS

They Occupy Pickaner's Kloof Pass in Advance of the Enemy.

Cape Town, Jan. 9.—The cyclise corps which left here Saturday occupied Pickaner's Kloof, north of Cape Town, Sunday, after a race with the Boers for its possession. The republicans attempted to intercept the cyclists, but the latter succeeded in occupying the position, though three of them were killed and twenty-three were wounded. The cyclists retain the pass. Commandeering of horses has commenced in the districts where the owners have refused to sell them to the military authorities.

NO AID FOR INVADERS.

London, Nov. 9.—It still remains apparent that the Boer invaders of Cape Colony are meeting with little assistance from their fellow-countrymen in that territory. In fact, the invasion is already causing indignation among those who were expected to aid it. Telegrams from various points in the Cape Colony, including Cradock in the east and Prieska in the north, state that the Dutch are not joining or helping the Boers. In some districts, it is said, they actually resent their presence, and are especially indignant over the commandeering of thei rhorses. The Cape Town correspondent of the Times says that many Afrikanders are joining the defence force, not because the ywant to fight their Boer kinsmen, but because they feel it to be their duty to repel invasion and protect property.

A MISCHIEVOUS PROPOSAL.

The true nature of the bond commission which is being sent to England to create sympathy with the Boers is expressed by the Cape Argus, which says that the proposal is mischievous almost to the point of criminality. It declares that the motive of the bond is really to encourage a continuance of the war.

RECRUITING CONTINUES.

The raising of mounted men in Cape Colony to repel the invaders still continues rapidly. General Brabant has issued an appeal for more mounted troops. He asks employers to give their employees leave to join the mounted forces. Recruiting for the Town Guards is satisfactory, but Gen. Barbant particularly desires men who will go anywhere in the Colony to meet the invaders.

HORROR OF WAR.

The harsh aspect of war is illustrated by a long story from Jagersfontein. It appears that when the loyal British were forced to evacuate Jagersfontein in the Orange Free State Christmas eve because of the activity of the Boers, all the furniture, food and clothing that could not be taken away safely was burned. In the retiring party were 3,000 civilians and 800 soldiers. One thousand horses and 2,500 sheep were taken along. The party marched for three days, suffering many hardships that cost some lives. One mother who started with her three children lost two of them on the way.

BOERS AND ST. HELENA.

Interesting news is published regarding the intentions of the Imperial Government with regard to the Boer prisoners. It is apparently not intended to send any more prisoners to Great Broad Bottom camp, St. Helena, asthe two medical officers sent out to be stationed there have been ordered home, and the tents an dother material have been brought in. The large wood and iron buildings erected there remain and will not be removed. The Boers are not allowed to remain idle in their island prison. In addition to the forty odd prisoners employed by the Colonial Government in the construction of a road round the cliffs on the sea-face, a number have been employed in the erection of a new crane. In a few weeks they have successfully completed under the direction of Baron Fagerskjold, a part of that work that had been vainly attempted for mny aweeks previously.

OUTWITTED DE WET.

From Maseru, Basutoland, comes a story of a clever ruse by which three British soldiers outwitted even the acute De Wet. These men were captured by De Wet, who disarmed them and told them to follow on. They did so until they came to a spruit, where they hid. Shortly afterwards a party of Boers came along. One of the British soldiers stood up and shouted "Hands up!" calling to his comrades to cover the Boers while he disarmed them. The Boers, thinking themselves outnumbered, surrendered their arms and were taken to the British camp as prisoners.

COLVIELE'S CASE.

The case of Major-General Sir Henry Colville, whose resignation was asked by the War Office owing to the Lindley affair, has been left in the hands of Lord Roberts. There is no disposition on the part of the War Office to recede from the position it has taken. In fact, whatever Lord Roberts may decide, Gen. Colville will be severely overhauled for breach of the regulations in discussing the matter with the press.

MARCHED THROUGH HALIFAX.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 9.—The march of the returned Canadian soldiers took this morning, amid a light fall of mingled snow an drain. Great crowds lined the streets, and there was considerable cheering along the line. When the men landed from the transport Colonel Biscoe, the acting-general officer commanding, welcomed them on behalf of the Imperial authorities. After the march, which was a triumphant one, and whicht erminated at the Armories, a banquet took place. The sergeants of the garrison acted as waiters, and the Royal Artillery did the cooking. Governor Jones delivered a patriotic address, which was cheered to the echo. The troops leave for home tonight on two special trains. The first will leave at 6 o'clock, and will carry the mounted rifles. The second will leave at 7 o'clock and will have the artillery on board.

SOLDIERS PAID OFF.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 9—The militia department has received a despatch from Lieut.-Col. Vidal, Halifax, stating that the men on the Rosslyn castle were paid off at 10 o'clock this morning, and would start for the west after dinner.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND YELLOW PEOPLE

Provincial Government Moving towards Chinese Exclusion.

Vancouver, Jan. 8—When the government and legislature of British Columbia have in past years moved in the direction of excluding Chinese and Japanese immigrants from this province, in view of the present and prospective evils having their origin in such immigration. The intentions of the local House have been not infrequently frustrated by the vetoing of the several measures at Ottawa, with the information that they conflicted withi mperial policy.

The specific objection was raised that no race or class may be specifically legislated against in any part of the British empire, and correspondence was Chamberlain, Secretary for the Colonies, intimating that the furthest the British Columbia Government might go with propriety in this direction would be by the enactment of legislation similar in tenor to the famous Natal Act, originally passed in the colony from which it derives its name, and subsequently adopted iwth a large measure of success by the colonies of Australasia.

It was ivrtually stated by the Colonial Secretary, that parallel legislation, based upon the provision of an educational test which very few of the coolie class can possibly comply with, would receive his approval, and hence the Dunsmuir Government took the earliest opportunity to have such a law passed — thus going as far as permitted them by the House authorities in the direction of Asiatic exclusion.

To carry into effect the provisions of this exclusion law—known as the British Columbia Immigration Act of 1900—The provision has now been divided into two immigration districts, the island and the mainland, and Messrs. W. H. Ellis and Angus McAllister have been appointed immigration officers to take charge of affairs in Victoria and this city respectively. Regulations for the effective enforcement of the law and the guidance of the officersunder it have also been promulgated as follows in an extra issue ofthe British Columbia Gazette.

1.—The immigration officers appointed for the said immigration districts under the provisions of the said act shall, as soon as possible after the publication of these regulations, recommend for the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council such persons as they may deem fit to act as deputy immigration officers for such portions of the said immigration district as may be designated, insuch recommendations. Upon such recommendations being approved by the Lieut.-Governor-in-Council, the persons so approved shall at once proceed to exercise the functions of immigration officers for such portions of the said immigration districts for which such appointments may be approved.

2.—The immigration officers for the said island and mainland districts shall forthwith forward to all transportation companies that are known to engage in the business of bring or transporting immigrants into the Province of British Columbia, either by land or by water, a copy of these regulations, and request such transportation companies to designate a person or persons from whom the said immigration officers may obtain notice of the arrival of immigrants into the Province of British Columbia. All such transportation companies are hereby notified that the provisions of section 6 of the said act will, from the firstday of January, 1901, be strictly enforced.

3.—The said immigration officers hsall, at all or any times they may consider advisable, meet any boat, train, or other vehicle purporting to carry immigrants into the said province, and present to each and every such immigrant a copy of the form "B" set out in the schedule of the said act, and, upon the person refusing to comply with the provisions of section 4 of the said act, the said immigration officers shall proceed accordping to the provisions of the said section.

4.—The said immigration officers shall forthwith report to the provincial secretary the names of all transportation companies who may assist in the immigration of persons unable to comply with the provisions of the said act.

CRIME UNPRECEDENTED IN THE POLICE AN ALS

Luciferans Bre k in'o the Roman Catholic Church.

New York, Jan. 9—Vandals who it is suggested may be connected with the order of Satanists or Luciferians recently active in Paris have committed a crime unprecedented in the police annals of New York in breaking into the Roman Catholic Church of the Holy Family, in Unionport, forcing open the Holy Tabernacle and robbing the sacred vessels therin of thirty-nine of the consecrated wafers which had been left from the celebration of the communion during the morning mass. Neither the ciborium, a silver receptacle, nor other sacred vessel of silver or gold were taken, though the robbers had access to these as well as to the sacred vestments.

Father Meckler, the pastor of the church, was informed by a little girl who lives opposite the rectory that she had seen two men force their way into the edifice and emerge. When the priest found that the sanctuary had been desecrated he fainted.

POST OFFICE BUSINESS.

What it Costs to Carry the Mails in this District.

How Postmaster's are Paid—Peterborough Post Office Revenue Rapidly Growing.

That Peterborough is entitled to a mail delivery, we think few will deny. Several places of less importance and at less revenue have a delivery system. Mr. J. H. McClellan, who is ever alive in anything that will promote the interests of the town, told The Times on Saturday that it is our own fault if a delivery system is not secured at once. The new Council has a duty to preform in this regard, in bringing the matter to the attention of the government, and pressing it. A petition should at once be sent to Ottawa from the council, followed if necessary by a deputation, consisting of the Mayor and Mr. McClellan. This no doubt would have the desired effect.

From the government blue book, just issued, we take the following information.

Cost of carrying the mails between Bensfort and South Monaghan, for 12 months, $65.

Bewdly and Millbrook, per month $20

STOMACH REMOVED.

The Operation Said to Have Been Successfully Performed in Tennessee.

A remarkable surgical operatioon was permormed several days ago on Albert Hansdorf, a German, living on Cherry street, says the Chattanooga Times.

Mr. Hansdorf is a machinist by trade and about two months ago, while peerforming his duties at one of the local foundries, sustained an internal injury. Dr. H. Berlin was called in. After a few days' treatment he was sent to Erlanger Hospital, and Dr. Berlin discovered that something was wrong with his stomach. He decided to perform a very difficult and dangerous operation to save the man's life—that of removing the whole stomach.

The arrangements were made, and Hansdorf was told that it was to be either life or death, and, giving his consent, on the appointed day, he was taken to the operating room at the hospital, put to sleep, and Dr. Berlin, in the presence of several other surgeons, began to use the knife, and in a very short time completed the most dangerous piece of surgical work ever performed in this city. The whole stomach was removed from the man's body and his entrails were put upon a marble table, where they were worked upon. The surgeons discovered the wrong and cut several entrails from the stomach, and, washing what was left thoroughly, placed it back in the man's body. The patient was then restored to consciousness. He remained in a critical condition for several days but is now improving, and will in all probability recover. However, it will be at least three months before he will be able to get out of bed.

Mr. Hansdorf is perhaps the only living man to-day who has only a portion of his stomach in his body and is not suffering the least bit of pain. His diet at present consists of milk and water, but it will be regulated from week to week until he can digest ordinary food without the least bit of trouble.

McIntyre vs. Thompson.—Judgment on appeal by defendant from judgment by MacMahon, J. Action for trespass to broken lot 6 in the 9th concession of Otonabee, and breaking down and destroying a fence erected by plaintiff and for an injunction against further trespass. The defendant set up title by possession to the land in question. The Trial Judge held that the matter was res judicata owing to the judgment in 1892 of Thompson vs. McIntyre between the same parties that judgment not dealing merely with the question of trespass but with the whole of the boundary line between lots 6 and 7, distinguishing Hunter vs. Birney, 27 Gr., 204, and also the defence that the statute of limitation failed. Appeal dismissed with costs. Pousette, Q.C., for defendant; Dumble, Peterborough for plaintiff.

LOCKED IN A STEEL VAULT

Boys Play a Trick on a Chicago Man Who is Nearly Suffocated.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—A tragedy in the stamping department of the Methodist Book Concern at 57 Washington Street last night was prevented only by a timely rescue. H. Spurgeon Farar who was working after hours in charge of a force of boys, was playfully locked in a steel vault and almost suffocated.

All the other departments in the Book Concern closed at the usual time and the building was locked. The stamping force remained on duty, and Edward K. Bowers, the only person who knew the combination of the vault, left at 8 o'clock, putting Mr. Farrar in charge.

A half hour later Farrar stepped into the vault, the door of which had been left open, for the purpose of procuring some stamps. Herbert Johnson the youngest in the room, thought it would be a good joke to imprison him there, and swung the door shut. Later the boys were terrified on finding they were unable to open the door.

Meanwhile Farrar was pounding against the door. His voice could scarcely be heard through the steel, and every minute it was growing weaker.

Mr. Bowers was hastily summoned, but it was two hours before Farrar was released. When the door was opened finally he was barely able to move. He was assisted to a window, where the cool air soon revived him.

ESCAPED GALLOWS

Arkansas Man Condemed to be Hanged Found to be Guiltless

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 9—A most remarkable development has just come to light in the murder case of Chas. Colbert, of Sebastian County, one of the most noted in the criminal annals of the State.

Colbert was convicted of the murder of Peter Hughes at Huntington April 21 last, and sentenced to be hanged on Aug 22. On Aug. 17 sentence was suspended by the Governor until Aug. 23 to enable his attorneys to present further testimony. On Aug. 24 the Governor refused to interfere. On Aug. 30, however, Colbert's attorney appeared and made an appeal which induced the Governor to grant another reprieve until Sept. 7, and on Sept. 6 he was oncemore reprieved until Nov. 9. On Nov. 5 a further appeal for clemency was made, and the Governor finally agreed to commute the death sentence to imprisonment for life.

A young man of Fort Smith named Ayres, who had been here for several days with Mamie Colner, of Fort Smith yesterday committed suicide by taking carbolic acid. Now the woman makes a sworn statement to the Governor that Ayres, who had never before been mentioned inconnection with the case had confessed to her that he was the real murderer of Peter Hughes, and that Colbert was perfectly innocent of the crime. Ayres and Colbert were residents of Sebastian County.

Governor Jones sent for Colbert today and had a lengthy talk with him.

Northwest Rebellion Recalled.

The Woodville correspondent of the Beaverton Express says: Mr. John McDougall, from Edmonton, N. W. T. called on Mr. J. C. Gilchrist on Christmas day and presented him with a photo of the grave of his son William, who was among the victims of the massacre at Frog Lake, on 2nd of April, 1885, preceding the North-west rebellion. Mr. McDougall was at Frog Lake in August last and having a camera with him took the photo, himself. In the background are two little crosses one over Gilchrist and the other over Williscroft, who was killed at the same time, and between the two small ones there is a large cross and the following inscription can be seen in the photo with a magnifying glass: "In memory of W. Gilchrist and H. Williscroft, victims of Frog Lake massacre, whose bodies were found and buried by Midland Battalion, on June 9th, 1885.

VAST FOREST RESERVE OF 1,400,000 ACRES

Important Action Taken by the Ontario Gove nment.

The Ontario Government has placed this Province in the position of having the largest area of forest reserve in proportion to its total area of any country in the world. The proposition to set aside the land surrounding Lakes Temagami and Lady Evelyn, probably Canada's most beautiful sheets of water, was carried through. The location of these lakes, as is well known is to the west of the Upper Ottawa River, and in the district of Nipissing. The region is as yet little known to the rest of the owrld, but the reports of surveyors and others who have visited it have been unanimous in commending the great natural beauty of these lakes and the desirability of maintaining the surrounding land as a mammoth pleasure resort when the north becomes more accessable and more settled.

Added to this there were physical reasons for the act now carried out. This region is the source of many rivers, and from natural laws it was wise to preserve the timber surrounding these headwaters, in order to even the rainfall and the flow of water. At the present time the lakes are not touched by any railway, but there is in existence a charter for a railway to James Bay, now controlled by Makenzie & Mann, which passes through the locality, and it is not improbable that the construction of this line may begin within a very few years.

The net result of the Government's action is to withdraw from settlement an area of 1,400,000 acres, or about 40 by 50 miles in a rectangle. Until the Government see fit to grant special permission, no one will be allowed to cut timber on this area, although there are said to be thereon five billion feet of white pine; but should this be done, part of the plan will be to reforest what is cut over, in order to keep a succession of forest growths in the reserve. Five rangers will be appointed to take precautions against what is the greatest enemy of the northland.

Previous to the present there were two much smaller forest reserves in the Province. One is in the rear of Addington and Frontenac counties, containing 80,000 acres, and the other on the point of land ending in Thunder Cape, Lake Superior, comprising 45,000 acres.

EMPEROR OF CHINA WILL GO TO PEKIN

Indemnity of $600,000,000 will, it is Said, be Demanded--Joint Note Still Unsigned.

Shanghai, Jan. 9.—A newspaper of this city publishes a letter from Sian Fu announcing that the Emperor has fully decided to return to Pekin to administer the reformed Government. According to this letter the Empress Dowager offers no opposition to the Emperor's determination.

INDEMNITY OF $600,00,000.

Pekin, Jan. 8.—It is expected that the powers will ask an indemnity of $600,000,000 from China for the Boxer depredations. The national indemnities are excessive, as Germany will ask $80,000,000; England $60,000,000; France $25,000,000, and Italy, $6,000,000. The United States will claim about $5,000,000, and as other arrangements have been made Russia's indemnity, will also be small.

Those who have made actual estimates declare that the Boxers done by the Boxers does not exceed $300,000,000. The amount of loot captured by the allies at Pekin is fixed at $50,000,000.

THE NOTE STILL UNSIGNED.

Pekin, Jan. 8.—Li Hung Chang is better. Both he and Prince Ching balked at signing the joint note when they considered the question, until the court should be heard again, explaining that the Emperor's edict directing them to put off signing prevented them from using the Imperial seal until permission should be received. They said they hourly expected permission.

It is known here among the Chinese that the extreme anti-foreign element is now in power and that the court favorites now advise the Empress Dowager. Of these the best known are Li Chuan Lin, a Cabinet Minister; General Ma, and Tung Fuh Siang. Their views coincide perfectly with those of the southern viceroys, particularly with those of Chang Chi Tung, who has threatened to rebel if the note shall be signed.

Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching strongly urge the signing of the agreement, and they believe their counsels must prevail. They have pointed out in the strongest possible terms that the very existence of Chin anecessitates the acceptance of the terms of the powers, and that failure on the part of China to sign may mean that as soon as the state of the weather shall make such a step feasible the allies will send troops over the country so that parts of the empire heretofore untouched shall feel the scourge of war.

THE SHAREHOLDERS ARE APPEASED

Stormy Scenes at the Meeting of the Globe Financial Corporation

London, Jan. 9.—Amidst cries of "Turn him out," hootings and other hostile interruptions the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, chairman of the suspended London and Globe Finance Corporation, Limited, at the extraordinary general meeting of the company called for to-day, succeeded in at least temporarily appeasing the wrath o fthe shareholders.

The hall was packed, and the directors were evidently supported by a considerable faction, as warm cheering was mingled with the hisses and hoots.

As a result of the explanations of the directors the shareholders voted an adjournment until Monday, when a scheme for the reconstruction of the concern will be submitted.

Lord Dufferin spoke with evident emotion, as he explaine dhis personal relations with the corporation, and the result of the meeting was largely a tribute to himself.

During the course of his remarks, he explained that he was induced to accept the chairmanship at the solicitation of the late Lord Loch, and Sir William Robinson.

His Lordship added that he felt that when two such eminent men were connected with the concern he could legitimately join. He soon discovered he had bitter opponents, who desired his resignation, hoping that a depreciation of the securities would follow. But he stuck to his position an dinvestments, and though a greater sufferer than most of the shareholders, he had no regret if he had helped to convince them of his good faith. Later he found the duties to be a physical strain beyond his advancing years, and he wanted to withdraw, bu twas haunted by the fear of the detrimental effect of his withdrawal, and he held on to the chairmanship until he received news of the serious condition of his youngest son. Then he yilded to his mother's prayer, to take her at once to South Africa, and he sent in his resignation with a clear conscience, believing that the surrender of his position under such circumstances was so natural that no one would dream of placister interpretation on it. He had no anticipation then that the London and Globe would default from its engagements on the Stock Exchange. The news reached him in Ireland, and in the presence of such a calamity he felt that every private consideration must be sunk.

In conclusion, Lord Dufferin, who was deeply moved, declared that the patience and generorsity with which the shareholders had heard him would be one of the brightest souvenirs of his old age. He resumed his seat amid loud cheers.

Mr. Whitaker Wright's reception was of a mixed character. He announced that the directors had practically arranged with the creditors, and that the company would soon be sailing smoothly again. It would be necessary to adjourn until Monday, when he believed the shareholders would hear that all their interests were safe, and that a scheme for the reconstruction of the company would be proposed, insuring its future prosperity. Mr. Wright added that he had advanced a quarter of a million pounds to tide the corporation over its struggles.

Mr. Wright's further remarks were listened to with considerable impatience, an dthe meeting closed with further cheers for Lord and Lady Dufferin.

SPORTING NOTES

HOCKEY.

The senior hockey players met a decisive defeat last night at the hands of the Wellingtons, the Toronto O.H.A. team. The result was not unexpected, for it has been recognized that the Peterborough players, though strong in individual talent, have not developed sufficient team strength to cope with the well trained aggregation from Hogtown. The play was very clean throughout, the only mishap being to one of the Toronto men, who caught his skate in a hole in the ice, and tried to make another with his head, resulting in his being disabled for a few minutes. At half time the score was 5 to 2 in favor of the visitors, and in the second half they increased their lead to 12, while Peterborough secured two more goals. The home team played a brilliant losing game, the last few minutes of play being characterized by energetic onslaughts upon Toronto's goal and the last point being scored just before time was called. The players were as follows:

Toronto—Goal, Morrison; point, Smart; cover point, Ardagh; forwards, Hill, Chadwick, McKay, Warden.

The visiting team appeared to be heavier than the local men. Quite a number of spectators from the city accompanied the Wellingtons.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 10, 1901

FIGHTING TOWARD THE POLE

The Russians, who have not figured extensively hitherto as explorers, are to take the ice field during the coming season and will push into the northern seas with a new sort of steamer, the Frmack, which is said to be fifteen times as strong in her sides and timbers—if she has timbers—as the ocean liners, and she can back off as easily, and be handled with as much certainty when running in that direction as when she is going ahead. Her propellers can be brought against the largest foes without suffering from the contract—they say. Her fore-propeller is an American invention, and the butting and crushing power of the ship has already been shown in a remarkable way by continuing its progress through floes fourteen feet in thickness and dispersing piled ice of double that height. Admiral Makaroff, who is to be in charge of this vessel, will enter the ice mass east of Franz Josef land and will there either engage with the floating cakes or will adopt the course of Nansen and Abruzzi, and drift with the current which keeps this white continent in westward motion. Either by drifting or pushing, or by alternating the two, he hopes to reach the pole.

The Admiral will have a rival in Mr. Baldwin of the Ziegler expedition, for the explorer has decided to make his start from Franz Josef land also, in order to leave the Greenland route to Peary, who may be on his northward way in this moment. Sverdrup is also an unknown quantity, for he was last seen in Lincoln Sea with the Fram and it has been thought, in spite of his denials, that he intended to hang upon the heels of Peary, or at least to keep him in sight, and ascertain his plans, with a view to acting upon them to his own advantage. Explorers are as eager and jealous of one another as are generals and admirals, and some of them would take a victory by a rival very hardly. Dr. Nansen has just received the assurance of a large subscription which will enable him to resume his own explorations in the north, for the pole still draws him, as it does all who have gone within 500 miles of it. Hence, the probability is that next year will be the busiest in Arctic exploration that has ever been known. And it is interesting and satisfying to discover that in all of these expeditions no arrangement has been made for suffering. The explorers will go in strong ships and will take food and clothing in such amounts as to reasonably assure them against the setbacks which come of shortages in the quartermaster and commissary departments.

CANADA'S CRIMINAL RECORD

The moral statues of the Dominion, as reflected in the criminal statistics of the year, has given rise to flattering comment in the neighboring Republic. The New York Mail and Express states that our comparative freedom from crime is "distinctly enviable." It notes that there have been but twenty-five indictments for murder in the year 1899, and that in the entire Dominion, containing sparsely settled communities, where there are frequent provocations to lawlessness and only a semblance of police authority, there was not a single case of lynching." Our contemporary thinks that the condition of the country may be attributed to our having but few large cities and a superior class of immigrants. But still more is it due to a vigorous and thoroughly organized system of jurisprudence, under which the law's delay is a thing unknown, and the administration of justice is swift and efficient, and to a uniform criminal code. This is, of course, unknown in the States, where the various State laws from a heterogeneous mass of no means conductive to sound administration in criminal procedure. The journal referred to pays Canada this compliment:—"It is undoubtedly to her vigilant expeditions and unhampered enforcement of justice that Canada owes much of her remarkable immunity from crime, and it is not at all unlikely that we on this side of the border, where ten thousand murders are committed annually, might profit by her example." And the Chicago Tribune, in its comments on the Blue Book, follows on something similar lines, and, referring to our prompt and effective administration of justice, says that it is the swift and sure administration of punishment which prevents more crimes which would be committed under a more lax and dilatory system. "Nothing," says the Tribune, "so effectually prevents crime as the knowledge that punishment will be swift and sure. In this respect our own methods of criminal procedure are clearly open to improvement."

•• • ••

The despatch which told of how the Czar toasted his cheering troops with a glass of brandy seems to show that the W. C. T. U. is not as influential in Russia as it is in Canada. Over here public toasts are not drunk with brandy, or if they are the brandy is called by some other name.

•• • ••

A Boer representative at New York suggests that the United States refuse to sell horses to Great Britain. So says a despatch. The Boer evidently does not understand Uncle Sam very well. Uncle Sam would sell fuel to Satan if he needed it and had the price.

•• • ••

Municipal ownership does not appear to be an unqualified success in Leamington. At least, it comes in for a good deal of adverse criticism, whether deserved or not. The natural gas plant is owned by the town, and it is charged that the Mayor has mismanaged the situation, used piping of too small calibre, shut off manufacturing enterprises in the interest of private residences, allowed an immense amount of gas to go to waste, and is generally showing a most reprehensible lack of executive ability. Without passing any judgement on the merits of the case, it is quite clear that municipal ownership is sometimes liable to develop ill-feeling, if nothing worse.

•• • ••

After looking down the muzzle of the gun for a few days, the emperor of China has decided that the terms of the powers are satisfactory.

•• • ••

With the Boers important events are not only taking place, but they are taking places.

•• • ••

Alcohol is useful for preserving things of a perishable nature, but it's bad to keep some kinds of New Year resolutions in.

•• • ••

A big trade in American coal is pending with France, a condition that should even increase the warm feeling between these two countries.

•• • ••

About the only thing clear from South Africa is that in the seat of war there they have not sat down on the Boers.

•• • ••

The Orillia Packet, which thinks it would be lovely if everybody would kindly start the new century free of debt appears to think also that the only way to achieve this desirable end is for all the debtors to pay up. That would be nice for the creditors. Another way to achieve the same end would be fore the creditors to write off their debts. That would be nice for the debtors.

IF YOU WANT TO CATCH FISH

Go fishing where fish have been caught by others. If you want to be cured take the medicine which has cured others. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures many diseases which seem remote from the stomach because it cures the stomach in which such diseases have their origin.

"Words fail to express what I suffered for three years, with cold chills, palpitation of heart, shortness of breath, and low spirits," writes Mrs. A. C. Jones, of Walterboro, Colleton Co., S. C. "I could not sleep and really thought I would soon die. Had a peculiar roaring through my head all the time. Was so emaciated and weak I could not feed myself. My aunt induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did only to please her, and six bottles cured me. To-day am sound and well. During the three years I was sick I had five different physicians."

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right. I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours,
I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Colyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the good work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 408 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

THEIR SILVER WEDDING.

Only Three things Wrong About the Story.

They were celebrating their silver wedding and the friends were admiring them as people always do other people when they are getting a lot of presents. You have noticed, of course, how people always look at you when you show them something somebody has given you. They are surprised and they envy you. They always wonder, however, in themselves what on earth any one could see in you to give you anything so handsome. That is unless it is your husband. Then they smile and wonder what he has been doing that his conscience needs rest. But if you'll notice you'll find that persons who get many presents have many friends. You may have many friends but get precious few presents. Presents make friends; friends don't make presents. Married people increase the circle of their friends with every anniversary of their wedding, because the presents get handsomer and more expensive. You can work this paradox out for yourselves, I haven't time.

They were celebrating their silver wedding, and of course the couple were very happy and very affectionate.

"Yes," said the husband, "this is the only woman I ever loved. I shall never forget the first time I proposed to her."

"How did you do it?" burst out a young man who had been squeezing a pretty girl's hand in a corner. They all laughed and he blushed; but the girl carried it off bravely.

"Well, I remember as well as if it were yesterday. It was away back in Maine. We had been out to a picnic, and she and I got wandering alone together. Don't you remember, my dear?"

The wife nodded and smiled.

"We sat on the trunk of an old tree. You haven't forgotten have you love?"

The wife nodded and smiled again.

"She began writing in the dust with the point of her parasol. You recall it sweet, don't you?"

The same old smile and nod.

"She wrote her name 'Minnie,' and I said, 'let me put the other name to it.' And I took the parasol and wrote my name—Smith—after it."

"How lovely," broke out a little maid who was beaming in a suspicious way on a tall chap with a blonde mustache.

"And she took back the parasol and wrote below it, 'No I won't.' And we went home. You remember it darling. I see you do."

Then he kissed her and the company murmured, "How nice."

The guests had all departed and the happy couple were left alone.

"Wasn't it nice, Minnie, to see all our friends around us and so happy."

"Yes it was. But John, that reminiscence."

"Ah, it seems as if it was only yesterday."

"Yes, dear; there are only three things you're wrong about in that story."

"Wrong? Oh, no!"

"John, I'm sorry you told that story because I never went to a picnic with you before our marriage; I was never in Maine in my life and I never went through that parasol business with you."

"My darling, you are wrong."

"I'm not wrong. You know I have an excellent memory. We have been married twenty-five years but I never knew about that minx Minnie. You never told me of her before."

I guess that she'll forgive, but it is doubtful if she forgets.

He Needed the Money.

A local real estate dealer tells this story:

Some time ago he had an allotment on the market and one day a foreign-looking individual walked into his office and said he wanted to inquire about the lots. He looked over the plat and finally picked out one that suited him.

"Vot's der price?" he asked when the location was decided upon.

"Eight hundred dollars."

"I give you six houndred cash."

"Very well," said the dealer, "you can have it."

Then the customer lowered his voice.

"I vant der price of dot lot seex houndred to me, but eight houndred to effrybody else. You understand?"

"Yes," said the dealer. "That will be all right."

"Vell, you see, it's like dees—I'm goin' to get married. I've got der girl picked out, und she has money. You see you vill sell der lot to her for $800. Den you vill motion to me, und ve vill go into der next room und you will pay me dat $200. See?"

"You want the $200 for a commission?" said the dealer. "That will be all right, too."

The customer looked relieved.

"It's choost this way," he said. "I must have dot two hundred or I can't get married."

"You shall have it," said the dealer.

A few days later the future bride, her mother and the coming bridegroom entered the office. The papers were quickly prepared and signed, and the mother from the intricacies of her skirts produced a wad of bills which proved to be the necessary $800.

Then the bridegroom lingered behind as the bride and her mother passed into the hall. The dealer hastily counted off the $200 and thrust it into the bridegroom's hand.

"I have to have it," whispered the latter.

"All right," said the dealer.

"I couldn't get married without it."

"I understand," said the dealer.

The man with the two hundred paused, with his hand on the doorknob.

"I have to have it," he hoarsely murmured, "it is for my first wife's funeral expenses!"

WIVES OF PRESIDENTS.

Personal Appearance of the Women Who Have Ruled the White House.

Of mistresses of the White House one of the most popular was Mrs. James K. Polk. Like Mrs. Cleveland, she was a brunette, and of fine presence; it was often remarked that not a crowned head in Europe could queen it more royally than the wife of the republican President. Poets penned verses in her honor, and on the last Sunday of her stay in Washington a clergyman addressed her from the pulpit. She was treated with great distinction, and after leaving the White House was visited every New Year's by the Legislature in a body.

Mrs. George Washington also had dark hazel eyes and brown hair. She was not a beauty, but she had a good form, rather below middle weight, and her manners were frank and engaging. She dressed plainly and at a ball given in her honor she wore a simple russet gown and white handkerchief about her neck. One of her dresses which she herself manufactured was of cotton striped with silk, which she obtained from ravelings of brown silk stockings and old crimson chair covers.

Mrs. Monroe was considered a beauty. She was tall and gracefully formed, polished and attractive in society. Mrs. John Adams was never beautiful, but she was of imposing appearance and very intellectual.

Mrs. John Quincy Adams was famed for her charming manners, and Mrs. Andrew Jackson for her amiable temper and kind heart. Mrs. Martin Van Buren, who died before her husband became President, was a pretty woman with modest, unassuming manners and gentle disposition.

The first Mrs. Tyler was one of the belles of eastern Virginia, and was most attractive in her striking loveliness of person and character. The second Mrs. Tyler was the first woman to marry a President. Before her marriage she was, for the one season she spent there, the belle of Washington.

A sparkling brunette was Mrs. William Henry Harrison. She was very handsome, with a face full of animation, and her health, which was robust, added a glow to her features, which increased her charms. "Upon her countenance," it is recorded, "nature had been profusely liberal."

Mrs. Thomas Jefferson was remarkable for her beauty. Her complexion was brilliant; her large, expressive eyes of "the richest tinge of auburn." A little above medium weight, she was slightly and delicately formed. She danced, sang, played the spinnet and harpsichord and rode with great skill.

Mrs. James Madison was a pretty, buxom woman, with a smile and a pleasant word for every one. She had regular features and sparkling eyes.

Mrs. Zachary Taylor was a quiet woman, but had great strength of character and the true spirit of the American heroine, enduring patiently privation incident to life on the frontier, where her husband, as Major Taylor, was stationed. She had no ambition beyond making her home happy.

A blonde of rare beauty was Mrs. Millard Fillmore, with a skin of dazzling whiteness and auburn hair. She was quite tall with a fine figure and of commanding presence. She is ranked with the wives of the two Adamses as a learned woman, and it was through her that her husband asked for and obtained an appropriation of Congress to buy books for the White House. Up to that time there had been a Bible there, and little more.

Another woman of rare beauty was Mrs. Franklin Pierce. She also had many accomplishments. She was very refined and quiet, shunning society.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln as a girl was very attractive, and she had many suitors. When she became the mistress of the White House she was "fair and forty." That she was the successor of the popular and accomplished Miss Lane was not a point in her favor. At the first levee she appeared in pink silk, decollete, short-sleeved dress and a floral headdress, which ran down to her waist, and destroyed what comeliness simplicity might have given her.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson possessed the beauty of face and form which rendered her mother one of the most beautiful of women. Mrs. Grant was a blonde, of delicate figure, rather below middle stature. Mrs. Hayes was of very attractive appearance. Mrs. Garfield was noted for her tact, and her husband once said that he never had to explain away any words of his wife.

Mrs. Arthur, who died before her husband became President, was known as "the beautiful Miss Herndon with the marvellous voice" before her marriage.

Mrs. Harrison was fair as a girl and possessed a blonde style of beauty, which also belongs to Mrs. McKinley.

How Congress Spring Was Named

When John Taylor Gilman, a member of Congress, visited the log houses which chiefly constituted Saratoga in its early history, he was accompanied one day on a hunting ramble by a young son of the woodsman with whom he boarded. When they returned to the cabin the boy enthusiastically shouted, "Oh, ma, we've found a new spring!" "Who found it?" he was asked. Turning to the distinguished lawmaker the little fellow admiringly exclaimed: "Why, the Congress!" And to this day the name has clung to one of the most celebrated of the springs which made the place a sanitary resort long before it became the seat of summer fashion.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Early Premier.

"I'm going to be proud of that small boy of mine one of these days," he exclaimed, earnestly.

"Is he talented?"

"No. He's going to be a business man. I told him last week if he'd be a good boy I'd take him to the circus. Instead of taking me right up, he thought the proposition over for a minute, and then asked me if I thought it was a good circus."—Washington Star.

LOST between Friday and Sunday evening a pocketbook containing a sum of money. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving it at The Times Bookstore.

Good Penmanship

Some specimens of artistic pen work may be seen in Mr. Madill's window. These are the work of Mr. A. Pringle, of the Peterborough Business College.

Golf Club Theatricals

The sale of tickets for the Golf Club theatricals is proceeding in a manner most gratifying to the members. The plan will open at Ormond & Walsh's on Friday.

Beaten by 18 Votes

The many friends of Capt. Donnelly in this neighborhood will regret to hear that he was beaten in his race for the Kingston civic chair by 18 votes. Capt. Donnelly is a young man, and will no doubt come to the front again.

Will Arrive Tomorrow

The Peterborough members of the Second contingent are expected to arrive to-morrow. It is understood that Col. Edwards is preparing to give the boys a fitting reception. We hope to see the town handsomely decorated for the occasion. Further particulars will appear in to-morrow's Times.

Returned Yesterday

Bombardier Brown, it is said, returned yesterday morning, and walked from the station to his home in the north end. The Times was unable to find out if it was the gallant South Africa soldier who got off the train yesterday. There is no doubt, however, that some one of the volunteers returned, for he was seen passing up Water street in the early morning.

The Cereal Company

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe, in mentioning the fact that the McKay Milling Company, of that city, is winding up its affairs, says: "Mr. W. Scott, who of late years has successfully managed the affairs of the company, has accepted a similar position with the American Cereal Company of Chicago. This firm will establish a Canadian branch, possibly at Peterborough, which Mr. Scott will manage."

Municipal Ownership

One striking feature of the discussions at municipal meetings this year was the almost unanimous expression of opinion from speakers and audience alike in favor of municipal ownership and operation of public franchises. The candidates almost, without exception expressed their adherence to the principle, and practically placed their own civic careers at stake by coming out in favor of the town owning the Water Works. Let us see what progress will now be made in the direction of this purchase.

Should be Rewarded

There is a strong feeling in town that the volunteers who have returned and are to return from South Africa, should be given some tangible expression of appreciation by the citizens. A fund for the purpose we think, when once started, would rapidly grow. We understand that funds are being collected to purchase a gold watch for Corporal Perch Price, and it would seem to us that watches should be given all around. The boys really deserve all the good things we can bestow upon them. Mayor Denne and Col. Edwards might start the ball rolling.

To the Electors

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Having again done me the honor of electing me as one of your representatives on the Board of Aldermen, I have to thank you for this further proof of your satisfaction with my humble services. I value this indication of your confidence all the more because it has been given without any canvassing on my part.

Yours truly,
JOHN CORKERY

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN

—Don't miss "The Kilties." Plan opens at 9.30 o'clock this morning at usual place.

—A double decked car of hogs was received at the Matthews Co. factory yesterday from Fenelon Falls.

—A meeting of the Men's Association of St. John's will be held in the Guild Hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

The best protection against fevers, pneumonia, diphtheria, etc., is in building up the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—The ratepayers in Lindsay voted in favor of a house of refuge, by 894 to 144. They also carried the town lighting by-law by 300 majority.

—At the police court yesterday morning, Fred. Burley, a young boy, was charged with carrying a revolver. The case was enlarged for one week.

—Mr. J. J. Turner left this morning for Montreal, where he will meet his son, Achilles. Mr. Turner expects to return with his son to-morrow evening.

—Ex-Ald Spence, Toronto, is authority for the statement that there is not a half dozen cities in Scotland in which gas is supplied by private companies. If municipal ownership will pay in Scotland, it should pay in Peterboro.

—It is said that Mayor-elect Denne has ordered a new suit of clothes for the Mayoralty inauguration. That is all right. No harm will be done if he gets out of some of his old habits when he climbs into the civic seat.

—The Rosslyn Castle has arrived at Halifax, and Peterborough's soldier boy, "Chill," is once more on Canadian soil. Yesterday morning Achilles wired to his father the following message, "Happy New Year, all well." It is not exactly known just when Chill will arrive in Peterborough, but he should receive a warm reception.

—Mr. F. W. Miller has received two very interesting letters from his son Thomas, who is serving in South Africa. The first, is written from Springfontein, on December 22nd, and the second from Albert Junction, Cape Colony. Private Miller is in excellent health and expects to visit his parents before long.

A new book by Charles M. Sheldon, the famous author of "In His Steps," never fails to excite the interest of thousands of readers. "Born to Serve" is the title of the latest book by Mr. Sheldon, and the advanced sheets indicate a very strong book indeed, one of thrilling interest to the thoughtful reader, one in which with a master's hand many of the cankers of social life, of domestic unhappiness, of the broader woman problem, of social reform at the vitals of society—are laid bare, with cultured delicacy, but none the less with graphic, unflinching truth. The Canadian rights have been secured by The Poole Publishing Company, Toronto, but as the story will not appear in book form for some time the publishers will run it as a serial in The Presbyterian Review, beginning with the issue of the 3rd inst., thus enabling the readers of that paper to have this most interesting work in advance.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. Denne's condition remains about the same.

—Mr. Percy Strickland was down from Lakefield yesterday.

—Mr. J. H. Brandon, of Fenelon Falls, was in town yesterday on business.

—Mrs. J. H. McClellan received a telegram yesterday from her brother Mr. Harold Reynolds, who has just landed at Halifax on the Rosslyn Castle from South Africa. His mother has left Montreal to join him in Halifax.

—It has been decided that the assembly which was to have taken place at the National Hotel on Friday evening will be postponed until the week after next. The committee in charge of the affair is as follows: Messrs. J. Crane, D. Davidson, E. C. Complin, A. S Houston, F. C. Napier, Gordon Pozer, C. A. B. Poussette, Victor McWilliams, A. A. Hollingshead and Alf. Terrill.

Painless Dentistry

In order to prove to the people of Peterborough and vicinity the merits of my local anæsthetic, I will extract any teeth that have lost their usefulness, absolutely without pain and without charge on Friday and Saturday afternoons of this week, between 2 and 4 p.m. I will, for one month only, make the regular $10 sets of teeth for $5. These are the best you can get. It is no $8 set, but a $10 set for $5. Come early and make sure to be waited on.

George Got Up Early!

He had been out late. When he reached his residence on St George street the clock was chiming five. Heavy, weary, disgusted, he opened the front door with some difficulty, and softly toiled up the stairs, entering the bed-chamber with elaborate caution. Thank goodness, she was asleep He dropped into a chair, and, without taking off his coat or hat, began to remove his shoes. One he placed with great care upon the floor, but alas! as he took off the other it slipped out of his hand and fell with a loud noise. "Wifey" awoke on the instant. "Why, George, what are you getting up so early for?" Talk about reprieves. "Why, my dear," replied George, with the clearest enunciation of which he was capable "I found I couldn't sleep, so I thought I'd get up and go out and take a walk." And out the poor wretch went, dragging himself round wearily for an hour upon the verge of tears and torpor.

WISE LANDLADY

Understands How to Increase Her Business

The landlady of a certain restaurant in Brockton, Mass., has increased her business so rapidly that she has had to enlarge her dining room to accommodate the continually increasing patronage. One of her guests gives the reason.

"Every morning she serves her regular guests with Grape-Nuts and hot milk or hot cream in cold weather, and cold cream in summer. I began eating this food and right away began to feel an improvement in my health. I had been terribly troubled with nervousness and dyspepsia and found it impossible to find a food that would agree with me, until I began boarding at this restaurant.

"The new food, in four months, increased my weight from 120 pounds to 145 and I never felt as well in my life as I do now. There is something remarkable in the sustaining power of this food. I have never been able to obtain such results from any other." G. R. Hersey, 30 L Street, Brockton, Mass.

ENGLAND'S MILITARY CONDITION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I have noticed with some astonishment that in some American papers on the South African war they have more than once stated that the weakness—unpreparedness is the better word—displayed by England at the beginning of the war had destroyed her prestige and made her a less formidable foe.

I don't understand how they reason this out, for certainly no Government in Europe, except England herself, was unaware of her military shortcomings. I don't believe that any foreign Chancellor or Minister is overjoyed that England has been rudely awakened and has now 200,000 seasoned thoroughly trained (in the modern sense) soldiers in South Africa, officered by men who have learned their profession in a bitter school, with the further knowledge that unless they attack England in the next two or three years they will find her a first class military power, even according to their own standards. And what about the beautiful enthusiasm and unity with which her colonies have supported her and the perfection of her transport service?

In my opinion this little war—for the cost and loss of life have been slight considering the great result—was sent by Providence to warn of her peril the only nation in the world that understands and practices that liberty and freedom so dear to Americans.

Is it not remarkable that the two great Anglo-Saxon nations almost at the same time have been taught the same lesson by wars forced on them by weak nations which were sure to conquer in spite of martial blunders?

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

HASTINGS.

Mr. and Mrs. Spellman of the Clarendon House, held their annual family reunion on New Year's Day. The gathering consisted of the members of their own family and their relatives, who passed a very social and happy time together. The jolly host and genial hostess did the honours for the occassion in a right royal manner. It was a feast of good will and affection, and the glow of good feeling opened up new pleasures of mutual good will for the new year. Mr. "Hank" Johnston was in his usual genial spirits. His speech was glad and cheery, and his jokes bright and humorous. Between the courses he served out to the lovers of the weed his choice brand of French cigars, which he brought back with him from the Paris exposition.

OTONABEE.

The pupils of School Section No. 16, Otonabee, in saying farewell to Miss Duff, who is leaving to attend Queen's University, presented her with the following address and a beautiful ring.

Dear Miss Duff,—

We, the pupils of School Section, No. 16, Otonabee, having learned with regret of your intended removal from our school felt we could not let you go without some expression of our esteem and respect for you. During your stay amongst us you have endeared yourself to us, not only as a teacher, but also as a friend.

Your constant aim has always been our highest advancement in knowledge, and while at times we may have appeared careless and indifferent yet we assure you that your efforts have not been fruitless. Time alone will tell the good foundation you have laid.

In bidding you good-bye we ask you to accept this ring as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held, and as you wear it may it be a pleasant reminder of the boys and girls of Cold Springs.

Signed on behalf of the school.

A Warning to Municipalities.

Some time ago the Corporation of Brockville purchased the plant of the Brockville Gas and Electric Light Company for $85,000 on valuation by Willis Chipman, C. E., Toronto. The light commissioners recently engaged at New York expert named Mr. Blossom to make an inspection of the plant. His report has come to hand, and it practically condemns the whole plant, which is not only out of date, but in a very bad condition. The value of what material might be utilized would be about $30,000, but the wiring, etc., is of little account. To repair the systems as they now stand would cost about $63,000. Mr. Blossom favors concentration of the two plants and building an entirely new system at an estimated cost of $125,000. The ratepayers readily see now that they have been buncomed. Municipalities, like private individuals, should look before they leap.

THE C. M. B. A.

Officers for the Ensuing Year—A Social Time

The installation of officers of the Peterborough C.M.B.A. took place Tuesday night, Mr. James Bogue, District Deputy, as installing officer.

The following gentlemen took office for the ensuing term:—

Chaplain—Ven. Archdeacon Casey.
Chancellor—George Ball.
President—James O'Brien.
1st Vice-President—H. Phelan.
2nd Vice-President—J. Hickey.
Recording Sec.—G. H. Giroux.
Assistant Sec. H. Carveth.
Financial Sec.—P. J. Lotts.
Treasurer—John Kelly.
Marshal—W. J. Devlin.
Trustees—John Cronin, W. J. Devlin and P. J. Doris.
Guard—John McCormick.

After the newly elected officers of the C.M.B.A. had been installed, the President, Mr. James O'Brien, entertained the officers and members to an oyster supper at Potvin's restaurant. An hour or so was spent most enjoyably in speech making, songs, etc. An interesting feature of the evening's proceedings was an address by the retiring president, Mr. Geo. Ball, on his recent visit to the Paris Exposition. His address was highly descriptive, touching as it did, on the customs of the French people. Concerning the sights at the Exposition, Mr. Ball said that one could not realize their greatness unless one had seen them.

Lost His Scalp Forty-four Years Ago.

"There is an old fellow living near Grenada, in my State," said a Memphis man at one of the hotels, "who was scalped by the Indians back in '56. I saw him recently when I was down in his neighborhood looking after the title of some farm property, and was greatly interested in his story. He is now about 70, tough and gnarled as a tree, and the mark of his horrifying adventure consists of a curiously ridged and indented scar, about four inches across on the top of his head.

"He says he was one of a party of emigrants who had taken what was then known as the 'Fremont overland trail,' for California, and while passing through southern Kansas he and two other young men left the main party to ride after some antelopes They were intercepted by Indians and his two companions killed. He himself was shot in the back and fell off his horse senseless. The firing was heard by the other emigrants, and a rescue party drove the savages away. But meanwhile, they had scalped this young man, and when picked up he was at first supposed to be dead. He was carried back and the next day turned over to some eastbound travelers, who took him to St. Louis. He told me it was over a year before the wound began to heal, but, of course his memory may be at fault as to particulars. The wonderful part of it is that he recovered at all in those days when skin grafting was practically unknown. He used to hide the scar with a toupee, or patch wig, but at present he is entirely bald and wears a tight-fitting cap.

"I dare say he is the only man in the world who ever survived such an ordeal. His forehead, by the way, is curiously wrinkled in vertical lines and his eyebrows are raised out of the natural position. That was what first attracted my attention to him. He says it was caused by the healing of the wound."

ONE CENT A YEAR

Is the Salary That Frank Lynch Will Receive From the Government.

Iowa County, Wisconsin, lays claim to having the lowest-salaried official in the employ of the United States Government. The Government hires Frank Lynch for I cent a year to carry the mail between Dodgeville, the county seat of Iowa County, and Mineral Point, nine miles distant.

It is the law that such employes shall be paid quarterly, but Lynch, although he has been carrying the mails regularly since last July, has as yet received no quarters of a cent or check for those amounts. The young man is not looking for any remitances on his salary until next July, when he expects a check for a whole cent. It is supposed this will be the smallest check ever issued by the Government and efforts have already been made to secure possession of it. The mail carrier has received several offers of $15 or $20 for the check, but he has so far warily avoided any definite entanglements.

Both Dodgeville and Mineral Point have railroads, but there is none between the two towns. The trip from one place to the other by rail is so roundabout that it is out of the question, so passengers and mail are driven across country. Whoever has the contract for carrying the mail feels that he is certain of all the passenger trade, for no one has yet had the courage to compete for passenger business with the United States mail carrier. For this reason the transfer of the mail is deemed a valuable privilege.

Every four years the post office department advertises for bids and the contracts to lowest bidders for transfer of mail sack. Last year there was the liveliest competition ever known for the Dodgeville-Mineral Point contract. Several different men signified their intention of going into the contest, and the "talk" was kept up until each bidder knew he would have to go pretty low to get the prize, the man who then held the contract had been receiving about $40 per year for carrying the mail. It is said that when the bids for the new contract were opened in Washington it was found that the three lowest offers for carrying the mail per year were 1 cent, 39 cents and $1.50. Frank Lynch, being the 1 cent bidder, was awarded the contract for four years.

A Convoy Taking Supplics to Gordon's Brigade Attacked bv Beyers' Commando.

London, Jan. 10.—Boer attacks upon the British, though persisted in with a perserverance whic his truly admirable and worthy of a better cause, are everywhere proving obortive. The most recent despatch from Lord Kitchener tells of a determined attempt to cut the British line of communication between Pretoria nad Delagoa Bay, which took place on Monday last. The operations were on a large scale, seeing that four places on the railway—Belfast, Wonderfontein, Nooitgedacht and Wildfontein—were attacked simultaneously, and seeing that the two most widely separated of the points assailed are over 50 miles apart, a large number of men must have been engaged. The attack was signally defeated, thus proving that the British are better than the Boers, even when following purely defensive tactics. The cost on both sides was heavy, as the official despatch shows.

A SLAUGHTER OF THE BOERS.

London, Jan. 10.—Lord Kitchener telegraphes from Pretoria under date of Wednesday, January 9, as follows:

"On the night of January 7th the Boers made simultaneous and determined attacks upon all of our posts at Belfact, eWenderfontein, Nooitgedacht and Wildfontein. Intense fog prevailed, and taking advantage of the cover it afforded, the Boers were able to creep up close to our position. A heavy fire continued until 3.40 p.m., when the Boers were driven off. One officer was killed and three wounded, while 20 men were killed and 59 wuonded. The loss to the Boers was heavy, 24 being counted.

"A convoy, taking supplies to Gordno's brigade, north of Krugersdorp, was attacked by Beyers' commando yesterday (Tuesday). The Boers were driven off, leaving eleven dead on the field. Our casualties were four slightly wounded.

Pretoria, Jan. 10—In the recent fight between Gen. Babington's command and a Boer force near Zandfontein, the Imperial Light Horse suffered severely. Having learned nothing by previous experiences, they advanced in close formation up a hill that had previously been scouted by the Hussars, who reported that they found no sign of the burghers. The Boers, however, were lying in the grass. They allowed the Hussars to pass without molestation, reserving their fire until the Imperial Light Horse were within 50 yards of them.

RODE INTO AN AMBUSH.

When the British found they had ridden into another ambush, they dismounted and kept up a hot fire. Seeing that his men were losing heavily, the colonel ordered them to retire. Subsequently they again advanced in extended order, and drove the Boers from their positions and captured a good part of their convoy. The colonel rode at the front of his men, and stimulated them by his extreme bravery. The leading squadron sustained several casualties.

Seven hundred Boers at Lindley ambushed 200 of the men who formed Lord Roberts' bodyguard when here and killed Lieut. Land. There were numerous other casualties.

Gen. Botha's commando, reported to be 1,500 strong is east of the Springs.

NO CHANCE TO LOOT.

Horses and vehicles are being commandeered for the use of the Colonial Defence Corps in the districts in which martial law has been proclaimed.

It is understood that Gen. Kitchener has decided to evacuate all the towns outside the lines of communication. Thus there will be no convoys for the Boers to capture and loot, his idea being to prevent the burghers from replenishing their supplies at the expense of the British taxpayers. All districts which cannot be adequately protected and patrolled will be denuded, while the lines of communication will be more efficiently guarded.

ROYAL
Absolutely Pure
BAKING-POWDER

No inferior or impure ingredients are used in Royal for the purpose of cheapening its cost; only the most highly refined and healthful.

Royal Baking Powder imparts that peculiar sweetness, flavor and delicacy noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, rolls, etc., which expert pastry cooks declare is unobtainable by the use of any other leavening agent.

Alum is used in making cheap baking powders. If you want to know the effect of alum upon the tender linings of the stomach, touch a piece to your tongue. You can raise biscuit with alum baking powder, but at what a cost to health!

Railway Notes.

—The C.P.R. authorities have decided to level up the main line between Claremont and Myrtle, and the heavy grade at Locust Hill will disappear.

—The Wabash Railroad authorities have issued an order that passengers must alight only from the rear doors of their coaches. They believe this will facilitate the movement of passengers and be of material benefit to all.

—William Polson, head of the well known Toronto iron works, who died th eother day, was at onetime mechanical superintendent of the Cobourg, Peterborough & Marmora Railway, and later on held a similar position on the Grand Junction Railway at Belleville.

Gilmour Lumber Contract.

Lindsay Post.—It may not be generally known that the contract entered into last July by Mr. J. Carew with the Gilmour Lumber Co., of Trenton, was the means of distributing in Lindsay some $8,000 or $10,000 of what might be termed foreign capital. The contract was for the cutting of three million feet of hemlock lumber and plank, and was practically filled when navigation closed. Since then the firm's representative here, Mr. John Lozo, has been busy shipping out the stock, and completed the task yesterday. The firm is well pleased with Mr. Carew's performance, and have entered into another contract with him for the cutting of two million feet next season.

Heroic Treatment for Fever.

Port Hope Guide:—While Mr. W. N. Ball, Wesleyville, was very low from typhoid fever a few nights ago, about four o'clock in the morning, his nurse had occasion to leave his room for a few minutes. While she was out she heard a terrible crash, and hurrying back found her patient had jumped through the window, carrying the sash and glass with him. His father, Mr. A. N. Ball, was hurriedly called, after a search found his son enjoying a snow bath in a fence corner. He was returned to bed, and strange to say, the doctor found his patient much improved, but somewhat cut from a barbed wire fence he had encountered while out of bounds. Though it worked in his case, the doctor does not contemplate prescribing such heroic treatment to rall typhoid patients.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society.

The Yearly Reports Submitted—Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year.

The nanual meeting of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society was held in the Town Council Chamber Wednesday night.

There were present, the President, Dr. Burnham, in the chair, Mr. Felix Brownscombe, Secretary-Treasurer, and Messrs. Percy Hamilton, W. H. Foord, T. A. S. Hay, Adam Hall, W. H. Hill, Jas. Stevenson, James Head, Jas. English, and others.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read, an don motion adopted.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of the directors was read by Mr. Felix Brownscombe, Secretary-Treasurer, and was as follows:—

To the members of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society.

Gentlemen,—We, your directors, beg to submit the following report. The annual exhibition which was held last year on the 6th of September, was not as well patronized as regards exhibits and attendance as the one of the preceding year, and we feel that if success is going to done to increase the number of exhibitors, and also the attendance. For a town the size of Peterborough and having the large number of very pretty lawns and flower gardens which we have, it certainly shows a lack of interest to see that only from 15 to 30 persons can be induced to bring displays to our annual exhibitino. This lack of interest could, we think, be considerably overcome if we had a small committee whose duty it was to look up all thae epersons who are likely to have displays and prevail on them to enter enter the same for exhibition. Then there is another change, which if made, we think, result in more entries being made; that is, to large increase class No. 3, which is the only class open to professionals and market gardeners.

As regards Victoria Park, we have done considerably work there this past year in th eway of trimming trees and levelling up the grounds which have been disarranged by the building up of the new sidewalk on Water street, but as our means are so very limited, we have not been able to do nearly all we would have liked to. One piece of work which should have been done was the re-building of the slat walk leading up to the County Buildings, and this will have to be attended to this coming summer in order to avoid accidents.

As regards the caretaking of the park for th ecoming summer, it has been suggested to your Directors that instead of giving on eperson the whole contract of planting all the beds and attending to the park in general, we should ask the different florists to tender for supplying the plans for and planting one or mor ebeds each, and that then the society of the plants and grounds, but who would have nothing to do with supplying the plants. This is we believe a matter which should receive your careful attention, and which it might be well to try.

All of which is submitted on behalf of the directors.

Geo. Burnham, M.D., Chairman.
F. Brownscombe, Sec.-Treas.

The report was adopted on motino of Mr. W. H. Foord, seconded by Mr. Adam Hall.

The following statement of receipts and expenses was presented by Mr. Felix Brownscombe, Secretary-Treasurer:

Considerable discussion took place regarding the advisability of again requesting the Town Council to take better care of Central Park. If the Council do not intend doing anything regarding this, the society will ask them to make a grant which will be judiciously spent in putting the front strip of Central Park in condition.

For this purpose the Directors will wait upon the Town Council in a body.

In accordance with the suggestion contained in the Directors report, the florists of the town will be asked to tender for the planting of the various beds and a caretaker will look after the general work etc.

The secretary was instructed to write the County Council with reference to the slat walk in the centre of Victoria Park, notifying them that unless the same is re-built the society will take steps to have it torn up.

The meeting then adjourned.

POINTERS FOR ROAD BUILDERS.

Short Lessons for Township Councils, by Mr. A. W. Campbell, Provincial Road Commissioner.

Do away with the statute labor roll entirely.

To rise the money required, levy a rate on the assessment of the township.

For road purposes divide the township into a convenient number of divisions, usually four.

Apportion the money equally among th eroad divisions, keeping in view all circumstances, viz: Importance of roads, works needed on them, benefit resulting to the greatest number of people, amount of traffic assessment, etc.

Appoint on etownship road commissioner to advise and consult with, and carry out the directions of the council.

Councillors should not act as commissioners, as they are subject to unduo influence from the ratepayers, and their term of office is uncertain.

A general plan for road improvement should be laid down by the council for the commissioner to follow.

This plan should specify the width to be graded, width and depth of road metal, character of drainage, etc., of all roads.

Roads of importance should not be less than twenty-four feet between the inside edges of open ditches. No roads should b eless width than eighteen feet.

Early in the year the council and the commissioner should go over all the roads to consider the work to be undertaken.

Work of construction, such as hauling gravel, ditching and drainage, building of bridges and culverts should be done by contract, and supervised by the road commissioner.

No account for labor or material should be paid by the treasurer except on the certificate of th e road commissioner.

Minor work, repairing should be done by day labor, only the road commissioner should employ, direct and discharge the men or teams needed to operate the machinery.

Should the council desire to interfere in any of these matters they can do so through the commissioner.

The same men and teams should be hired to operate the machinery the entire season, or longer if possible, as they become proficient and do better work. This applies particularly to the operation of a road grader.

The commissioner should keep a pay roll to return quarterly to the council showing who has been paid and the amount paid, th eroll to be then filled for auditors.

The roll will act as a check on favoritism on the part of the commissioner. Work should be divided as much as possible among the residents of the township desiring it.

Work should be commenced with a definite end in view, and continued systematically from year to year if necessary, until the entire road mileage has been brought to a proper standard.

SHOT BY HUSBAND.

An Unfaithful Friend's Attachment Cost Him His Life.

Laurel, Pa., Jan. 11,—Edward Lynch residing twelve miles east of Laurel, was shot and fatally wounded last evening by his neighbor, Joseph Baker. Both men are prominent farmers and the shooting, coupled with the scandal that led to it, has created a sensation such as this country never before knew. Both men bore excellent reputations. Lynch has a wife who is an occupant of a ward for the insane at Farnhurst. The two men were the best of friends until three weeks ago when Baker was informed of his wife's unfaithfulness.

His wife is a most beautiful woman, and Baker loved her madly. He could not believe the reports, but kept a close watch, which proved the truth. For his children's sake and the love he bore his wife he pleaded with both and threatened to kill Lynch if he ever saw him with his wife again.

A few days ago neighbors told Baker that during his absence Lynch had visited the house.

Again the broken-hearted man pleaded with the wife, telling her that he would not only kill Lynch, but her as well, if he ever knew of their intimasy again. Yesterday he drove to Georgetown and consulted a lawyer, asking what would be the consequence if he killed Lynch. The lawyer told him it was a hard matter to advise him in a case of that kind, but if he was being treated so he would kill the damned rascal.

Baker drove home just as the sun was setting. His wife was gone. There is a little Methodist church, with a thicket back of it, just across the road from the pretty Baker homestead. Baker though perhaps his wife had gone to the thicket to call up the chickens, as she frequently did so. He stepped across the road. He had gone only a few steps when he came across Lynch's team hitched to a tree, and, looking around a pile of brush, he discovered the wife and his friend.

Both pleaded for mercy, Lynch saying "For God's sake, Joe, don't kill us." Baker was unarmed, but cried, "Yes, you wretches, I will," and rushed for the house, where he secured his double barreled gun, loaded with No. 6 shot. When he returned the wife had fled and Lynch had just turned his team and put the whip to his horses, but he was a moment too late.

Baker took deliberate aim and fired both barrels at the fleeing Lynch who toppled out of the buggy with a whole load of shot in his body. The shot passed through the right kidney and the liver. Lynch is living, but the doctors say he cannot last the night out.

After the shooting Baker calmly harnessed another horse and retraced his steps to Georgetown, where he reported to his counsel that he had acted upon his advice and killed Lynch. He then surrendered to Sheriff Roberts.

Married at Bobcaygeon.

A wedding occurred at noon on Wednesday at Bobcaygeon, in which a well-known young man of Belleville was one of the principals. It was the marriage of Mr. James Gorman, of Belleville, and Miss Rose Platt. The ceremony took place in the Anglican Church and was performed by the Rev. W. J. Creighton. M. A. Owing to a recent death in the bride's family the affair was quiet. After a tour in the west Mr. and Mrs. Gorman will take up their residence in Belleville.

EIGHTY-FIVE THOUSAND CHINAMEN AT SIAN FU

A Large Army of Boxers are Preparing to Defend the New Capital.

Pekin, Jan. 10 — A Chinaman from Sian Fu, where the court is at present, says that within the city 85,000 Chinese troops are drilling continuously, and the majority of them are armed with modern rifles. He says that the feeling of the people there is bitterly anti-foreign, and that they believe that they can meet the allies in open fight and defeat them. The Ministers are considerably astonished over the Chinese grant to Russia of a concession north of the Pei-Ho, at Tien Tsin. It is compared with the British and French concessions combined. The grant, according to the Russians, was made ovluntarily for services in endeavoring to bring about peace. The Ministers think that the concession constitutes good pay when considered in addition to the annexation of all Manchuria.

Li Hung Chang believes he will receive to-morrow a favorable reply regarding the signing of the agreement. Senor Cologan, the Spanish Minister, thinks the negotiations will commence at Pekin and possibly end in Europe. M. de Giers, the Russian Minister, thinks the negotiations will end at The Hague.

FOOD TAKEN TO THE WRECK RUSSIE

Lifeboat Reaches the Stranded Steamer Where 102 Lives Were in Danger.

Marseilles, Jan. 10—A message from Faraman at 9 o'clock this morning says that in spite of the heavy sea still running a life boat succeeded in reaching the French steamer Russie at 8 a.m., and attached a line to her by which food could be furnished to the 102 passengers and crew. Those aboard had all been cooped up in the forecastle since Monday evening, when the vessel stranded, and were famishing.

It is felt that the rescue of the endangered persons is probable, now that communication has been established.

Dawn found the situation of the stranded steamer Russie unchanged. The wind blew with terrific vi olence all night long, but the rain has ceased. On the bridge and forecastle of the steamer some of the crew and passengers can be plainly seen. The first signal this morning said:

"Hasten or we die of hunger."

A few minutes later the following message was signalled:—"We are constructing a raft, which we will try to launch with a sail."

A PROGRESSIVE SOCIETY

Report for December of the Y. W. C. A. Sunshine Society Recently Organized

The members of the above society have been busily engaged during the holiday season, first, by securing talent for a concert, which was held on Dec. 13th, at the Y.W.C.A Rooms, and which was a success both financially and otherwise. The members of the society contributed cake and coffee and a very pleasant evening was spent. With part of the proceeds of the concert, cambric of many colors was bought, which was made into picture books for a Christmas tree which was held at the rooms on Friday evening, Dec. 28th. Many very kind ladies sent pictures, also other articles, the former, which came in good season, were used in helping the girls to make the cambric books, which were pretty and over thirty in number. At the Christmas tree over thirty little children were entertained and sent home happy with gifts from the society.

This is the initiation month of the society, and though young in the work and few in number, we will be pleased to have the names or homes of children who need sunshine in their lives. To such the members will be glad to do what they can in helping.

The officers are as follows: Hon. Pres., Miss Collings; President, Miss A. Whiten; 1st Vice-pres., Miss E. Whiten; 2nd Vice-pres., Miss Porter; Secretary, Miss M. Robson; Treasurer, Miss B. Crowe; Press Correspondent, Miss M. Chambers.

BIG TUBE PLANT ON ERIE'S SHORES

Building to Cover a Mile of Ground and Outfit Will Cost $12,000,000

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 10.—In explanation of the extensive land purchases of the Carnegie Company at Conneaut Harbor, Ohio, President Charles M. Schwab to-day made clear the plans of the company. He says that for over a year the Carnegie Company has contemplated entering into liens of manufacture other than those in which it has been engaged hitherto, and the first step in carrying out this purpose is to be taken at once by the establishment of the largest pipe and tube manufacturing plant in the world, at Conneaut Harbor, Ohio, which is the Lake Erie terminal of the Carnegie, Pittsburg, Bessemer, and Lake Erie Railroad, 153 miles from Pittsburg.

The company has purchased 5,000 acres of land immediately east of the Conneaut Harbor docks, and a large part of this tract will be utilized as a site for the tube works.

With the works established at Conneaut it is the expectation to rush shipments during the navigable months, April to December, and thus reduce transportation charges to not more than one-third or even one-fourth of the rates now charged for rail shipment. The Bessemer railroad at present returns hundreds of empty cars daily to Conneaut, and with the works on the lake shore completed, the road will have a back haul of coal and coke, the transportation of which will cost virtually nothoing.

The works will stretch over a mile of the lake front, and will be the most extensive and complete plant of its kind in every branch ever built. It will include all essentials in the scale of pipe and tube manufacturing, from the ore to the finished product. The general system of operation will be continuous, the ore being unloaded from vessels at one end and worked through the successive stages of iron and steel making in a direct line to the finished pipe and tubing at the other end. Electric power will be employed principally for driving the machinery.

MANY SOLDIERS MISSED THE TRAIN

Halifax Despatch Says that a Quarter of them are in Halifax.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 10—Twenty-five per cent. of the soldiers missed their train last night, and were left here. As their tickets were carried away by officers, who left on the train, they cannot, of course, leave to-day, but must wait until the tickets, which have been wired for, are returned. The belated ones will not therefore be able to leave until to-morrow.

Engine Passed Over Him

Toronto, January 10—A trackman employed in the Grand Trunk yards had a wonderfully narrow escape from losing his life about 11 o'clock this morning. He was walking along the track near the foot of Peter street, when he slipped in the snow while attempting to step aside from an approaching engine. He was caught by the tender of the engine, and fell with his head in front of the wheel. His body rolled over twice under the engine, which finally passed clean over him, leaving him unhurt, with the exception of a few bruises. Martin Hogarty saw the man fall, and called out to the engine driver. Runnign to the spot, expecting to find a crushed body, Martin was surprised to see the man rise to his feet, with the remark, "I guess I'm a lucky man."

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 11, 1901

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Elinor Graham was nearly fourteen years old. The thought that this last day of September was almost over made her very happy; for the morrow would be her birthday,—the day for which she had long been impatiently waiting.

Elinor's birthday had always been most elaborately celebrated, she was the only child of rich parents, and had never known what it was to want anything and not have the wish gratified.

What she longed for most, however, money could not procure. Elinor had no real friends, girls of her own age, with whom she could have the good times that girls ought to have. True, it was her own fault; for who seeks as a friend a girl who always must have her own way, or else be disagreeable?

This year, on the eve of her birthday, Elinor was more excited than usual. She had received that morning from her grandfather a letter telling her he would arrive in the evening, to stop with her parents until after his little granddaughter's birthday.

He also wrote—which pleased her most—that he had made all the arrangements for having her birthday the best she had ever known.

"How delightful!" she thought; "for grandpa always plans such nice surprises, and then he is so pleasant to have a change!

When night came, Miss Elinor went to bed quite contented, for grandfather had come, and there was more than the usual amount of whispering going on down stairs.

The next morning she was up bright and early, and going to the window, saw it was a fine, clear day. The broad green lawn stretched before her, sparkling with heavy dew, but, regardless of all this wonderful beauty, her only remark was, "Well, I'm thankful it is a decent day, so I can wear my new dress!"

With a toss of her pretty head, Elinor ran down the great stairway and along the broad hall, where to her surprise, she met the three conspirators of the night before, who had been walking in the garden secretly planning for the day's celebrations.

"Good morning, dear!" said grandpa, in his cheery voice. "Now for my fourteen kisses and pinches! It won't do to leave those out!"

Elinor, the all impatient, could not wait for caresses, and, freeing herself in a very rude manner, rushed to the dining room where she expected, as usual, to see at her plate packages of every shape and size.

For a minute she stood silently gazing at the table, too bewildered to speak; for, instead of the presents of which she had been so sure, there was nothing before her but a bunch of freshly picked wild flowers.

Elinor was very angry, and her first impulse was to cry. But as she was a little afraid of her big, quiet grandfather she controlled herself with some difficulty She recalled grandpa's promise that this should be the best birthday she had ever known, and concluded that her pleasures were to come later.

Nevertheless, in her displeasure and impatience, she refused to eat the delicious breakfast set before her.

After the others had left the table, and she still sat, quite alone, thinking of her many troubles, she heard her grandfather's voice saying:—"Come, little girl, get your hat, for you are to spend the rest of the morning at your Aunt Mary's and stay there for luncheon. In the afternoon I will come for you. And when you return here it will be time to dress, and you will find your entire costume in your room. I chose it, you know, because this is my party."

This was another surprise for Elinor, and not a welcome one. She had set her heart on wearing her new dress, and she felt sure that was not the one her grandfather would choose.

She passed a not unpleasant morning with her aunt, in spite of her fancied hardships, and when she saw her grandfather coming for her, was surprised to find how time had flown.

"Are you ready to come, dear" said he, taking her hand and looking down at her with a smile. The recollection of the dress she was to wear was again troubling Elinor's mind, and she responded with no answering smile to her grandfather's greeting.

Immediately, on reaching home, she went to her room, thoroughly prepared for fresh trials and disappointments.

On entering, she walked slowly to her bed, and there, all fresh and clean, was a simple blue gingham dress, with no ruffles or trimming of any kind. Beside it, white as snow, lay apron, cap and 'kerchief.

Alas, poor Elinor! It was as she had feared—no silk dress for her to-day, and everything different from what she herself had planned.

It was some time before she could make up her mind to even try on the costume. But, finally attracted by the novelty of the attire, she began to dress; and her toilet was soon completed.

What was her astonishment, on looking in the mirror, to see how dainty and pretty was the image reflected there! She fairly flew down stairs in a flutter of expectation; for she felt that her fun was really to begin and that other surprises in store for her might be equally pleasing.

Through the open door she saw her father and mother standing on the lawn, deep in conversation with her grandfather. Tiptoeing up to them, and holding up her skirts daintly, she made a low courtesy, saying. "Ladies and gentlemen, is there any way in which I can serve you?"

"Yes, little maid," said grandpa, "you can come with me and decide whether the preparations for the afternoon's fun are satisfactory."

Elinor had not been out on the great lawn back of the house since early morning, and what a transformation had taken place! There, like white pyramids, were pitched two large tents. In one, little tables were arranged, with chairs around them. In the other, at some distance from the first, there were larger tables heaped with sandwiches of every kind, with fruit and simple cake; while near by standing in a row, were great buckets of ice cream, enough to astonish one!

"O, grandpa, dear, what does it all mean? And why did you want me to dress like this?"

Instead of answering her question, grandpa took her hand, and started back toward the house, saying: "Now, my dear, I think we had better see if our guests are arriving. It is nearly time!"

When they reached the front gate he put his hand to shade his eyes, and gazing awhile intently up the road, suddenly turned and said: "Here they come. Elinor, I am quite sure. But your eyes are better than mine Look and tell me what you see."

"Oh, no, grandpa; these can't be they! I see only some little children that look quite poor, and two—no, three—ladies with them."

"Wait until they come a little nearer," said the old man, smiling.

"How now, Elinor? Are they coming here or not?"

"They are not my friends," cried Elinor "But I do believe they are coming here. They are! O grandpa, who are they? And what shall I do?"

"Stay child! You wouldn't leave your guests, would you?" he said, as Elinor was turning to go. "I want you to welcome them, for I invited them to come!"

By this time the little strangers were so near that Elinor was obliged to do as she was told; and they looked so timid that she began to feel sorry for them. And strange to say, she ceased to think of herself, and felt for the first time the responsibility of being hostess.

She dropped her grandfather's hand, and going forward rather awkwardly, but pleasantly, spoke to the children, and welcomed them in a way which surprised the good old gentleman after her former behaviour.

Taking the hand of the child nearest her she led the way to the barn, where the cows stood quietly chewing their cuds. Then the delighted children followed her to the stable, where the horses in their stalls looked around as if surprised to see so many young visitors. They even went to see the pigs, always eager to be fed, and always interesting to children, in spite of their poor manners.

These are the wonders that a child from a city institution so loves to see.

Not many minutes had passed before Elinor was enjoying the party more than any one present, and had learned from the older children of those others that, because of illness, had been obliged to remain in the city.

Suddenly Elinor heard her name called. Leaving the children, she went in response to the summons. Another surprise! There were eight of her schoolmates, girls of her own age, coming up the walk. They were dressed exactly as she was, with apron and cap. They had been invited to entertain the children, and wait on them when the feast began.

Oh, what fun every one had! and what surprise and pleasure when supper was served in the great tent! After that was over and it was time for the children to return to town, they walked up to Elinor to say good-bye. And, when each in turn received from her a little present, it seemed as if their joy knew no bounds. They could only sigh, and say, "What a beautiful day we have had!"

And Elinor! Where were all the gifts she had expected to receive in the afternoon? She never even thought to ask; and, when she went to bed that night tired out with all she had done, she felt that she did owe to grandpa the best birthday she had ever had, although she did not exactly understand the reason.

The next morning Elinor arose, thinking of the little children. She hoped she would see them again some time when she went to town with her mother.

After she had finished her breakfast and was just starting out of the room her grandfather came in, and said: Elinor dear, you have not yet had your birthday present. We must have forgotten it! There it is now, in front of the door!"

Elinor looked out of the window, and saw, to her astonishment, the dearest little pony and cart she had ever imagined.

She flew out of the house to pat the little horse, and danced around it in her glee.

Then, quickly coming back again she looked up into her grandfather's face, saying, "Grandpa, do you know what I shall do now? I am going to drive in to the Children's Home very often to carry flowers, and take them to drive!"

Grandpa smiled approvingly, yet at the sometime a little doubtfully; for he felt that Elinor's enthusiasm was likely to die out before very long.

Disappointments will come, however, and this time he had the pleasantest one he had ever known. No one could have been more faithful than Elinor. The girl, once so fond of self that she had no thought for others, was now growing each day more closely in character and in spirit more womanly.—Christian Register.

Young Matrons

Who preserve the charms of face and figure in spite of an increasing family and the care of growing children are always to be envied. As a preservative of health and beauty Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been hailed by women as "a God-send" to their sex. It gives the strength and health upon which happy motherhood depends. It practically does away with the pains of maternity. It enables the mother to nourish the infant life depending on her, and enjoy the hourly happiness of watching the development of a perfectly healthy child.

Mrs. Orrin Stiles, of Downing, Dunn Co., Wis., writes: "I have been intending to write you ever since my baby was born in regard to what your 'Favorite Prescription' has done for me. I cannot praise it enough, for I have not been as well for five years as I now am. In July last I had a baby boy, weight 11 pounds, and I was only sick a short time, and since I got up have not had one sick day. I have not had any internal trouble since I got up. I was not only surprised myself but all of my friends here are surprised to see me so well."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, every woman's friend, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of customs and mailing only. Send 31 stamps for paper covers or 50 stamps for cloth binding to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. A WONDERFUL

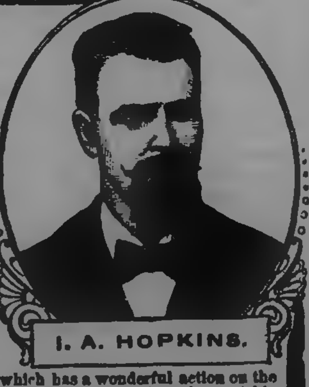
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.



I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail, to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 503 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

AMERICA

Did Not Derive its Name From Amerigo Vespucci.

That America derives its name from Amerigo Vespucci has long been regarded as a certainty. Now, however a historian comes forward and assures us that this is not the case. This historian is Ricardo Palma, Director of the National Library of Lima, Peru. In a book which has just been published he insists that America was not named after Amerigo Vespucci, but that, on the contrary, Amerigo Vespucci was named after America.

Senor Palma, who has studied this subject for years, maintains that Vespucci's first name was Alberico. "The name 'America,'" he says, "is derived from a place in Nicaragua, being the name of a hill in the province of Chantoles. Furthermore, the penultimate syllable 'ic' is very often found in the words used by the Indians of South America and by the natives of the Antilles. The syllable itself signifies something large and lofty, and is found in the names of non-volcanic mountains."

He further points out that Columbus did not use the word "America" in his letters when he referred to the events of his first voyage. "It is more than probable," he continues, "that he learned through one of his attendants of the discovery of gold by some natives in a place called America. In this way it is likely that the name gradually became known throughout Europe. At that time the only geographical account of the western hemisphere was the one by Alberico Vespucci, which was published in Latin in 1505, and in German in 1508. Geographers presumably came to the conclusion that Alberico had given the name America not merely to a single hill or mountain, but to the entire country.

"When the first map of the continent bearing the title 'Provinre of America,' was published in Barcelona, in 1522, Columbus and his companions were long dead, and there was no one to protest against the misuse of the name. Furthermore, there was no one in all Europe who bore the name Amerigo, and as Vespucci's name was Alberico, geographers and historians would surely have given the new continent this name if they had desired to honor him in this fashion.

"Newly discovered countries were only named after soverigns, as we see in the case of Georgia, Louisiana Maryland and the Philippines, and when explorers did give names to countries they selected those of their own families, as we see in the cast of Vancouver and Magellan. The origin of such places as Columbia, Columbus and Colon can also be clearly traced."

A Machine to Water the Desert.

Several machines have been invented for making the heat of the sun produce steam or electric power, but a Washington man is the first to turn such a device to practical use.

William Calver is now about to set up one of his sun-power machines in Arizona, near Phoenix, and dig wells in the desert. His plan is to make the intense heat of that hottest part of the United States develop the power to pump up water enough to irrigate all the barren land.

Everybody knows what a transformation a little water makes on a desert, producing an oasis of tropical verdure, while all beyond this watered space is desolation and death. It is usually so expensive to drill wells and pump the water on a desert that it does not pay to reclaim the waste land. But, if the overabundance of sunshine on the desert can be utilized the problem is solved.

Mr. Calver's machine consists of a set of big mirrors and lenses, by which he focuses the sun's rays as a boy does with a burning glass. The heat which can be generated by Mr. Calver's machine is said to be equal to a furnace for a 500 horse power boiler.

With such a power as this available wherever one sees fit to set up his plant, it is easy to see how well drilling and water pumping can be done on a large scale. Geologists have found in recent years that our southwestern deserts have almost numberless subterranean streams flowing at depth varying from 25 to 250 feet below the dry, parched surface of the earth. So there need be no lack of water if the borings are intelligently directed.

The amount of arid lands which lie in Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado is estimated to be at least five hundred millions of acres. this is rendered useless by the need of water, and the reclamation of this land would add billions of dollars to the wealth of the country.

In many sections of Colorado and other States in which irrigation is used, the best farming lands in the country are those which were formally worthless and are now artificially watered, and the very finest crops in the land are grown there.

An Appropriate Text.

A little girl who lives up town went to church last Sunday. She is a bright little maiden and, considering her tender age, only six, she is decidedly intelligent. Her mother has been suffering from the grip and didn't accompany her, and as her father was away from home she went alone.

Whether it was the loneliness of the big pew or whether the church was poorly heated, mamma wasn't quite sure, but, anyway, the little maid came home and declared she was very chilly.

"My toes got so cold while I was sitting there, mamma," she declared. "And so did my fingers and my nose. I don't believe there was hardly a speck of fire in the furnace."

"That was too bad," said mamma; "did the other people seem to suffer, too?"

"Oh, yes, they did," cried the little maid. "They just shivered!"

Then mamma thought she would divert the little maid's attention.

"What was the text, dear?" she asked; "can you remember it?"

"I should think I could," was the quick answer; "I can 'member every word of it."

"Well, what was it?"

The little maid put her head on one side and screwing up her face, shrilly intoned:

"'Many are cold, but few are frozen!'"

And mamma had to admit that it seemed remarkably appropriate.

Willing to Concede.

At a convival party, recently, a gentleman who had returned from a lengthened tour in the East, was relating some of the wonderful things he had seen on his travels. The yarns he spun were decidedly "steep," but the guests politely accepted his statements as true. Encouraged by the reception accorded to his tallest stories he ventured to state that he had seen at the foot of the Himalayas a tiger forty-three feet long, from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail. This was too much, and everybody kept silence, until a gentleman from Oban dryly remarked:

"Oh, yes, the works of Nature are very wonderful and very large whatever. Just last week I saw a skate brought ashore at Oban, which covered a quarter of an acre of ground."

Nobody spoke, and amid the silence the Eastern traveler left the room. The host, perceiving that something was amiss, rose and followed him.

"Is there anything wrong?" he asked.

"I have been insulted," said the traveler. "That Scotch gentleman has dealt a blow at my veracity, and I cannot return until he apologizes."

Anxious that harmony should prevail among his guests, the host returned to the room, and explaining matters to the company, asked the Highlander to make an apology, if merely for form's sake.

"Weel," said he, "I'll no just apologize, but tell him to come back and take a few feet off the teegur, and we'll see what can be done wi' the skate."

He Could Wait.

A boy was sitting lazily in the stern of a boat dangling his feet in the water, when a man from the dock called sharply to him:

"What are you doin' there?"

"Nothin'," responded the boy.

"Do you get any pay for it?"

"No," and he drew one foot out of the water, ready to run if necessary.

"Why don't you go to work?"

"Will you get me a job?"

"Yes."

"Steady?"

"Yes."

"Pay anything?"

"Well, no," hesitated the man—"not the first week."

"How about the second?"

"Then I will."

"All right; I'll come round the second week. This is good enough for me now," and the boy put his foot back into the water, and winked at the man on the dock.

Success and enjoyment characterized the event as they do all affairs given by this excellent hostess. Mrs. Sheridan wore black brocade and a dainty pink waist; her daughter, Mrs. Gray, was as usual very smart in black satin and blouse of pale grey, done with tiny gold buttons and black velvet. Mrs. Stratton wore a frock of scarlet cloth, with corsage of black velvet and lace. A Four Dollar Note.

The Bob. Ind. suggests that the new four dollar bills be printed in a different color so as to be easily distinguished from the ordinary one dollar notes. Our contemporary is right. In the rush of business mistakes are liable to occur. The exact price of this great family journal, when paid strictly in advance, is $4 per year, which fact no doubt influenced the government in presenting this issue to the people, so as to facilitate making change. But there is always the danger in handling so many thousands of these bills daily, of mistakes that could be avoided by a change of color. Our contemporary makes another suggestion: The object of issuing the bills is that they shall go into circulation. How long is it since anyone has seen one of the four dollar bills hitherto issued? If the Government does not intend the new bills to be held by the banks and does intend it for the public convenience, then it will not hand them to the banks, but place them in circulation through the money order branches of the Post office department.

An American View.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The following letter appeared in the Montreal Star, and is worth reproducing.

The following article by L. B. Chandler, taken from the New York Journal, is quite to the point of the subject that has been attracting so much attention I beg for it a place in your columns.

Not all women are financiers any more than all men are gifted with good executive ability. If a close and unbiased study of the problem was made it would reveal the fact that the average woman is equally as good a manager as the average man, but she is rarely given any credit.

Every true woman has the natural instincts of home and motherhood, but she, many times, drowns these instincts because she knows so well that as a married woman she might not have as much as the usual servant gets, but would surely, in addition, take up many more responsibilities.

I am, at present, receiving $166.66 per month (January 31 my cheque will probably read, $175). I began at $10. I am sent by my firm over the United States and Canada, expenses paid. I meet the leading business men and statesmen of the country. I do not deny that my responsibilities are great, and that I do much hard work. But does any one think I would care to change places with the average woman whose husband does not think her capable of selecting his roast of beef for dinner, or a pair of stockings for his children; whose judgment he cannot trust to pay the milk bill or the baker? Who, if she wants to spend a couple of dollars for some personal adornment or comfort must ask him for the money and be criticized about it?

I think God there are men who makes their wives a part of their own life; who believe that the woman they have taken to share their joys and burdens, their prosperity or adversity, to bear the sacred responsibility of motherhood, is also capable of using judiciously and economically all the money that he can spare from his business and that she will lay aside for the future all that she can.

There is not confidence enough between husband and wife. Wives have no idea of their husband's financial affairs, and in their ignorance of them make requests for money, run accounts that they would never have thought of doing had their husbands been frank and let them know what his income was.

Between the husband and wife, as God intended, there is no question of "allowance."

Yours for better homes.

"I never thought for one moment that coffee was the cause of my worn out feeling and dull headaches and energy all gone, until I began to notice that my bad feelings came on every morning after drinking coffee for breakfast, no matter how well I felt when I got up.

"I began to think the subject over and finally decided to try Postum Food Coffee in place of common coffee and see if it was coffee that had been hurting me. After making the change, I discovered, to my delight, that the headache and worn out feeling did not come on after breakfast.

"After a very thorough trial I am fully convinced that coffee was the cause of my trouble, and that leaving it off and using Postum Food Coffee has restored me to health.

"My father, who has had very poor health for several years, quit coffee some time ago and began using Postum in place of it. It would surprise anyone to see how much he has improved.

"When I boil Postum twenty minutes and serve it immediately while it is hot, with good rich cream, I think it far excels any coffee.

HAULTAIN.

We regret exceedingly to announce the death of one of Haultain's most estimable young men in the person of John Conroy, eldest son of Mr. Michael Conroy, who died on New Year's night. The cause of death was pneumonia, which baffled the skill of the several doctors in attendance. The deceased was 22 years of age, and one who by his stirling qualities made for himself many friends. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of the community in their sad affliction. The funeral took place on Friday, January 4th, from the family residence at Haultain, proceeding to St. Mary's church, Young's Point, and thence to the Young's Point R. C. cemetery. ROSENEATH.

Wednesday evening, January 2nd, was the occasion of a very pleasing and happy event in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, of Roseneath, it being the marriage of their youngest daughter, Sarah, to Albert James Whetung, of Chemong. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Tomlin, of Alderville, in the presence of a few friends. The bride was becomingly attired in a costume of cream cashmere, with white satin trimming. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Hattie Whetung assisted the bride, while Mr. Robert Franklin, brother of the bride, ably supported the groom.

After the happy couple had received the congratulations of those assembled, an adjournment was made to the dining room, where a sumptuous and tastefully arranged repast was prepared. After teh good things had been partaken of, a fe whours were pleasantly spent.

The bride was the recipient of a number of beautiful and useful presents for housekeeping.

Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

ASPHODEL.

The demise occurred on Tuesday of another of Asphodel's old and much respected landmarks in the person of Janet Nelson, beloved wife of Adam Beavis. On Dec. 23, 1847, the deceased was united in marriage to her now sorrowing husband, who with ten children, seven boys and three girls, mourn the loss of a kind, wise, patient, and loving wife and mother. For the past six months she has been in failing health. Paralysis followed, and the weary and worn body succumbed, but the spirit no doubt entered into the full enjoyment of that life beyond, "where the iwcked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest." Her long residence and consistent life made her much respected by all who knew her. Her place in the Methodist church, of which she was a life-long member, will be missed, but she will be welcomed by many who have gone before. Neither husband nor children mourn as those without hope, all of whom can reflect with kind remembrance of the consistent and upright life set before them in a God-fearing wife and mother. Both family and relatives have the profound sympathy of a very large circle of acquaintances and friends.

BOER INVADERS ARE AGAIN REPULSED

Another Commando Crosses the Border bnt is Defeated.

Cape Town, Jan. 11.—The British warship Sybil has anchored in Lambert's Bay, and landed a force of blue jackets and a number of guns. The force has constructed entrenchments.

Hertzog's main body, seven hundred strong, with two guns, has crossed the Roggeveld mountains, and is now probably in the neighborhood of Eland's Drift, 50 miles east of Clan William. Hertzog's intention apparently is to move towards Ceres and Worcester. Only a few wagons are available for the guns, and the whole country is difficult to traverse. The passes are narrow and easily defended.

According to the latest reliable reports another party of 500 Boers has reached the Doorn River, seventy miles south of Calvina. The authorities are doing all in their power to meet the situation. Refugees from Calvina and Clan William are flocking to Picquetberg road. They state that many poor whites are certain to join the Boers. Then, too, many bitter bondsmen in the neighborhood of Clan William and Malmesburg openly declare that they intend to join the invaders.

BOER INVADERS REPULSED.

Cape Town, Jan. 11.—A small commando, about two hundred strong, crossed the Orange River near Aliwal. It was met on the borders of the Aliwal, the Woodhouse and the Barkley East districts by a body of police, and mounted farmers, and was repulsed with some loss. It probably will again attempt to cross the river.

De Wet was last reported in the neighborhood of Bothaville.

All the towns in Orange County, on the main line of the railway, are strongly held by the British, and the Boers show no disposition to approach them.

NO CHANGE IN THE SITUATION.

London, Jan. 11. There is still little change for either better or worse in South Africa. This morning's despatches report that a small party of Boers carried off cattle close to the east fort at Pretoria. Nine hundred Boers, under Commandant Beltzinger, are 15 miles from Richmond, in the direction of Murraysburg. Rumors are spreading at Porterville that the rebels have joined the Boers in the Calvinia district.

BOERS' MOBILITY.

It is the wonderful mobility of the Boers which still prevents the Imperial forces from coping with them effectually, and makes their suppression as difficult as the crushing of a ball of quicksilver with the finger.

A Government report, issued last night at Cape Town, states that the Boers invading the Cape Colony avoid the railways, and the towns where there is even a small garrison. They keep continually on the move. They are commandeering all the horses and foodstuffs in their neighborhood, but are not otherwise doing much damage. Being exceedingly mobile, having no positions to hold, no artillery, and no transport, they have so far succeeded in avoiding any serious conflict with the forces which are pursuing or opposing them. The engagements which have taken place during the week have been only skirmishes, involving very small loss on either side. Kritzinger's commando have been operating in small bands in the country lying between Graaf Reinet and Richmond. As their line of retreat is threatened it is probable that they will march south.

BOER ATTACK DEFEATED.

London, Jan. 11.—The following despatch has been received from General Kitchener, dated Pretoria, Jan. 10:

"The Boers attacked Machadorp last night, but were driven off before dawn.

"Hertzog's commando is in the neighborhood of Sutherland, Cape Colony. Settle is organizing a column to head him off.

"In the midlands and eastward the Boers have broken up into small parties, some returning north and some hiding in the mountains northwest of Jamestown."

HE HAS PREACHED FOR FIFTY YEARS

Jubilee of the Rev. Francis Andrews Celeqrated in Keene.

The following appeared in last night's Toronto News:

Fifty years ago to-day Rev. Francis Andrews, then an ardent and eloquent young man from the north of Ireland, was inducted into the pastorate of the Presbyterian church in the village of Keene in the county of Peterborough. A half century has passed away and he still preaches the Word of God in the same village and with almost the same ardor and eloquence as he showed at the commencement of his ministerial career. Under his guidance the church has prospered wonderfully. The old roughcast building in which the parents and grandparents of the present generation first heard him preach was superseded about fifteen or twenty years ago by a more substantial, handsome edifice.

Not long after his appearance at Keene, he Baptized the infant daughter of the late William Forsyth. The child grew into girlhood and womanhood and eventually became the wife of the man who had baptized her. Their first-born, Mr. James Andrews, is now engaged in the office of the Grand Trunk roadmaster at the Union station. In the year 1886 Mrs. Andrews passed away, and since then the reverend gentleman's household has been directed by his only daughter.

As the years have passed one after another into the past, the venerable minister has found himself all the more firmly entrenched in the hearts not only of the members of his church but of the whole community, and to-day his jubilee is being celebrated in Keene by a great gathering from far and near. His flock chose from their number a committee who have invited representatives from nearly every family around, Catholics as well as Protestants, to join in the jubilee. Congratulatory addresses are to be delivered in the afternoon and a banquet will follow in the town hall.

One very remarkable feature of Mr. Andrew's pastorate has been the faithfulness with which he has discarged his duties. In all the long years of the past half century he has been missed very, very few Sundays from his pulpit, and sickness is almost unknown to him. Storm or shine he was on hand. In the forenoon he preached in Keene. Then he would snatch a dinner and drive to Westwood, a village several miles distant, where he would preach to another congregation. There is scarcely a Presbyterian within a radius of ten miles who has not been either baptized or married by him. Many who were babes when he first came to Keene are now grandparents, and of all who sat under him fifty years ago there now remains scarcely one.

Mr. Andrews has made a habit of taking a meditative ramble every day. In cold weather he protects himself with a Scottish plaid.

Two guests of importants who were to have been on hand were Principal Grant and Principal Cavan. The death of Mrs. Grant has interfered with the former's visit, and the latter is suffering from an attack of grippe.

INTERVENED IN WILL CASE

Crown Requests that the Civil Action be Postponed

London, Jan. 11—An important feature of the Sifton will case yesterday afternoon was the presence of Mr. William Lount, who appeared for the Attorney-General and asked that the case be postponed.

Mr. Hellmuth objected to the application on the ground that the Crown had already been represented in Mr. Magee, and that the case was a private one, and not of the nature in which the Attorney-General should interest himself. Mr. Lount replied that he had received more recent and fuller instructions that Mr. Magee.

AN AWKWARD POSITION.

Mr. Justice Robertson said that the Attorney-General had certainly placed the Judge in a very awkward position, and that it was not right of him to do so. The Attorney-General had no right to interfere in a civil action, particularly after being invited over and over again, and declining to be represented. Now, after the case had been fully gone into and argued and the court was prepared to dispose of it, the Attorney-General came forward and asked to be heard after every other effort to postpone the case had failed. The counsel for the Attorney-General, said the Judge, would be heard, but if he (the Judge) could not conscientiously give effect to the Attorney-General's wishes, the latter must not expect him to do so.

Mr. Lount explained that the Attorney-General had not intervened before because he had waited the result of the appeal.

The Attorney-General had the right to interpose in the interests of public justice, and ask that the civil action be not tried till after the criminal case, as, to a large extent, the determining of the will case might affect adversely the Crown's case against Gerald Sifton. There would be no loss or risk to the plaintiffs in having the civil case postponed. It was in the public interest that the case should stand over.

QUITE UNPRECEDENTED.

Mr. Justice Robertson said that in his 50 years' experience at the bar and on the bench he had never known the Attorney-General to interfere with a civil action. It had been urged that the trying of the will case would prejudice the murder case. The Judge considered that the charge of forgery against Edgar Morden should be gone into, and as it could not be investigated in the murder trial, it should be done first in the civil suit. If it was made manifest that forgery had been committed, that disposed of the part played by the will in the murder trial. It was quite in the interests of public justice that is Morden is charged with being a forger, he should clear himself of the charge, and no man's life placed in jeopardy by the evidence of a forger and perjurer. His own view was that the civil suit should be tried first, in order that the real truth in connection with the will should be known. The Crown need not be anxious as to the outcome of the case, as the Crown's only desire should be to see justice done, and not to convict an innocent man. Mr. Justice Robertson reserved his decision.

A GOOD DEFENCE BY PRINCE CHUN

The Boxer Revolution No Worse Than the French Fevolution.

Pekin, Jan. 10—Prince Chun, brother of the Emperor, who is now in Pekin, and in whose honor the Germans will hold a review day, says that though he does not represent the court officially, he knows his brother's sentiment is in favor of returning to Pekin. Indeed, the Emperor wrote to Prince Ching recently, asking if his apartments were in a fit state for his early return.

Prince Chun says the Chinese have a side question. The foreigners do not seem to realize that China objects to the maintenance of the legation guards as more than a purely temporary measure, because there is no necessity for it. The Boxer movement, he asserts, was a purely patriotic one, meaning China for the Chinese. For many years the nations begged for trading privileges. Having obtained these and waxed rich from the profits therefrom, they forced undesirable treaties upon China, with threats of confiscation of the choicest parts of the country.

MOST PEACEABLE WILL TURN.

The slightest riot has been made the occasion to acquire territory and obtain valuable concessions. Naturally, even peaceable people will turn at last.

The people of China, Prince Chun further declares, have been gradually worked up over the recent loss of territory at Wei Hai Wei, Port Arthur, and elsewhere. All Oriental nations are liable periodically the same as individuals to run amuk.

PRINCE NOT ASSASSINATED.

London, January 11

A report of an attempted assassination of the Prince of Wales turned out to be that a harmless foreign musician followed the Prince Wednesday when he was returning from shooting on the Duke of Devonshire's estate. The stranger ran when the detectives went towards him. He eluded them but was identified later.

THE FORESTERS' INSURANCE TROUBLE

It Is Said That the Order Is Financially Wrong.

DR. COULTER BRINGS SUIT

And Presents a Strong Case Against Dr. Oronhyatekha and Mr. McGillivray.

Those connected with the Independant Order of Foresters in Peterborough and elsewhere will be obliged to The Times for putting those who are in the insurance department of the order on their guard. It is affirmed that the financial bases of the institution as a life assurance society is unsound. The English, Canadian and American insurance journals have been firing some hot shot at the order on actuarial grounds. This charge has also been made by accomplished actuaries in Canada.

The founder of the order, who is the "great mogul," or, in official language, the supreme Chief ranger of the institution, is Dr. Oronhyatekha, who is of Indian blood. He is a medical doctor, but not as actuary. He handles life assurance figures as the journal of commerce puts it, as it was said the Duke of Wellington did the French language, "with great courage, but little skill." The doctor has, however, prodigious energy, and considerable knowledge of human nature, espically of the fascinating power of display. The building of the I.O.F. in Torotno is probably the finest of its class ever erected by a fratenal society, it is large enough and imposing enough to be a City Hall, and helps to materially lessen the effect of the magnificent civic building in Toronto of which it is a near neighbour. The doctor has an establishment on the Bay of Quinte which is an island palace. When arrayed in his uniform, all resplendent with gold lace, a cocked hat with feathers, and the other glowing splendours of the Chief Rangers' regalia, Dr. Oronyatkha is a dazzling spectacle. The connection between such an array and life assurance is difficult to trace, but we presume there are those who do not understand facts, but are greatly impressed by a uniform which is made almost sublime with a cocked hat, gold lace, epaulets and a sword. The World reports that, "a motion of great interest to the Independent Order of Foresters, which numbers 160,000, and to all members of fraternal life insurance associations, was argued on 27th December, before Judge Blanchard, in the Supreme Court, New York, in an action brought by Dr. C. L. Coulter against the Foresters."

Dr. Coulter, who was formerly a resident of Peterborough and also of Lindsay, alleges that he recently brought a suit for $100,000 against one Oronhyatekha and one McGillivray, for the use and manufacture of a medical instrument of which he was the patentee and owner; that those two men, who are respectively the Supreme Chief Ranger and Supreme Secretary of the Independent Order of Foresters, took advantage of their official position to cause Dr. Coulter to be dropped from membership and to cancel his life insurance policies without notice.

It is asserted by Dr. Coulter that Oronhyateka and McGillivray threatened his attorneys and witnesses with expulsion from the order and cancellation of their insurance policies, and he asks for an injunction to restrain the order and its officers from intimidating his witnesses or arbitrarily cancelling policies.

In the motion it is alleged that the order is managed by a clique of Canadians, headed by Oronhyatekha, a half-breed Indian, in an arbitrary, reckless, negligent and extravagent manner; that it is paying out of its mortuary fundst thousands of dollars to favorites for prizes, and to certain favored newspapers for printing columns of matter laudatory of its officials, and that it has sunk over $700,000 in wild real estate speculation, and loaned its funds to its officials secured by mortgages on their overvalued lands. It is further alleged that the order has not only paid these officials extravagant salaries, but also made them magnificent gifts of money out of its funds that its officials have destroyed its records to cancel their illegal acts, and are illegally discriminating against the 15,000 members of the said order in the State of New York who carry over $18,000,000 of its insurance and that through these acts and mismanagement the order has become practically insolvent, there being outstanding and unpaid death and disabilities claims against it, amounting to over $300,000, while it expense of management has become greater than that of many of the old line, level premium companies."

Affidavits from various Canadian members of the Executive Council were read denying the allegations in the plaintiff's affidavits. Council of defendants was strenuous in denying that the Independent Order of Foresters was likely to follow in the wake of the Order of the Iron Hall and collapse. He said the order had over 167,000 members and a surplus fund of over $4,000,000 invested in Canada.

Behind this litigation, say the Canadian members of the order, is a scheme to remove the Executive Council, composed of Canadians, and substitute in their places residents of the United States; also to remove its headquarters from Toronto to New York. The election does not take place for a year, and in the meanwhile some lively legal skirmishing is predicted. A curious coincidence is that the attorney for the order, who is fighting Dr. Coulter is named as Supreme Chief Ranger on the American ticket. The assertion that, the I.O.F. has "a surplus fund of $4,000,000 invested in Canada," calls for expanation. But, doubtless, when the case is heard in Court there will be full information given on this and, we hope also, on the relation of gorgeous uniforms to life assurance, which is a great mystery.

HOME FROM THE WAR

Two South African Soldiers Reach Home

They are Trooper Perry Price and Private Chill Turner—They are Given a Hearty Reception.

Yesterday witnessed the home-coming of two more of our brave boys, who endured the privations and dangers of a South African campaign. They were Privates Turner and Price.

A telegram from Mr. J. J. Turner, who had gone to Montreal to meet his son, announced that a quartette of heroes would reach Peterborough on the afternoon C.P.R. express from Montreal. Long before the hour for the arrival of the train, thousands of citizens were out on the streets, and when the train, which was half an hour late, arrived, and the boys stepped off, they were given rousing cheers, which were repeated all the way up the street. On the train were about seventy-five returned soldiers, mostly belonging to Toronto. They were tendered an ovation, the band playing, "Home, Sweet Home," amid the wildest enthusiasm. After the train moved out the two soldiers were escorted to a sleigh, and when seated, were drawn by citizens to the drill shed, where a formal reception was tendered them.

Col. Harry Rogers took charge of the proceedings, and called for cheers for the Queen, followed by three for the returned heroes, which, as may be imagined, were given with a will.

Speeches were made by Col. Rogers, Major Miller and others, after which the band gave a selection.

The proceedings terminated with cheers for the Queen and the National Anthem.

Privates Scollie and Peabody went to Port Hope, where a big reception took place last night. They are expected to arrive in Peterborough this morning.

KILLED IN A LUMBER CAMP

Sad Accident to George A. Byrne, an Employe of Harbor Lumb. r Co.

Perth, Jan. 10—Last Saturday word was received from Nairn Centre, a small station on the C.P.R. above Sudbury, that Mr. George A. Byrne was killed, and the news was received by many as unreliable, as it was not thought that Mr. Byrne was working in the woods. The report, however, was only too true, as later information came to hand. Mr. Byrne had received a letter from Mr. F. A. Lambert, of the Queen's Hotel, and but for this letter the officials at the lumber camp would not have had any idea where deceased's home was. They immediately telegraphed Mr. Lambert for information and instructions as to the disposal of the remains, and word was sent back to prepare corpse and ship it to Perth. The foreman of the camp, Mr. Neil Smith, had everything arranged and the Victoria Harbor Lumber Company, with which firm Mr. Byrne was employed, sent Mr. Stanley Cod, clerk of the camp, to Perth with the remains, which arrived here at noon on Monday. The Lumber Company acted most honorably in the matter, the unfortunate young man having been in their employ only 19 days, and a total stranger to every person. The cause of the accident was as follows: The dangerous task of piling the large logs on the skidway was in course of operation, the logs being raised to the skid-way by means of the decking line. Just as the log reached the top of the skip, the swamp hook in the hands of Mr. Byrnes slipped, he missed the log and fell backwards to the ground below, a distance of about 10 feet. He landed on another large log, having fallen across it, his head and shoulders on one side and lower extremities on the other, and before he had time to escape, the log just placed on the skidway, and which he had missed with the hook, toppled over the side and fell across his stomach. The log was hastily removed by the teamster and his helper and deceased took two or three steps, uttering only the words, "Hold me up, boys," when he died almost instantly. The skidway is composed of two long trees, felled and placed parallel near the roadway, gradually inclining away from the road. On these the logs are piled in order to facilitate loading. On top of this, at the highest point, Mr. Byrne was when the unfortunate accident occurred. A gloom has fallen over the neighborhood in consequence of the sudden calling away of the young man, and when the train arrived at the depot a large number of his friends and relatives were present to pay their last respects to deceased. The funeral procession was formed, six of deceased's former fellow students acting as pall-bearers, and the funeral cortege proceeded to the home of his father, Mr. Edward Byrne, Stanleyville, from which place the funeral took place on Tuesday morning to the Stanleyville cemetery. Deceased was only 25 years of age. He studied at the Collegiate Institute for a time and then obtained a position in the postoffice, where he worked for about a year, when he severed his connection as a Government official and went into the insurance business. About a month ago he suddenly determined to go into New Ontario and left without any definite objective point, and finally, engaging with the Victoria Harbor Lumber Company, landed at Nairn Centre. To the sorrowing relatives the sympathy of all is extended.

SHIPWRECKED MEN SAVED BY FISHERMEN

Passengers and Crew of the Russie at Last Brought Safely to Shore.

Faraman, Bouches-de-Rhone, Jan. 11.—After a night of terrible suspense, all of the passengers and crew of the French steamer Russie, which stranded near here during a violent storm Monday, have been safely landed.

As the life line connected with the shore and the steamer parted again yesterday afternoon, no communication with the stranded steamer was possible last night. The last signalled message read as follows:

"We have not a scrap of food left. Consternation prevails on board."

On receipt of this appeal, the fishermen made two more plucky launches of their boat, but were beaten back, and as the Russie disappeared in the darkness those on board were apparently trying to launch their only remaining boat.

The storm raged with renewed fury during the night, and only those who were compelled to do so stayed on the shore, part of them huddled beneath a tarpaulin and others seeking refuge from the gale in the Faraman lighthouse.

At midnight two floats with lines attached were launched, but both attempts to reach the Russie were fruitless.

In the early hours of the morning torches were lighted at the bow of the Russie, and in response to the signal the fishermen made another attempt to reach the wreck. They were again tossed ashore, and the crew of the lifeboat, who belong to the fishing village of Carro, gathered around a bonfire made of wreckage from the steamer, drenched to the skin, and with their teeth chattering from cold, but not discouraged. Their heroism was finally rewarded, as with daybreak the weather perceptibly moderated. The sea became calmer, and the wind having shifted from east to north, the Carro fishermen, at about 6.30 a.m., again put to sea. The spectators watched with fast beating hearts as the boat disappeared through the waves. More than once it was thought she had been engulfed, but the small craft rose in sight again on the crest of the sea, and moved gradually nearer the Russie.

Then, a rope was thrown which the fishermen caught and the lifeboat soon was alongside. Then above the howling wind rose cries of joy from those on board the Russie, which were re-echoed by the crowd ashore.

Another boat manned by four men was launched and succeeded in reaching the wrecked vessel.

A few minutes later the Carro boat left the Russie's side heavily laden. As she approached the shore the occupants were seen to be several women and one baby. The enthusiasm was delirious. The spectators plunged into the sea. Some of them dragged the lifeboat ashore and others lifted the women out of the boat and carried them in their arms through the waves to dry land. One woman was clasped in the arms of her son, who had been waiting on shore since Monday. She swooned and had to be transported on a stretcher hastily constructed from wreckage and covered with blankets to the lighthouse. The other women collapsed with fatigue, cold, and want of food. Their haggard faces and trembling limbs told of the awful experiences they had gone through.

Want of foresight had resulted in all the nourishment being kept at the lighthouse, two miles distant, and the sufferers had to be taken there before restoratives could be administered to them.

The four-oared boat next arrived with seven more passengers. The lifeboats then made repeated journeys until all were saved and sheltered in the lighthouse

COUNTING OF HEADS IN THE DOMINION

Details of the Preparations for Taking the Census.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—The census for Canada will be taken on Sunday, March 31, which is the date fixed for the census of Great Britain and Ireland. The counting of heads will begin on April 1, but those living at midnight on Sunday will be counted. The work of enumerators will be completed in two weeks.

The country is divided into census districts, which correspond to electoral districts, and polling sub-divisions.

One commissioner will be appointed for each electoral district, and one additional commissioner where local circumstances may require his services, such as where the district is extensive, or has a large bi-lingual population, or comprises more than one county municipality. One enumerator will be allotted to each polling sub-division.

There will be four chief offices for the Province of Ontario and Quebec.

The census will be taken according to the de Jure system.

The co-operation of Provincial or other local offices will be obtained to secure a record of diseases and causes of death.

The census of manufacturers, products of the forest, fisheries, mines, may be entrusted to special agents.

The census schedules number 11, containing 585 questions.

WILL ASK MANY LEADING QUESTIONS.

The first schedule asks the name of each person in each household, date and place of birth or immigration to Canada, nationality, racial origin, religion, profession and occupation or trade of each person, the number of employers and employes, those persons who are working on their own account, those persons who are working in trade, factory or home, the number who can read and write, and the language spoken, whether English, French or other tongue, the number of months during which wageearners are employed, the earnings from their occupation and from other sources.

The second schedule comprises a return of buildings.

The third schedule will be concerning vital statistics.

Agricultural information is sought in the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh schedules, which include acreage of the farm, a return of field products, a census of cattle buildings.

OF INTEREST TO MANUFACTURERS.

The eight schedule is for manufacturers, and calls for particulars as to value of real estate and plant, owners and members of the firm, salaried officers, number of male and female employes sixteen years and over, and children under sixteen, with the wages in each case, the same details in the case of piece workers, the aggregate working days in year of each class of employes, months in operation of establishment, miscellaneous expenses, material used in crude and manufactured state and their cost, and details as to character of motive power and apparatus used.

Schedule nine deals with the forests. Schedule ten deals with vessels and fishing statistics. Schedule eleven refers to mineral statistics.

The commissioners must be well qualified.

THE PAY OF ENUMERATORS.

The remuneration of commissioners and enumerators will be according to rates of allowance to be prepared by the Minister of Agriculture, which rates, the census act provides, "shall not exceed in the aggregate the total amount of $3 for each day of proved effective service for any enumerator, or $4 each day of like service for any commissioner." The time of service to be allowed a commissioner will probably not exceed six weeks—ranging from three to six weeks, according to the extent and population of the electoral district—and the time of enumerators will probably not exceed [illegible]

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 12, 1901

A COLOSSAL ENTERPRISE

At a recent meeting in Montreal of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co. the capital was increased from fifteen to twenty millions of dollars, and it is stated that work on the new mills at Sydney will be started quite soon, and within twelve months steel rails and ship plates will be placed on the markets of the world. The feature of the meeting was the reception of a report from Mr. Moxham, and the announcement that considerable sales of iron had already been made by the company, both in the Canadian and English markets, at very satisfactory prices. The report in question, which was an all important one, touched upon three points, viz., the iron ore, deposits at Belle Isle, Nfld., the quality of the coke now being produced at the company's furnaces at Sydney from Cape Breton coal, and the quality of the lime secured from Marble Mountain. On all the points, Mr. Moxham's report was of the most satisfactory nature, and sets at rest once and for all, any possible doubts that might have been entertained as to the complete success of this scheme, which, after the Canadian Pacific Railway, is the most colossal undertaking ever attempted in the Dominion. Tests have been made at Belle Isle which show that there is practically no end to the iron ore body, and when it is considered that this can be landed at Sydney at a little over a dollar per ton, the future of the enterprise can then be estimated. As for coke, the quality has been proved to be superior to a good deal of the best that has been made in the State of Pennsylvania. The same handsome results have likewise been obtained in connection with the lime deposits, and, consequently no shadow of a doubt remains as to Eastern Canada's ability to compete most successfully in the iron and steel trade with the Old, as well as the New World.

Man Drank, Block Signals Sober.

The introduction of block signals on railroads running fast express trains has lessened the danger and also created a feeling of safety in the minds of those who are compelled to travel to any exent.

The pilot on the engine of the postal express when it reached New London bore the signs of an accident in which some track walker had lost his life. The engineer knew nothing of it, nor could he tell when the supposed accident happened.

None of the operators could shed any light on the mystery, but, strange to say, the operator in the tower just east of the Westerley station failed to respond. Repeatedly he was called up, but to no purpose.

An investigation showed that he was lying on the floor, dead drunk. From the appearance of things it looked to those present at the station as if the man had set out deliberately to celebrate. All the signals were set at safety, and there was no reason why the towerman should have been disturbed.

Jiggers and the Soldiers.

One of the most annoying pests of the tropical countries, particularly of the West Indies, which we have taken into Uncle Sam's family, is the jigger. It was one of the afflictions of our army before Santiago, and nearly every soldier who returned from Cuba could tell fearsome tales of the ravages of the dear little thing. True to human nature, as the cynic would say, it is the female which makes trouble for man. She bores with her head into the human skin and stays there. The large quantity of eggs which she takes in with her swell her to the size of a pea, the color being white. This results in a small ulcer which inflames in the course of a few days. If the parasite isn't removed inflammation increases and in the course of it the jigger eliminates itself.

At the beginning the pain is so slight that usually it is not noticed. But the festering would, if not cleaned, as in the case of all neglected wounds, cause serious inflammation, gangrene, and even general blood poisoning. As the jigger lives in the ground, it usually seeks the feet of its victim, so that the mode of prevention and the treatment are easy. Thick boots or high boots are good protection. Peru balsam is rubbed into the socks. As soon as a jigger is noticed it should be removed with the greatest care. The wound should be cleaned out and if kept clean it usually heals quickly. If, in the removing of the jigger, the parasite is lacerated, blood poisoning and severe inflammation are sure to result. German soldiers in east Africa are afflicted with jiggers sometimes, through carelessness in not attending to the feet. This neglect is punished, because it prevents soldiers from marching, when care and attention would have kept their feet in good condition.

—Wild ducks are plentiful on the river between here and Lakefield.

Life's a Sack Race

To a sick man. He's hobbled, hampered, handicapped by his sickness. Every little while he has to lay off for a day. He can't get ahead. Everybody passes him in the struggle for success. If sickness originates in a diseased condition of the stomach (and most sickness does) there's a cure for it. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is not a cure-all, but a medicine specially designed to cure diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures many forms of disease, because many forms of disease originate in a diseased condition of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system.

"I write to tell you of the great benefit I have received from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. G. B. Bird, of Byrnside, Putnam County, West Va. "It cured me of a very bad case of indigestion associated with torpid liver. Before I began the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I had no appetite; could not sleep or work but very little. The little that I ate did not agree with me; bowels constipated, and life was a misery to me. I wrote to Dr. Pierce, giving the symptoms, and asked for advice. You advised me to try the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' so I began the use of it, and after taking four bottles I felt so well that I went to work, but soon got worse, so I again began the use of it, and used it about eight weeks longer, which I was permanently cured. I took in all about twelve bottles of the 'Discovery,' and some of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets in connection with the 'Discovery.'"

Dr Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels in healthy action.

LATEST MARKET REPORTS

PETERBOROUGH.

Owing to the unsatisfactory condition of the roads the markets have been very bad, very little produce coming in and as a result the prices have had a decided firmness. Hay is wanted, and so are oats for local consumption.

Wheat—The market has gone up appreciably this week. Fall wheat is quoted 65 and 66c and spring wheat 67 to 68c.

Oats—This grain is also on the rise, and quotations given this week are 26 and 27c.

Rye—Very little has come in and prices are steady at 45c.

Barley—A few loads came in and sold readily at 40 and 41c.

Peas—There is a steady market for peas. Small peas are quoted at 62 to 63c and Canadian Beauties are bringing 75c.

Hay—There is a steady demand for hay, and although prices have eased a little there is no trouble in finding buyers. Quotations, $8 to $9.

Eggs and butter—Prices have been steady. Butter, 18 to 22. Eggs are in demand at 20 to 22 c.

Live Stock.—There has been a noticeable advance in the price of hogs which will likely continue for the next few months. It is a good gamble that hogs will be $7 live weight for weighed off select hogs before they drop to $5. In Toronto on Tuesday the market went up to $6.50, while $6.75 was paid on the side for extra selects. Farmers may expect to realize good stiff prices for their hogs for some time to come. Local quotations to-day were $6 to $6.12 1-2.

There is a good market for A1 butchers' cattle and any farmers having such to dispose off will do well if they will leave their names with the market clerk for the information of the buyers.

Quotations are given as follows: Good steers, per cwt., $3 to $3.25; good heifers per cwt. $3.00 to $3.25; good cows per cwt., $2.75 to $3.25; medium cows, $2.25 to $2.75.

Sheep and lambs are finding a fairly good market at present quotations, which are given at Sheep, $2.50 to $3; lambs, $3.25 to $3.75.

Flynn Bros. shipped a fine car of select hogs to Toronto on Monday.

H. P. Kennedy got some fine hogs in on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Messrs. Stabler & Son sold a fine lot of hogs to the Matthews Coy. this week.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANAdians at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. A WONDERFUL
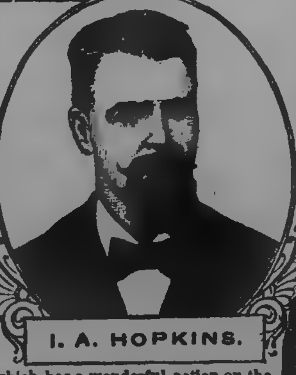
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.



I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could barely walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 63 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.
Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic disease he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 303 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

IT ISN'T THE THING YOU DO.

It isn't the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone,
That gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flower you did not send, dear,
Are your haunting ghosts at night.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way;
The bit of heartsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say;
The loving touch of the hand, dear,
The gentle winning, tone,
Which you had no time nor thought for,
With troubles enough of your own.

For life is all too short, dear,
And sorrow is all too great,
To suffer our slow compassion,
That tarries until too late;
And it isn't the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone,
Which gives you a bit of a heartache
At the setting of the sun.

—Margaret Elizabeth Sangster.

A LOCAL PARAGRAPH.

"The time has come for the American people to act. Shall fifty million patriots sit supinely by and let conscienceless rascals tear the stars of glory from the flag they love and trample its proud folds of crimson and white into the mire of national dishonor? Not while the deeds of '76 still shine through the mists of years in unexampled splendor. Not while the memories of '61 yet live in the hearts that thrilled with the stress of that heroine struggle. Not while"—Joel Snively, editor of the Melocgic Monitor, laid down his pen with a sigh.

Outside the dusty little window the green waters of the bay were sparkling in the sunshine. A keen north breeze was driving great huddling masses of white-shouldered clouds over a field of dazzling azure, and only a man who loved the sport with the whole-souled earnestness that filled his entire being could know how the fish must be biting on such a morning! Oh, to be out on that gleaming expanse armed with rod and line, with only the sun and clouds for company and a thousand pounds or so of gamy vertebrates playing about within reach of his cunning hook.

But also, it was Friday morning. On Saturday some two hundred impatient subscribers would expect the weekly dish of personal, political and intellectual pabulum which his facile pen had long served to them on that day, with more or less punctuality, according to the season. His duty clearly held him to his post at such a time, however, much his inclinations might have led him elsewhere.

So, with another lingering glance at the scene without, Mr. Snively took up his pen and resumed the stirring appeal which was to awaken fifty million patriots to action and incidentally convince the Republicans of Melocgic that it was their duty to vote for Joe Gridley for poundmaster.

So engrossed did the editor become in this pleasing task that he did not hear a step upon the creaking stair a little later. If he had he would have known at once that it was a woman and a lady who was approaching, for long and often painful experience had enabled Mr. Snively to determine with unerring accuracy what sort of person was climbing the somewhat perilous ascent to the editorial sactum almost as soon as his foot touched the first step.

But for once the editor did not hear the soft footfall on the stair, so he was very much surprised and not a little disconcerted when a fresh, sweet voice, almost at his elbow, said "Good Morning, Mr. Snively," and looking up he beheld his neighbor, Mrs. Tracy, her plump figure buttoned into the trimmest of blue serge yachting suits, her smiling face shaded by a wide-brimmed hat and in her hand a fish pole, pointed, brass-tipped, elegant—the very perfection of dainty uselessness.

Without waiting for a response to her greeting she briefly made known her errand. She was anxious for a day's fishing and had been told of an Elysian spot, where the fish were so plentiful they were actually to be had for the asking. Unluckily, however, her own boat had not come, so she had ventured to ask if, in case he was not using it, Mr. Snively would be so kind as to lend her his yawl, it being impossible to hire one in the village.

Mr. Snively was delighted. Mrs. Tracy was a pretty widow of uncertain age but no uncertain charm, who had taken the cottage next to the editor's own some six months before. In the course of a rather desultory acquaintance the genial bachelor, whose ideas of the fair sex were those common to his kind, had discovered that his fair neighbor was a cheery little body of sound political views and excellent literary tastes (from the first she had been a prompt and paying subscriber to the Monitor), but beyond that his imagination had not soared. Now, however, behold the pretty widow invested with a wholly new interest. She was fond of fishing!

Eagerly Mr. Snively assured his visitor of his pleasure in putting his boat at her disposal and gave her exhaustive directions as to the means of obtaining it. A delightful half-hour of conversation followed. As though it were a magician's wand the dainty fish pole had placed the editor and his guest at once on terms of the most charming intimacy and the former didn't remember ever to have enjoyed a [illegible] so much in his life, albeit the talk was wholly of reels and rods and spoonhooks and other instruments of slaughter.

All things, however, are bound to come to an end, especially in an editorial office, so it wasn't long before Mrs. Tracy took her leave, escorted down the stairway by her delighted host.

At the door they were met by a spicy breeze straight from the pine woods across the bay. Mr. Snively sighed.

"Where is this wonderful place you are going to?" he asked.

"Ah, that's a secret," she replied gayly. "I promised I'd never, never tell."

"Oh, well, then I suppose it's a crime to even guess." And once more the editor sighed as he glanced out at the sparkling waters.

"But you've been so kind," exclaimed the widow, noting the sigh and immediately filled with compunction. "It seems ungracious of me to keep it from you who love so to fish." And then as she saw him give another wistful glance bayward she burst out impulsively: "Promise not to betray me and I'll tell you—It's Patchang Lake!"

"Patchang!" cried Mr. Snively in surprise. "Why, I never heard of a fish down there in my life."

"That's the charm of it," she rejoined gleefully, "and the man who told me about it (such a dear, dirty, old fisherman he was) was fearfully afraid some one else would find it out; so don't betray me." And she hurried away with a parting smile that made the dusty office seem duller than ever when he got back to it and reluctantly commenced setting up his editorials, for Mr. Snively constituted the whole working force of the Monitor.

And his task, too, seemed harder than ever, after the interruption. Thoughts of his pretty visitor kept intruding themselves into the midst of his most impassioned apeals to the voters of Melocgic.

How blue here eyes were and what bewitching little rings of hair the wind had blown up under the big hat.

And then the fishing.

The editor of the Monitor shook his head. Could it be possible any man living could have a soul so lost to honor as to play a joke on a woman who looked like that? It seemed impossible and yet Mr. Snively was as sure there wasn't a fish within a mile of Patchang as he was that there wasn't a free silver man in Melocgic.

Perhaps then Mrs. Track was sitting in that yawl vainly waiting for the bite he felt certain she wouldn't get if she sat there till the United States got an honest government. And he was actually staying at home and deliberately abandoning a friend to such a fate!

As this agonizing thought occurred to Mr. Snively he dropped his type and started for the door. But once there he paused and slowly returned to his form, only to find it more and more impossible to keep his mind on his work.

At last he gave up in despair.

Taking a hasty survey of what he'd already accomplished he found his columns tolerably full, with the exception of perhaps a single paragraph on the local page. By hard work the following morning he might hope to set up his pages and would trust to luck for the missing paragraph.

Like all fishermen, Mr. Snively was a firm believer in luck. He was also a man of action when he chose and within five minutes of this calculation he had locked up the editorial department and was on his way to Patchang Lake.

When he reached that shallow sheet of water a little lady in blue serge sat in a boat in the centre thereof, with an expression of virtuous indignation on her sunburnt features.

"What luck?" called the editor from the shore.

"Luck!" cried the fair sportswoman dolefully. "There's not enough water in this lake to catch cold in, much less a fish. All I've got for my trouble is a mighty poor opinion of fishermen in general and one dirty one in particular."

"Come over here," said Snively. "I know a pond not a thousand miles away where the fish bite like mosquitoes. If you'll try it I think I can raise your op'nion of fishermen before I'm a day older."

"I can't," confessed the widow, blushing with anger and mortification. "I'm stuck—in the mud."

One moment the man of letters hesitated on the bank and then, with an inward prayer that he might at least be spared to get out that week's paper, he waded boldly into the expanse of treacherous mud that rolled between him and beauty in distress.

The next morning the editor walked into the Monitor office clad in his Sunday clothes. With his accustomed methodical neatness he pulled off his coat, hung it behind the door, and carefully drew over his linen sleeves a pair of black alpaca ones. Then he lighted his pipe and took his place at the form.

There, just as he had left it, was the vacant space at the end of the local column still yawning for the missing paragraph.

Mr. Snively regarded it for a few minutes reflectively—then he took up his pen, as a smile gradually spread itself over his face until it reached his eyes. It still lingered there when a little later he finished and paused to glance over his work.

What he read was this:

"The editor of the Monitor, after many years of bachelorhood, has had the good fortune to incur the risk and responsibilities of matrimony. He was married this morning to Mrs. Gertrude Tracy of Elm cottage and asks the congratulations and good wishes of his subscribers in this the happiest hour of his life."—Edgar Temple Field in Chicago Times Herald.

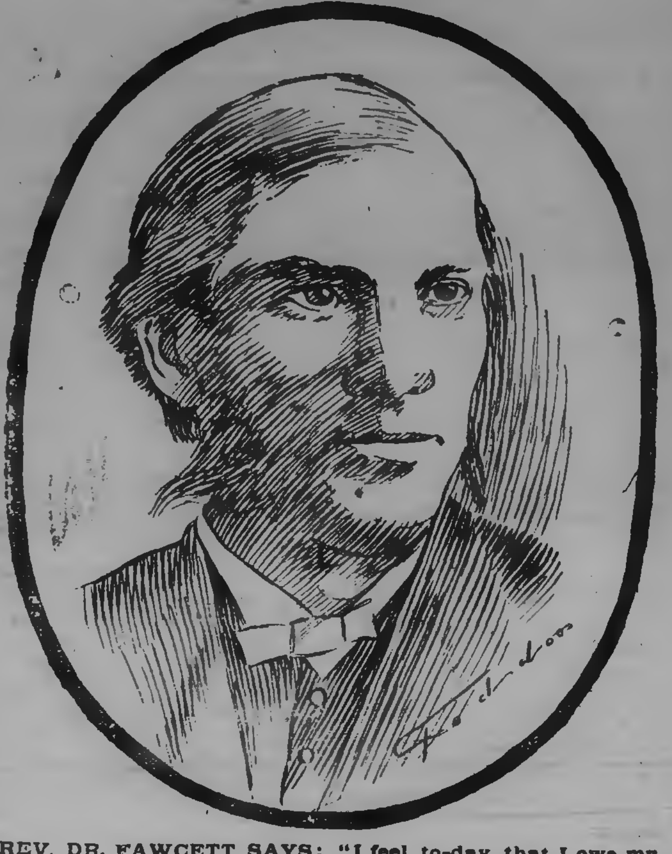
A Clergyman's Testimony.

Powley's Liquified Ozone Saves the Life of the Rev. William Fawcett, D.D.



REV. DR. FAWCETT SAYS: "I feel to-day that I owe my life to Ozone."

> I have used Ozone for stomach trouble and found it an excellent medicine for this weakness. I feel to-day that I owe my life to its being brought to my notice. I believe you have an excellent family remedy and wish you every success.
> Yours very respectfully,
> (Signed). Wm. Fawcett, D.D.,
> 103 Hazelton avenue,
> Toronto.

The Rev. Wm. Fawcett, D.D., is one of the most brilliant sons of whom Canada can boast. The son of the late Rev. Michael Fawcett, one of the pioneer clergymen of Canada, he early distinguished himself in his calling. To-day Dr. Fawcett is pastor of one of the largest churches in Chicago.

Some time ago the reverend gentleman was suffering so severely from stomach disorder that he had to resign his pastorate. After a vain attempt to find health in the leading cities of the United States, after spending money lavishly for the best advice of dietetic specialists, after travelling half the world over to take in the noted health resorts, he came back to his father's house, 103 Hazelton avenue, Toronto, to die. But it was not yet his time. He had heard about Powley's Liquified Ozone, and began taking it. In a few months he had recovered perfect health and resumed his duties in Chicago. Now he permits his testimonial to be published, that it may do good to those who may be suffering.

Powley's Liquified Ozone kills the germs of disease and supplies the blood with the oxygen which forms the red corpuscles of health. A great many people are unhealthy because their lungs do not extract the oxygen from the air they breathe. Now, Powley's Liquified Ozone, being liquid oxygen, supplies them with this principle, and makes them strong. Ozone is the new method of treating disease. The instant success it has attained stamps it at once as a preparation altogether different from any ever before placed at your disposal. Ozone is not a patent medicine. The prominent clergyman and citizens of Canada who have been cured by it of long-standing diseases do not lend their names to quack nostrums. You would do well to consult them and satisfy yourself as to its very great value.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is $1.00 large size bottle; 50c small size. At druggists', or from the laboratories of The Ozone Company of Toronto, Limited, 48 Colborne Street, Toronto.

The Kilties

"The Kilties" are recognized as Canada's peerless musical organization and are certainly the most striking and uniquely costumed military corps that has ever toured America. The band has played to thousands in every Canadian city creating everywhere a roof lifting furore of enthusiasm, and, no doubt their audience here will be one of the largest and most cordial ever seen in town. The plan of the hall is now open at Bradburn's office.

He is Alive and Kicking

Lindsay Post: Friends of Mr. Eugene Fee, who has been in Peterborough hospital for some weeks with typhoid fever, were alarmed last evening by hearing that he died about 6 o'clock. The story was again circulated this morning, and many reposed faith in it. We are pleased to be able to state that Mr. E. Edwards, of Gough's staff, spent part of last night with his brother-in-law, Mr. Fee, and reports that he is regaining his health and strength at a rate satisfactory to the doctors and nurses in charge

Painless Dentistry

In order to prove to the people of Peterborough and vicinity the merits of my local anesthetic, I will extract any teeth that have lost their usefulness, absolutely without pain and without charge on Friday and Saturday afternoons of this week, between 2 and 4 p.m. I will, for one month only, make the regular $10 sets of teeth for $5. These are the best you can get. It is no $3 set, but a $10 set for $5. Come early and make sure to be waited on.

Probably Refers to Our Contemporaries

A little boy, whose father doubtless takes one of our little local contemporaries, was asked to write an essay the other day on "The Newspaper." Here is the result, as vouched for by Mr. James Smith, the teacher: "I don't think how newspaper men came into the world I don't think God does. For he hasn't got nuthin' to say 'bout them and editors is not in the bible. I think the editor is one of the missing links you hear about, and stayed in the brush till after the flud, then came out and wrote the thing up and has been here ever since. I done think he ever dies. I never saw a dead 'un--never heard of one getting licked. Our paper is a mighty poor 'un the editor goes though all winter, don't wear no socks and pa hasn't paid his subscription in five years."

Lindsay Heads

At the municipal elections on Monday the ratepayers of Lindsay voted on a by-law authorizing the erection of a poor house. The Grand Jury referred to the matter as follows, the other day in its presentment: "With regard to the proposal to establish a House of Refuge in the County, the Grand Jurors are convinced that the time has come for making full provisions for the care of the destitute, and they express the hope that the electors of the county, in casting their votes on the question, will prove unmistakably that they desire the county council to take the necessary steps for providing a properly equipped institution, in which the helpless poor, who are to be found in every community, may be suitably maintained."

Lindsay's Champion Pie Dealer.

Lindsay Post.—No doubt about it, dear reader,—the honor certainly belongs to Mr. Fred Taylor, of the "Big 10" restaurant. From Jan. 1st, 1900, to Dec. 31st, 1900, his staff baked the enormous number of 14,054 large pies of all kinds, all of which were consumed on the premises by his numerous customers. This bespeaks an appetite for pie not hitherto suspected in the good people of Victoria county, and we respectfully call the attention of Flaneur, of the Mail and Empire, to this proof of the insidious growth of American customs in our midst. However, to resume—these 14,054 pies, if placed with edges touching, would extend from this office to Mr. Robert Bryan's residence at the head of Kent-st., and form a loop around the new hospital site. Or if laid one on top of the other, the pile would be some feet nearer heaven than the top of the Baptist church steeple.

SENT HOME.

Physicians in Germany Send Patients to America for Food.

Two clergymen who went to Germany last year for treatment by a noted specialist were told that they must use Grape-Nuts, made in America, at Battle Creek, Mich., for the principal part of each meal. This suggestion interested the two divines greatly, for while they knew of Grape-Nuts and that there was a large use made of the food in America, it had never come their way to try it.

A lady in Hedding, N. H., Mrs. Otis Cole, says the after effect of the grip was a serious gastric and stomach trouble. All the following summer she had many attacks of palpitation of the heart, nausea, pain, faintness, insomnia, and all the other ills which accompany impaired nerve force and indigestion.

She began using Grape-Nuts to build her up and found at once that the food created no disturbance and she began to gain in strength and courage. In October she went for a visit and took Grape-Nuts with her to use each day. She gained 10 pounds in weight in about four months and fully recovered her health.

She further says: "While I am now entirely well, I shall probably adhere to Grape-Nuts during the balance of my life. My brother-in-law, a practicing physician, says Grape-Nuts simmered in milk, strained and the clear liquid given, forms an ideal nourishment in cases of extreme prostration, and its stimulating effect is noticed immediately. A friend of mine, a professional reader, carries a package of Grape-Nuts in her hand-bag, for she says the exhaustion after an evening's work, will not admit of lunching on ordinary food, but Grape-Nuts food always restores her and leaves no ill effects, for the food is so easily digested and is ready cooked, therefore a great convenience."

WOMAN'S ALLOWANCE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The following, taken from the Montreal Star, is worthy of reproduction in The Times: I have been greatly interested in the letters appearing in your columns dealing with the question of a wife's allowance. Although I am not a married man, nor at present in any danger of becoming such it seems to me that a fair allowance made to the lady of the house each week or each month can not but be beneficial to both parties

A recent correspondent ("Donalda") seems to think that the suggestion of an allowance is a slur upon the business capabilities of the ladies, and, in fact, she goes so far as to cite an instance within her own observation, where economical management of the home has been obtained without an allowance.

As regards any ungenerous imputation against the ladies, I fail to see any reason for assuming this to be the case. To my mind the giving of an allowance is merely introducing business principles into the management of the home. No business man of any reputation whatever would dream of carrying on a business without first casting up what the annual expense of that business ought to be, and it is upon this calculation of expenditure that he determines the sale price of his goods. It would be utter folly to go ahead selling stock at a moderate profit and buying or hiring whatever materials or assistance might be needed without any regard to the income and outgo, for when the expenditure of a man equals his income, his earnings are nil. In too many cases, however, this is what happens in a man's private business. He is earning a moderate salary and has a fairly large family of children, all of whom must be clothed, fed and educated. Nothing but the greatest economy can do this satisfactorily. His wife is capable and economical, he has the greatest confidence in her and does not wish to restict her to a hard, fast amount as an allowance would do. He is quite satisfied she will do all she can to take care of his interests. She means well and is economical, but Johnnie needs a new pair of boots and Katie must have a muff and Theodosia, dear child, ought to have her decided talent for music cultivated. These are all very good in their way, but unless great care is taken, the expenditure will exceed the income. Each month they pay what they can and struggle along under a hopeless load of debt, hoping against hope that some miracle will happen to send the $100, $200 or $300 necessary to square off their indebtedness, or, perhaps, vainly thinking that next month their expenses will be less.

Let us suppose that a man is earning $1,200. If he spends $1,100 a year he is on his feet and getting ahead in the world, but if he spends $1,250 he is poor, dependent upon his creditors and employers, and harassed by a load of debt.

"But," my opponents will, say, "we expect good management and the case you suppose is not such." Very true it is not good management; but it is what no allowance leads to, in the great majority of cases. And, my kind friend, let me ask you, are you not now working upon the allowance plan when you say "Our income is $1,200; our rent is $350, our coal bill is $80, etc. Therefore we must not spend more than so much on the table?" What is the real difference between the housekeeper who has an allowance paid her at the beginning of each month and the one who resticts herself to the same amount, but gives the bills to her husband to settle? To my mind the only difference is that the one can pay cash for what she buys, the other must have credit. The one must present the bills and ask for the money—always a disagreeable duty—the other receives her allowance regularly without the annoyance of asking for money when she wants it. Both are working upon the principle of an allowance. In fact both receive allowance—the one in advance, the other at the end of the month.

In conclusion, sir, allow me to cite a case somewhat analogous. It is striking fact that a large proportion of college men succeed in business. Some people attribute this success to the Latin and Greek and metaphysics they have learned at college, and undoubtedly the intellectual training they have received is of great value to them, but, to my mind, not the least part of a student's education is the financial training he receives from his allowance. In most cases the allowance is unpleasantly small, and the thing he would like to get would cost ten times the amount he has to spend. Consequently, he must decide what he needs most, and the training, although hard, is beneficial. Why should such a training be less beneficial to young housekeepers than to young men?

Very truly yours,
STUDENT.

Indigestion Can't Stay where Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets are arrayed against it. Thomas Smith, of Dover, Ont., says: "I am delighted with them—from almost the first using I have been entirely relieved of the pains of indigestion—I have the greatest confidence in the Tablets and heartily recommend them to any and every sufferer from stomach troubles." 35 cts.—112

What We Eat

Is intended to nourish and sustain us, but it must be digested and assimilated before it can do this. In other words, the nourishment contained in food must be separated by the digestive organs from the waste materials and must be carried by the blood to all parts of the body. We believe the reason for the great benefit which so many people derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla lies in the fact that this medicine gives good digestion and makes pure, rich blood. It restores the functions of those organs which convert food into nourishment that gives strength to nerves and muscles. It also cures dyspepsia, scrofula, salt rheum, boils, sores, pimples and eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism and all diseases that have their origin in impure blood.

Children Overworked

All along the line people have come to the wise conclusion that children are over-taxed with an unreasonable amount of study at home, and that the school itself is the proper place for study, and the home for rest, play and enjoyment. At Kingston, one day lately, a member of the Board of Education of that city called the attention of the members to an evil all too prevalent in our Public schools—too much home work. He said children up to the age of eleven, should have no home-work. After that age, a half-hour's work for the evening would be enough. The Kingston News, in which this item occurs, adds, "We hope the Board of Education will do away with the system of giving home work to young children."

MESSRS. J. S. HAMILTON & Co., Brantford, Ont., Canada:

Dear Sirs,—In accordance with your wishes I have had both the red and white wines and the champagne tested by several connoisseurs, French and English. All of these expressed surprise that an article of such merit was produced in Canada, and even manufacturers admit that the brand "L'Empereur" is of excellent quality.

This opinion from critics who are by no means easy to please should be very satisfactory to you, and it gives me pleasure to congratulate you upon it. Yours faithfully,

FLOGGED AND SHOT BY DEWET'S ORDERS

Agents of Peace Committee Captured by De Wet Were Flogged and One a British Subject, Was Shot.

London, Jan. 13.

The War Office has received this despatch from Lord Kitchener: "Pretoria, Sunday, Jan. 13.—About 1,400 Boers crossed the line, attacking both Zeurfontein and Vaalfontein stations but were driven off. They are being pursued by a cavalry brigade. Lord Kitchener also reports skirmishes at different points with trifling British losses and adds: Three agents of the Peace Committee were taken as prisoners to DeWet's laager near Lindley, Jan. 10. One, who was a British subject, was flogged and then shot, the other two burghers were flogged by DeWet's orders."

Pretoria, Saturday, Jan. 12.

Last night the Boers cut the wire between Irene and Olifantsfontein stations Early this morning the Boers under Commandant Beyer invested Kaalfontein station. A hot rifle fire and shell fire with two field pieces and a maxim was maintained for six hours. 1 armored train and reinforcements were sent from Pretoria but before they had arrived on the scene the garrison had driven off the Boers, who retired with a transport train half a mile. The Boers blew up the line, compelling the mail train to return here. It is supposed their object was to obtain supplies, a great quantity of which are stored at Kaalfontein. The British had no casualties.

London, Jan. 12—The chief source of consolation for a bewildered public, which cannot understand what is going on in South Africa, is an occasional despatch from America indicating that the Philippine war is still in progress. No attempt is made to explain the fact that the two branches of the English-speaking race are simultaneously harassed with dragging operations in an apparently endless and profitless campaign, but English humiliation is mitigated by evidence that the Americans are still far from the end of hostilities in the islands.

Lord Kitchener is so reticent that pro-Boer journals like the Manchester Guardian and alarmist sheets like the Daily Mail are convinced that the situation is critical, and that the British army is virtually on the defensive and in need of reinforcements.

YET KITCHENER IS COOL.

It is true that the mysterious assault upon the bodyguard near Lindley has not been explained; that night attacks upon British posts in the Transvaal continue and that bands of raiders are still roaming afield in Cape Colony. It is also clear that the Boers are not making any headway in the Transvaal, where their last assault upon Machadodorp was repulsed like their other attacks; that Dewet is still closely pursued, and that the bands of raiders in Cape Colony are at a long distance from the railways, and are refraining from any aggressive action. Lord Kitchener reports Herzog's commando at Sutherland, and agian describes the guerillas as breaking up into small bands. He takes the situation so coolly that military men are disposed to ridicule the idea that any descent upon Worcester or Cape Town is possible.

OBJECTED TO THE EXPENSE.

An officer in touch with the best sources of information says there is no intention at the War Office of sending out a large body of reinforcements. Drafts have been going out for several weeks in small detachments, but the military authorities are not convinced that urgent measures are required. Lord Roberts is believed to have recommended, before he left South Africa, the shipment of 50,000 regulars, to replace the same number of militia and reservists, but the Cabinet objected on the score of expense. Military men assert that this was a mistake, since the British army, after the protracted hardships of an unprecedented campaign, has grown stale, dispirited, and unfit for duty, and a large portion of it needs to be ordered home.

FEW LEFT OUT TO FIGHT.

Veteran officers who have followed the war closely at every stage laugh at the absurd estimates of the strength of the Boers still in the field, 8,000 with Botha, 4,000 with Delarey 3,000 with Dewet, 5,000 in Griqualand 6,000 in Cape Colony, and 5,000 scattered here and there. As there are 17,000 Boer prisoners, and at least 8,000, and possibly 10,000, have died from wounds or disease, these estimates make up an aggregate which is utterly irreconcilable with the census.

Unless dragons' teeth have been sown in the Dutch repuplic, very few burghers can be left on the fighting line, and the raiders who have crossed the Orange River are mainly Cape rebels and adventurers who have been starved out of the Orange River Colony and compelled to go south.

KRUGER VERY ILL.

New York, Jan. 12—Private advices received in Paris, a World despatch from Paris states, say that a German physician who recently examined ex-President Kruger pronounced him dangerously ill, scarcely likely to live more than a fortnight longer.

HAS NO EFFECT.

London, Jan. 12—A despatch to the Morning Post from Pretoria says that in an interview a prominent member of the Burgher Peace Committee frankly confessed that there was little hope of many of the fighting Boers surrendering. He said,—

"If I had not been captured fighting I would have continued in the field, no matter what inducements were offered to me. Having given my parole I shall do my best to bring peace about, but I do not expect great results."

The Post's correspondent declares that it is the general opinion that the attempts at conciliation will be useless.

Mr. Malan, editor of the Onsland, who was arrested on the charge of publishing a defamatory and seditious libel concerning General French's troops, was rearraigned to-day at Cape Town, and committed for trial. He reserved his defence. Only formal evidence was taken.

RAILWAYS ALL SAFE.

London, Jan. 12—It is understood that Lord Kitchener now holds securely all the railroads in South Africa, having recovered possession of the Delagoa Bay line.

According to the Pretoria correspondent of the Daily Mail, Lord Kitchener is now organizing a force of 3,000 irregular horse, which will occupy some weeks. When this force is ready he will resume offensive ooperations.

Meanwhile the invasion of Cape Colony looks more threatening. The news that Commandant Hertzog has two guns is rather startling, as it was formerly asserted that the invaders had no guns. The defences of Cape Town, including two 4.07 naval guns, are now completed, and the recruiting of volunteers is active throughout the colony.

According to despatches to the Daily Express the Admiral of the Cape fleet is prepared in an emergency to land a naval brigade of 2,500 men, with six Hotchkiss guns.

PRAYS FOR DISASTERS.

Dublin, Jan. 12—Addressing a meeting of the United Irish League in this city, John Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, spoke most hopefully, while appealing for funds, of the prospects of the Irish cause.

The Liberal party, he said, had gone to pieces because a large proportion of its members had been false to Ireland. The Conservative Government was engaged in perilous enterprises in China, South Africa, and elsewhere, and he added, "I hope to God that the Government iwll be overwhelmed by military and financial disasters at Cape Town."

A SERIES OF RAIDS.

Pretoria, Jan. 12.—The Boers have been making some daring raids in attempts to seize cattle near the British outposts along the eastern line. Generals Babington and Gordon are having skirmishes daily with the Boers south of the Magaliesburg. These are believed to number about 3,000.

Commander-in-Chief Botha is reported to be organizing a series of attacks in the East, of which those at Belfast and other places on Monday night and Tuesday morning were the beginning.

The whereabouts of General Dewet, the slippery Boer leader, is now merely a matter of conjecture on the part of the British military officers. It is believed, however, that he is in the northern part of the Orange River Colony, between Bothaville and Heilbron, the only part of that colony where a considerable Boer force remains.

A GOLDEN JUBILEE

Rev. Francis Andrews, Presbyterian of Keene, 50 Years Pastor.

Friday was a memorable day in the history of the Presbyterians of Keene and Westwood, being the fiftieth anniversary of the induction of Rev. Francis Andrews as pastor. Seldom, if ever, has one pastor ministered for half a century to the spiritual needs of one congregation.

The jubilee anniversary was marked by a very large gathering, and the veteran pastor must indeed have felt that in the many honors done him and the respect and esteem shown was some reward for the faithful labors of the past half century. Rev. Francis Andrews, whose jubilee it was, was born at Port Glenone, county Antrim, Ireland, and studied in Belfast under Dr. Cook and in Edinburg under Dr. Chalmers. He was ordained in August 1850, and inducted into his present charge on January 11th, 1851. He was then a young man of 27, and at the age of 77 he commemorates his pastoral jubilee vigorous in mind and body, and honored and respected by all his fellow citizens and beloved and revered by his congregation.

ST. PETER'S T. A. S.

The Members Attend Church in a Body on Sunday, Morning and Evening

On Sunday morning, at 8 o'clock mass, the members of St. Peter's Total Abstinence society received Holy Communion in a body, it being the anniversary of the commencement of the organization. There was a very large turnout and when mass had been concluded they marched from the cathedral to their hall on George street. In the afternoon a meeting was held here and the newly elected officers installed. In the evening the members again attended in a body, when Ven. Archdeacon Casey delivered a forcible lecture against the evil of intemperance, taking as his text the words of St. Paul to the Romans, chap. xiv, verse 21, "It is good not to eat flesh, and not to drink wine nor anything whereby thy brother is offended, or scandalized, or made weak."

The society is to be congratulated on the support it has received among the Catholics of the town, and on the good work it has done during the past year, and is still doing, for the stamping out of the use of intoxicating liquors.

The literary branch of the society gives one of their regular fortnightly concerts next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. These entertainments take place in the rooms of the society on George street, and a pleasant time may be expected, as the preceding ones have been always crowned with success. The society deserves every assistance, and it is hoped all who can will attend.

LOCAL BOARD OF HEALTH

MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER BINGHAM'S REPORT.

Carefully Prepared Facts Concerning the Sanitary Condition of the Town.

A meeting of the Board of Health of the Town of Peterborough was held in the Town Clerk's office for the purpose of receiving the report of the Medical Health Officer, Dr. James Bingham.

In the absence of the Chairman, Mr. Henry Denne, Dr. Burnham was on motion asked to preside.

Dr. Bingham read his annual report, which was as follows:

To the Board of Health of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen, — There is reason for congratulation that no formidable epidemic visited the town during the year that is past, and yet the death rate was slightly higher than usual. 160 deaths were reported during the year. This would be a fraction of 15 per thousand. Any number under 19 per thousand is said to indicate a fair sanitary condition for a town or city.

The different causes of the deaths reports were as follows, — consumption, heart disease, pneumonia, diarrhoea, old age, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, apoplexy, bronchitis, drowning tumor of the spine, inflammation of the brain, diabetes, suicide, accident hemorrhage of the lungs and diphtherin. The infectious diseases which visited the town were of a mild type. From a large number of typhoid fever cases only four deaths were reported. From scarlet fever two deaths, and one from diphtheria. Consumption caused twenty deaths and heart disease fifteen. All the other diseases claimed smaller numbers. The deaths per month were,—January 13, February 9, March 17, April 19, May 15 June 10, July 11, August 19, September 19, October 12, November 7 and December 7.

THE SANITARY WORK.

In all cases of infectious diseases which came under our notice, isolation and disinfection were carefully observed. And in this connection I wish to say that all the physicians in town without exception, have done all in their power to assist the officers of the board in carrying out these provisions of the Health Act, and the teachers in all the schools of the town did the same thing. The sanitary work which fell to the lot of your officer, during the year, was heavy. Your sanitary inspector and his aides visited 2,505 yards. 889 of these yards did not present a very facinating appearance and notices were served on the proper parties to clean up. 1,616 yards were found in a proper sanitary condition. The usual number and variety of complaints reached us during the year and with the ready and efficient aid of the sanitary inspector every complaint was remedied to the best of our ability.

It might be useful to notice here that if every one would observe the laws of health, sickness would be almost unknown. With the dwelling house built on pure soil with the absence of sewer gas and of decaying animal matter and vegetable substance with a sufficient supply of pure air and pure water, undertakers would have less to do.

Our houses should be well ventilated and all sleeping apartments should be frequently disinfected, and if possible, flooded with sunlight. Pure water, the common beverage of all, is of prime importance. Many samples of well water in the town have been examined in the course of the year, and some were not safe for domestic use. Samples of both town and well water and also a sample of ice from Little Lake were sent to the Provincial Board for analysis and no unfavorable report was returned, except in reference to two wells. A sufficient number of scavengers served the town during the season, and they did their work well, but it is said that sometimes they made the night air reek with their useful but unsavory profession.

The pig, the standard nuisance of all municipalities, has given us the slip, for during the past year we have heard but little of him. We can all remember that before boards of health were in vogue, the pig led an idle, worthless life. In those happy days he could be seen starting from his lair in the early morning and impelled by hunger or avarice, he made his way to the nearest garbage, while his short tail beat the air like a distracted pendulum. But last year he went into seclusion and it seems now that he intends in future to give us absent treatment.

THE MILK QUESTION.

No complaint has reached us during the year in reference to the quality of the milk supply and all the samples which we examined were very good. It is a hopeful sign that the citizens generally are beginning to take a deeper interest in the provisions of the health act, still, much time and patience will be required to educate the people in reference to their own health. Indifference to sanitary measures by the human race is of long standing; for ever since the day that the devil persuaded the first couple to eat something which they ought not to have eaten—ever since that day, dirt and disease have been close to the human family. In the very dawn of history we find some wise men engaged in sanitary reform. In the 23rd chapter of Deuteronomy, 12 and 13th verses, we learn that Moses acted like a board of health, and he seems to have adopted the sewage farm system on a primitative scale. But we have no need to ransack ancient history in quest of unsanitary customs and manners. Look at the beautiful sidewalks in towns and cities bespattered with tobacco juice and polluted with expectoration from diseased lungs, and these boorish deposits ornamented with tobacco quids which had gone through the mill and had outlived their usefulness, and in this particular state of things, when a fine lady ventures to navigate a sidewalk, it requires some nice sleight of hand movements on her part in order to avoid the risk of carrying home some of the ornaments already mentioned. It is needless to say that these remarks apply to all towns and cities of Ontario, except, (perhaps), Peterborough.

J. BURNHAM,
Medical Health Officer.

On motion the clerk was instructed to forward a copy of the report to the Provincial Board of Health.

THE IMMAGRATION ACT

A Test Case to Decide as to the Jurisdiction of the Dominion and province of British Columbia.

Ottawa, Jan. 12—It is very probable that a test case will be submitted to the courts so as to decide the question of jurisdiction arising out of the Chinese and Japanese Immigration Act of the Province of British Columbia, which is modelled on the Natal Act. It is generally conceded that the Province cannot interfere with the Chinese, since the Dominion has already legislated on this subject, and in all cases where the Dominion and Provinces have concurrent powers, the latter cannot override the former. But as to the Japanese, that is another matter, since the Dominion has not acted. The general belief, however, is that the whole question is one which the Dominion could handle best. This is one of the subjects which Premier Dunsmuir and Attorney-General Eberts of British Columbia, who are now here, will discuss with the Premier and Minister of Justice. The granting of a charter to the Northern Railway to reach the coal fields of the Crow's Nest Pass, a direct line between the Kootenays and the Pacific coast, the extension of the railway to the north end of Vancouver Island, and some scheme for joint action on the part of the Dominion and the Province to develop the mineral resources, will also come up for consideration.

JOINT NOTE OF POWERS SIGNED BY THE CHINESE

England to Cede Railway to Russia who will also Secure the Northern Portion of the Country

Pekin, January 14.

The joint note of the powers has finally been signed by the Chinese Peace Commissioners. Prince Ching signed yesterday and Li Hung Chang, who is better, signed it to-day.

Washington, Jan. 13.

Secretary Hay has received a telegram from Minister Conger at Pekin announcing that the Chinese plenipotentiaries have been directed to sign the joint note of the powers.

London, Jan. 12—The Daily Chronicle has the following important statement:—

"From a trustworthy source we learn that Lord Salisbury has agreed to cede to Russia the railway from Niu Chwang to Shan Hai Kwan. It is not known what compensation will be received for the concession."

Leading financiers versed in Chinese affairs, who were interviewed, appeared to think that if the news was correct, it indicated that Lord Salisbury recognized the impossibility of preventing the partition of China, and that Russia would get the north, and Great Britain the Yang Tse valley.

The original prospectus of the railway company stipulated that the bondholders, mainly British, could be bought out at any time at the rate of $600 per $500 bond.

The Daily Chronicle in an editorial on the subject, taunts Lord Salisbury with having made another "graceful concession," because Great Britain's entanglements deprive her of the strength to back up her diplomacy.

THE CHINESE REVOLUTION.

Prince Chun, brother of the Chinese Emperor, is now in Pekin, though not in an official capacity.

The Chinese, he says, are the most peacable race on the earth, and such trouble as recently occurred is not likely to happen again for centuries. He believes the Emperor is friendly to foreigners who desire to preserve the integrity of the Empire. He says that it is a mistake to attribute unlimited power to the Empress Dowager, though she naturally has the influence with the Emperor which the Cinese always concede to relations who are their seniors, and which is beautifully shown by their veneration for their ancestors.

HALF A DOZEN HUSBANDS

Probate Court Case Discloses a Remarkable Marital Experience.

Chicago, Jan. 12—The story of the remarkable marital experiences of the late Frederick Hoffman was told in the Probate court yesterday. They included six marriages, three divorces and three desertions. The birth of two children, the death of one of them, and the death of the much-wedded woman Nov. 1, 1900, at her home, No. 1337 Fulton street. The narrative was recited before Assistant Judge Hines by August Bleck, only surviving child, and the recipient of letters of administration of the estate, which consists of about $2,500 worth of personal property.

In answer to the questions asked in establishing proof of heirship Bleck told that about 1850 the late Fredericke Hoffman and Ernest Bleck were married. This was the first marital venture in which either of them had engaged. Two children were born, August, and a girl who died in infancy. Ble came in the family, and in 1873 they were divorced. August remained with his mother, and in the various changes of family relations which followed he still clung to his maternal ancestor. Of one of the intervening fathers of the child he did not remember the first name, and of the others he knew little. In each case the marriage was regular in itself, whether the woman had been released from her previous spouse or not.

On the showing made by Bleck that he was the only surviving child, letters of administration were issued to him.

"She was the most married person whose estate has come into this court," said Assistant Judge Hines. "Luckily the son is the only heir-at-law. Otherwise the tangle might cause long litigation."

NEW RAIIWAY BRAKE.

Marvelous Claims Put Forth for Contrivance of a Swiss Engineer.

London, Jan. 14.—The Geneva correspondent of the Daily Mail credits an engineer named Planta with the invention of a mechanical brake that will stop at rain running twenty-five miles an hour within eight yards, and fifty miles an hour within twenty yards. Passengers can apply the brake by pulling an alarm cord. The shock is less than that caused by existing brakes. The correspondent adds that the government will adopt the invention on trains throughout Switzerland.

CASTELLANE SUIT CONTINUED.

Case Adjourned for a Week When Judgment will be Pronounced.

Paris, Jan. 14.—The hearing of the suit of Charles Wertheimer, the London bric-a-brac dealer, against Court and Countess de Castellane to recover payment for art objects sold to the defenders, the transaction taken as a test case involving the sum of 12,946 francs, was resumed to-day before the first civil tribunal of the Seine. The session was devoted to the usual summing up by the representative of the Minister of Justice, and the case was then adjourned for a week, when judgment will be pronounced.

The speaker to-day expressed an opinion in favor of the Castellanes' demand for the appointment of experts to determine the value of some of the articles involved, but only in the case of objects exchanged since 1896. The transaction up to June 1896, he considers entirely settled and expresses the opinion that the court was not justified in going back to them. But the operations dating from June, 1896, were different. He instances the [illegible] of a bill for 186,875 francs which was left unsettled even though Wertheimer was engaged in making exchanges, during the course of which Wertheimer paid money to Count de Castellane, the operations involving sums aggregating 1,[illegible] francs. These transactions were not, in his opinion, natural, and were open to the suspicion of being of an usurious character, which justified the appointment of experts to appraise the articles which Count de Castellance claimed were taken by Wertheimer at an inferior valuation. He came to the same conclusion in the case of Asher versus Wertheimer.

ENGLISH PILGRIMS UNNOTICED.

Address to Pope Not Likely to Cause Political Consequences.

Rome, Jan. 14.—Although a section of the press is incensed by the address read by the Duke of Norfolk to the Pope, expressing hope for the restoration of the holy see's temporal power, the populace is entirely unmoved. The English pilgrims, who wear red rosettes as a distinguishing mark, went sightseeing about the city to-day, and were not menaced; indeed, they were not noticed. It is considered most improbable that the incident will have any political consequences. The pilgrims will leave Rome to-morrow.

THE DOMINION CENSUS.

It Will be Taken on Sunday March 31st.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—The next Dominion census will be taken on Sunday March 31 next. This is also the day fixed for taking the census of Great Britain and Ireland. All persons who are living at midnight on Sunday will be counted. The census will be taken by name, and according to the de jure system. The country will be divided into census districts, consisting as far as possible of electoral districts. The polling subdivisions agreeing to the boundaries adopted for the recent general election are taken as units of enumeration. There will be one commissioner for each electoral district, and one additional commissioner where local circumstances require his services. There will also be one enumerator for each polling subdivisions where the population is sparse.

The work of enumeration will begin on Monday, April 1, and in a great majority of polling subdivisions it is expected that the work will be through in a fortnight. Provisions is also made for the appointment of four chief officers for the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and one for each of the other Provinces and the North-west Territories.

It will be the duty of these officers to instruct the commissioners concerning the work of the census, and the commissioners in turn will instruct the enumerators. There are twelve schedules, as against nine in 1891.

DEATH OF D. C. MABDONALD

The Manager of the London Mutual Fire Insurance Co Passes Away.

Mr. D. C. Macdonald, of London, Ontario, died at the Craig House, Lakefield, on Saturday morning last. The deceased gentleman had been in poor health for over a year, and spent the summer months in Lakefield, where he improved in strength. After returning home he found that his health was not so good, so came back to Lakefield in early autumn, in the hope that he would be benefitted. Such was not the case, however, the disease having evidently marked its victim. Mr. Macdonald took to his bed soon after his arrival at the Craig House, and gradually grew worse, notwithstanding that he had the best medical assistance and all the care that a loving wife could bestow upon him.

Mr. Macdonald was 66 years of age, having been born in the township of Seymour, county of Northumberland, Ontario, in 1835. He was of a cheerful disposition, and bore his sufferings with wonderful resignation and fortitude. In 1859 he formed the company, of which he is the manager, and which has long been regarded as one of the solid financial institutions of the country. He leaves a wife, the daughter of Mr. George Strickland, Lakefield, a grown-up son by his first wife, and a young daughter 19 months old, to mourn his death.

The remains will pass through Peterborough this morning for interment in London.

The Times joins in extending its sincere sympathy to Mrs. Macdonald in her irreparable loss.

LORD ROBERTS AND HIS HONORS

This question is asked in many quarters whether the honors paid to Lord Roberts are not somewhat exaggerated and inopportune. To be met at the steamer landing by a son and daughter of the Queen, and to be conducted by them straight to Her Majesty's presence to be given a welcome and rewards as great as Nelson or Wellington or Marlborough received. Why all this to a man who has come back from an unfinished third-rate war? This is the question that several American papers have asked—a question which is answered by the New York Tribune. Its answer is this: First, the present is not a third-rate war. It may be a war with a third-rate Power, but when Lord Roberts went out to Africa a year ago it was to protect the Empire from the greatest danger that had menaced it since Yorktown. For the avowed object of the Dutch Republics was not so much to defend themselves from aggression as to drive the British out of the whole of South Africa and form therefrom one great Dutch Confederation. With this design moreover, the other Powers of the world were, more or less, in sympathy and accord. It was therefore not the possession of Africa south of the Zambesi which was at stake; it was British prestige, that intangible yet powerful something which gives confidence and strength to British rule in India and elsewhere throughout the Queen's realm. Let it but be seen that Britain can be driven out of Africa by the Boers, and that prestige is shattered, the confidence in her power departs. For there are two things, as some one well has said, that make her able to rule native races; confidence in her justice, and confidence in her strength. Let either of these be destroyed, and her away is gone. This was the situation a year ago. As the Tribune says: "Then, with astonishing celerity, the situation was changed. The tide of battle was rolled back. Boer armies were vanquished and captured. The British flag was raised over the Boer capitals." The continental Powers declined to intervene and the outlying parts of the Empire rallied round the Old Land. But more than that: Lord Roberts is honored for his chivalrous and upright private character; for his success in the past, both as soldier and civil administrator; for what he has done for the private soldier, whose friend he has ever been. More than that: there is the sympathy that has gone out to him in the loss of his own son, whose death he did not for a moment allow to interfere with his duty, and the admiration felt for the modesty with which he has always worn his laurels. These facts, as the Tribune says, sufficiently explain why Lord Roberts is Britain's idol to-day.

EDITORIAL NOTES

China has beheaded the murderer of the German Minister. Whether by so doing it has cut short its other troubles remains to be seen.

* * * * *

Now that even telephoning without wires is spoken of, there's certainly something in the air.

* * * * *

Great Britain has another war on her hands, that with the Waziri on the Northern frontier of India. This, with the war in China and in South Africa, makes three wars at present, while the West Africa difficulty has just been successfully closed. But then in India, with its 300,000,000 people of varied race and creed and tongue, there is always some armed conflict going on, so that that land has been well called the Empire's "Camp of Exercise." There is a good deal of truth in the old saying of the Blind Titan staggering under the weight of Empire, although it must be confessed that he manages to sustain the burden pretty well after all.

ALL SORTS

Spanish girls who make the famous fans of Valencia are paid about 25 cents a day.

Floors of rubber, claimed to be as durable as asphalt, and cheaper, are being tried in Germany.

Muffs were first used by doctors to keep their fingers soft, and were adopted by the ladies about 1550.

The cemeteries around London cover 2,000 acres, and the land they occupy represents a capital of £20,000,000.

A census of the Klondike district gives a total population of 8,306 of whom 5529 are citizens of the United States.

The Queen has been greatly touched by the number of letters sent her by Irish peasants and humble workers in other walks of life.

The work of blind women typewriters is one of the interesting features of the United States treasury department. It is said that their work is equal to that of the best operators.

Many of the streams in France have been stocked with American black bass, and the fish have flourished to such an extent that they are common articles of diet in the hotels and restaurants.

Fish skins are being used for leather. The Eskimos of Alaska make shirts and boots of salmon hide and jackets from codfish. Frog skins are said to make excellent bindings for books.

Engagements are rarely broken off in Germany. A bride in Germany must provide the furniture, plate and linen for the future home, and during the time of her engagement Gretchen is busy making these extensive purchases, in addition to her trousseau.

A railroad man says that there is no limit to the size of the American locomotive, and "as long as heavy rails can be secured, just so long will engines grow. Some of these days we will be using 200 pound rails, and locomotives twice the size of those now in use."

It has been shown that one pair of robins will bring to their young in one season more than 3,000 worms—cutworms and others. The robin alone saves to gardeners and fruit growers more than enough to compensate them for injury done by all other birds together.

Chums.

The young couple always together before marriage rarely keep up this happy intimacy as man and wife. They are not tired of each other, but the young wife finds herself weak and languid, with no inclination for exercise. And thus begins a division of pursuits and interests which often ends in divided lives. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong. It stops the drains which undermine the strength, cures "female weakness," nourishes the nerves and gives vigor to the whole body.

There is neither opium, cocaine or other narcotic in "Favorite Prescription."

"I suffered from female weakness about eight years—tried several doctors, but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. John Green, of Danville, Boyle Co., Ky. "This medicine was recommended to me by other patients. I have taken six bottles, and I feel like another person."

Free. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, is sent free, on receipt of stamps, to cover cost of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

JUST IN FUN

"I could save more money," the young man admitted, "but I find it so hard to break away from my friends. A fellow can't be a boor and cut all his acquaintances without reason, you know."

"I will tell you what to do," said the man with the brindle moustache. "Buy a dog."

"And then what?"

"Then, when you meet your friends, you will find yourself telling them stories of his wonderful intelligence. You just can't help it. In this manner you may soon be alone."—Indianapolis Press.

The Layman—Candidly, do you expect your prayer in behalf of the Boers to be answered?

The Pastor—I flatter myself it is unanswerable, sir. Three or four cranks have tried to answer it, through the press, but it seems to me they have failed egregiously.—Detroit Journal.

Collector—I'm sorry, M. Slowpay, but your tailor has put his account against you into my hands for collection.

Mr. Slowpay—He has, eh? Do you work on a commission basis?

Collector—Yes, sir.

Mr. Slowpay—Then I'm sorry for you.—Chicago News.

Bachelor—I am told that a married man can live on half the income that a single man requires.

Married Man—Yes. He has to.—Tit-Bits.

"Y-e-e-s; but you ought to see how he charged me."—Green Bag.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

I. A. HOPKINS.

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right. I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 63 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic disease he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 408 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

SLAVER GORDON

Hung on Bedloe's Island in the Year 1862 —End of the Slave Trade.

On Bedloe's Island is still pointed out the spot where Gordon, the slaver, was hanged in 1862. His execution did more than any other one thing to put an end to the slave trade. John R. Spears, in an article in Scribner's, says:

"The slave ship Erie, which was captured off the Congo on August 8, 1860, was brought to trial.

"The master of the Erie was Captain Nathaniel Gordon, a slaver of experience. On the afternoon of August 7, 1860, he took on board 890 (one account says 897) slaves, of whom 172 were men and 162 grown women. Gordon was one of those infamous characters who preferred to carry children because they could not rise up to avenge his cruelties. He was captured fifty miles off shore and sent to New York. Here he was brought to trial as a private under the statue of 1820. The first trial resulted in a disagreement of the jury. On November 6, 1861, he was put on trial again, and on November 8 the case went to the jury. Two hours later a verdict of 'Guilty' was returned. On November 30 he was sentenced to die.

"Up to that moment no great interest had been taken in the trial. The slave-ship owners of New York, owing to the state of public opinion regarding the war then in progress, had allowed Gordon to face his trial without showing any activity in his behalf. But now they used every endeavor to obtain a pardon and then a commutation of the sentence. But the time had come when a slaver pirate, duly convicted, must suffer the penalty provided by law for his crime. He must suffer in spite of petitions and in spite of threats of rescue by a mob of slaver sympathizers. A battalion of marines would even be sent from the Navy Yard to protect the officers of the law in enforcing the sentence.

"At noon on February 21, 1862, Gordon was taken from his cell to the gallows. His bravado forsook him then, and with lolling head he shambled to the rope, supported by two deputies. There the noose was quickly adjusted, an ax blow released the weight, and his body was jerked into midair.

"The stroke of that ax on the cord was the hardest blow the slave trade had ever received. There were, indeed, slavers afloat thereafter. While the market existed and such enormous profits were to be made even the severest measures could perhaps, but repress. By a treaty with Great Britain, made on February 17, 1863, the limits of the territory wherein the mutual right of search existed were greatly extended. Even as late as 1870 Great Britain and the United States had to strengthen still further their agreement for the suppression of the trade, because a few slavers were yet afloat, and it was not until 1886 that the Spaniards in Cuba ceased to import unfortunate Africans. Nevertheless, when it became known that the American people would hang a slaver as a pirate the end was at hand. As the rope creaked to the weight of Gordon's dishonored clay it sounded the death knell of the slave trade."

Took off His Arm Without Touching It.

A brief telegram the other day recited that one James McMullen had lost an arm in a wringing machine in a laundry at Hutchinson. Here is the remarkable story related about the accident by the Hutchinson News:

"McMullen stopped at the wringer and held his hands over it to dry them. He got one hand too low so that the air suction caught it, and his arm from the elbow down was taken off as by a miracle. The wringer is a large circular iron affair, with a smaller bowl inside it in which the clothes are placed. The smaller apartment is perforated with holes upon the sides, and the whole thing revolves at the rate of several thousand revolutions a minute. The effect is that the air currents within the wringer are as terrific in their power as the centre section of a Kansas cyclone. When a cyclone strikes a brick building and hurls it to atoms the force seems appalling and incomprehensible. The accident to Mr. McMullen was equally mystifying. The instant his arm came into contact with the current of air it was parted at the elbow. One part lay on the clothes that were in the machine and the other dangled from his shoulder. There was nothing about the machine to give him even a scratch.

"The nerve exhibited by McMullen was wonderful. 'It never touched me,' was the first thing he said. The girls in the room were screaming and McMullen calmly informed them that it was not his head that was taken off and told them to be still. He was taken to a hospital and his arm was amputated close to the shoulder."

Advising the Bachelors.

"Why do you not tell the bachelors how to choose wives?" asked one of them, after reading the professor's advice to the girls on the question of choosing husbands. This query is easily answered. In the first place, to label the girls who would make the best wives would be to give away state secrets. One may laugh at the follies and foibles of the sex, when, by pointing out the same, good may be done; but it would be unpardonable to give the man inside information about the sisterhood of such a grave character as that requested. A man contemplating marriage should be able to settle the question for himself. One who cannot distinguish the difference between the false and the true should remain a bachelor. Boys should not marry.

Cheerful Idiot.

"The bell," said the prosy boarder, "has almost superseded the knocker."

"And that is the reason," said the Cheerful Idiot, "why it is a knocker."—Indianapolis Journal.

One Woman's Ruling Passion.

"There goes a woman," said the girl, "who hasn't a thought on earth except dress. I know that superior man attributes this particular weakness to all women—but it's a canard, as, of course, are nine out of ten of male estimates of women."

She conquered a refractory button on her glove before she continued: "But that woman who passed us is, without doubt, the most dress-crazy woman I have ever met. She knows no topic save dress—can speak of no other subject. She spends one-half of her time at her dressmaker's, and the other half is used in exploiting the handicraft of the modiste. Goodness only knows when she manages to get anything to eat. She's dead to every feeling, I believe, except that which has to do with dress. And what do you think she said Saturday? I met her as we were going out of a house of mourning. A young woman whom we both knew had died—and we had been at the funeral. Coming down the steps I noticed my friend, but the feeling of sorrow was too fresh upon me to permit anything more than a nod of recognition. For half a square we walked side by side. Then I said: 'Poor, dear Clara—alive and well one week ago, and now—now she's gone!'

"'Yes,' answered my friend, blandly; 'but wasn't she dressed beautifully? Really, it was a treat to see her!'"

Lincoln's Youth.

Abraham Lincoln was the son of a poor farmer, and of his boyhood days little is known. He was born in a small cabin on the Big South Fork of Nolin Creek, in La Rue county, Kentucky, which is about three miles from Hodgensville. One of the few little stories of his youth that the writers of his life have been able to find shows that even at the early age of ten he was guided by the same noble and generous impulses that made everybody love him when he grew to be a man. One day, after fishing for hours, he was returning home, tired and hungry, with only one fish, when he met a soldier. His mother and father had always taught him to be good to soldiers, and so, thinking this one might be hungry, he unhesitatingly gave him the fish he had worked so hard to catch.

Weight of Peas.

S. M. Andree, a Swedish scientist, has collected a tabular information showing the average weight of peas in their pods. The lightest peas were always found near the end of the pod. The average weight of a pea was greater the larger the number of peas in the pod, so that the largest pods contained the heaviest peas. The weight of the peas next to the point of the pod increased with the increased number of peas in the pod. With the exception of the first and last peas, there was but a very small difference in the weight of the peas in the same pod.

Drink Plenty of Water and Be Healthy.

There is no doubt that we do not drink enough. Our bodies consist largely of water, and the average man needs to drink from four to six pints of water daily in order to maintain health. This is the amount of water eliminated from the body by means of the kidneys, the skin and lungs. It is evident that a fresh supply is constantly needed to replenish this lost aid in the process of digestion and carry away matter.

If the amount of water imbibed is not sufficient for all this the health must suffer. Air, water and food are the essentials of life in the order given.

As a usual thing, women are the ones who suffer the most from an insufficiency of water. Mothers should see to it that their children have plenty of water to drink.

There is no doubt that hot water quenches thirst in most instances better than cold. Taken regularly at the rate of one glassful half an hour before meals it promotes digestion, and in catarrhal conditions of the stomach is recommended by physicians. It has also been tried as a remedy for insomnia.

Many nervous troubles would be greatly benefited by increasing the amount of water consumed, and constipation is largely the result of an inadequate supply of water.

One of the reasons people thrive at mineral springs is that outside of any medicinal properties the springs possess they drink much more water than at home.

Generally speaking, the theory advocated by the best phsicians nowadays is to drink often and much. It cleans the system, increases circulation and helps to make a clear complexion. Therefore, ye men and women, especially the latter, drink. Take clear, pure, sterilized water, and be thankful so simple a remedy of nature is near at hand.—Katherine Louise Smith, in Table Talk.

The Famous Monitor.

Two dismantled hulks, the remnants of two of the old monitors which did such effective service during the civil war, lie on the shore of the Delaware river at Pennsgrove, on the New Jersey side. They are all that is left of the Passaic and the Ajax, both of which had proud records during the days of '61.

The Ajax cost $750,000 to build in 1862, the Passaic $600,000. Both were sold for $50,000 to Henry A. Hitner's Sons, contractors, who bought them for the old iron in them. It is proposed to sell this old iron for the purpose of making steel, and the metal may be a part, in the future, of some new terror of the sea.

Both the vessels were at one time convoys of the Monitor, and it was a curious coincidence that the Passaic, which was bought at the Pensacola navy yard in Florida, came within an ace of sinking when off Cape Hatteras, where the old Monitor was lost in a gale.

So far only the crowbar and the sledge hammer have been used in dismantling the famous old-timers, but now the contractors expect to be compelled to use dynamite on the vessels.

During the war the Passaic took part in many engagements and was put out of commission at Philadelphia June 16, 1865. Her most noted contest was in Charleston Harbor, off Fort Sumter in 1863, when she was struck thirty-six times, had her turret turned and had to go out of [illegible]

SLAVER GORDON

Hung on Bedloe's Island in the Year 1862 —End of the Slave Trade.

On Bedloe's Island is still pointed out the spot where Gordon, the slaver, was hanged in 1862. His execution did more than any other one thing to put an end to the slave trade. John R. Spears, in an article in Scribner's, says:

"The slave ship Erie, which was captured off the Congo on August 8, 1860, was brought to trial.

"The master of the Erie was Captain Nathaniel Gordon, a slaver of experience. On the afternoon of August 7, 1860, he took on board 890 (one account says 897) slaves, of whom 172 were men and 162 grown women. Gordon was one of those infamous characters who preferred to carry children because they could not rise up to avenge his cruelties. He was captured fifty miles off shore and sent to New York. Here he was brought to trial as a private under the statue of 1820. The first trial resulted in a disagreement of the jury. On November 6, 1861, he was put on trial again, and on November 8 the case went to the jury. Two hours later a verdict of 'Guilty' was returned. On November 30 he was sentenced to die.

"Up to that moment no great interest had been taken in the trial. The slave-ship owners of New York, owing to the state of public opinion regarding the war then in progress, had allowed Gordon to face his trial without showing any activity in his behalf. But now they used every endeavor to obtain a pardon and then a commutation of the sentence. But the time had come when a slaver pirate, duly convicted, must suffer the penalty provided by law for his crime. He must suffer in spite of petitions and in spite of threats of rescue by a mob of slaver sympathizers. A battalion of marines would even be sent from the Navy Yard to protect the officers of the law in enforcing the sentence.

"At noon on February 21, 1862, Gordon was taken from his cell to the gallows. His bravado forsook him then, and with lolling head he shambled to the rope, supported by two deputies. There the noose was quickly adjusted, an ax blow released the weight, and his body was jerked into midair.

"The stroke of that ax on the cord was the hardest blow the slave trade had ever received. There were, indeed, slavers afloat thereafter. While the market existed and such enormous profits were to be made even the severest measures could perhaps, but repress. By a treaty with Great Britain, made on February 17, 1863, the limits of the territory wherein the mutual right of search existed were greatly extended. Even as late as 1870 Great Britain and the United States had to strengthen still further their agreement for the suppression of the trade, because a few slavers were yet afloat, and it was not until 1886 that the Spaniards in Cuba ceased to import unfortunate Africans. Nevertheless, when it became known that the American people would hang a slaver as a pirate the end was at hand. As the rope creaked to the weight of Gordon's dishonored clay it sounded the death knell of the slave trade."

Took off His Arm Without Touching It.

A brief telegram the other day recited that one James McMullen had lost an arm in a wringing machine in a laundry at Hutchinson. Here is the remarkable story related about the accident by the Hutchinson News:

"McMullen stopped at the wringer and held his hands over it to dry them. He got one hand too low so that the air suction caught it, and his arm from the elbow down was taken off as by a miracle. The wringer is a large circular iron affair, with a smaller bowl inside it in which the clothes are placed. The smaller apartment is perforated with holes upon the sides, and the whole thing revolves at the rate of several thousand revolutions a minute. The effect is that the air currents within the wringer are as terrific in their power as the centre section of a Kansas cyclone. When a cyclone strikes a brick building and hurls it to atoms the force seems appalling and incomprehensible. The accident to Mr. McMullen was equally mystifying. The instant his arm came into contact with the current of air it was parted at the elbow. One part lay on the clothes that were in the machine and the other dangled from his shoulder. There was nothing about the machine to give him even a scratch.

"The nerve exhibited by McMullen was wonderful. 'It never touched me,' was the first thing he said. The girls in the room were screaming and McMullen calmly informed them that it was not his head that was taken off and told them to be still. He was taken to a hospital and his arm was amputated close to the shoulder."

Advising the Bachelors.

"Why do you not tell the bachelors how to choose wives?" asked one of them, after reading the professor's advice to the girls on the question of choosing husbands. This query is easily answered. In the first place, to label the girls who would make the best wives would be to give away state secrets. One may laugh at the follies and foibles of the sex, when, by pointing out the same, good may be done; but it would be unpardonable to give the man inside information about the sisterhood of such a grave character as that requested. A man contemplating marriage should be able to settle the question for himself. One who cannot distinguish the difference between the false and the true should remain a bachelor. Boys should not marry.

Cheerful Idiot.

"The bell," said the prosy boarder, "has almost superseded the knocker."

"And that is the reason," said the Cheerful Idiot, "why it is a knocker."—Indianapolis Journal.

One Woman's Ruling Passion.

"There goes a woman," said the girl, "who hasn't a thought on earth except dress. I know that superior man attributes this particular weakness to all women—but it's a canard, as of course, are nine out of ten of male estimates of women."

She conquered a refractory button on her glove before she continued: "But that woman who passed us is, without doubt, the most dress-crazy woman I have ever met. She knows no topic save dress—can speak of no other subject. She spends one-half of her time at her dressmaker's, and the other half is used in exploiting the handicraft of the modiste. Goodness only knows when she manages to get anything to eat. She's dead to every feeling, I believe, except that which has to do with dress. And what do you think she said Saturday? I met her as we were going out of a house of mourning. A young woman whom we both knew had died—and we had been at the funeral. Coming down the steps I noticed my friend, but the feeling of sorrow was too fresh upon me to permit anything more than a nod of recognition. For half a square we walked side by side. Then I said: 'Poor, dear Clara—alive and well one week ago, and now—now she's gone!'"

"'Yes,' answered my friend, blandly; 'but wasn't she dressed beautifully? Really, it was a treat to see her!'"

Lincoln's Youth.

Abraham Lincoln was the son of a poor farmer, and of his boyhood days little is known. He was born in a small cabin on the Big South Fork of Nolin Creek, in La Rue county, Kentucky, which is about three miles from Hodgensville. One of the few little stories of his youth that the writers of his life have been able to find shows that even at the early age of ten he was guided by the same noble and generous impulses that made everybody love him when he grew to be a man. One day, after fishing for hours, he was returning home, tired and hungry, with only one fish, when he met a soldier. His mother and father had always taught him to be good to soldiers, and so, thinking this one might be hungry, he unhesitatingly gave him the fish he had worked so hard to catch.

Weight of Peas.

S. M. Andree, a Swedish scientist, has collected a tabular information showing the average weight of peas in their pods. The lightest peas were always found near the end of the pod. The average weight of a pea was greater the larger the number of peas in the pod, so that the largest pods contained the heaviest peas. The weight of the peas next to the point of the pod increased with the increased number of peas in the pod. With the exception of the first and last peas, there was but a very small difference in the weight of the peas in the same pod.

Drink Plenty of Water and Be Healthy.

There is no doubt that we do not drink enough. Our bodies consist largely of water, and the average man needs to drink from four to six pints of water daily in order to maintain health. This is the amount of water eliminated from the body by means of the kidneys, the skin and lungs. It is evident that a fresh supply is constantly needed to replenish this lost aid in the process of digestion and carry away matter.

If the amount of water imbibed is not sufficient for all this the health must suffer. Air, water and food are the essentials of life in the order given.

As a usual thing, women are the ones who suffer the most from an insufficiency of water. Mothers should see to it that their children have plenty of water to drink.

There is no doubt that hot water quenches thirst in most instances better than cold. Taken regularly at the rate of one glassful half an hour before meals it promotes digestion, and in catarrhal conditions of the stomach is recommended by physicians. It has also been tried as a remedy for insomnia.

Many nervous troubles would be greatly benefited by increasing the amount of water consumed, and constipation is largely the result of an inadequate supply of water.

One of the reasons people thrive at mineral springs is that outside of any medicinal properties the springs possess they drink much more water than at home.

Generally speaking, the theory advocated by the best phsicians now-a-days is to drink often and much. It cleans the system, increases circulation and helps to make a clear complexion. Therefore, ye men and women, especially the latter, drink. Take clear, pure, sterilized water, and be thankful so simple a remedy of nature is near at hand.—Katherine Louise Smith, in Table Talk.

The Famous Monitor.

Two dismantled bulks, the remnants of two of the old monitors which did such effective service during the civil war, lie on the shore of the Delaware river at Pennsgrove, on the New Jersey side. They are all that is left of the Passaic and the Ajax, both of which had proud records during the days of '61.

The Ajax cost $750,000 to build in 1862, the Passaic $600,000. Both were sold for $50,000 to Henry A. Hitner's Sons, contractors, who bought them for the old iron in them. It is proposed to sell this old iron for the purpose of making steel, and the metal may be a part, in the future, of some new terror of the sea.

Both the vessels were at one time convoys of the Monitor, and it was a curious coincidence that the Passaic, which was bought at the Pensacola navy yard in Florida, came within an ace of sinking when off Cape Hatteras, where the old Monitor was lost in a gale.

So far only the crowbar and the sledge hammer have been used in dismantling the famous old-timers, but now the contractors expect to be compelled to use dynamite on the vessels.

During the war the Passaic took part in many engagements and was put out of commission at Philadelphia June 16, 1865. Her most noted contest was in Charleston Harbor, off Fort Sumter, in 1862, when she was struck thirty-six times, had her turret turned and had to go out of [illegible]

A Resolution

The 3rd Dragoons have adopted the following resolution :—

Moved by Rev. H. Symonds, seconded by Surgeon-Major Yound, "That the officers and non-coms. of the third Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons and of the 57th Regiment assembled to welcome on their return from South Africa Sergt. Remodelling His Store.

Mr. A. W. Cressman is having his store remodelled and greatly improved. Mr. Cressman is not satisfied to be "in the swim," but prefers to be in advance of all others. His business has developed so much during the past year that it has outgrown the present facilities for handling it, more room being absolutely necessary. The partition in the rear of the store is to be torn down to give place to shelves and counters, and having the effect of doubling the present size of the dress good department. Then the stairways from the first and second floors are to be removed, giving increased space to the mantle and millinery departments. The millinery show rooms are moreover to be overhauled and improved. New counters are to be installed and the entire interior of the store is to be handsomely furnished.

Private Thompson's Reception.

Private Thompson, of Lakefield, who went with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, arrived in town Friday night. He was met at the station by a large delegation of Masons from both the Peterborough lodges and escorted to the Morgan House, where he was tendered a complimentary banquet. Pte. Thompson, it might be said, is a member of Clementi Lodge, A.F. & A.M. The chair was occupied by Worshipful Master Chief Roszel, and the vice chair by Worshipful Master Dr. Morrison. After a heart supper, which was gotten up in Bro. Munro's best style, songs, stories and speeches wiled away a pleasant evening. Pte. Thompson told of his experiences in South Africa, which was listened to with great interest.

He went up to Lakefield Saturday and will resume his duties on the canal construction in that community.

Female Diseases

PoWley's Liqnified Ozone

Cures these Terrible Diseases Permanently.

The peculiar construction of women makes her liable to suffer from many disorders which are especially painful and wearing. Many a woman bears these troubles in silence, rather than consult a physician. Powley's Liquified Ozone, the new system of treatment, will give prompt relief and a permanent cure for any of these afflictions. A special booklet will give you all information. You should write for the pamphlet on women's diseases. This is what one sufferer says. "I am much pleased in testifying to the superior qualities of Powley's Liquified Ozone, for the troubles I was afflicted with. A few months ago I left my country home to go to the hospital, as the doctors said I must go there to get rid of my trouble, which was female kidney trouble and general run down system. I had my doubts, as I had tried so many (so-called) patent medicines, and they had proved of no avail. I had not used Ozone for two weeks until I knew I was on the right track. It just took four months' treatment, and in that time I used five large bottles and now I am thankful to say that I am as well as I ever was in my life. The best part of it is that you have not got to keep on taking it, as I have not had occasion to take any for months. I have been the means of getting others to use Ozone and will always speak a good word for it. With great thankfulness, yours.

TRIED THREE TIMES

To Fit Coffee to a Sensitive Body.

There are great numbers of highly organized people upon whom coffee acts as a clearly defined poison. In some extreme cases the poisonous effects will show in from three to five minutes, in other cases a long time is required, and in some cases the body can stand the effects for years, but the effects are very sure, and many times result in a fixed condition of organic disease that is difficult or impossible to be rid of.

Mrs. J. W. Grant, of Deepwater, Mo., writes interestingly of her experience with coffee. "After using coffee a number of years and gradually failing in health, I got so I could eat but very little breakfast at any time and many days could not eat at all. I could drink a cup of coffee and try to eat a little bread.

"I knew the coffee was hurting me, but I did not seem to be able to take anything else. Just the minute I took a swallow of coffee my nerves would begin to tingle, a weak, faint sensation would run all over my body, my wrists burning and aching, the back of my neck hurting, until it finally got so bad that I would have to hold my head on my hand while drinking my cup of coffee.

"I would frequently have to run to the door for breath, feeling as though I would faint away. I got so I could scarcely sit up to eat my little breakfast. So it went on until I ran into nervous prostration completely. Nothing would stay on my stomach. I called in physicians, who told me I must travel, and gave me but little encouragement of getting well.

"A friend told me my trouble was coffee; I didn't believe it, but for some reason I concluded to stop drinking coffee and try the Postum Food Coffee that had been so highly recommended. I was greatly astonished to find that in a few days I had no more of the nervous spells at breakfast and began to eat food of most any and every kind.

"I began to discover very quickly, but like lost of coffee and tobacco slaves, I thought I would like to try the coffee again. So I started in on it and the old trouble came on. I stopped again, and went to Postum and began to improve in health. I did this foolish thing three different times, and each time that I would go back to coffee I would run down in health and was threatened with the same old troubles.

"I finally learned how to make Postum so well by letting it boil long enough, that it tasted as good as fine Java coffee, and from that time on I have never had any desire to go back to coffee. I am now well, and there is no question but that my recovery is due entirely to the leaving off of coffee and using Postum Food Coffee."

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Stella Hutchinson and Mr. Richard A. Gillespie.

The New Westminster Columbian contains the following reference to a marriage which will be read with much interest by many citizens of Peterborough.

"St. Mary's church, Sapperton, nicely decorated for the occasion, was the scene of a pleasing event on Wednesday evening, when Miss Stella, third eldest daughter of Mr. George Hutchinson of New Westminster, and Mr. Richard A. Gillespie of Peterborough, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The bride, who was given away by her father, was becomingly attired in white organdie, with valenciennes lace, and wearing a bridal veil of mecklin lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Sarah Hutchison, a sister of the bride, was neatly gowned in pink silk, with Battenburg lace trimmings, wearing a pretty bouquet of white and pink chrysanthemums. The groom was supported by Mr. E. A. Thomas of Vancouver. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. J. Hardwicke Davis, assisted by Rev. Alfred Shildrick, rector of Holy Trinity cathedral. The wedding march was played by Mr. Edwin Digby, on the new Doherty organ, used for the first time. Mr. Gordon Davis was usher. A reception was held at the home of the bride, immediately after the service, when about fifty guests were present to extend congratulations to the happy couple. Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie left on the nine o'clock train that night for Vancouver, to take the boat to Victoria. They will spend their honeymoon in that city, and at Seattle and Tacoma. The bride's travelling costume was of steel gray with hat to match. On returning to the city they will live on Agnes street.

The bride was the recipient of the following presents,—From St. Mary's Church, in which she had been organist and a prominent worker for many years, a handsome silver water jub, suitably engraved, and accompanied by a short address, her Sunday School class, silver cake dish and souvenir spoon; Rev. and Mrs. Davis, silver napkin rings; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cambridge, silver mounted dish; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Patchell, silver desert spoons; Mr. and Mrs. Graham, table napkins. Rev. and Mrs. Detlan, a pretty Japanese teapot; bride's mother fancy tablecloth; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Duncan, silk dressing jacket; Mr. and Mrs. R. Dynes, water set; Mr. and Mrs. J. Armstrong, china tea set. Mr. and Mrs. Malcolmson, silver tea-spoons; Mr. and Mrs. Hamsworth, flower vase and cake stand; Mr. and Mrs. Marsh, set of doilies; Miss Filmore, salt and pepper canisters; the Misses Matel and Winnifred Delbeck, silver teaspoons; Miss E. M. DeVoy; silver sugar spoon, Miss M. Graham, Vancouver, Battenburg centre piece; the Misses Burk, tea cosy; Miss Jennings, flower vase; Miss Davis, fancy handkerchiefs; F. W. Dyke, a mirror; A. Turner and W. A. Robertson, fire-place set; E. Furneaux, silver butter dish; E. H. Digby, flower vase, J. Brennan, easy chair; R. Steiss, a fruit set; R. G. Dingle, spirit lamp, etc., Mr. Fewester, Vancouver, gold-plated salt and pepper canister. The groom's gift to the bride was an emerald ring set with diamonds, and from the best man, a fine carving set.

Convinced by Printed Testimony of the hundreds of the cured, Mrs. Benz, of 418 E. 8th street, New York, who was for years a great sufferer from Catarrh procured two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder and it effected an absolute cure in a very short while. FROM THE DARK CONTINENT.

Several Beautiful Souvenirs Brought Home by Chill Turner.

The Times was shown a beautiful broach brought home from South Africa by Pte. "Chill" Turner, which was for his mother. It is of solid gold and consists of a minature pick and shovel joined by means of a golden threat. In the center is a gold nugget in which is imbedded a sparkling Kimberley diamond, while on the blade of the shovel and on the point of the pick are also nuggets of gold. He has also a number of Kruger sovereigns and a Boer flag, which he intends presenting to the town, as well as two Boer rifles, which he will present to the 57th and the 3rd Dragoons. The museum will be made the recipient of a 100-pound shell, among other things.

The following communication received by Mr. J. J. Turner from Capt. Greenwood is also expressive of the valuable services rendered by the Peterborough boy in South Africa and which were far from being unappreciated :

From the District Engineer's office of the Imperial Military railway :

Johannesburg, Nov. 30, 1900

Dear Mr. Turner,—Your son is leaving me to-morrow, which I regret very much. I hope he will get back safely to you, as I promised to take care of him before you let him go. He has been made an offer by the Imperial Military railways for employment, but considered you wanted him to return. I cannot thank you too much for having let him come as he has been invaluable to me as well as being useful to others. Should you want him to come back he can get employment here without any trouble.

I remain,
Yours truly,
H. S. GREENWOOD,
Captain and District Engineer.

Grand Trunk Equipment.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company is adding a number of modern coaches to its already large equipment, the new cars being officially known as the "2000 Series," one of which is being turned out every week at the Point St. Charles shops and put into service immediately. These coaches have been known as the "800 Series." The first lot built in the Montreal shops was added to the service in 1897, since which time the company, under the superintendency of Mr. W. McWood, has built all its own cars. Five of the new coaches are already in service, and are said to be giving the best of satisfaction. The "2000 Series" are of the wide vestibule order, sixty-eight feet in length, and equipped with the latest improvements in air brakes and signals. The weight of the cars is 72,100 pounds, the seating capacity being seventy-two passengers. The windows, which are of Gothic architecture, are finished in a combination of oak and mahogany, the interior of the cars being done in quartered oak. The seats are of the standard reversible pattern, upholstered in crimson plush. The aisles are covered with Brussels carpet, the floor of the large smoking room, in connection, being done in linoleum. The other arrangements, sanitary and illuminating, are in the general order. By the end of the year the Point St. Charles shops will have turned out 500 of the 1,000 new thirty-five foot thirty-ton box cars, in addition to the coaches mentioned and general repair work, and twenty-four standard simple mogul locomotives of the Morse pattern, in which speed and strength have been taken into consideration.

The Training of Sight.

"Lord Wolseley having lately remarked upon the good sight of the Boers as one cause at least of their good shooting, and having ascribed this good sight to its constant exercise in the open air, Mr. Brudenell Carter has pointed out," says The Hospital, "that it is not merely a question of open air but of the training of sight upon things that are far off and difficult to see. The defective vision possessed by so many children who have been brought up in towns is not caused by errors of reflection alone, common as these are, but by an actual deficiency in acuteness of vision, a lack of development in the nervous structures involved in the act of seeing. 'Vision,' he says, 'like every other nerve function, must be cultivated for the attainment of a high degree of excellence. The visual power of London children is now cultivated by their environment. They see the other side of the street in which they live, and the carts and omnibuses of the thoroughfares. They scarcely ever have the visual attention directed strongly to any object which is difficult to see, or which subtends a visual angle approaching the limits of visibility; and hence the seeing and the 3rd Dragoons. The museum will farm system on a primitive scale. But habitually excited to anything like what should be the extent of its powers. With a country child the case is wholly different, functions never exerted, or at least not ferent."

INAUGURAL MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

The Standing Committees and Town Officials Were Appointed.

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF MAYOR DENNE

Two Sessions Held—One at 11 a. m. and Another at 8 p m. Considerable Business Transacted.

The Town Council for 1901 held its inaugural session yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, when Mayor Denne presided, and all the Aldermen were present. The first discussion of the year was of an informal character, as to where the new members would sit. After some drawing from a hat to decide the question the members were seated as follows:—Ald. Best and Corkery, Batten and Clinkscale, Shortly, Rush, and Roger, Edgecumbe and Sawers. The clerk first announced the result of the elections.

MAYOR DENNE'S ADDRESS.

Mayor Denne then made his inaugural address, as follows:—

Permit me to congratulate you on your selection by the electors to manage the affairs for this year of the first town in the Dominion. We have now entered upon our duties, and have done so, I know, with a realization of the responsibilities of the trust committed to us. The general, and what might be called the ordinary, affairs of the town are of considerable importance and will demand from us careful consideration and management, in order that the ratepayers may derive the greatest possible advantage from the expenditure of the money entrusted to us.

In addition to the ordinary business, it may be found advisable to take into serious consideration other matters of importance. Among these is the question of whether the town should purchase and manage the waterworks system. We have, I believe, an excellent system of waterworks, which has been carefully constructed and managed by the company that owns it. The town cannot take over these works until July, 1903, except by mutual agreement, but after careful and thorough investigation on the part of the council, a basis of agreement may be come to that would be advantageous to the town whereby the works may be acquired without waiting two years longer, and without resorting to the vexatious and expensive method of arbitration. If such an agreement can be made between the council and the company, it will be our duty to submit it to the ratepayers for their decision, and an earnest effort should be made at the earliest opportunity to secure all the information necessary for the guidance of the council and the ratepayers.

The same remarks would apply also to the electric light system used for street lighting. Our contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Co. does not expire until the end of 1903, but after a careful investigation, which the council should at once undertake, it may also be found that it would be to the advantage of the town to acquire the street lighting plant without waiting for the expiration of the contract.

We have been fortunate, through the instrumentality of Senator Cox, in securing the Canadian factory of the American Cereal Company. But we should not at all feel inclined to rest on our oars. While it is right that all property owners, and others interested in the town, especially the Board of Trade, should be on the alert for opportunities to secure new industries, it is especially the duty of the council, as representatives of the whole town, and guardians of its interests, to take prompt advantage of every opportunity to increase the number and capacity of our manufacturing industries. This can only be accomplished by watchfulness and a liberal policy in dealing with manufacturers, and I believe that this council is ready, and anxious, to meet and deal with manufacturers in a liberal spirit. By a united effort, we should be able, with the natural and other advantages the town possesses, to secure further advancement in this direction.

Last year the council secured an order from the Railway Committee of the Privy Council that the Grand Trunk Railway Company should maintain gates at the crossings on Charlottte and Simcoe streets. These are dangerous crossings, and the gates will be a protection that will be appreciated. There are, however, one or two other streets where some protection is needed, as at the crossings of the Canadian Pacific Railway on George street, and attention should be given to these.

The expenditure and general finances of the town will this year, as they always do, require careful consideration from the council. We are with good reason gratified with the financial position the town has been able to maintain, for our rate of taxation and debenture debt are low compared with other municipalities of a similar size, and we must be careful in undertaking new work and in the management of the general affairs of the town to maintain this highly satisfactory position.

Economy in everything must be a guiding principle with us and no new work should be undertaken that will increase our liabilities, unless it is necessary, and the advantage of doing so is apparent.

We all have one object in view, and that is to advance the interests of the town in every way in our power, and that being the case we can look forward confidently to a year of pleasant associations and of success and progress.

The minutes of the last meeting were then read and adopted.

GREAT BRITAIN'S WARS IN VICTORIA'S REIGN

She is the Champion Campaigner of All Nations.

One for Every Year of Queen's Sixty Years Reign—The Greatest Record Ever Known.

London, January 15—Few persons will be surprised to learn that Great Britain has been a long way ahead of other European nations in the great game of war during the present reign.

The wars, great and small, which this country has been engaged in number in the neighborhood of sixty, or almost one for every year of the Queen's reign.

They include big wars such as that on which we are still engaged—the Crimean War, the Indian Mutiny, the campaigns of Zululand, Afghanistan, Ashantee, Egypt, the Soudan, China and Burmah, besides such miscellaneous items as operations in Chitral, the Black Mountain, Tochi, and the Miranzai Valley. There have been wars during the present reign which few persons ever think of. Who now remembers that we once had a war with Persia? And yet it is, comparatively, not so long ago. There have been four Ashantee and three Chinese wars. These are startling facts, and bring home to all of us the warlike character of the English race.

It is hardly an exaggeration to say that British guns have hardly ceased to thunder and British bayonets to strike terror into the enemy in all the sixty-three years of the reign—sometimes in the fetid, miasmic swamps of West Africa, sometimes on the icy plains of the Crimea, sometimes on the sandy wastes of the Soudan, but in whatever quarter of the globe, with honor.

France and Russia each have ten campaigns to their credit. The former has crossed swords with Germany, Austria, and Russia (the last in alliance with England and Turkey) in her time, and has carried the tricolor into Dahomey, Morocco, China, Mexico Siam and Madagascar, with more or less success.

Russia's luck in war has not been startling. She had to bend the knee in the Crimea to a combined army of English, French, Turk and Sardinians, though she was, however, successful in the conflict with Turkey in 1877. Her Afghan and Central Asia campaigns have given her a vast amount of trouble, notably the unpleasantness in Khokand in 1875 and 1878.

The Turk is a first class fighting man, and the Crescent has been almost uniformly successful when it has flown in battle. The first Greek campaign during this reign took place in 1853, and the last in 1897, but Hellas was humbled every time. The Ottoman Empire has also had trouble with Montenegro and Servia, and has come out on top; and though defeated by Russia in 1877, the plucky fight put up by the Turk will always be remembered with admiration. It was in honorable defeat.

Spain comes next, with six foreign wars, the first in Morocco, in 1859, and the last with the United States in 1898.

Austria, Greece and Italy have four campaigns each; Germany has the same number, in each of which she was successful, and little Denmark brings up the rear with two. Both conflicts were with Russia, and in both the bigger nation won.

The map of the world has been greatly altered since the Queen ascended the throne; and on the whole, Britain has no reason to regret those changes, for they have almost invariably meant expansion of Empire for us. The price of Empire has often been dear, but our gallant sailors and soldiers have never grudged paying it in full.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

Prof. Loeb Claims to have Found the Real Elixir of Life.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Not salt to stimulate the beating of the heart, nor glycero-phosphate of sodium to revive the lost strength of youth, but some undiscovered compound which will reverse the development of life, may dispel the terrors of old age and death. This is the theory of Professor Jacques Loeb of the University of Chicago. He is trying to confirm it by experimenting upon lower animals.

Instead of dissolution following inevitably upon senility some substance may be discovered, he says, which will arrest and reverse the processes of dissolution and postpone the end of life indefinitely. The man who has achieved his three score years and ten then may anticipate another lease of life and a career measured in centuries rather than years.

Professor Loeb does not pretend to know what this substance will be, but he regards its ultimate discovery as a possibility. During the last summer he made searching investigations among polyps and other primitive animals regarding the reversal of development, and his conclusion is published in the current number of the American Journal of Physiology.

"It is obvious," says Professor Loeb, "that in a form with a reversible development death will not necessarily follow a certain stage of development (corresponding to senility in man). It is not impossible that 'natural' death is comparable to the situation which is present in the mature egg after it leaves the ovary. Nature has shown us the way by which at this critical point death can be avoided in the case of the egg."

Professor Loeb has found that in certain low forms of animal life, such as the polyps, the form of the animal is dependent upon its environment, and that certain stages of development can be arrested, stimulated, or prolonged at will by changing the conditions in which the animal lives.

"We generally consider development as a process which can only occur in only one direction," he continues, "or, in other words, as irreversible. But this is apparently not generally the case. I showed in a recent paper that the morphogenetic process in hydroids is reversible. If the polyp of the Campanularia is brought into contact with a solid body it is transformed into undifferentiated material, and later into a stolon. If the same organ is brought in contact with sea water it gives rise to a polyp again. The same may be done with Margelis and other hydroids. Between the two phases the material must pass through an undifferentiated stage where it is neither polyp nor stolon. It will be the task to determine how far in the animal kingdom the development processes are found to be reversible."

If the cellular tissues of the animal can be reduced in some way to undifferentiated material, Professor Loeb suggests, development may be started anew in another direction. The specific elixir which will rejuvenate the wasted frame he leaves to future scientists to discover.

"If we succeed in finding a substance which accelerates the process of cell division at the normal temperature," he continues, "this will at the same time lead to a suppression or a reduction of the processes which shorten life." He finds that potassium ions will do this in the case of the Chaetopterus, or sea worm.

SEEK TRAIL OF CRIMINALS.

Riley, Ind., People Send for Bloodhounds to Track Persons Who Attempted to Burn House.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 14.—The people of Riley sent to Terre Haute to-day for bloodhounds to track the person or persons that tried to burn the home of George Carter while he and his family slept last night. Straw was piled around house and lighted in several places. The town is excited and there is determination to get to the bottom of the affair.

FATHER SEES SON HANGED.

Aged Parent Thanks Sheriff for Performing a Neat Job

Charleston, S.C., Jan 14. James Kelly, colored, was hanged to-day for the murder of Willis Benneau, a miser, whom he first robbed. The murderer's father, an old man, saw the executor. The father watched the sheriff as the rope was being tied and never lifted his eyes from his son as he was executed. When the body had been cut down the old man sought the sheriff and grasped his hand.

"Boss," he said, "I is seen a lot of niggers hanged, but dat is de best job of dem all. Dat was my youngest child, but you sure did hang him good."

The father had the coffin placed in a wagon and drove it to the cemetery.

DEATH FOR A KISS.

Young Woman Wielded the Deadly Hatpin and the Kisser Died of It.

Minneapolis, Jan. 14.—A special to the Times from Tacoma, Wash., says:

Last week at Prescott, Walla Walla county, Frank Sloan, in fun kissed Miss Ella Boone, whom he had blindfolded. She resented his action, and pulling a hat pin from her hat, stabbed him in the leg. The pin was broken off in his limb and blood poisoning resulted. Next day the pain became so intense that Sloan went to the hospital at Walla Walla. An X-ray machine failed to locate any sign of the remaining portion of the pin and Sloan grew worse and died. Miss Boone had remarked in Sloan's presence that she had never been kissed. This innocent remark led to Sloan's death.

A PEKIN VICTORIA CROSS.

What will the American Get Who Helped the Britisher.

London, Jan. 14.—Last night's Gazette contains the dispatches from the officer commanding the Legation Guard at Peking. They show how hard the fighting was and how pluckily the marines behaved.

All did well, but a specially gallant deed was performed by Lance Sergt. T.E. Preston of the Orlando, who is recommended for the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal.

"On July 14, after the enemy had been driven down from their barricade on the Imperial Carriage Park wall near the West Hanlin, by shell fire, this non-commissioned officer climbed on to the wall, some twelve feet high, with the intention of capturing a banner left on the barricade by the enemy.

"Finding that he could not reach it, he called for his rifle to be given him, and pushing down part of the barricade he kept the enemy, some fifty in number at bay, while an American gunner named Mitchell, was enabled to lay hold of the flag. Sergt. Preston then jumped down and assisted Gunner Mitchell in drawing the flag over with difficulty, as the enemy had laid hold of the other end. He was struck on the head at the same time by a brick, which partly stunned him."

Sir. C. MacDonald says the behavior of the men was worthy of the highest traditions of the British Army and of the marines.

FRENCH IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Foreign Minister Delcasse Declares He will Answer no Questions.

Paris, Jan. 14.—Senator Garreau has renounced his intention to interpellate the government regarding the French shore question upon receipt of a letter from M. Delcasse, in which he says.

"It is impossible for me, as Minister of Foreign Affairs, to speak on this or that point of foreign policy whenever the press pleases to engage in polemics.

"As regards Newfoundland I can only repeat what I said two years ago in the Chamber of Deputies. Our rights are uncontestable and uncontested. Nothing prevents them from being exercised. I don't believe it is possible to see therein any indication of a possible abandonment of our rights."

LORD KITCHENER STICKS TO HIS ORIGINAL PLANS

Boer Invasion Has Not Caused Him to Change His Tactics.

London, Jan. 14—The escutcheon of General Dewet, hitherto regarded as the patriotic and gallant cavalier, who had eclipsed all former guerilla leaders in dash and enterprise, without emulating the barbarity of some of them, has been tarnished. Murder, foul and horrible, lies at the door of the most capable of the Boer generals. Even in the middle ages, the person of the herald bearing communications from one camp to another was held so sacred that whoever did him harm became accursed. It is, indeed, a startling thing that in the twentieth century so black a deed as the murder of a British envoy sent by Lord Kitchener himself upon a peaceful and diplomatic errand, should have been done. The record of modern times contains no occurrence which can form a parallel to the recent action of Dewet. Only among barbarians is the flogging and slaughtering of envoys practiced, and the news that a British subject who was under the protection of the white flag has been treacherously killed, causes a feeling of intense indignation throughout England. Henceforth the Boers cannot complain if the British retaliate in similar manner upon the Boers who fall into their hands.

TIRES OUT HIS MEN.

Cape Town, Jan. 14—British scouts report that there are no Boers about Kimberley, and that the railroad line to the northward is clear. A message from Maseru, on the border of Basutoland, reports that a split has occurred in Gen. Dewet's force, several of the subordinate commandants having decided to pursue independent hostilities. They are said to be tired of Dewet's policy of constantly moving.

NO CHANGE OF TACTICS.

London, Jan. 14—The explanation of the recent Boer attacks on railways is found in the fact that General Kitchener, by establishing laagers where the unarmed Boers can be adequately protected, and by concentrating the British forces on the lines of communication after clearing the intervening spaces of horses and cattle, foodstuffs and arms, has forced the commandos to alter their tactics and take the offensive against fortified posts in the Transvaal. He is also releasing his mounted force for continuous service against Dewet, Delarey, Delarey and Botha.

He has not allowed his general plan of campaign to be thrown into disorder by the small parties of raiders moving southward into the disaffected districts of Clanwilliam and Piquetberg, and while the danger of insurrection is not yet averted the loyalists of Cape Colony seemed fully prepared to defend themselves against insignificant forces. General Kitchener deserves credit for courage in adhering tenaciously to his own scheme of operations and in allowing the districts in the south to take care of themselves, just as Lord Roberts in advancing to Pretoria was indifferent to what was going on on his eastern flank. Military men assert that the lines of communication have been shortened, and that many posts have been supplied with provisions for six months and released from dependence upon the railway and convoys. Koomatipoort, for example, is no longer connected with posts further west, such as Machadodorp and Belfast, but is provisioned for a long period and isolated. Other important posts are garrisoned in a similar way and the lines of communication are compactly arranged.

GOOD WORK OF CANADIANS.

London, Jan. 14—A special despatch from Pretoria, dated January 11, and describing the fight of January 9, near Commando Nek, dwells upon the excellent work of Howard's Scouts, a new corps composed of Canadians who remained in South Africa and re-enlisted. These scouts chased the retreating Boers a distance of five miles, harassing their rear, and taking some prisoners. One of Delarey's horses, with wallets containing the commandant's papers strapped to its back, and five hundred cattle were also captured. This new corps is under Capt. Howard of Gatling gun fame.

Cape Town, Jan. 14—The Dutch farmers of the Hermon and Worcester districts have held a meeting, at which they adopted resolutions expressing approval of the peace appeal issued by the burghers at Kroonstadt to their brothers in the field. The meeting also passed a resolution condemning the scheme of sending ex-treasurer Merriman and ex-Commissioner of Public Works Sauer to England for the purpose of telling the people of Great Britain what the situation is in South Africa.

A PLUCKY DEFENCE.

Pretoria, Jan. 14.—A commando, a thousand strong, attacked Kaalfontein at seven yesterday morning. The garrison, numbering 115 men, mostly Cheshire Mounted Infantry, made a plucky and scientific defence. Lieut. William Freemen was in command. The British sustained a six hours' bombardment from two guns and a Martini and a Maxim rapid fire gun, and repulsed a determined onslaught by the Boer riflemen without sustaining a casualty. The Boers lost heavily. They crept in the long grass to within forty yards of the British trenches, but were driven back by the accurate and heavy rifle fire of the defenders. Numbers of the Boers were seen to fall, and they were carried to a farm house later. After the attack was repulsed General Knox, with the Second Cavalry, arrived in time to head the Boers off from the south-east, in which direction they were retreating, and drove them to the northeast towards Tygpoort, where where they may fall into the hands of a British Mounted Infantry force.

ANOTHER ATTACK.

Early this morning 400 Boers attacked Zuuerfontein, but they were driven off, and joined those attacing Kaalfontein. Col. Rocheford arrived at Kaalfontein with an armored train from Pretoria, in time to see the Boers in full retreat. Gen. Kitchener, in his report, places the British casualties at two killed and four wounded. To-day three traction engines brought in loads of Boer women and children from the Rustenburg district. Later details of the Belfast fight show that 700 Boers rushed the position defended by 60 of the Royal Irish Regiment. The latter fought with their bayonets until only twenty of them were left alive. Eventually the Boers were driven from their positions by the British main garrison, the Gordon Highlanders and others.

WILL NOT ENLIST POLICE.

London, Jan. 14.—The announcement of the post this morning that the scheme for raising the colonial police force has been abandoned for the present cannot, in the light of recent events, cause much surprise. The rates of pay were not considered tempting enough by people living in South Africa, and of the sixteen thousand men who applied in the United Kingdom to join the force only five hundred or so were selected as suitable. It will be remembered that it was announced from Pretoria early in October that 12,000 police were to be enrolled in the Transvaal and Orange River colonies under command of General Baden-Powell. A few days later the Colonial Office issued an announcement to the effect that recruiting was taking place in South Africa only, but in November the Government asked for a thousand recruits from the Mother Country, and in December they decided to increase the number to 5,000. It has now apparently been agreed to drop the whole scheme altogether, and in order to meet the requirements of Lord Kitchener a further enlistment of Yeomanry will be called for.

CAPTURED A CONVOY.

London, Jan. 14.—Details are to hand of the recent capture of a British convoy near Vryburg. A convoy of 28 waggons, laden with military stores, provisions, clothing, tobacco, and compressed hay, left Vryburg Dec. 17, and was captured 10 days later, 30 miles from Kuruman, by the Boers. The escort had handed the convoy to a new escort from Kuruman when the Boers attacked it. The enemy had apparently been lying in ambush all night, and as the waggons restarted in the morning the Boers opened with a volley, seriously wounding Sergeant Scholtz, of the Cape Police, who was sitting in front of a waggon. The escort made no resistance and all were captured.

A CAPE CART SECTION.

Cape Town, Jan. 14.—A portion of the town guard, numbering nearly 4,000 men, was inspected yesterday by Colonel Cooper, the base commandant, who expressed great satisfaction with the appearance of the men.

A flying column is being formed in the districts between the eastern and western lines of railway. This column will be commanded by Col. Gorringe, and will be employed in aiding the regular forces in clearing the colony of invaders.

It is rumored that a Cape cart corps is in progress of formation. Each section will consist of seven cars, each of which will carry a driver, three men, food, and ammunition. Every section will be provided with Maxim guns and pompoms.

It is understood here that the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States will soon be completed. It is added that the Minister of Finance, H. E. Horning, is concluding satisfactory arrangements.

Washington, Jan. 14.

Gen. MacArthur reports the surrender of Degado, Commander-in-Chief of Floilo province, Panay. He also reports that other important surrenders are expected during the next few days.

Churchill in Chicago.

Mr. Winston Churchill, who lectured in Peterborough a short time ago, spoke in Chicago a couple of nights ago, and was interrupted by cheers for Kruger. He was frequently hissed, and it was with difficulty that the lecture proceeded. "Britisher that I am," said Mr. Churchill, "I would not wish to see the British flag stay in the Transvaal unless it meant in South Africa free government, justice, and common law." Mr. Churchill was in fine form, and kept his temper throughout the ordeal.

WHEN THE TROOPS WERE AT THE WAR

Saturday night in July, and a big hop at the hotel. She was thinking of other hops—dances at West Point a little over a year ago—and her heart was heavy, though her heels were light.

The young lieutenant from the ship in the harbor thought her pretty but absent-minded.

"Let's walk on the porch; there's such a good view of the water," she said.

So they walked out into the semi-darkness.

He was tall and good-looking, and he walked with the firm, lazy step that betokens strength.

She too, was tall and at her ease, but tonight she walked slowly, dragging the trail of her long white dress heedlessly after her.

The lieutenant found two chairs over-looking the river, and they sat down.

She gave a little sigh of relief.

"I've thrown myself on your mercy," she said. "I've made you bring me out of that crowded place."

"I'm afraid it was only an accident that made you choose me to come to the rescue," he said politely.

"No not an accident—your uniform."

He was not entirely pleased. Much as a man may admire himself in uniform, he wants a woman to admire him for himself alone.

"And why that?" he asked.

But she only laughed. "How did you come to wear it first?"

"True, when the war broke out I was undecided whether to go into the army or stick to the naval reserve. We had every hope of seeing active service so I stuck to the ship. It would have been hard to get a commission in the army. You know what a rush there was. Wish now I'd gone as a water carrier or a trench digger or something, for they are fighting while we—well, we're having a bitter, bitter war in Long Island Sound, and we're apt to keep it up the rest of the summer."

"Yes, they're fighting there—maybe at this instant—and we can't do anything but wait," she said. There was a desperate look in her dark eyes, and he wondered how this war had affected her.

"Did you want to go as a nurse?" he asked at a venture.

"No," she answered quickly. "I wanted to go and fight. The day our home regiment left for the front I went to see them off. There was a drizzling rain—the flags hung like rags on the—poles. Everyone had a flag out. But the trees were green, and when the regiment came along everything brightened up. The men had the collars of their over-coats turned up and their blankets were strapped around them. Oh they looked warlike. The band played 'Dixie' and 'My Maryland'—you know I'm a Southerner—and for the first time in my life I wanted to be a man."

The lieutenant began to be interested. He was not sorry they had stopped dancing.

"Yes, but all of us were not able to go," he said eagerly. "Look at me. What earthly good am I doing? How in the world am I serving my country at a hop?"

"What nonsense!" she said sharply. "You are only waiting for a chance, while there are no possible chance for me."

They were quiet for a moment. The music of the orchestra in the ballroom came to them in fitful snatches.

"There may be news of a big battle tomorrow," she said after awhile.

"It must come in a few days," he answered slowly, thinking what that battle would mean. "But your Maryland regiment is not yet in Cuba—only the regulars and the Rough Riders."

"Oh but I have friends in the regular army too," she said with a sudden flash of pride. "Lots of them. Do you hear that waltz they're playing?"

They listened a moment. It was "Over the waves."

"I've often danced it at West Point."

"Ah! I understand." He felt hurt without knowing why.

"I don't know about that. There's nothing to understand. Only this has been a terrible summer, hasn't it? And it's hard to think of anything but war and rumors of war." Then, with a quick smile, "I knew you'd understand—the uniform, you know. Good night; here comes my brother. I'm going to ask him to take me home."

Before he had time to say more than a quick "Good night" the trailing white gown had disappeared from the end of the porch.

Half an hour later she sat alone on a little balcony outside her own room. She was in deep shadow. There was no danger of her being disturbed from within, for she had locked the door that led into the hall, and everyone thought she had gone to bed.

"Now I can think it out," she said to herself.

There was a good view of the river—almost the same view she had had from the hotel porch. Rocks jutted out in a black, mysterious mass along the shore. The water rippled gold in the moonlight. The dark outline of a ship, relieved by an occasional lantern, told that the old monitor was there, longing to be off to battle in the Southern waters. From the hotel came the throb, throb of the music—the ball was not yet over.

Her thoughts went back to the days at West Point, when he was still a cadet. The happy summer came back to her when he became a first classman and she had been proud of his chevrons—for he stood high. The walks down Flirtation—particularly that day they went to First-Class Cave and he told her about his life out West before he came to the Point, and his hopes for the future—the future that looked so bright then.

Not one word of love did he speak, for he was only a cadet; but somehow she had guessed that he never told anyone else so many of his day dreams.

Then the dances came back. Always his name on her card, and so many cards with his name first and middle and last, which meant that he was escort to that hop. The hop rooms, from the walls of which old heroes looked down on the gaily dancing youths in gray who would some day add new names to their country's roll of honor.

And how well he danced—lightly and with buoyant strength. She could feel the quick motion yet—her feet kept time to that old favorite two-step, "E. Captain." The cutter at the dock blew its shrill whistle sharply—the ball must end.

She awoke from her thoughts and watched the dark hurrying figures of the naval officers. There was the last warning whistle. "Cast off," a few calls and some laughter; then the low light moved out toward the ship.

"The lieutenant had a good face. Somehow he reminded me of another lieutenant," she said, and again her mind went back to trace the past.

It was graduation now, and he came hurrying toward her to show her his commission. She was first to congratulate him. How eager he was—how happy. His blue eyes sparkled with life, his dark hair seemed to shine more brightly for sheer joy of living. They had said little, only laughed and chatted. It was a great day for them both.

Some people going homeward from the ball passed under her window singing "When Jonnie Comes Marching Home," and she hummed the tune with them, thought softly and to herself.

She thought of the year that went by after he joined his regiment out West. Of the letters he wrote her on every subject under Heaven—long, full letters, pouring his heart and soul out at her feet; and the letters she sent him in return, reserved enough, but breathing of her own personality, telling of her work, of her play and of her thoughts.

But as yet, no word of love. They were young and he had a reputation to make.

Then that awful day in February when the news came—"The Maine has been blown up in Havana harbor!"

Her heart stood still now as she thought of these terrible days of waiting, of her sure conviction that it would mean war. How rapidly one event followed another! The call for troops and the quick massing together of men in the South, the rush of battleships to Cuba, the good-byes.

Why, yes there had been a little good-bye. He had stopped over to see her on his way South, and for two hours they had talked army, army, army and war, war, war.

Only that, and his begging her to write and her promise to do so.

When he left her he took her hand and looked at her—a long, long look, such as she had never seen before in his eyes—a look of deepest tenderness, of longing and of love. Then silently he stooped and very gently kissed her hand. And off he went without another word.

But she understood. He would come back.

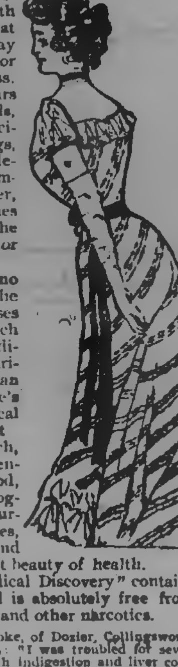
Would he come back? That was the question. Each day the papers held their terrible list of dead and wounded, their terrible list of dead and wounded. Each day brought new dread. And this—this was to be the day of the great battle before Santiago.

"If I could be up there now where the moon is," she said to herself, "I could look down and see what is going on in Cuba. Perhaps I should see a field where the battle has been to-day.

"I almost see it, a warm, tropical night—and there, perhaps, he is lying with his face turned toward the sky. It is white in the moonlight; his clear-cut features, so strong and full of life—there is no life there now. What is written there? 'I have fought the good fight.'

"His dark hair is trailing in the sand. I am not there to push it back from his forehead. He is lying there dead—alone O, my God! What shall I do?"

From the ship in the river came the silvery sound of "eight bells," which caught and mingled with the sound and sobs.



A Society Woman

Undergoes a greater strain than is generally realized, and every woman is a society woman in her own circle. The debts of society are many and must be paid or there will come social bankruptcy, and it is in the punctual payment of social debts, regardless of health or feelings, that women often lay the foundation for serious illness. The late hours and rich foods, common to society gatherings, soon or late derange the stomach; the liver, perhaps, becomes involved, and the heart flutters or palpitates.

There is no medicine for the cure of diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition which can equal Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It heals the stomach, purifies and enriches the blood, cleanses the clogged liver, nourishes the nerves, and gives face and form the radiant beauty of health.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, and is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.35; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00. Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Rickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 503 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

ASINGULAR START IN LIFE

How did I get my first start in life? Well, in a very singular manner—a very singular manner indeed. I will proceed to tell you.

Let me see. I am now rather advanced in years—seventy-seven last January— what some people call getting old; though, somehow, my heart feels as young as ever. Seventy-seven years, with nineteen off, leaves fifty-eight. Fifty-eight years ago in June; that would carry it back to the year 1841. Yes, that is right—that is the year I went out to Port-au-Prince, Hayti, as captain's clerk.

The captain and I not agreeing very well, I left him there, and while looking for another berth I fell in with a countryman of mine who wanted to take a trip into the interior, merely to gratify his curiosity.

"I have heard," he said, "that the scenery among the hills is the most beautiful in the world, and I am anxious to see it, but would rather not venture alone, and hitherto have found no one to be my companion. Now if you can spare a few days and will go with me I will not only bear all expense, but pay you a reasonable price for your time."

"I am your man," was my reply.

We immediately set to work and procured a good outfit—rifles, pistols, knives, tinderbox, wallets, knapsacks, canteens, and dry provisions, which we expected to eke out with fresh game, and the second day saw us on our travels into an uninhabited region.

I pass over the first few days of romantic exploration, during which we penetrated deep forests and dense jungles, where vegetation ran riot, forded numerous streams, climbed steep hills, scaled precipices, descended into dark valleys, and saw nature in all her wildness, grandeur and beauty, with enough of peril from wild beasts and poisonous reptiles to keep us keenly on the alert.

On the fifth or sixth day we discovered the finest scene at all—a succession of precipices, like so many terraces, one above another, down which poured and roared a series of cascades, with mountains towering far heavenward on three sides of the whole, and a tranquil river and a flowery valley on the fourth—altogether a combination of grandeur, beauty and sublimity that was really enchanting. We spent the remainder of the day here, built our campfire on one of the highest ledges, and slept listening to the music of the night-birds and falling waters.

On the following day we discovered the entrance to a beautiful grotto, which we immediately determined to explore.

Collecting some resinous sticks, and binding them together to serve for torches, we lighted our bunch, and entered where perhaps the foot of man had never before penetrated.

The entrance was narrow, a little higher than our heads, and my companion went cautiously forward with the light, and I as cautiously followed.

After getting in some fifty feet, in a zig-zag course, we suddenly came to a large apartment, hung with the most beautiful stalactites, which flashed and sparkled in the light with an effect which defies description, and we could easily fancy we were in a palace of diamonds.

"This is worth the labor of a lifetime to behold!" exclaimed my companion, enthusiastically.

"Gorgeous beyond my wildest dreams!" I replied.

This hall was very large, not less than three hundred feet in length, by two hundred in breadth, and in some places perhaps fifty feet to the roof, with an even, level floor.

While feasting our eyes on the surrounding beauties we gradually moved on, and came to where three dark passages led deeper into the bowels of the earth, the central one going straight forward, and the others turning off respectively to the right and left. We took the middle one, which was about ten feet wide, and as many high, and arched at the beginning, with nearly as much regularity as if cut out by the hand of art.

After advancing a few paces we found it gradually narrowed, and began to descend somewhat abruptly, the air becoming more damp and heavy. Presently it expanded into a long, low hall of solid rock, which, unlike the first apartment, was dark and gloomy, affording the wildest contrast.

On exploring this apartment we found no less than six more passages, leading off in as many different directions.

We selected the largest and still went forward, though I confess I began to feel a little uneasy, for fear we might venture too far, lose our way, and not be able to get back.

"Don't let us risk too much for the first time," I said to my companion by way of courtesy; "for I have no desire to be buried alive."

"There is not the least danger," he replied. "I watch every turn, and could find my way out in the dark."

Soon after this we came to where the passage was so contracted that, at first, we were compelled to stoop, and then to crawl forward on our hands and knees.

Again I remonstrated, but my companion did not heed me.

We kept on in this manner for some distance, and then the passage enlarged and led up a steep ascent. After toiling up about fifty feet we came to another brilliant chamber of stalactites, and found a dozen more inviting passages leading we knew not whither.

Our first torch was by this time pretty well burned out, and, as we lighted one of the two others which I carried, I remarked:

"It would be tempting fate to go any further now. I propose turning back."

"Hark!" he said. "I do believe I hear running water, and I must see what it is. This way: follow me. There is no danger. I will guide you back in safety."

He again went forward as he spoke, and as he still carried the light I was obliged to accompany him, or remain in darkness.

We thus went on and on, through a rather open passage, and, as we advanced, the sound of falling water became more and more audible, till at length we came in sight of a bright running stream, that flowed over a clear bed, and fell down, with a sudden plunge and gloomy roar, into some dark abyss that was frightful to behold.

As we stopped and contemplated this wonder of nature, with the lurid torch lighting up the awful scene, I suddenly perceived what appeared to be several bright sparks of fire in the bed of the stream.

As the depth of the water was only a few inches, I fixed my eye on one, descended into the current, stooped down, picked it up, and held it to the light.

"What have you found, Benson?" asked my companion.

"What is it?" I said, handing it to him.

Never shall I forget his wild, eager look, as he fairly shouted:

"Gold! Gold! Gold! As I live, gold! Hurrah! Our fortune is made!"

In a moment I was as much excited as he; and, forgetting everything else, we both began a hurried search along the bed of the stream for gold. We found it in particles—here, there, and everywhere—sparkling like fire beneath the light of our torch; and while we gathered it, looking eagerly among the rocks on every side for some enriching vein, we indulged in the wildest dreams of wealth and ambition.

Time passed unheeded, our torch burned low, and yet we thought of nothing but gold.

At last coming back down the stream toward the edge of the dark abyss, my companion saw something that drew him forward in haste. I perceived his danger, and shouted:

"Have a care!"

The words had not done echoing through the subterranean gloom, when there was a sudden slip, the dashing forward of a human body, an agonizing scream, the ghastly gleam of a swiftly descending torch, and then I was alone in the bowels of the earth, in the most appalling darkness.

For a time I was bewildered and stupefied, and I sat down there in the rayless darkness, moaning and wringing my hands. Then I shouted the name of my companion many times, and begged him to answer me, though I knew it was all in vain. Echo alone responded—an awful echo—that finally died out far away in the terrific gloom.

At last I aroused myself to thoughts of my own preservation. Fortunately I had brought with me the means of striking a light, and one bundle of sticks was still in my possession.

I lighted the last torch, cast around me one terrified glance, and hurried away from the roaring water, that was singing the funeral dirge of my late companion.

My presence here now is a proof that I reached the outer world alive; but more than once I was in despair, believing I had lost my way. After that I had a long, weary journey back to Port-au-Prince, and it was not till near the close of the fourth day that I came in sight of the town. It rained a great deal, being completely drenched, I was often [illegible] during those four days, and afterward exposed to a scorching sun.

The effect of all this was a fever, which kept me on my bed for six weeks, during which time my life was more than once despaired of; and it was nearly four months from my first attack before I was again fit for business.

My purse having now become pretty low, I bethought me of my golden cave, and at once endeavored to turn it to some account.

I mentioned my discovery to several different parties, telling them, at the same time, the sad tale of the loss of my companion.

Most of them listened with indifference, saying they did not think gold enough could be found there to defray the expense of searching for it; and I was about to give up the idea of making any money out of it, when I fortunately met a speculating Frenchman, who asked me what sum I would require to guide him to the cavern and relinquish all claim to whatever might be found within.

I named a sum equivalent to twenty-five thousand dollars, and after considerable arguing, he offered me twenty thousand, which I finally accepted.

I guided him to the grotto, conducted him to the subterranean stream—at which I shuddered as I again beheld it—showed him the little sparkles of gold, and received my promised reward. I never saw him afterward, but heard that he made a fortune by his purchase.

That twenty thousand dollars, so strangely acquired, I may say was my first real start in life. With that I began to trade in different articles, buying and selling, and two years afterward returned to England in a vessel freighted by myself.

I was prosperous in all my undertakings, and twenty years ago, retired from business, having what I considered enough of this world's goods.

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 15, 1901

Died at Port Arthur

The police authorities have received word from Port Arthur of the death of Robert Fortune, who at one time resided in Ashburnham. Fortune had something of a record, and was wanted by the Police authorities of Parry Sound. Death was the result of an accident.

The Kilties Last Night

The entertainment given by the band of the 48th Highlanders last night in the opera House, was a great success. The hall was crowded to the doors, many having to stand. The music was superb, and delighted the hearts of all, especially the sons of Scotia. It is understood that Mr. F. D. McKay, who brought the band here, will come out on the right side financially.

Stole a Bicycle

Police Constable Adams went to Ottawa yesterday to take charge of a prisoner, who it is alleged, stole a bicycle belonging to Thomas Parker, of Peterborough, on December 10th last. The prisoner gave his name as Cecil Castor, but is also known as Wm. Bathray, alias Forsyth. He will arrive to-day, and will appear before Police Magistrate Dumble tomorrow.

Where Silence was Golden.

"This wireless telegraphy reminds me of a groundless quarrel," remarked Mr. Dan Burrett, yesterday.

"What possible connection is there between the two?" ventured Mr. Mosley.

"It's practically having words over nothing," quoth Mr. Will Sailsbury.

Just then Mr. Ed Brown came along, and winked. Words were unnecessary, the boys followed and took a good cigar.

Very Liberal.

Coubourg Post.—We understand that the Counties Council is likely to do something handsome for the boys from these counties who had served in South Africa. It has been intimated that every man within the Counties who enlisted is to receive a gold watch, or those already having one, to be given an equivalent in the shape of a gold chain and fob. We hope that the report is true, for, it is the proper way to reward our brave boys, every taxpayer thus becoming a giver.

Interment took place at Little Lake cemetery yesterday.

FRAGRANT GRAIN FIELDS.

Food that Takes One Back to Childhood.

"The delicious odor that comes when you pour hot milk or cream over Grape-Nuts, takes one back to childhood and the wide, golden harvest fields when the wind blew in your face the scent of ripened grain, and made you, oh so hungry.

"Of all the appetizing foods, Grape-Nuts food is the chief. I was led to change my diet and take up Grape-Nuts, from the fact that I had a very serious, long-standing case of constipation, which originated from coffee drinking. Constant headaches, backaches, and a stomach that felt like lead, was the condition; while the mind was filled with misgivings of all sorts, and I verily believe I would have gone insane if it had not been for the temporary relief from various cures for constipation, but there seems to be no permanent relief except in good food like Grape-Nuts.

"This food is the same to a weak stomach as kind words and a gentle touch, to an aching heart. All my doubt and fear and distress of mind disappeared as soon as I found a food that I could digest and which relieved my difficulties. Life became brighter and better my home a 'sweet home.' I have proved conclusively that the food is really predigested and that it is a great nerve and energy builder. Of course I can hardly express my gratitude for the relief I have had." Emma Kauffman, Bismark, Mo.

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

OMEMEE.

Revival meetings are being held in the Methodist church.

Our new hockey and skating rink has been opened.

The House of Refuge vote did not receive the support expected or deserved. As farmers of the township were usually opposed to it our councillors and commissioners had to cater to their views for support even though contrary to their own convictions.

Division court sittings announced for February 18th.

OTONABEE.

Sorrowful indeed was the bereavement which visited an Otonabee home at 10.30 yesterday morning, when death claimed the beloved wife of Mr. James Lewis Latherly. This was the culmination of over three months' illness, borne with great fortitude, and was the passing of a noble Christian life. A husband and one son are left grief stricken.

Deceased lady was 39 years of age, and was formerly Miss Annie Mary Chambers. Otonabee was her birthplace and Messr. Robert, James and Joshua Chambers, of Otonabee, are brothers and Mrs. Ernest Deyell, of Otonabee, and Mrs. Wesley Whitfield, of Monaghan, are sisters. Interment will take place on Wednesday, to Little Lake cemetery.

BETHANY

The residence of Mr. Johnston Morton was a very lively spot on Wednesday night of last week, when upwards of sixty members of the English church, assembled, giving Mr. Morton's family a very enjoyable surprise. Games of various kinds were commenced, and everything of an enjoyable character went along like clock-work, the gathering being held for the purpose of presenting Mrs. McGrath with a handsome sum of money as a slight token of the esteem in which she held by the members of the church, in which she is organist. A very suitable address was read, and in reply, Mrs. McGrath who was very much surprised, thanked them in a very pleasant manner. The guests departed for their homes in the small hours, delighted with their night's enjoyment.

Mr. Alfred Ryley is at present visiting friends in the village.

On account of the beautiful fall of snow on Sunday night, and owing to the large number of candidates in the field, one of the keenest contests that has been fought in our loyal old township of Manvers, took place Monday. As was expected, the old warriors who ran for commissioners, succeeded in winning the day. Mr. S. E. Ferguson, of Cavan, being the only candidate in his township, succeeded in heading the poll; by the ratepayers in his two wards doubling up and each man giving him two votes, he also succeeded in taking 179 votes out of Manvers, while the total votes polled in Cavan for the four Manvers men was 341. Mr. Vance, who was one of our men during the last two years, fell behind, while Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Staples are a tie. Mr. McCartney, who is a new man and never ran for municipal honors before, has every reason to feel proud, having taken more votes in Cavan than any of the old aspirants; wherever he canvassed he succeeded in taking a large vote, and may be counted as a sure winner in the next contest should he see fit to come out as a candidate. When the result of the election was made known, Mr. Thomas Graham was appointed chairman, and called on Mr. McCartney, who made a telling speech, explaining to the satisfaction, of all some of the evil traps that were set for him by some of the older members, who had done their utmost to prevent him being elected. Mr. Ferguson made a very nice speech, also Messrs. Evans, Stewart and Bruce. Mr. Alfred Ryley also made a very nice speech in his usual first-class style. The chairman made a short speech and the gathering broke up by giving three cheers for the Queen.

Death of A. E. Ostrom

There passed away yesterday morning, at the family residence, Charlotte street, Mr. Alfred E. Ostrom, third son of the late Mr. E. K. Ostrom, aged 38 years. The deceased was well known in Peterborough, having been for many years associated with his brother, Mr. M. T. Ostrom in business here. About five years ago he went to reside at Lansing, Mich., and while there his health became bad, and he returned home last summer, and has gradually failed until the end came as above. He was married a few years ago to Miss E. Morrow, of Norwood, who survives him. The deceased was a popular young man among a large circle of friends who will regret his untimely death and will sympathize with the sorrowing relatives. The funeral will leave the family residence, corner Charlotte and Downie streets, at 2.30 on Wednesday afternoon.

A WONDERFULLY DELICIOUS AND NUTRITIOUS BREAKFAST FOOD.

Princes and Potentates of the Past Never Enjoyed Such a Morning Dish as Malt Breakfast Food

Affords.

King Solomon in his time, with all his riches, power and greatness, could not command such a delicious dish for breakfast as Malt Breakfast Food. Kings and Queens of the past would have given any price for such a palate-pleasing health-food for the breakfast table.

The science of our progressive age has evolved a grand food combining the health-giving properties of pure Malt with the strength-yielding virtues of the choicest Wheat—a food that is relished and used to-day by the titled, the affluent, the middle class and the sons and daughters of toil.

There are many reasons why Malt Breakfast Food is fast becoming a universal food. The present low price puts it within reach of all families. It is the most nourishing and the most satisfying of all grain foods. Being partially predigested, it does not task digestion; the weakest stomach can appropriate every particle. It does not irritate the stomach and digestive organs like ordinary oatmeal. It builds up flesh, bone and muscle; it gives activity and clearness to the brain. Your Grocer sells Malt Breakfast Food. Ask him for a package; he will recommend it with pleasure.

A By-law was passed appointing Henry Denne and Peter Hamilton High School Trustees; Dr. Moher, Dr. Geo. Burnham and Dr. Geo Snyder members of the Board of Health; James A. Hall and Andrew S. Clarke, Auditors.

Ald. Roger suggested that the auditors should look after the arrears of taxes and report from time to time, and on motion it was resolved that they be instructed to present a detailed report on the arrears. The salary of the Auditors was fixed at $75 each.

Pending the reports of the committees, it was resolved that $1,500 be paid to the School Board and $25 to the Children's Aid Society.

MOTIONS.

On motion of Ald. Corkery, seconded by Ald. Best, it was resolved that this Council requests the Board of Trade to appoint a committee to confer with the Manufacturers' Committee of the Council for the purpose of considering the question of new manufacturing industries, power, bonusing and exemption.

In the matter of the report of the Joint Committee of the Town and County Councils on House of Refuge, a motion by Ald. Roger was adopted, to the effect that a new committee be appointed with instructions to report at an early date, and that in the meantime the Police Magistrate and Charity Committee of the town be requested to co-operate with each other with a view to prevent the committment to jail of cases of deserving poor, who should more properly be otherwise provided for by the town, the former by communicating with the latter before convictment regarding such cases as may, in his opinion, come within the category, and the latter by investigating all cases so reported to them by making other and more suitable provision for such cases as commend themselves to their consideration.

The Council then adjourned.

Railway Notes

—Midland people are jubilant over the report that the G.T.R. will at once proceed with the construction of a second million bushel elevator at Portland, as it means a large increased grain trade from Chicago, Duluth, Fort William, and other Western points, through Midland via the G.T.R., to the seaboard. Bradley, Jenks & Co., of Chicago, owners of one of the two big elevators at Midland, are constructing another one at Chicago for the G.T.R. trade, and it is confidently expected that the shipments via Midland in 1901 will double the record of 1900.

—The Grand Trunk Railway Company has to face an unexpected trouble west of London, Ont.,—the failure of water supply for its locomotives. From London to Windsor the distance is 110 miles, and on the route there are few water tanks at which the engine tenders can be filled. At Thamesville the freight engines are usually watered, but the supply has given out in consequence of the drought. Very little rain has fallen in the West for six weeks, and a water famine in short prevails which is causing farmers inconvenience and loss. There are rock wells at Glencoe at a depth of from 80 to 150 feet, but water from these is valueless for locomotive purposes.

LARGE REINFORCEMENTS FOR LORD KITCHENER

War Office has Decided to Enlist 5,000 Volunteers for South Africa.

London, Jan. 15.

The Government has decided to send large reinforcements to Lord Kitchener and the War Office in carrying out this decision has determined to enlist 5,000 Yeomanry Volunteers. At a meeting held at the War Office this afternoon this plan and others for securing more men were discussed and approved, and it is understood that the Government will in the course of a day or two issue a communication on the subject.

London, Jan. 15—Despite the gallant resistance of the garrison at Kaalfontein, on the railway line south of Pretoria, recorded yesterday, the Boers under Beyers succeeded in crossing the line at a point not far away and are now, according to Lord Kitchener, marching to the east, probably with the intention either of operating in the district around Middleburg, or, which is more probable, of turning southward and joining General Dewet in the neighborhood of Lindley, where the guerilla leader is most certainly gathering strength for another raid upon British lines of communication. It is gratifying to learn that the invaders of Cape Colony are weakening, that some of them are trying to return north, and that others of them have surrendered. Nothing more could be wanting to indicate that the invasion has failed of its object. It has been erroneously asserted that Clan William, where one body of Boers are now said to be, is only 85 miles from Cape Town. As a matter of fact it is fully 120 miles away, and is no further south than Sutherland, which Hertzog occupied many days ago. The only movement of the Boers since such occupation has been a westerly one, which has taken them further from their own country and nearer the western coast, but no nearer Cape Town as the crow flies. The process of attrition is doing its work, and the Boers must inevitably be worn down by the superior force, though time may be occupied in the task.

London, Jan. 15—Reporting to the War Office, under date of Pretoria, Jan. 14, Lord Kitchener says:

"Beyers whole force crossed the railway near Kaalfontein, January 12, making to the east.

"There are no important changes in the positions in the Colonies. Several small parties appear to be returning to the Orange River Colony. Some Cape rebels who accompanied a commando into the colony have surrendered.

STRATHCONAS SAIL.

Ottawa, Jan. 15—The Militia Department received a cablegram yesterday from Col. Biggar, Cape Town, stating that the Strathconas will sail for Halifax about Jan. 21st. The announcement was received with surprise here, as it was generally expected that the Strathconas, who have proved most useful in the Boer war, would remain until there was no further need for their services. Evidently one of two things have happened: Either Lord Kitchener deems the force stands in need of a rest after its arduous service at the front, or the men themselves have grown tired of the warfare and indicated a wish to return home.

TEN THOUSAND FRESH TROOPS

New York, Jan. 15—There is a good deal of uncertainty as to the exact intentions of the Government in regard to the question of reinforcements for South Africa, says the Tribune's London correspondent. The announcement that the enrollment of Baden-Powell's force had been abandoned is officially contradicted. It is now stated that in addition to the constabulary the War Office intends to despatch to the Cape five thousand men to strengthen the Imperial Yeomanry, which as a fighting body has been seriously weakened. It is expected that without counting the police recruits, a few weeks time will see more than ten thousand fresh troops in the field. The question of mounts is also being dealt with, and it is understood horses are being sent to South Africa at the rate of about eight thousand a month.

VON KETTELER'S DEATH ARRANGED BY CHINESE

Rev. Gamewell Says it was Announced Four Days Before Event.

New York, Jan. 15—The Rev. F. D. Gamewell, who made himself famous by superintending the work of fortifying the legations at Pekin, and but for whom, the British Minister has said, all the diplomatic corps would have perished, in addressing the Methodist preachers' meeting last night, exhibited a copy of a New York newspaper of June 17, with a despatch dated June 16, in which it was stated that the German Minister, Von Ketteler had been killed.

"I ask you,' said Dr. Gamewell, "to conjecture how that event could have been telegraphed four days before it occurred unless there had been some intrigue to kill the German Minister." Von Ketteler was killed by the Boxers on June 20.

Mr. Gamewell learned in Charleston, when he was a boy during the civil war, something about sandbag fortifications, so he utilized this knowledge in Pekin. He said of the Chinese projectiles—

"I found that a mauser bullet did not do much harm to a good brick solidly placed. It penetrated about a quarter of an inch.

"But the brick walls were but very little good with the 3.2 Krupp guns that the enemy used. I set myself to study their ways, and I found that a shell would go through three eighteen-inch walls, and then explode in the air from the time fuse. I found that earth was the best material to stop them. A shell would be stopped before it got through eight feet of earth.

GERMANY NOW HAS RAILWAY.

Pekin, Jan. 14—Russia to-day began turning over the railway to Germany. The latter intends to place the management of the line with former employes of the company under military supervision. Germany has requested the station masters, engine drivers, and mechanics who formerly employed to report to the German headquarters, when they will be given their old positions.

FACING STARVATION

Shanghai, Jan. 14—There is a famine in the province of Shen Si, and it is said that 5,000,000 people are facing starvation.

PRAYS FOR BRITISH DEFEAT.

John Redmond Publicly Hopes for Disaster to English Arms in South Africa.

Dublin, Jan. 10.—Addressing a meeting of the United Irish league in this city this evening John Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, spoke most hopefully while appealing for funds, of the prospects of the Irish cause.

The Liberal party, he said, has gone to pieces because a large proportion of its members had been false to Ireland. The Conservative government was engaged in perilous enterprises in China, South Africa, and elsewhere, and, he added: "I hope to God that the government will be overwhelmed by military and financial disasters at Cape Town."

"Ireland has at last an independent and united Parliamentary party," exclaimed Mr. Redmond, "with a program for practical reforms, including compulsory land purchase."

ANOTHER NEGRO BURNED TO DEATH

Fred. Alexander was Lynched Tied to a Rail and Burned.

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 15.

Fred Alexander, the negro who Saturday evening attempted an assault on Miss Eva Roth, and who was supposed to have assaulted and killed Pearl Forbes of this city in November last, was this afternoon taken from the Sheriff's guard and burned at the stake, at the scene of his crime, half a dozen blocks from the center of the city. Probably ten thousand persons witnessed the lynching. Alexander was tied to a railroad rail placed upright in the ground.

A SUBMARINE MARVEL TESTED IN FRANCE.

Able to Stay Under Water for Many Hours and Perform Wonders.

Paris, Jan. 15.—The Figaro, in a special dispatch this morning describes a voyage of two hours in the submarine boat Morse during the trials at Cherbourg Monday.

"In less than two minutes," says the correspondent, the vessel reached a depth of 18 feet, when she performed her evolutions with ease and safety. By means of an ingenious instrument, the periscope, floating upon the surface of the water, everything above was visible.

"The problem of the supply of air has been solved satisfactorily and the crew were able to remain submerged for 16 hours without fatigue of the lungs."

Vancouver Officer Calls Men Cowards

Vancouver, Jan. 15.—There is trouble in the Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles here over the Thanksgiving parade held last Sunday. The day was very unpleasant and only about one-half of the men responded to the call.

Major Bennet, in addressing the soldiers, said that they were fair weather soldiers, and in his opinion a pack of cowards. He went on to say that they were a disgrace to the regiment and not fit to wear the Queen's uniform. Did he have his way he would ask every man not present to hand in his uniform. Such men as these were not the men that either Canada or the Empire could rely on in the hour of trouble. "When an order to parade was given," he said, "no man who had the interests of the regiment at heart should be frightened away by a little snow or rain."

The men are much annoyed at this, and say that they will not tolerate the insult.

MILLIONS FOR VICE.

Startling Charges Made by a Noted Gambler.

NEW YORK'S CRIME RECORD

Over Five Million Dollars Paid Annually for Protection of Crime.

A Story that is causing Intense Excitement in New York City—Fourteen Men Divide the Spoils, and their Names are Given by Informer.

New York, Jan. 14.—Allegations are made here this morning in effect that confession has been made that vice in this city has been compelled to pay over $5,000,000 annually for protection. Herald.

"Startling revelations regarding the system of blackmail levied upon vice and crime in this city have been made by a man who has long had prominence as a successful gambler. His story, which is in the nature of a voluntary confession, has been told to W. M. K. Olcott, former District Attorney. Proofs have been furnished and more will be forthcoming if demanded.

It is computed that a corruption fund of $5,600,000 was collected last year. Of this vast sum one-half was the result of the levy made upon gambling houses and kindred establishments.

DRIVEN OUT BY EXTORTION.

"Among the associates the man who has made the revelations to Mr. Olcott, has been respected as one whose word is never to be doubted. He was in business in New York for many years, but recently quit rather than longer submit to the extortion and blackmail which had month after month become a heavier burden.

"This man sold his gambling house for much less than he believed it to be worth. He is now in a position to bid defiance to those who so long preyed upon him, and he is anxious to obtain revenge. This he freely admits.

"He does not fear those whom he has exposed, and he stands ready, so he has told Mr Olcott, to expose the men who have robbed him. He has given names, and he has surprised Mr. Olcott with the proofs which he possesses. It has not yet been determined what final use will be made of the information which he has given."

After quoting Mr. Olcott's admission that the exgambler's confession had been made to him, the Herald details the methods thus:

"GREAT MAN" POCKETS $800,000

"So exact is the system of extortion in operation that the commission which assesses, collects and divides the blackmail knew in advance just what the profits for the year would be. The city was blocked off into districts, and a levy was made upon each for a given sum. The money was obtained by compelling the violators of the law to pay in proportion to their earnings. The entire amount was divided into 28 parts for the purpose of distribution. Of these parts four went to the great man, whose consent had to be obtained before the system could be put into operation. He simply pocketed $800,000 and looked happy.

"Others were compelled to accept much smaller shares of the plunder. Fourteen entered directly into the division of the money and some were compelled to satisfy themselves with a single share. But the purse was deep and the smallest fraction represented $200,000, which was sufficient to warrant the division with men outside who are strong enough to demand a few crumbs.

"It has often been told that tax is levied upon all sorts of vice and crime, but seldom has the process been described. One illustration that can be given will prove of value. The information comes from the same source as that furnished to Mr. Olcott.

CASE OF SHOWING THE SYSTEM

"It was nearly two years ago that a syndicate of gamblers established a house in the Tenderloin, four blocks from a police station. The location was one of the best in the city and in a short time the place was earning a great revenue. Just a year ago the house was suddenly closed. The order to shut down was sent from the police station and it was without explanation. Subsequently demand was made for 25 per cent. of the earnings. For some time the demand was resisted, but finally the house re-opened under the new arrangement.

"For the privilege of re-opening the lump sum of $1000 was paid. The fee each month was $500, and an extra fee of $500 was paid the second month. During the first sixty days the house won $62,000. One fourth of this sum was passed on the members of the commission. This one establishment in two months paid blackmail amounting to $18,000.

"What the winnings have amounted to since is not known, but presumably the business has warranted the payment of averaging $9000 a month.

COMMISSION OF FOURTEEN MEN

"What has been known as the 'gambling commission' has generally been supposed to be composed of four men. According to the information placed in the hands of Mr. Olcott the 'commission' is really a wheel within a wheel. The four men have 10 associates. These 14 decide how much shall be collected. The money is distributed as they determine, few of them being able to hold the greater portion of that which comes to them.

"Of his own knowledge Mr. Olcott's informant could only tell of the amount of blackmail collected in the gambling houses, pool-rooms and policy shops. The assessment made a year ago for 1900 was $2,800,000. It is his understanding that other forms of vice and crime contributed a like amount. He knows that the $2,800,000 was collected. He contributed his share.

"Each of the gambling houses paid an assessment of $1000 for the privilege of opening. The monthly assessment was $500 with two extra assessments during the year. This placed a tax of $8000 a year upon each house. In addition to this percentages were demanded wherever it was possible to collect them. In New York there are more than 500 gambling houses. Some of these, however cannot stand the heavy assessments and they are permitted to pay in accordance with the business done.

OTHER SOURCES OF TAXATION.

"There are more than 300 pool rooms, big and little, which are compelled to pay in proportion to their earnings. These two branches of vice pay a total of $2,400,000 in the course of the year.

"Policy pays $400,000.

"No one escapes. The window who sells policy slips, collecting the pennies of children and those who can gamble for no greater sum, contributes her mite. Proof of all this is contained in the information now in the possession of Mr. Olcott. The names of the 14 men who share in the division of the spoils have been given. Some of them are known by common report to the general public. Others have heretofore succeeded in keeping well in the background."

THE LATE D. C. MACDONALD.

He Was Ex-Mayor of London, and a Leading Citizen.

The London Free Press says:—Another very old citizen has passed away. At Lakefield, Ont., Saturday, ex-Mayor D. C. Macdonald, until recently manager of the London Mutual Fire Insurance Company, died. Death came at 8 o'clock. The end was not unexpected. The deceased has been in poor health for a considerable time, and some weeks ago he went to Lakefield in hope that the change might prove beneficial. Very many Londoners will regret exceedingly to learn of Mr. Macdonald's demise.

The deceased was born in the county of Northumberland, Ont., on February 13, 1835, and was a son of Alexander Macdonald (a nephew of Sir Archibald Campbell, the hero of Ava, India,) who was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1809. Deceased's mother was also a native of Scotland. Deceased's father was a lieutenant in her Majesty's 53rd Regiment. After coming to Canada he settled on a farm in Northumberland. Later he removed to Grafton, near Cobourg, and engaged in mercantile pursuits, and also operated a distillery. When the rebellion of 1837 broke out, he was appointed adjutant of the First Frontier Light Infantry, and afterward had command of the Whitby Independent Company. Later he commanded the colored troops of the Province, which were disbanded in 1850. He then came to London, and engaged in the real estate business, and also insurance, and in 1859 organized the London Mutual Insurance Company, and acted as manager and co-manager until his death in 1879. He left two sons, A. J. B. and D. C. The latter received liberal educational advantages, attending schools at Niagara and Port Robinson. After studying law for some time he passed as a solicitor in 1861, but gave his attention to insurance, and succeeded his father as manager of the London Mutual. The fact is a noteworthy one that the grandson of the founder of the London Mutual is now manager of the business which has grown to large proportions, very largely because of the business ability of the deceased, whose death is now chronicled. Deceased figured prominently in municipal affairs in this city. He was a member of the City Council for six years, and in 1875 he was appointed by the Council to the position of Mayor, and the following year was elected by the people to the same office. It was during his term that the L. & P. S. R. was leased to the Grand Trunk. He married Miss Alicia Thomson, of Adelaide, in 1862, and by her had one surviving son, Mr. Cameron Macdonald, who is now manager of the London Mutual. Deceased was married a second time, and is survived by his widow and one child. He was an old member of St. John's Lodge, No. 209a, A. F. & A. M. and was a Past Master of King Solomon Lodge, No. 378.

THE OLD ALABAMA.

Builder of the great Commerce Destroyer Dead.

Liverpool, Jan. 16.—Captain James Dunwoody Bullock, who died in Liverpool yesterday was directly responsible for the building of the steamship Alabama, which wrought such havoc with the shipping of the union during the war of the rebellion. He was the naval agent of the confederacy in England during the war, and besides the Alabama arranged for the building of ten other vessels which were turned out of the English shipyards for the service of the South. The property destroyed and the loss occasioned by the Alabama and its fellows formed the basis of the celebrated "Alabama claims," in settlement of which, after eight yeaars' discussion, England finally paid $15,000,000 into the Treasury of the United States. Captain Bullock, who was prominent and active during and immediately after the war, has lived for many years in retirement in Liverpool.

GENERAL DE WET WILL SHOOT BOTHA

He is Infuriated With the Author of "From Boer to Boer."

Kroonstad, Orange River Colony, Monday, January 14—The success of the Burgher Peace Committee in distributing among the republicans Paul Botha's book, "From Boer to Boer," has infuriated General Dewet, who, it is reported, swears he will shoot the author at the first opportunity.

The refugee camp is now occupied by two thousand persons. Another is being formed at Rhenoster.

Supplies of all kinds in the towns are shortening daily.

The Boers are most active northward and also in the direction of Lindley. Various commands appear to be joining General Dewet to the southward.

EUROPE AT END OF TAXING POWER

Enormous Cost of Armies and Navies Bringing on a Crisis.

London, Jan. 15.—One aspect of Europe's industrial position deserves prominence—namely: the effect of the greatly increased state expenditure. Putting out of sight altogether the abnormal outlays for actual war, there has been going on for many years past a race among the great powers of Europe as to which could spend the most on fighting services.

The English government now spends more than twice as much for the navy as she did ten years ago, and Germany, France, Russia and Italy, not to speak of waterlogged Spain are all emulous of her example.

That is but one branch of the increased outline. Every department of public services in all countries shows a steady expansion in the sums annually required from the taxpayer for maintenance.

The annual budget of France, for example amounts not to almost twice the highest total before the war of 1870.

EUROPE NEAR A CRISIS.

One, therefore, can't help feeling that not only France but all the old debt incumbered nations of Europe are progressing towards the point when thedemands of the state will so cripple the spending capacity of the nation as to restrict domestic markets and produce an afflicting economic crisis. It is possible that some among the old nations are at that point now. This apart, business throughout Europe was fairly good, and in the British isles excellent, in the early half of last year, and yet when every branch of industry was fully employed, when wages were rising, and prices well maintained, either at the level of 1899 or at the still higher points reached early in the last year, there were abundant indications that the crested wave was about to break, and already the reaction has everywhere made considerable progress.

Our cotton industry is now suffering from the effects of the recent excessive price for raw material, from restriction of consumptive demand in India, due to the famine, and from the confusion that has overtaken the Chinese markets.

Our woollen and worsted industries, on the other hand, have been more or less bad throughout the year, party from disorganization of the Eastern and African markets, and also from the effect of what is called the overproduction of 1899. I cannot see immediate prospect for recovery of this branch of our industry.

ENGLAND'S WANING INDUSTRIES

In all branches of textile production the competition between nations becomes keener every year. As far as I can learn in manufacturing circles, this competition has not yet come from the United States to any formidable extent in neutral markets, unless perhaps China and Japan, but Holland, Belgium, Germany, France, and Spain are all increasingly effective competitors against England. Even Russia is making considerable progress in textile industries and may be regarded as a future competitor of no mean power, if not in western Europe at least in the markets of China.

It is to be feared that all this straining after industrial expansion is destined to produce a formidable financial recoil in some nations not overburdened with avilable capital. In the iron and steel trades there can be no question but that England has entered upon a trying time. Prices are still high for most descriptions of iron and steel, compared with 1898 or even with the middle of 1899, but they have fallen materially from the highest points, and business for six months back has been increasingly unprofitable, owing mainly to the excessive price of coal. Dear coal, in fact, has been like a canker at the root of all our industries and will affect profits for the past year in every direction.

RISE OF THE UNITED STATES.

Every year England's position becomes weaker economically in this all-important department of industrial production. If the United States, with its richer coal measures and more scientific methods of extraction, can supply fuel to its furnaces at a lower price than England, and when I say England I mean all Europe in this respect, since every iron producing country on this side of the Atlantic is more or less dependent on English coal, the world's metal markets must certainly fall into the hands of the United States.

No greater contrast could be imagined than the relative positions of countries like England, France, and Germany, as against the United States ten years ago and now.

The wealth of the United States has been displayed not merely by investments in European government securities, but by a capacity to absorb your own railway securities quite as vigorously as that displayed in the end of 1898 and the beginning of 1899. By in this way cancelling a part of Europe's debt to you on account of its food supplies, raw cotton, etc., the strain that otherwise might have been unbearable has been lessened.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

ANNUAL MEETING WAS HELD MONDAY NIGHT

The Report of the Secretary—Directors Appointed—The Membership.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Public Library was held Monday night, the chairman, Dr. Burnham, presiding.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The report of the directors was submitted as follows:—

To the Members of the Peterborough Public Library:

Your Board of Management take pleasure in presenting for your consideration the following statement of the affairs of the library for the year ending December 31st, 1900.

The year just ended, though one of progress, was on the whole an uneventful one in the history of the library. At the beginning of the year an agitation for making the library free to all citizens had the effect for a time of considerably reducing the number of our members, as it was expected by many that if they would wait for a while there would be an opportunity to rejoin without any expense. But we are pleased to be able to say that since then we have regained as many or more than we then lost, and begin the new year with as numerous a membership as we have ever had.

The war in South Africa diverted the attention of the reading public from books to newspapers, and the leading publishers complain of the small demand for new books. The reports of the larger libraries show that there has been a falling off in the number of books read.

Our library has had the same experience, as the number of book issued was less than in some former years; but the demand for papers and periodicals, especially those illustrating the war, was greater than ever before and our reading room was more used than in any previous year.

Your Board has endeavored to make the reading rooms comfortable and pleasant for the members, and the supply of the magazines and papers on the tables and on files amounts to the large number of seven daily, twenty-two weekly and fifty-two monthly publications.

It has been the custom for many years to establish a class in machine drawing during the winter season, but each year there seemed to be greater difficulties in getting the young men of the town to join the class, and last winter we failed to get a sufficient number and had to dispense with it. This year your Class Committee has been able to make an arrangement with the Y.M.C.A. by which members of our library might join the class which is conducted in the Y.M.C.A. rooms, where there are better conveniences for the teaching of the class than we possess. The Class Committee are pleased to be able to report that the arrangement has proved successful, and that a large class is making good progress under the able teaching of Mr. W. H. Collier.

The financial report of the Sec.-Treasurer is herewith appended.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. BURNHAM,
Chairman.

MEDIATION METHODS FOR SOUTH AFRICA

After fifteen months' warfare in South Africa the situation is still full of doubt and perplexity. It is true that the great mass of the original Boer army, estimated at 60,000, has been dispersed; some 8,060 prisoners remain in the hands of the British at St. Helena, Ceylon and in South Africa itself; that thousands of Boers have been killed in the fruitless war; that nearly all the chief towns are in British hands, including Bloemfontein and Pretoria, the Orange Free State and Transvaal capitals; and still the strife continues. In olden times such British success would have disheartened, dispirited any ordinary enemy. But, the Boer burghers are no ordinary enemy, as General Lord Kitchener finds to his sorrow. Beaten off in one section of the country, they quickly appear in another, fighting with consummate skill and craft and scorning surrender. Too often they present themselves in our offensive, capturing British prisoners they cannot hold, inflicting immense destruction of railways and mines, and spreading terror everywhere. Their recent invasion of Cape Colony, with the expectation that the colonials will rise to their support, is the crowning effect of their brave and astute leaders. That they have not succeeded in their anticipation so far does not dispirit them. So long as they have rifles, ammunition and horses they apparently determine to continue the resistance.

The fact that ex-President Kruger has utterly failed in his endeavor to secure intervention, or even a faint promise of the future, does not deter the Boers from continuing their guerilla tactics so admirably conceived and executed. The pursuit of the British troops is to persistent and active that the Boer commandoes cannot remain long in one district. To avert the fate of General Cronje they must keep on the move, shifting their forces from "pillar to post," destroying what they cannot hold, terrifying the non-combatants, and keeping the entire country in a state of alarm. All this look like revenge, particularly when General Kitchener's proclamations are mild and conciliatory to those who will surrender. The British Government is sorely preplexed, and can see no other way out of the difficulty than perpetual fighting. In a press interview with Lord Raglan, Under Secretary for War, cabled on Thursday last, this official pleads for more time, he points out that the war with Burmah lasted for four years, and that the South African war is as a mere trifle compared with that. He says, "You cannot expect to end such a war as this in a day." Lord Raglan remarked to his interviewer, "You May be assured of the fact that the War Office is not guilty of interia; Lord Kitchener is getting all he asks for; Lord Roberts has a perfect free hand; what can be done is being done."

In Great Britain, the general public, apart from the disgruntled politicians, readily believe what Lord Raglan says, namely, that all military effects are being directed towards the close of the war. And yet, with all this activity, the war may go on unless some understanding looking to an early peace can be arrived at with the Boer commanders. Hitherto, the British cabinet has declined to talk of terms of settlement; the only conditions for peace proffered the Boers is—"absolute surrender." Lord Salisbury very properly will not listen to any compromise, under which the Boer Republics shall be continued as political entities.

While we all agree to this, might it not be well in some proclamation to outline the future policy to be pursued in South Africa? If this were done, if the Boers could feel assured that in the event of their surrender they would retain their civil rights under the British colonial system generally, they might conclude to end further resistance. What ex-President Kruger and Steyn demand is "arbitration," meaning the intervention of some outside authority consented to on both sides. This, the British will never listen to; yet it seems possible that some sort of Congress might be held at which prominent colonials and Boer officials might meet to discuss terms not a semi-seditious assemblage, such as the Africander League. Such a gathering might be termed a mediatory agency, interposing with the consent of both in order to promote harmony and reconciliation. Or, their deliberations might be merely of a suggestive kind, not to be held as binding. In the future interests of South Africa, it is of the first importance that the Burghers should have before them some emanation of terms from the British government other than the stern demand—"unconditional surrender," which fails either to intimidate or conciliate.

Apart from the expense of the war the accompanying destruction of property, the loss of valuable lives by bullet or disease, it is of the first important that the war should be terminated at as early a date as possible, that Great Britain may have her hands free to meet her enemies elsewhere. The antagonism of France to Great Britain is just now very pronounced; dark clouds hover over Europe; the most gifted diplomates in Britain are at a loss to discern the future. On these and other grounds it would be well if some mediatory measure could be adopted, under which the Boers would consent to future terms. That the British flag must wave over the entire South African region is of course conceded as a first principle, yet under the flag the Boers might live happily, securely, enjoying the same liberties we have in the Dominion. Could the Boer leaders be convinced that their real interests would be secure under some equitable arrangement apart from the re-establishment of their spurious republics, the war might be terminated by mutual consent any week.

Every Month

In the year most women have to suffer for a week. At the best this suffering interferes with household activities and social enjoyments. At the worst it shuts the woman in a darkened room or confines her to bed. Most women can be completely cured of irregularity by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, stops enfeebling drains and cures female weakness.

"All praise is due to you for your wonderful 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mr. John W. Coffman, Ellisburg, Casey Co., Ky. "My wife suffered with female irregularity; was confined to bed every three weeks. After using two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was cured, and has not suffered any derangement since. Your 'Favorite Prescription' is a boon for delicate women."

EDITORIAL NOTES

About the only idea the powers seem to have of getting out of China is to get out of it all they can.

* * *

People are beginning to talk of the backward winter. It's something like when the season takes a backward spring.

* * *

These Boer irruptions in the Transvaal are taking on the character of epidemics, but Kitchener's troops can't catch any of them.

* * *

Kitchener's idea that it will be necessary to clear the country of inhabitants and food in order to prevent the commandoes from operating is the same that Weyler put in practive in Ciba. —Buffalo Express.

Also, of several union generals who helped bring the southern confederacy to its knees.

What if the South African war is costing England $650 a minute? Just think of the work in all lines that is assured by the spending of so much money. Why, even the tax collectors and the undertakers are sure of constant employment.

So far as the tail-twisting of the British lion goes on in the Transvaal, that anxious animal is absorbed in the next turn it may take.

* * *

Lord Kitchener suffers under the disability of having to finish a war that has already been ended.

You will notice that nineteen furniture factories in Ontario are going to combine. The object may be a good one, but you can bet your Sunday hat that it won't make furniture any cheaper.

The newly-discovered elixir of life, if it really does turn out to be that long-sought boon, ought to be cheap enough to place longevity within the reach of all. At the same time it is well to remember that there is a sault trust which will doubtless see to it that a revival or renewal of circulation shall not be obtainable at bargain-counter prices. It may be, indeed that the whole story is a device of the trust to boom the price of its product.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg
The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right. I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 508 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

THE RICHEST NATION

IF DIVIDED EQUALLY WHAT EACH ONE'S SHARE WOULD BE.

An American Family Would Own 155 Acres of Land and 13 1-2 Feet of Railroad—It Would Pay But $6.68 a Year in Taxation—Only 60 Cents for Our Navy.

If the Government of the United States be considered merely as a business firm, its stockholders just now are pretty well to do. Their wealth is very large, considering the number there are of them. The expenses of carrying on trade under the Stars and Stripes seems small when devided, and their debts are trifling indeed.

Not many years ago it was said that Uncle Sam had land enough to give every one a farm. In theory this is true to-day. If all Territories in the United States, not even including Alaska and our so-called new possessions, were to be divided, there would be a farm of thirty one acres for each one. Every man, woman and child in the country would own this much real estate.

Now, since the average American family consists of five people, there would be 155 acres to the family. In making these calculations the population is estimated at 70,000,000. The area of the United States is 3,600,000 square miles.

Not all of this land is good enough to "farm it" on, but most of it can be made good enough by Yankee ingenuity.

The value of all the real estate in America is $39,544,333,000. These figures fail to give any definite idea. They are too big. Let us suppose, however, that pure socialism prevailed and that this enormous wealth was equally divided. The share of every individual would be $564.50. The share of every average family would be $2,824.50. And this does not include personal property, which would greatly increase the sum. These figures are by far the highest to be found in any country in the world. In Great Britain, for instance, each man is a land owner owning to the extent of about $190. British house property would give a share of but about $300 to every man.

Practically, in Great Britain there are few small land-owners, or none. A laboring man who owns his cottage is a rarity; one who owns the land on which it stands almost an impossibility.

The taxes which the individual pays seem trifling. All the taxes last year were $471,365,140. The share of each individual was but $6.73. Britain's taxes during the same period amounted to £2 10s. each, or nearly twice that of America. It must also be considered that our rate was unusually high owing to the expenses of the war. A good deal of complaint is heard of the extravagance of the Government, but the share of the individual is small. The total expenses of the Government last year if divided would have placed a burden of $6.68 on the individual. This is a share of the sum of $487,803,000.

The individual contributions to the various departments also sound curious in view of the great things which have been accomplished. We are all proud of our navy, which during the past year has been larger and more expensive than ever before. But each individual was only required to contribute just sixty cents to maintain this department and our great fleets of warships. The total expense, to be sure, was $48,099,000. The maintenance of the army last year was one of the most expensive items the Government has ever called upon to meet. It cost us just $80,000,000. The war with the Philippines and the maintenance of an army in Cuba and Porto Rico, besides the regular expense of the department, could be met, however, if each individual contributed $1.14. The expense of running the entire Government cost each of us exactly $1.92.

The United States, as every one knows, is the richest nation in the world. Our bonded debt is $1,032,000,000. Each of us is in debt on this score just $14.74. Looked at in this way our national debt, large as it seems, is a trifling thing. The real estate holdings of the individual, according to this distribution, are alone worth more than forty times his indebtedness. It is no wonder that the world considers loaning money to America a good risk.

Our country is the land of railroads. As every one knows we have more railroads by far than any other country in the world. The mileage of the United States is 180,000. The share of the individual is 13½ feet of rail. Still another way to state our great wealth is to calculate the amount of gold and silver which would come to us if all were equally divided. Each of us would have $70 in silver bullion as his share and $18.50 in solid gold.

A Story From Gibraltar.

During the war stories in plenty have been current of the strategems and treachery which have imposed upon British officers charged with very serious responsibilities. Changing the venue, we have the following story from Gibraltar. Some time ago a consumptive German gentleman arrived there with introductions from influential people in England. The governor and other officials received him hospitably and every consideration possible was shown him on account of his health, but, of course, he could not be granted permission, as he requested, to go to the top of the rock for the sake of the purer air, as there is a regulation that "foreigners" are on no account to be permitted to walk about the top of the rock." Further acquaintance, however, with the German gentleman, through the medium of dinners and other social functions, resulted in a relaxation of the strict rule, and he was granted a pass. The result of the visit is now to be seen at the German war office, which is in possession of the most perfect plans from photos of all the works and defenses of Gibraltar.—Saturday Review.

THE GOLF WIDOW.

Up to Date No Silver Tongued Orator Has Pleaded Her Cause.

For several years now the golf widow's situation has been most pathetic, but she gets very little sympathy from any one save the other golf widows, and they are too busy sympathizing with themselves to feel another's woes. The attitude of the general public toward the stricken one is: "Serves her right. Any one who is fool enough to play the game deserves any hard luck she gets." Your true zealot is proverbially hard-hearted.

A married woman to-day must play golf or give up her husband. Even when she plays she probably has only the melancholy satisfaction of occasionally seeing the fluttering of his golf coat across a far bunker; but that is something. It's a devoted and self-sacrificing man who plays golf with his own wife, save at rare intervals, when no man friend is in sight or when he feels inclined to show his proud superiority by a little valuable instruction. Flattery, judiciously administered, will also bring the family together on the links occasionally. If a wife can only seduce herself to a condition of awe-struck appreciation, and knows just enough about the game to wonder and adore in technical sporting terms, she may be allowed to trail around the links with her husband, but it takes tact to achieve this proud distinction. The most she can hope for under ordinary circumstances is to lunch or dine with her golf-smitten husband, and hear him fight his battles over again; but that is better than dining and lunching alone, and she may prevent complete and final estrangement.

The wife of a cummuter has an especially hard time. He is so hurried and he really doesn't have time to go home at all save for purposes of sleep. Yet, after all, the city man does the same thing, and it is harder for his wife to follow him to the links than it is for the wife of the commuter to follow him, so perhaps honors are easy. The business man doesn't go home from the office to change his clothes. Not he. He keeps golf tog in his locker at the club. As early as he can possibly cut business he leaves the office, races for a train, goes straight to the links, plays until dark and dines at the club house, where he and the other men tell what would have happened if what did happen hadn't happened. Later he goes home so tired and sleepy that he doesn't stand upon the order of his going to bed, but goes at once, unless he stays awake long enough to tell his wife about his phenomenal drive from the sixth tee and the spectacular long put by which he halved the seventh hole. If she doesn't know the tee from lemonade so much the worse for her.

The golfer goes to the office early, so that he can get away early, and in the gray dawn he talk across the breakfast table about the virtues of his new brassey and the approach he has learned from Vardon. Then he goes off, wondering whether the weather will be too heavy for good work across the green, and calling back over his shoulder that he will not be at home for dinner unless it rains hard.

Countless golf widows are praying for rain as ardently as a Texas farmer in time of drought. A wet season is their only hope, and the wetness must be of the wettest variety. No ordinary drizzle will stop a golf game. No thunder shower will daunt a golf fiend.

"Over at home," says Willie, (every well regulated and warranted golf professional is a Willie, though there is some slight variety in our names), "no one wad think o' stopping for a Scotch mist, and any Scotch mist is a deal worse than this bit of drizzle."

And the American devotees of the ancient royal game turn up their coat collars, take a grip upon their clubs and their stoicism and paddle around the links, warmed by the thought that they are living up to Scotch tradition and that the quality of the clubhouse "Scotch" is beyond reproach.

So only a summer of continuous and pouring rain can restore the golfing husband to the arms of a non-golfing wife, and, if there is anything in prayer, it's a lucky thing for the general public that the golfers are praying for fair weather as earnestly as the golf widows are praying for foul, and that the former class outnumber the latter.

Saturday and Sunday used to be the days for domestic joys, with the tired business man. They are field days now, and the insidious thing about the game is that there's no age limit immunity from attacks of the disease. Anything from the infant to the octogenarian is fair prey for the golf germ, and only paralysis or blindness can make masculinity immune. Local attacks of morality have stopped Sunday playing in certain clubs and there has been a good deal of eloquent arguing for and against it. There's no denying that a day on the links is a tremendous physical invigorator for a man confined to an office during the week, and when one gets into the morals of the problem the issues are sadly complicated, but there's the golf widow. Some concession ought to be made to her; but, up to date, no silver-tongued orator has pleaded her cause.

On the whole, the best thing the deserted wives can do is to get into the game, whether they like it or not. They may hate violent exercise, and the sun may give them headaches and ruin their complexions, and they may find golfing so fatiguing and time-consuming that it leaves no time or energy for social duties or care of home and children; but, if they are going to leave all things and cleave to their husbands, they will have to do their cleaving on the golf links. If health or home cares absolutely prevent their playing the game, they will have to summon their feminine fortitude and resign themselves to the role of golf widow.

"Mrs. Strongmind is a warm advocate of women's rights, is she not?" "Oh, yes. If she had her way, man would not be eligible for anything more important than the vice-presidency."—Brooklyn Life.

A snow slide occurred from the roof of the post office yesterday, which fell on top of a boy who happened to be passing at the time. The little fellow was badly scared, but fortunately little hurt.

130 Presents

Commodore Calcutt generously gave 130 presents for the Christmas tree on Jan. 10th at Hiawatha, which were distributed amongst the children. Naturally the Commodore is very popular with the youngsters, as well as with the older ones at Hiawatha.

Winter Navigation

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—I see by the Montreal Daily Star that the Montreal people are going to act on my suggestion for winter navigation by getting an ice breaking steamer, to keep the St. Lawrence open for part or all the winter. I wonder they had not done so long ago.

H. CALCUTT.

Church Opening

Rev. J. P. Berry, of Apsley, was in town yesterday completing arrangements for the dedicating of the new Methodist church at South Burleigh, which will take place on Sunday and Monday, Jan. 27 and 28. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. J. P. Wilson, Peterborough, J. A. McCamus, Lakefield, and others.

Inquest at the Jail

James Wilfred, who last November was sentenced to six months in jail for stealing a watch from Mr. Jerry Carew, died Tuesday morning of apoplexy. As is the custom in such cases, an inquest was held and the coroner's jury was empanelled at four o'clock. They brought in a verdict to the effect that deceased's death was caused by apoplexy, and that he was given every care and attention while confined in gaol.

The County Council Act

A contemporary suggests that at the next session of the Ontario Legislature the County Council Act should be amended. The clause that permits electors to vote twice for one man is a bad one, and should be altered so as to allow only one vote for each of candidates. The ratepayers would then have the privilege of only voting for one man or two. The doubling up system at present in vogue simply means that the larger municipalities can elect whoever they choose and men from the smaller places have not got a ghost of a chance to secure seats at the County Council.

Painless Dentistry

In order to prove to the people of Peterborough and vicinity the merits of my local anaesthetic, I will extract any teeth that have lost their usefulness, absolutely without pain and without charge on Friday and Saturday afternoons of this week, between 2 and 4 p.m. I will, for one month only, make the regular $10 sets of teeth for $5. These are the best you can get. It is no $3 set, but a $10 set for $5. Come early and make sure to be waited on.

CLERGYMEN ENDORSE IT

Powley's Liquified Ozone

Is Eulogized by Members of the Methodist Conference in Canada.

What Rev. Dr. Parker says

It is not a matter to everyday occurrence that clergymen talk about or permit their names to be used in connection with a preparation. It but goes to show that they deem their obligation indeed heavy to have their endorsation published. Powley's Liquified Ozone is not a patent medicine and that why so many of the Canadian pastors give it their recommendation. Then it is marvellous in its power to cure disease. Rev. Dr. Parker, formerly president of the Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada says, "I have tested your Ozone and have pleasure in bearing testimony to its excellent curative properties." Signed.

Rev. W. R. PARKER, D. D.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is $1.00 a large bottle, 50c. small size. All druggists, or from the laboratories of the Ozone Co., of Toronto, Limited, 48 Colborne St. Toronto.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN

—Large quantities of wood are being hauled to town.

Rheumatism in all its forms promptly and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla which neutralizes acidity of the blood.

—The citizens of Millbrook tendered Lieutenant W. D. Leach a hearty reception on his return to his native town on Saturday. He was presented with a beautiful sword.

—At the monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary held on Thursday last, Mrs. George Whiten and Mrs. J. A. Hall were elected to represent this branch of the work at the Y.M.C.A. convention at Kingston, Feb. 7th to 10.

—Mr. Charles Mills, of Warkworth, telegraphed Chief Roszel yesterday stating that on the previous night there had been stolen from the butter factory of that place about 370 pounds of butter, mostly in crock and the remainder in prints.

A Magical Life Saver is Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. After years of pain and agony with distressing Heart Disease, it gives relief in 30 minutes. Thos Petry, of Aylmer, Que., writes: "I had suffered for five years with a severe form of Heart Disease. The slightest exertion produced fatigue. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gave me instant relief, four bottles entirely cured me."—115

—Rev. J. P. Berry, of Apsley, was in town yesterday, on his way to Toronto, and gave the Times a call.

Chased by Wolves.

Lindsay Post:—A story comes from Cavendish township to the effect that on Dec. 31st last Mrs. Wesley, living about 12 miles from Gooderham, was chased for three miles by eight wolves while she was driving from a neighbor's house to her own. Luckily the horse was speedy and steady, and although the wolves caught up to the animal several times they were unsuccessful in stopping it, and Mrs. Wesley reached home in safety after the most exciting ride in her history.

To Wearers of Spectacles.

A German paper gives a recipe to remove the annoyance which constant wearers of eye glasses experience by the dimming of the glaasses upon entering a warm room from a cooler place. It will greatly interest them to know that this evil can be ovviated by rubbing the glasses with soft soap. All that is necessary is to rub every morning, before going out a little so-called green soap (washing soap, potash soap) over the whole surface of the glass, polishing it until it is bright again.

Broke Through the Ice.

A couple of men from the Rathbun Co. camp below Bobcaygeon had an unpleasant experience Saturday night as they were driving to Lindsay to spend Sunday. Theay took the ice road, but foolishly kept to the wrong side of the lake, and when near Sturgeon Point the horse broke through the ice. Luckily he could touch bottom but became so excited that the men could do nothing with him. They shouted for help but there was no response. After half-an-hour's hard work they managed to get the animal onto firm ice, when he ran away and the men had to throw aside their wraps and give chase. When they caught him they made for land and spent several hours ploughing through snow-drifts in search of the Fenlon road. They arrived at Lindsay early Sunday morning, via Fenlon Falls.

A PRIVILEGE.

Thrown Away Entirely.

It is curious to observe how hard it is for some people to give up coffee drinking after they have become, at least half satisfied, that it is the cause of their ill health, but it becomes an easy task to give it up when one takes Postum Food Coffee in its place, providing, of course, that Postum is made according to directions, for then it has the rich, beautiful color, and a satisfying taste, while the rapid improvement in health clinches the argument.

"A young lady at Cambridgeport, Mass., says: "When it was shown to me plainly that my ill health and excessive nervousness was largely due to the coffee habit, I realized that I must give it up, but it was next to impossible to do so. However, I made the trial and took Postum Food Coffee with the mental reservation of the 'privilege,' as I termed it, of drinking coffee once a week.

"Little did I dream what a true friend Postum was destined to become to me. The old stomach trouble left, the nervousness vanished, and good, natural, healthy sleep came to my relief. In less than six months I felt like another person. I was so well and happy.

The 'reserve privilege' in regard to using regular coffee was thrown to the winds. I have not the slightest desire for it; in fact, I very much prefer my Postum to any coffee."

CENTRAL ONTARIO POWER CO.

First Annual Meeting of Shareholders Held in Toronto.

The Toronto World of the 12th had the following of local interest:—

"The first annual shareholders' meeting of the Central Ontario Power Company, Limited, of Peterborough, proprietors of the Burleigh Falls power, was held on Tuesday last, at the Queen's Hotel in this city, the following officers being elected:—President, Hon. R. Harcourt; first vice-president, Eugene Coste, M.E.; second vice-president, James Kendrey, M.P.; managing director, J. Alex. Culverwell, Elec. Eng., of Peterborough and Toronto. The shareholders present and represented were prominent gentlemen from Cobourg, Peterborough, Lindsay, Toronto, Winnipeg, Perth, Iroquois, Galt, St. Catharines, Welland and New York State. Important business was transacted in connection with the commencement of operations.

HOCKEY.

The Colts Defeat Cobourg by the Big Score of 15 to 0.

Youth will not be denied. The career of our Senior Hockey team was brief and inglorious, and the Intermediates have yet to distinguish themselves; but just watch the curves of the Colts. In their match last night with the Victorias of Cobourg, they rolled up the score of 15, while not a single goal was gained by their opponents. The ice was in poor condition, owing to the soft weather, but the play was nevertheless speedy, although one-sided from the start.

First blood was drawn by Smith, after three or four minutes' play, and thereafter until the end the Cobourg goal keeper was surrounded and bombarded like Cronje at Paardeberg, while Gilman was a mere spectator. At the end of the first half the score was 8 to 0. In the second half the visitors played hard, but were unable to make a goal, while the Colts increased their lead to 15. The Cobourg boys took their defeat manfully and did not appear to mind the bounteous ha ha of the large crowd of spectators. The teams were as follows:—

Cobourg—Goal, F. Pratt; point, A. Hopper; cover point, J. Brown; forwards, P. McCallum (captain), W. Score, W. Brown, G. Rorabeck. Umpire, W. Turpin.

Colts—Goal, H. Gilman; point, W. Kavanagh, cover point, H. Armstrong, (captain), forwards, H. King, H. Morgan, F. Wildcroft, E. Smith. Umpire, W. McWilliams.

Referee—H. P. Henwood, Port Hope.

Timekeepers—Messrs. Quinn and English.

"Evil Dispositions Are Early Shown."

Just so evil in the blood comes out in shape of scrofula, pimples, etc., in children and young people. Taken in time it can be eradicated by using Hood's Sarsaparilla. In older people, the aftermath of irregular living shows itself in bilious conditions, a heavy head, a foul mouth, a general bad feeling.

It is the blood, the impure blood, friends, which is the real cause. Purify that with Hood's Sarsaparilla and happiness will reign in your family.

Blood Poison—"I lived in a bed of fire for years owing to blood poisoning that followed small pox. It broke out all over my body, itching intensely. Tried doctors and hospitals in vain. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped. I kept at it and was entirely cured. I could go on the housetops and shout about it." MRS. J. T. WILLIAMS, Carbondale, Pa.

Scrofula Sores—"My baby at two months had scrofula sores on cheek and arm. Local applications and physicians' medicine did little or no good. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him permanently. He is now four, with smooth fair skin." MRS. S. S. WROTEN, Farmington, Del.

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

WARSAW.

A very interesting event took place on Tuesday, January 1st, at the residence of Mr. Elgin Snider, Warsaw, being the marriage of his eldest daughter, Winnie, to Mr. A. Ottis Kidd, son of Mr. A. R. Kidd, Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Fusee, assisted by Rev. J. W. Fox, B. A., of Walford, in the presence of the immediate friends.

The bride was becomingly attired in white organdie with lace trimmings, and was assisted by Miss Maggie Kidd, who also wore white. The bride was given away by her father, and the groom was supported by Mr. J. C. Snider, brother of the bride.

The presents were numerous and beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Kidd will reside on the old homestead.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Mr. John Best, of Peterboro, was here on election day recording his vote, along with other owners of property in Cavan.

We hope our new council will see the necessity of opening the concession line in the township of Cavan, so as to allow those living east of the swamp to get their mail matter at Mt. Pleasant post office, and also to allow owners of property who have good dry land in the swamp to get in to market. It's a shame for this big township of Cavan to have two concession lines unopened east of the middle line.

Our butter factory is turning out a first-class article. Mr. S. Casey, the manager, wants farmers to give him a trial and prove how rich the flavor of his manufacture of butter is, and the prices they will realize for it, in addition to the saving of labor to farmers' wives and daughters.

Messrs. Mark and Nicholas Shield, of North Dakota, have returned to spend a few days visiting with friends and relatives, who dwell in their native land. They speak well of the land of their adoption, no stones, stumps or fences to give any trouble or annoyance.

Mrs. Eliza Jamieson is regaining her eyesight, having undergone an operation at Peterborough for that purpose.

Weddings galore! The home of Mr. J. H. Best, of Emily, was visited by many invited friends to witness the union of their daughter, Lottie Best, with Mr. Joseph Donaldson. May their married life be a happy and prosperous one.

Harry Bland, of Cavan, has taken for his partner in life Miss Magee, of Emily. About 150 guests were present to witness the union and wish them God-speed on their journey through life. Many very costly and valuable wedding presents were given.

Mr. Joseph Fee, of this place, lost a very valuable horse lately. The cause of death was bots.

We regret that Mr. Burgess is leaving the farm he has been so long living on.

KEENE.

Miss Susie Campbell, of Peterboro, and Miss Emma McCamus, of Lakefield, are at present visiting at Mrs. Dr. Harrison's.

The jubilee in connection with Rev. F. Andrews fiftieth year's ministry was celebrated here on Friday last, the 11th inst., and was largely attended by clergymen and others, both of the vicinity and from a distance. The ladies of the congregation served a sumptuous supper in the Town Hall in the evening. It is estimated that about twelve hundred guests partook of supper. The choir in connection with the church are worthy of credit for the excellent music which they supplied for the occasion.

The young people of Keene and vicinity are at present badly afflicted with the skating fever. The possibilities are that they will not very speedily recover until the genial sun of spring robs them of ice.

We have a hockey team in our village, which are easily detected, as they generally sport a black eye or a nose of no small dimension. Never repine, boys, bruises are but trifles in time of war.

A meeting of the Lime Juice club is booked for next Saturday night. A full meeting is requested, as new officers are to be elected and other business of importance transacted. The Hall of Wisdom will be opened and lit up at 7 o'clock.

Mr. David Moore has moved into Mr. H. Mitler's residence. We are informed that it is his intention to run a market garden in connection with a dairy next summer. We wish him success in his new enterprise.

A resident of this village, on sweeping off his verandah one morning last week, found an overshoe. He reports it to be a No. 10, with a skunk skin insole. The owner is invited to call around and take the shoe, as he asserts that he is no lover of skunks.

MESSRS. J. S. HAMILTON & CO., Brantford, Ont., Canada:

Dear Sirs,—In accordance with your wishes I have had both the red and white wines and the champagne tested by several connoisseurs, French and English. All of these expressed surprise that an article of such merit was produced in Canada, and even manufacturers admit that the brand "L'Empereur" is of excellent quality.

This opinion from critics who are by no means easy to please should be very satisfactory to you, and it gives me pleasure to congratulate you upon it. Yours faithfully,

DISGRACE TO THE STRATHCONA HORSE

Report that One Man was Hanged at Pretoria for Giving Information to Boers.

London, Jan. 16.—The most important news from the scene of war this morning is the report of an engagement with the Boer invaders of Cape Colony at Murraysburg, forty miles to the north-west of Graaf Reinet. The place where the fight took place is not far from Cape Town to the north, and it is quite probable that some body of the eastern invaders made an attempt upon the railway, which brought on the action. It is a subject for congratulation that the Boers are not in very close proximity to Graaf Reinet, from which hotbed of sedition they have evidently been effectually barred.

DISGRACE TO THE STRATHCONAS.

Vancouver, Jan. 16.—A returned member of the Strathcona Horse reports that while the regiment was in Pretoria a man named Spring was hanged for giving the Boers information respecting movements of the British troops. Inquiries are now being made through the local militia officers, for information respecting the man, as he is believed to have been a former resident of Vancouver, who after abusing his wife and children is alleged to have committed bigamy and left for Honolulu. Subsequently he was heard of in Sydney, Aus., and was later reported to have gone to South Africa. Friends here are anxious to establish the fact of his death.

BOERS CAPTURE CONVOY.

London, Jan. 16.—A despatch from Pretoria states that the Boers have captured a convoy of twelve wagons with provisions for the troops at Rhenoster kop. They killed two of the British guards and wounded eleven. The remaining nine surrendered. The Boers, apparently fearing the approach of other troops, abandoned the wagons and prisoners.

PAGET AT PRETORIA.

Another despatch adds that Gen. Paget, with his force, has returned here to refit. The operations of this command having been in the low country, the men have suffered considerably. A number of them are down with fever. The refugee Boer laager at Irene received large additions to-day from Rustenburg. The clearance of that district has begun. There is a large commando in the vicinity of Belfast and Middelburg. The estimated total force of Boers along the eastern line is 5,000.

FIGHT AT MURRAYSBURG.

The casualty list shows that there has been a severe engagement, with a loss of six killed, seventeen wounded, and five missing, at Murraysburg, where the Dutch are said to have been joining the invaders. Murraysburg is 16 miles west of Graaf Reinet. Indications are not wanting that the decision of the Government to send reinforcements has not been taken a moment too soon.

SWORE TO KILL KITCHENER.

One of the members of President Kruger's party at The Hague talked regarding the alleged murderous treatment of a British subject who went to General De Wet with a proposal of surrender. He said that it was suicide for any man to carry such a proposal to Det Wet from Kitchener. Long ago De Wet witnessed the burning of his farm and the confiscation of his cattle by Kitchener's men, and then and there, according to a reliable report, he swore he would kill the British general.

TO ERECT A BLOCKHOUSE.

Col. Colville's mobile column, which has been pursuing the Boers, has been obliged to rest at Greylingstad, to erect a blockhouse, and to cease operations until reinforced by mounted troops.

DISTASTEFUL TO ROBERTS.

Lord Roberts to-day emphasizes the unsatisfactory condition of South Africa in a letter to the Mayor of Portsmouth, postponing the presentation of a sword of honor from that city. He says: "It is most distasteful to me to be honored and feted, and called upon to rejoice while so many are in bitter grief, and before we can properly return thanks that the cloud is being rolled away, which has for more than a year darkened the homes and crushed the hearts of so many in our country."

MINES TO FURNISH GUARDS.

The Rand mine-owners have been notified officially that they must furnish guards to the number of 1,500, who must join the Rand Rifles. Each company must pay its own men at the rate of five shillings a day, and also furnish them with rations.

1,500 STRUGGLE TO ENROLL.

A Sidney, N.S.W., despatch says that there was an unprecedented rush yesterday to enrol in the fresh contingent of 1,000 men for service in South Africa. As soon as the lists were opened 1,500 men rushed to the recruiting office, and struggled to get enrolled. Troops had to be summoned to control the applicants, many of whom were men who had returned from South Africa.

A Melbourne despatch says: "There is enthusiastic competition to enrol in the Victorian contingent of 400 men who will go to South Africa for service against the Boers. The applications for enrolment have been so many that the Government has cabled to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, offering to furnish an additional 500 men.

MAJOR DENISON TO SAIL.

Major S. J. A. Denison, quartermaster of the first contingent, will sail from England for Canada on February 7th.

CANADIANS APPOINTED.

Montreal, Jan. 15.—The announcement of the appointment of Captain F. J. Dixon, of this city, to the position of assistant railway transport officer in South Africa, in succession to Captain F. W. Jones, of the South African Mounted Irregular Force, is confirmed by the War Office. The nominations of several Canadians to commissions in the Imperial army are also confirmed. Corp. F. E. Lench, of the Canadian Mounted Rifles, goes to the King's Liverpool Regiment; Second Lieut. R. Wood, of the Royal Canadian Regiment, to the Royal Warwickshire Regiment, Trooper Alan Butler, of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, to the Norfolk Regiment, Capt. R. Cockburn, of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, to the Suffolk Regiment, and Second Lieut. J. H. Dwyer, of the Royal Canadian Artillery, to the East Lancashire Regiment.

Mary Norman Arrested on a Charge of Trying to Murder Her Infant.

Toronto Jan. 16.

At half-past one o'clock this afternoon a woman named Mary Norman, aged about 30 years and lately a resident at 31 Pears avenue, was brought to Police Station No. 1 in the patrol wagon and locked up on a charge of having attempted to murder her infant child, a week old. The woman has been at the Haven on Seaton street, where she gave birth to the child. She was taken to the Infants' Home on St. Mary street.

This morning it was discovered that she had thrust two safety pins down the little one's throat. The matron, Miss Jordan, succeeded in extricating one of them, but the other remained where it was until the doctor arrived.

The police were advised of the affair, the patrol wagon was sent up, and Police Constable Snider (92) took the woman in charge.

She is regarded as non compos mentis. To the matron she remarked that the baby had been very noisy and ill, and she had first struck it to make it cease its wailing. When that plan failed she thrust the pins in its throat.

"I ought to be locked up for life for doing this," she added.

A ROYAL WELCOME.

Extended to Pte. McFarlane by Citizens of Keene.

Mr. John McFarlane, son of Mr. William MacFarlane of Keene, returned from the South African war on Tuesday and received a warm welcome and loyal reception from the citizens of the village and vicinity. About one hundred and fifty people met him at the station and paraded to the home of his parents with flags and banners. In the evening a reception concert was held in the Town Hall. Patriotic speeches were delivered by our clergymen and others, and a flag drill by the school children, which was very much appreciated and applauded by the audience. Dr. Shaw read an address and presented "Jack" with a gold watch, which he much prized and for which he heartily thanks his Otonabee friends. He exhibited a number of articles which he brought from Africa with him, which were very interesting. Mr. McFarlane, although he underwent many hardships, looks hale and hearty, and no doubt would again volunteer to fight for his country and Queen.

The reception was a decided success, and will long be remembered by Mr. McFarlane and the citizens of this place.

MAJOR OFFERS TO RAISE A REGIMENT

Of Light Horse in Canada for Service in South Africa.

Ottawa, Jan. 16—Major W. Hamilton Merritt of the Governor-General's Body Guard, Toronto, and more recently Brabant's Horse, has made an offer to the War Office to raise a regiment of light horse in Canada for service in South Africa. The offer was sent from Nice, where Major Merritt was recuperating after his experiences in the Boer war, on December 22nd last, and was forwarded to the proper quarter by Lord Strathcona.

Major Merritt proposes that the regiment sail from Canada about February 15th, or a little sooner if required. The equipment could be issued in Cape Town. The equipment, pay, and transport to be furnished by the Imperial Government. The pay to be the same as the Cape Colony irregular corps. The establishment also to be the same as the Cape Colony Irregular Horse, namely, 600 men, and it would be well to have twelve Cape Colonists in each squadron, and three on the staff, who should be given a shilling a day extra for a knowledge of bush and Kaffir war.

"I would recommend the regiment having 1,200 horses, which could also be procured in Canada is deemed advisable," continues Major Merritt. "I have no question about being able to raise the corps in Canada. I take the liberty of saying that if organized I should like the regiment to serve under General Brabant, if possible."

Major Merritt encloses a certificate from his late commander, Brig.-Gen Brabant, in which the Major's services as a squadron commander for six months, during which he saw considerable fighting, including the defence of Johannesburg drift camp, near Wepener, are referred to as having given entire satisfaction to his commanding officers.

First Chief Ranger is Dead

Toronto Jan. 16.

A wire was received at the offices of the Independent Order of Foresters this morning that Col. Alonzo B. Caldwell, of Syracuse, had died. Col. Caldwell was the founder of Independent Order of Foresters, having inaugurated it in 1874, and remaining High Supreme Ranger until 1879. He was until his death Honorary Past Supreme Ranger.

Asks for a Divorce

Ottawa, Jan. 16—An interesting divorce application will come before the Senate next session. It is that of Miss Munro, of Toronto, who seeks divorce from Reginald Lancelot-Middleton, now serving a long term in Kingston penitentiary for a bogus railway enterprise in Oxford County. Among other escapades he married Miss Munro. After his arrest it was discovered he had a wife living. Middleton is the man who under the name of Alexander Macdonald, by means of forged credentials, ingratiated himself with the Indteior Department and secured blank forms for a land entry in the Yukon, which, it is believed, he intended to use for fraudulent purposes in the United States. His scheme was discovered by the officials in time to head off his scheme and Macdonald absconded. As Middleton he worked an elaborate confidence game in London, Eng.

FRANCE RESENTS LETTER OF POPE

Chamber of Deputies Has Heated Discussion.

PREMIER TELLS HIS POLICY

Says That Pontiff Will Not Be Permitted to Interfere with Government Affairs.

Paris, Jan. 17.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day the government was interpellated by M. Marcel Sembat, radical Socialist, on the "Interference of the Pope in the domestic affairs of France," as shown in the recent letter of the Pope to Cardinal Richard, the Archbishop of Paris, dealing with the proposed bill of the Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, known as the "law of associations," and aiming at the suppression of religious communities, in which the Pontiff defended the religious orders. M. Sembat asked the government to protest against this letter.

RIBOT DEFENDS THE POPE.

M. Ribot, the former Premier, defended the Pope, who, he said, was entitled to raise his voice when he thought religious interests were in peril. The statement called forth cheers from the Rightists and Centrists.

The entire session was spent in discussing the interpellation of M. Sembat, the debate closing with a declaration by M. Waldeck-Rousseau, who said the government saw no treat in the Pope's letter as to missions in the East.

"The letter of his Holiness," continued the Premier, "simply said that if the French missionaries disappeared they would be replaced by foreign missionaries.

PREMIER DEFINES ATTITUDE.

"The government will not tolerate the organization of resistance against the laws of the country. No interference on the part of the Pope will be allowed in the law of associations when it is voted upon. The Pope has rights as the spiritual head of Catholics, but the state also has rights written in the concordat, which it will see respected."

This declaration rallied around the government all the Leftists and Centrists, who voted approval of the Premier's declarations by 429 to 95 and declared confidence in his firmness to assure the defense of the rights of the state.

The Chamber then adopted a resolution embodying M. Sembat's protests by a vote of 310 to 110.

Other Extremist motions, one proposing the separation of church and state, and another proposing to denounce the concordat, were rejected by overwhelming majorities.

The Chamber was crowded with Deputies and notable visitors in the expectation that the debate on the law of associations would begun, but which went over to Friday.

To-day's results have greatly elated the Ministerialists, who declaret hat they presage victory for the law of associations.

THE SIFTON WILL CASE NOW ENDED

Experts Say Signature of Disputed Will is a Forgery.

London Jan. 16— A sensational turn was given to the Sifton will case yesterday, when defendant's counsel stated that they would bring forward no evidence, and thus allow the case to go by default.

George C. Gibbons, Q.C., stated that Mr. Riddell, counsel for Edgar Morden, was seriously ill at his home, thus leaving himself (Mr. Gibbons,) counsel for Mary McFarlane, in charge of the case. Mr. Gibbons went on to say that he had taken the responsibility of deciding that it would not be in the interests of his clients to offer any evidence whatever in the trial. Mary McFarlane, who was the one chiefly interested in the will, had not the means to prosecute an extended contest, while Edgar Morden, the other defendant, had no personal interest in the will. During the arguments of last week certain things had been said by the court and by counsel, necessarily, he admitted, that could not fail to affect the case and make things harder for the defence. He therefore believed he was acting in the best interests of his clients when he withdrew and offered no defence to the action. Edgar Morden and his wife, said Mr. Gibbons, of course still assert the truth of their stories and the authenticity of the disputed will.

Mr. Justice Robertson regretted the turn taken in the matter, but said that if the plaintiffs persisted in going on with the case they must be allowed to put in their evidence.

Mr. Hellmuth replied that plaintiffs intended to go on, and he asked that a jury be called. This was done.

Mr Hellmuth, who outlined the plaintiffs case, read the original will of J. H. Sifton, and also Edgar Morden's "butter-paper will." He laid stress on the fact that while the signature to the latter reads "Joseph Sifton," the dead man was never in his life known to sign his name as other than "J. H. Sifton" or "Joseph H. Sifton." Mr. Hellmuth argued that the idea of blackmailing Gerald Sifton after his father death by means of a will unfavorable to himself, might easily have occurred to an unscrupulous man such as he claimed Morden had shown himself to be. Mr. Hellmuth said they would show first that Joseph H. Sifton never wrote what purported to be his signature to the "butter-paper will" second, that the same man who wrote the body of the will also signed it.

Mr. Hellmuth read portions of the examination for discovery of the defendant, Edgar Morden, in which the latter described practically the circumstances surrounding the drawing up of the will produced by him. This in brief was that after Gerald Sifton had met Morden on the night of June 25 and tried to get him to assist in the killing of Joseph H. Sifton, Morden had seen the latter, but warned him of Gerald's intention. Joseph Sifton and Mary McFarlane had then gone to Morden's house. Mary McFarlane had retired to another room, and Morden had then drawn up the will for Joseph Sifton, it being witnessed by Morden and his wife. The will was then taken by Sifton and afterwards hidden by him in a seed-drill in Morden's shed.

The will produced by Edgar Morden, which is written on both sides of a sheet of waxed paper, such as is used for wrapping butter in was produced in court. In order to protect it from soiling and injury it was placed in a frame between two sheets of glass and was then ready for handling.

John Pringle, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, and a dozen others testified that, in their opinion, the signature of the will produced was not that of the late Joseph H. Sifton. John James Sifton and Bamlett Thomas Alfred Sifton, brothers of the deceased, swore positively the signature was a forgery. Four handwriting experts, John F. Tyrell, of Milwaukee, who was a witness in the Molineaux and Rice cases in New York; Eldridge Stanton of Toronto, James Bowman of London, and Albert L. Osborne of Rochester.

In answer to Mr Hellmuth, Mr Tyrell stated positively that the signature to the application for Sifton's marriage licence and that attached to the disputed will were not written by the same person. He believed that the man who wrote the body of the disputed will also wrote the signature. Witness then with a board covered with white paper, and using a heavy black crayon, pointed out and illustrated the characteristics of the Sifton and the Morden handwriting, claiming that they were distinctly different. Witness took single letters from isolated words on the Morden will and built up the word "Sifton," showing its exact correspondence with the signature attached to that document.

A rumor was in circulation that Edgar Morden had absconded, but Mr. Magee, Q.C., Crown Attorney, said there was no truth in the report, and that Morden would appear for the Crown in the murder trial

London, Ont., Jan. 16.—The evidence in the Sifton will case is all in, and the jury retired to consider their verdict at noon. The only witness of importance this morning was John Bowman, who gave expert testimony as to the difference of the contested signature from the authentic ones.

Mr Hellmuth, counsel for Sifton, followed at some length.

His Lordship's charge was brief summarizing of the evidence. If they believed in it, he said, they would scarcely fail to conclude that Edgar Morden had committed the forgery. Morden is said to have vanished.

After being out fifteen minutes the jury found that the will was undoubtedly a forgery and brought in a verdict for plaintiff with costs.

ONE WORD IN DEFENCE OF THE CIGARETTE

Chicago Professor Says that the Paper Pipes Rest the Brain.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 16 — Professor James Taft Hatfield, head of the German Department of Northwestern University, in his class in German literature yesterday afternoon told of the benefits to be derived from the moderate use of the much-decried cigarette.

It all came about as the result of an attempt by Prof. Hatfield to tell the value of a change, of an inspiration for a mind wearied with an excess of sameness. He told how a romance would quicken a mind and revive the interest when it lagged from overstudy.

Then he went on to say that there were artificial stimulants that might produce the same results, and that the cigarette was not the least of these.

"When I was at John Hopkins University," said Professor Hatfield, "and had a difficult task to study, I would sit down and light my cigarette and meditatively smoke."

Then he went on to say how his mind would begin to clear, how his inspiration grew and how he became enthusiastic over his task, and when he went at his lesson, which seemed long and difficult before he smoked his cigarette, he found it short and all clear sailing. Then for fear that his position on the question of cigarette smoking might be misunderstood, he hastened to explain. "Mind you, I do not say that the young ladies should smoke them, and I would not have the young men use them to excess."

The action of Professor Hatfield during the Spanish war, in enlisting in the navy as a common sailor attracted attention all over the country. He was assigned to the cruiser Yale, and before the close of the war he was chief yeoman on the cruiser and captain of a rapid-fire gun.

BULLER HEARD THE CALL

One of the Strathconas who Threw Red Tape to the Winds.

The Strathcona Horse have proved a mystery to the regular Imperial forces in Africa. Their ways of fighting, although better suited to the tactics of the Boers, simply scandalize the rules and red tape of the British officers, and sometimes in most amusing fashions. The Strathconas and "D" Battery were altogether at the battle in the Lydenburg district, where on Sept. 8th a big engagement took place. General Buller and staff were on a crest of a kopje, watching and directing the advance, when a band of the Strathconas came into close touch with the Boers. One of the Strathconas was seen to leave his comrades and in the usual breakneck cowboy fashion gallop up to the staff officers.

"Where's Buller," he shouted, as he came within hearing, and stopped up his horse with a jerk.

"My man, if you have an order to bring to the general, the proper way is for you to deliver it to his orderly," said an officer, severely.

"Well, I don't know old Buller by sight," responded the trooper, "and I'm not going to wait for your d—d red tape, and see those fellows down there killed. You'd better hustle down some support pretty d—d quick."

General Buller overheard the whole conversation, and promptly sent the needed support, while the unconventional trooper galloped back to his comrades and was soon in the thickest of the fight. This was one case of disrespect to a superior officer for which the usual cell was not given.—Guelph Mercury.

MISSION OF THE EX-PRESIDENT

Mr. W. T. Stead has a Talk With Paul Kruger --Boers are Desperate Men.

London, Jan. 17. Thanks to an imperfect and erroneous report in a French paper, the visit which W. T. Stead recently paid to President Kruger in The Hague has become notorious, but as an accurate report still is wanting I asked Mr. Stead to tell exactly what had occurred. The following is his summary of the substance, of conversations which he had with Mr. Kruger and his advisers, Mr. Fischer, Dr. Leyds, Mr Wolmerans, Mr. Wessels and Mr. Van Alphen, a sort of Boer Cabinet, with Mr. Boeschouten as general secretary.

According to Mr. Stead, Kruger's personal funds are limited, and the resources of the late republics which he and his advisers hold are restricted to certain meagre investments.

It is highly probable that if his health improved Mr. Kruger will visit the United States in April, and that Mr. Stead will accompany him.

Here is Mr. Stead's own report of his interview.

BOERS STILL HOPEFUL.

"The first thing to note is that, so far from being devided and distracted, the Boer Ministers and the President are hopeful and thoroughly harmonious. They do not, indeed, constitute a real government any longer, though they have the confidence in the burghers as much as ever and their constitutional position is unaltered. They are, in fact, a sort of moving Foreign Office, a special mission to the outer world, with Mr. Kruger as the heroic figure, the directors of the war on the Boer side and therefore real government for the time being are Steyn —yes, the much maligned Steyn, the same Steyn who was decribed as a coward and a fool by the jingo press.

"Aided by De Wet and De Lau Rey, these are the masters of the situation. The latest information received from them by Mr. Kruger was dated on October 13. Mr. Steyn had then been all over the country, and visited every commando and was full of confidence. You know how well that confidence has since been justified. When Mr. Steyn was writing to his old ally Lord Roberts was declaring the war to be ended and preparing to start for home.

BLIND TO THE FACTS.

"Who of these men had the better ground for what he said? And when we find our highest military men as blind to the facts of the situation as the Minister who thought the Boers would not fight and the journalists who said the war would be over in a fortnight it surely does not require much wisdom to see that a new set of men and a new set of measures are necessary.

"In the dispatches I have referred to, the President was informed that enough Lee-Metford rifles had been captured to arm all the burghers then in the field, and the supply of Lee-Metford catridges would never run out. Can you wonder that when I referred to the fantastic illusions carefully fostered by Lord Roberts, and painfully shattered since by daily news of captures of our troops by the hundred at a time, the holding up of trains, the constant interruptions of communication and siege of isolated posts, the difficulty of getting up food supplies to Kimberley and other towns, the increasing weariness and discontent of our armies and, finally the invasion of Cape Colony and the imminent threat of civil war therein, do you wonder that I was met with a pitying smile?

BOERS ARE DESPERATE MEN.

"These men say, and it is evidently true, that the control over their forces is much more perfect than it was at the beginning of the war. Formerly the burghers came and went, obeyed and disobeyed, very much as they pleased. To-day they are veterans under an iron discipline, rendered desperate by the house-burnings, the confiscation of cattle and looting of private goods, and the measures against women and children, but at the same time encouraged by such a series of victories as no little nation ever scored in combat with a great one.

"The change of policy and branches of faith have increased their determination. 'If Lord Roberts had but stuck to his first proclamation,' one of the delegates said to me, 'there would not be to-day a single burgher in arms in the two republics.' They all agree that the burghers would have retired to their families if the experience of those who took the oath had not convinced them that no reliance could be placed upon the word of the English general. Men who had gone back to their farms and risked punishment as deserters had been seized on Kaffir evidence or on none at all and exiled to Ceylon or St Helena, their houses being burned in some cases on the assumption that they were on commando. It was not suggested that this was a universal experience, but it was frequent enough to be effective. I should add that no complaints were made to me of either inhumanity or bad faith on the part of Buller's army.

QUESTION OF INDEPENDENCE

"Of course, I asked particularly whether there was any hope of Boer leaders accepting terms on the most liberal lines short of complete independence.

"Supposing,' I said, 'that Australian independence for each colony within a federation of South Africa under the British flag were proposed; suppose that the federation reserved to itself the control, firstly, of minerals; secondly, of natives; thirdly, of franchise questions; fourthly, of armaments; fifthly, of importation of coolie labor; sixthly, of tariffs, seventhly, of railways and communications—while each federation state had absolute Australian independence for all other subjects—would such a settlement be possible?

"The reply was that such a question could not be answered off hand, and that in any case terms could not be discussed without an armistice. Things being as they were, Steyn and the fighting burghers would have to decide, and they left to me to judge whether the men without farms or stock were likely to be as easily consiliated as they might have been a year ago. At the same time I gathered that if the farms were rebuilt and restocked and if the scheme I have mentioned were offered by honest men whom they trusted it might possibly, though reluctantly, be accepted.

"But this may be taken as final. No terms, however favorable, offered by Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Rhodes and Sir Alfred Milner will be accepted. They do not trust these men, and, as one of them put it, would not trust them even if they swore on a sack full of Bibles to keep their promises.

"Do not suppose that this means there is no reality in Mr. Kruger's mission. Mr. Steyn takes precisely the same view as he does, that the two republics have been condemned to deathuntried, except by executioners, who hope to profit by their demise. They both equally wish to appeal a- They both equally wish to appeal against this death sentence, passed without trial; they would accept any impartial tribunal, and they are prepared to meet there every accusation that has been made against them.

"This is the message Mr. Kruger was asked to carry to the world, while Mr. Steyn remained to demonstrate the other final fact, that without such trial or an equal negotiation they intend to go on fighting until the last man has fired his last cartridge. Mr. Kruger is then, as he has always been, for arbitration, but he has never wished any other country to go to war on account of the Boers. He simply points to the fact that the ambassadors of the nations have declared war to be the enemy of civilization, and have constructed a method and machinery by which resort to it may be avoided.

"He wants to know whether these powers are in earnest, and he asks them to exercise more pressure upon one among them which has just flagrantly refused its promise and falsified its professions—moral pressure to secure that the customs of 'civilized warfare' shall be respected and that two small nations shall not be extinguished without trial.

"I must confess that Mr. Kruger's terrible conservatism is standing him in very bad and us in very good stead in this crisis, for as an eminent one of the delegates of a great power at The Hague conference said to me: That old man could shake Europe to its foundations. But he does not want to do anything so revolutionary.

LAKEFIELD'S WARM WELCOME

To the South African Volunteers on Saturday Last.

The village was roused to a great pitch of enthusiasm at the public reception, tendered to the returning South African volunteers on Saturday. Practically the whole population was at the station waiting the arrival of the train which drew up at the platform amid great cheering and waving of flags and music from the band.

Some disappointment was caused by the non-appearance of Messrs. Henderson, Marting, and Moodie, the latter of whom is unfortunately detained at Halifax, suffering from enteric fever. The other two missing men are expected to arrive during the week.

Privates G. Hayward and Mr. Thompson were seized and placed in a sleigh and a procession, headed by all school children waving flags, proceeded down Queen street to the Town Hall, which was packed to the doors, and was beautiful decorated. Reeve Hull read the address on behalf of the citizens, and the two khaki-clad soldiers replied in fitting terms, modestly recounting a few of their experiences, but leaving out all mention of the hardships and dangers they had passed through.

The children sang "Soldiers of the Queen," the band played vigorously at intervals, and the general public cheered till they were hoarse. Short addresses were delivered by Rev. G. Warren, McCamus and Campbell, and the proceedings came to an end.

It is intended as soon as the remaining men return to tender all of them a banquet.

MORE HORRORS IN CHINA PREDICTED

Russian Newspapers Take a Gloomy View of Situation in the Orient.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 16.—The Novoe Vremya characterizes the Chinese acceptance of the peace terms of the powers as being a formality due to China's inability to oppose the European armies. The paper adds that the next catastrophe is probably not far distant, and that it will far surpass the recent occurrences. The entire Russian press prophesies gloomily, and fiercely attacks "German plundering vandalism and the destruction of the libraries and other monuments of the ancient sivilization by German and English troops."

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 17, 1901

THE WINDOWS OPPOSITE

I had been knocked down by a cab on the streets of Paris and taken to a hospital. I was hurt about the head and shoulders, and, though I had no broken bones to mend, I was so badly bruised that the surgeon told me I wouldn't get out for a month. Hard up though I was in a financial sense, I had enough money in my pocket to get me into pay ward, and they gave me one of the 14 cots on the third floor front. It was summer, and I was close to the seventh window, counting from the left.

The routine of a hospital for an injured man is a monotonous one. After the first three or four days they put me on full diet and gave me books to read, but I could not leave my bed, and it was against the rules to converse with the other patients. It was read, sleep, think and plan, with one visit a day from the surgeon. Could not see the street from my window as I sat propped up on my cot. The only sight to greet my vision was a quaint old house opposite. The structure was two stories high, and I could see the upper halves of four windows. The house looked to have been built 100 years ago and was in a sad state of neglect and untenanted. I don't know why I should have been interested in that house except that a sick man will turn to the veriest trifle to made a diversion. I saw by the state of the windows that the house was tenantless, and yet I had the curiosity to question the nurse about it.

"That house has been empty for many years," she replied, "and as it is in law it will probably fall down before the heirs come into possession. You cannot see that far down, but the lower doors and windows are boarded up to keep tramps out. I have often wondered if the place has not a ghost."

I fell into the habit of watching those four windows as closly as if I had been employed as a watchman. It seemed that if I waited long enough I should see a face at one of them. When evening came, there was an electric light somewhere which struck the front of the old house, and I would watch those windows until the nurse enjoined me to turn away and go to sleep. It got so at last that I felt certain of making a discovery, and one evening when I had been in the hospital nine or ten days, the face I had looked for appeared at one of the middle windows. It was that of a man.

The window was 150 feet from me, but by the assistance of the electric light I made out the face very clearly. It came into view gradually, as if the man slowly advanced across the room, and it remained at the paneless sash for a full minute. It was the face of an evil man. It was dark and bearded, and the eyes traveled up and down and across the street as if looking for danger. Whoever the man was he was no tramp, nor had he a lawful right in that house. As he left the window I called to the nurse and told her of his presence, but she laughed and replied:

"Ah, but we are not to concern ourselves about what goes on over there. If it is some prowler who has broken in, the police must take care of him."

I now had something to occupy my full attention, and I gave up everything to watch the windows opposite. Nothing appeared next day, but at about half past 8 o'clock in the evening I saw the same face again. There was more boldness in the way the man approached the window, and he seemed to feel himself more secure as he surveyed the street. If he were not a fugitive in hiding, why should he be taking peeps at the neighborhood? A vagabond, having entered to obtain shelter for the night, would keep clear of the windows. On this second night the man seemed to be looking intently at the sidewalk running in front of the hospital, and by and by he started and turned away as if he had received some signal. When the nurse came, I told her of the incident. She was as much amused as before.

"You certainly have a mind for mysteries," she laughed, "but if you become too interested you will develop a fever and have a pullback. When you are able to leave us, you can tell the police about the man, who will probably turn out to be a shadow."

I gave the window but little attention in the daytime after that. The face appeared on the third evening at the same hour, and I felt so sure that a confederate made signals from the sidewalk that I took a convalescent into my confidence. He was an old soldier who was being treated for an old wound and was allowed the run of the place. I told him of the face and the confederate, and he was interested at once. It was arranged that he should be in front of the hospital at half past 8 and watch for the confederate, and luck attended him. He saw a well dressed but evil looking man make signals to the man at the window. The signals were made with a folded newspaper and would not have been noticed by any one not on the watch for them.

"Now, then," said the old soldier as he returned and reported, "we have a mystery on hand. Luck has thrown it in our way that we may make a few goldpieces. Let us work it out together and share the reward."

None of us in the ward had seen a newspaper for a week. They were not interdicted, but none of the patients seemed to care for outside news. Next morning the soldier went out and purchased the journals for the previous five or six days, and as we looked them over we struck a sensation. A boy 10 years old, the son of a rich iron founder, had been kidnaped and spirited away, and it was stated that the whole police force of Paris was on the qui vive. The kidnaping had taken place three days before I saw the face at the window, and I was arguing that our mystery could have nothing to do with it when the soldier said:

"It is at least 12 miles from here where the lad was picked up. He was probably hidden somwwhere else for a day or two, but the scent got so hot that he was moved. Don't you fear that he is not in the old house opposite at this very moment."

"Then we should inform the police."

"Pooh! We must wait for a reward to be announced. Never slap luck in the face."

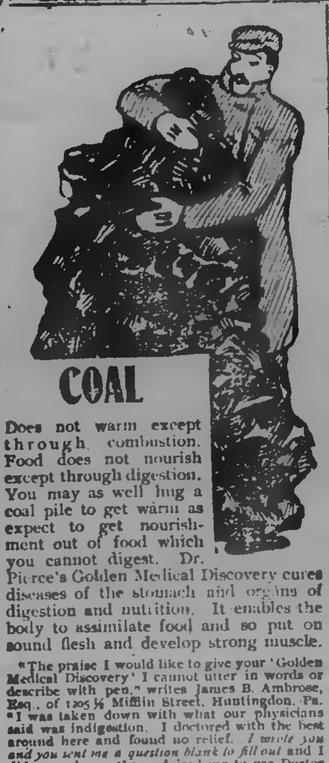
On the fourth night and fifth night the face appeared at the window at the usual hour, and the same man made the usual signals. As the police were yet at fault, those signals must have meant that things were all right for the kidnapers. It was now eight days since the boy was taken, and as no trace could be had of him it was believed that he had been killed or taken out of the country. The papers gave it to the police pretty hot, and it was intimated that the father was ready to pay almost any sum to have his child restored.

"Now we are coming nearer to it," said the old veteran. "What the kidnapers have been waiting for is the [illegible]ward, but we must be ahead of them. You have some money, but I have none. You must give me enough to take me across Paris to the father."

It had come to be understood in our corridor that we had some scheme, but we refused to answer any questions. The soldier started off one morning, and before noon he was holding an interview with the father of the abducted boy. The distracted man was waiting give his last francs, but the soldier stopped at 20,000. He got a promise in writing that he should be paid that sum when the boy was delivered up, and then he went to the police to find if there was a reward for any particularly desperate character. There was. It was believed in police circles that the kidnapers were two escaped convicts, and there was a reward of 10,000 francs on the head of either. When it had been agreed to give him half the reward, the veteran gave our mystery away. The police waited until evening and then caught the confederate on the street after he had signaled his "All right." Half an hour later they surrounded the old house, broke their way in and not only found the other convict, but found the kidnaped boy a prisoner in one of the rooms. The lad had been fairly well treated, but had been closely guarded every hour since he had come into the man's hands. He had seen only that one man and had been told that he would be set at liberty when his father had paid 250,000 francs as a reward.

This old soldier divided fairly with me, and we were not only enriched by the double reward, but were the means of returning to custody two as desperate criminals as ever broke bars. It was considered an incomprehensible thing around the hospital, and doctor, nurse and fellow patients were never tired of saying:

"How strange! You lie in your bed and look at the windows of an old house across the way, and, lo, there come 15,000 francs rolling in to you!"



COAL

Does not warm except through combustion. Food does not nourish except through digestion. You may as well hug a coal pile to get warm as expect to get nourishment out of food which you cannot digest. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the body to assimilate food and so put on sound flesh and develop strong muscle.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes James B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1305½ Mifflin Street, Huntingdon, Pa. "I was taken down with what our physicians said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you and you sent me a question blank to fill out and I did so and you then advised me to use Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped—being as I think, cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for paper or 50 stamps for cloth binding, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. A WONDERFUL KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

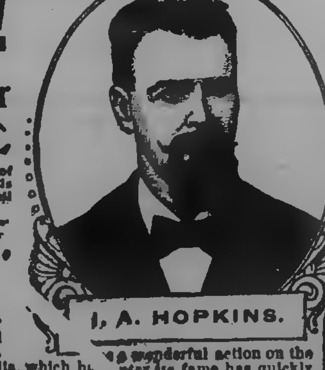
The Honorable Chairman o[illegible] the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, [illegible] tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doc[illegible] and all other Remedies had Failed.



I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which ha[illegible] wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this cou[illegible] fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Promine[illegible] men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove [illegible] infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recove[illegible] is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, [illegible] Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alk[illegible] I had been for six weeks troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was [illegible] Rheumatism with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen [illegible] for my [illegible] so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Med[illegible] the slight Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour o[illegible] to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kid[illegible] Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney [illegible] that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for [illegible] getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind un[illegible] I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been [illegible]. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

[illegible] W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., [illegible] World, writes that after trying [illegible] kidney and rheumatic [illegible] was permanently cured by Alkavis. [illegible] Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that [illegible] cured [illegible] doctors failed. Rev. [illegible] Kansas, cured of [illegible] and bladder trouble of many [illegible] from which he could only get [illegible] and had given up all hope of [illegible] A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 408 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

SECOND HAND COFFINS

They May Be Bought or Rented in New York City.

One of the queerest places in Greater New York is a little undertaker shop in Mulberry Bend, where second-hand coffins are kept. Its owner does a thriving business among the poor Italians of that section, and the same coffin often does duty on many occasions. One can either buy or rent a coffin from the obliging gentleman in charge.

To renters the price depends not only upon the original price of the casket selected but upon the length of time it is kept. From $5 to $10 is usually the price.

Here coffins may be hired by the day or month like dress suits. Poor people find this a convenience, since many of them are unable to buy a decent casket outright. The Mulberry Bend undertaker solves this difficulty as well as adds a ludicrous feature to a gruesome occupation by merely renting a coffin for a funeral.

When the corpse is lowered into the grave and the mourners have left, it is slipped into a heavy pine box and the coffin comes back in the hearse.

In the rear of this unique establishment is an altar fitted up for services, and when the home is small the funeral is held here. Some of the coffins are now in a most dilapidated condition. For years they have been in frequent use.

How Not to Get Sick.

Never lean with back upon anything that is cold.

Never take warm drinks and then immediately go out into the cold.

Keep the back, especially between the shoulder blades, well covered; also the chest well protected. In sleeping in a cold room establish the habit of breathing through the nose, and never with the mouth open.

Never go to bed with cold or damp feet.

These are the sensible suggestions of a writer in Table Talk, who then goes on with the following hygenic advice:

Never omit regular bathing, for unless the skin is in active condition the cold will close the pores and favor congestion or other diseases.

After exercise of any kind never ride in an open carriage or near the window of a train for a moment; it is dangerous to health and life.

When hoarse, speak as little as possible until the hoarseness is recovered from, else the voice may be permanently lost or difficulties of the throat be produced.

Merely warm the back by the fire, and never continue keeping the back exposed to heat after it has become comfortably warm. To do otherwise is debilitating.

When going from a warm atmosphere into a cooler one, keep the mouth closed, so that the air may be warmed by its passage through the nose ere it reaches the lungs.

An Overwhelming Thought.

Our sun is a third-rate sun, situated in the milky way, one of myriads of stars, and the milky way is itself one of myriads of sectional star accumulations, for these seem to be countless, and to be spread over infinity. At some period of their existence each of these suns had planets circling around it, which, after untold ages, are fit for some sort of human beings to inhabit them for a comparatively brief period, after which they still continue for years to circle around without atmosphere, vegetation or inhabitants, as the moon does around our planet. There is nothing so calculated to take the conceit out of an individual who thinks himself an important unit in the universe as astronomy. It teaches that we are less, compared with the universe, than a colony of ants is to us, and that the difference between men is less than that between one ant and another.—London Truth.

Greater Than Royalty.

When Robert T. Stewart was governor of Missouri it was in the days when everybody drank whiskey, and the governor was no exception to the rule. Years ago, when the Prince of Wales was on a visit to this country, they gave a grand ball in his honor in St. Louis. Governor Stewart came down from Jefferson City to honor the event with his presence. In the course of the evening the enthusiastic governor drank rather too much. He became exceedingly happy, as well as proud and enthusiastic. He and the prince were seated on the platform, while the beauty and aristocracy of St. Louis swept past them in gorgeous review. Stewart's feelings and bosom swelled. Eventually, in a mighty impulse of glow and glory, he administered a tremendous slap upon the prince's back, exclaiming with intense animation:

"Say, prince, don't you wish you were governor of Missouri?"

England's heir took it all in good part, and laughed, and paid no further attention to the governor's familiarity, otherwise his dignity might have sustained a severe shock.—Harry Norman in the St. Louis Republican.

Sucked the Poison From 15 Wounded Men.

One of the stories of history which is always of interest to the young is that of Queen Eleanor sucking the poison from King Henry's wound after that monarch had been stabbed with a poisoned dagger. The Queen's devotion saved the life of the King, according to the story which the more austere historians look upon as apocryphal. But here is a modern instance which proves that the story [illegible] probably true:

In the recent fighting around L'mu, in Nigeria, in West Africa, a detachment of B[illegible] [illegible] were ambushed by a force of natives, who poured in a shower of po[illegible] arrows upon them. Colonel L[illegible]wry-Cole and Captains Abadie and Bryan, three officers out of the four commanding the detachment, were hit by arrows. The poison which the natives use for their arrows has been known to prove fatal in a few minutes.

Dr. Thompson, the surgeon of the expedition, as soon as the officers were hit, sucked the blood from the wounds and with it the poison. As soon as he had attended to the officers he looked after the men, and found that fifteen had been hit. He gave the same treatment to them. All recovered. The doctor experienced no ill effects from his action.

BIT OF WEDDING CAKE.

"But what shall I do with it?" he asked, helplessly.

She looked up at him and laughed as he stood dangling the square, white box by its satin ribbon.

"There's a certain inanity in treasuring another fellow's wedding cake. Won't you take it—as a gift?"

"Thanks, no," she answered. "I have a sufficient; besides, the charm is broken if you give it away."

"Charm?" he echoed. "What charm has an infinitesimal piece of cake that would not stay the appetite of a mosquito? Silly custom this, anyhow, of——"

"Do you mean to say," she interrupted, solemnly, "that you have attained unto years of discretion and have never tried the charm that lies in a bride's cake?"

"Never!" he averred.

She looked so bewitching in her bridemaid array that he would have sworn to any fact or fallacy whatsoever could he hereby prolong the tete-a-tete. In seeking a spot where perchance that ubiquitous best man might be eluded he had found this curtained corner of the porch.

"Then you must try it before you are a night older," she said, with a pretty air of authority. "Cut a card into seven slips and give me a pencil, and I'll do the rest."

He obeyed with unwonted docility.

"This is merely a short and sure way to find out whom you are to marry," she resumed.

"I know whom I want to marry. I don't need a piece of cake and seven slips of paper to tell me that."

"Whom one wants to marry and whom one marries are not always the same individual!" she replied sententiously.

"O!" was his only audible remark.

"Now," she went on, "I shall write a name on each of these six pieces and leave one blank—for bachelorhood, you know."

"Um!" he assented.

"Then you will place them under your pillow, with the wedding cake, and draw out one each morning; the last one——" with a pause of emphasis.

"I understand," he broke in. "The last shall be first. But I can't think of six names; one is so indelibly written on my heart that——"

"O, I can arrange that!" she interrupted blithely. "You know they must be written by some one else, anyway—some disinterested person."

"O!" humbly.

But as he watched her brows wrinkle in such perplexity he concluded that it was not such a bad thing after all, this idea of tying up wedding cake in boxes, and he became convinced that weddings, on the whole, were not such a bore when he saw the ubiquitous best man peer into the half-light of the veranda and retire precipitately.

"There's one thing I forgot," she was saying; "each slip must be destroyed as it is drawn out, and only the last one read."

"Hump! Strict requirements, these! It would give a fellow some satisfaction, perhaps, to know whom he had escaped."

"O, but the charm won't work unless you do! Promise, now"—imperatively.

And he promised. Then—

"O, I say," he cried, interrupting the writing again. "You'll put your own name down, won't you?"

"Shall I?" she queried doubtfully.

"Well rather." And though the light was dim, she saw something in his eyes that made her add hastily:

"O, well, since it is by request."

On the eighth day thereafter she received the following telegram:

"Your name seventh. Has charm worked?"

And it was not till their honeymoon was at its zenith that she told him—confidentially—that each bit of cardboard had borne the same name, and there had been no blank.—Ex

"A Dish of Tay."

A Gentleman traveling through the mountains of western North Carolina, recently, tells the following story on himself: Having heard that tea was not much used in this part of the country, the traveler provided himself with a pound of his favorite brand, thinking to have a cup prepared at his various stopping places. His first experience, however, was his last—the entire pound of tea being served to him in a vegetable dish, together with a lump of home smoked pork which had been boiled with it.—N. Y. Times.

PETERBOROUGH. JANUARY 17, 1901

A Fine Load.

Mr. J. W. Pearson, the well known horse buyers were in town yesterday and purchased a load of extra fine animals. They are the best lot of horses that have left here for a long time.

Against the Law

A citizen yesterday asked the Times how he was to conform to the town by-law regarding the drip from his roof. He felt that the Council might just as well try to prevent smoke issuing from chimneys of the citizens as enforce this regulation.

The Snow By-Law.

A citizen was yesterday fined $2 and costs for failing to remove the snow from the sidewalk in front of his premises. The police purpose to enforce the by-law, but we fear they will have a contract on their hands that will give them lots of trouble.

Peterborough Navigation Co.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Navigation Company will take place on Wednesday, 24th instant, at the office of Mr. R. E. Wood, secretary of the company, when officers for the year will be elected and other business transacted.

A Warm Tribute.

Mr. Percy Pearson, of the well known firm of W. J. Pearson & Son, horse buyers, of Montreal, was in town yesterday, and gave the Times a call. Mr. Pearson said that the advertising his firm he has been doing for some years in The Times for horses brings splendid results. Many of their best horses are secured in this way. Everybody reads The Times.

Committed for Trial

Cecil Castor, alias Wm. Bethray, was yesterday arraigned before the Police Magistrate, charged with stealing a bicycle on Dec. 10th last from Mr. T. Parker. The prisoner was captured at Ottawa and brought hither by P. C. Adams. He was committed for trial. Chief Roszel received the following message from Ottawa to-day, "Castor's wheel on the way." This evidently refers to the stolen bike.

A High Tea.

The high tea given in the George Street Church on Tuesday night was a decided success, there being over 500 persons present. After the tea a programme was rendered in the church, to the delighted audience, Mr. Kendry ably filling the position of chairman. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. A. McColl, Miss Vina Belleghem, Miss Clara Belleghem, and Mr. Mulligan, all of which were well received. A duet by Miss Butcher and Mr. Widen was a much enjoyed contribution to the programme, as was also a recitation by Miss White. Mr. Walden was the accompanist of the evening. Short, happy speeches were delivered by Rev. W. Wagg and the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson.

Doing Excellent Work

The Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's Church transacted some important business at the meeting held on Tuesday night. The society decided to send a Toronto daily paper to the Nicholls Hospital for the year 1901 for the use of nurses and patients. They also decided to furnish a conveyance for the choir of the church when the weather was such as might interfere with regular attendance at practice. The Guild is issuing an invitation to all the members and adherents of the congregation to a dinner to be served under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary next Thursday night, Jan. 24th, in connection with what they term the new century congregation rally. The election of officers will take place on Tuesday, Feb. 4.

A Coming Event.

The Times again calls attention to the amateur theatricals, to be given by the members of the Golf Club, in the opera house to-morrow evening. An evening of rare amusement and entertainment is assured. In the comedietta, "The Housebreakers," the cast will be filled by Miss Helen Rogers, Miss Archer, and Messrs. Myles Hamilton, G. S. Shannon and F. O. Napier. In the laughable one-act production, "Poor Pillicoddy," the characters will be assumed by Miss Helen Rogers, Miss Archer, Miss Edith Barlee, and Messrs. Hamilton and Napier. Don't miss this evening with local talent. Popular prices prevail, 50 and 35 cents. Plan now open at Ormond & Walsh's.

A PROSPEROUS CONCERN

The Calcutt Brewing & Malting Company Experiencing a Period of Great Growth —The Annual Meeting Held Monday.

The shareholders of the Calcutt Brewing & Malting Co. held their annual meeting on Monday, Jan. 14th. The annual statement shows the affairs of the company to be in a most satisfactory condition.

In consequence of the steadily increasing demand for their celebrated brands of ale, porter and lager the present brewery accommodation is said to be too limited. It was therefore decided by the directors that at an early date the capacity of the brewery should be increased considerably. The malt house also will be enlarged so as to enable the company to manufacture sufficient malt for use in the brewery. Heretofore it was found necessary to purchase annually several carloads of malt from maltsters at a distance.

The enlarging of the malt house will mean an increased demand for barley in this section. Farmers will find a ready market and good prices for that article of farm produce at the brewery, Ashburnham.

The officers of the company are:—
President and Treasurer, Mr. H. Calcutt.
Vice-President, Mr. H. Neill.
Secretary, Mr. James Drain.

In consideration of the faithful discharge of his duties, the directors presented the secretary with a substantial gratuity, and increased his salary by $100 a year.

GOV'T LUNCHES.

Eminent Doctor Ord rs Grape-Nuts

An old physician in Washington, D. C., comments on the general practic government employes have of taking with them for luncheon, buttered rolls and a variety of non-nutrititious articles of food which they bolt down and go on with their work.

Ultimately dyspepsia and gastric troubles ensue, and in all such cases where he has been called in for consultation, the orders have been to abandon all sorts of food for the noonday lunch, except Grape-Nuts, which is a ready-cooked, predigested food and a concentrated form of nourishment.

This is eaten with a little fresh milk or cream which can be secured from the vendors who pass through the buildings during the noon hour. The doctor says: "For many reasons I would prefer not to have my name used publicly. Do not object to your furnishing same to any honest inquirer. I have been prescribing Grape-Nuts in numerous cases for about a year and a half and am pleased to say my patients have reason to be thoroughly satisfied with the results. I am myself a strong believer in Grape-Nuts and shall continue to be so long as the preparation gives the results I have obtained thus far." The doctor's name can be had of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE CENTRAL FAIR

ANNUAL MEETING AND ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The Report of the President Shows the Society to be in Better Shape than it has Been for Some Time.

The annual meeting of the West Riding Agricultural Society took place yesterday in the Council Chamber, when the President read his annual report, as follows:—

To the Officers and Members of the West Riding of Peterborough Agricultural Society:

Gentlemen,—It is with pleasure that your Directors are able to place before you the Annual Statement and Balance Sheet for the year just closed, showing that, on the whole, the operations of your society have been fairly successful. A very considerable balance is carried forward to the credit of the ensuing year and this amount may fairly be devoted to cutting down the liabilities.

Growing out of the year's operations there is opportunity for criticism. While we have gained in some respects have we advanced in the direction in which it is most desirable that we so should do. Has the membership increased? Is there a larger and wider feeling of helpfulness? Has the society had the good wishes and friendly assistance of those most likely to be benefitted? If it has not gained in these things then these be matters for thoughtful consideration. It would seem that there is no reason but that of apathy on the part of the greater number why the society should not be a large and progressive one. Just what to do to awaken interest is hard to determine.

Your Directors have pleasure in recognizing the thoroughly helpful work done by many towards making the fair a success. This success, so far as relates to the attendance, was due to the attractions.

Recognizing this factor it follows that future fairs must be similarly equipped or the attendance may fall off. It is a very good thing to say that the fair should be such a representative and competitive gathering of the best products of the county and that a large attendance should follow. But we are dealing with facts, and the pertinent fact before us is that a desirable attraction increases the attendance. It seems to be what the public want, and as the public is willing to pay why should it not be afforded?

It is probable that Legislation affecting Agricultural Societies will be brought forward at the coming session of the Local House. It would be well to name a committee to take action in event of the interests of the Society requiring that such be done.

Matters relating to the operations of the present year will come before your Directors and will no doubt receive careful attention. Yours respectfully,

F. H. DOBBIN,
Pres. W. R. A. Society.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected:—
F. H. Hunter—President.
John Stothart—1st Vice President.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated last night at the residence of the bride's father, Charlotte street, when Mr. William Harold Snowden, youngest son of William Snowden, Esq., of the Snowden House, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Florence Merrell, eldest daughter of Mr. R. J. Waller, merchant, Charlotte street.

The nuptial knot was tied in the presence of about 30 invited guests, by the Rev. D. O. Crossley, of the Charlotte street church. The bride was assisted by Miss Maggie Coburn, Lindsay, while Mr. [illegible] Waller, brother of the bride [illegible] in a similar capacity for the groom. The bride was charmingly attired in rich, pale blue satin, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid wore a pretty dress of white organdie, and held in her hand a beautiful bouquet of pink roses and smilax. The wedding march was played by Miss Olive Waller, sister of the bride.

The presents to the bride were both numerous and costly, shewing the high regard in which she is held by her many friends.

The dining room was handsomely decorated with bunting, while the drawing room was made beautiful with palms and flowers.

VOL. 27. NO 15 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO FRIDAY JANUARY 18 1901 PRICE TWO CENTS

WILLIAM STEYN WAS MADE A PRISONER

He is Accused by the Boers of High Treason Martial Law Proclaimed in Cape Colony.

Standerton, Jan. 17.

Boer women brought in by the military report that William Steyn, who was appointed a delegate of the fighting Boers to surrender under Lord Kitchener's proclamation, was made a prisoner and sent to Pieterwef, accused of high treason. The Boers are still active round Standerton.

London, Jan. 17.

The "Stop the War" Committee to-day passed the following resolution: An order, which a British officer reports he personally received, reveals the adoption by Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener of a policy having for its aim the extinction of a heroic nationality, by starving the women and children and the massacre of unarmed prisoners. The latter clause alluded to Gen. Kitchener's alleged secret orders to Gen. De Wet's pursuers to take no prisoners. Copies of letters from an unnamed British officer, containing these and other charges will be sent by the Committee to Lord Salisbury, Lord Roberts and others. Boer families and their stock are being systematically brought into convenient centers from all over the country. They are kept in camps and fed with those who surrendered voluntarily, and are supplied with full rations and those whose husbands are still in the field are provided for on a regular scale, which is raised when the husbands surrender, to a full allowance. Every opportunity is offered to the refugees to work for pay and special privileges to prominent burghers who have surrendered are allowed to visit the camps in order to ascertain the facts as to the arrangement.

Cape Town, Jan. 17.

Martial Law has now been proclaimed in every part of Cape Colony except the districts of Cape Town, Sunonstown, Wignderglo, Port Elizabeth and East London. It has been proclaimed in Tombuland, Griqualand East. In East and West Pondoland it has been proclaimed unlawful for any person in the Cape Peninsula, except official and regular and irregular troops to possess arms and ammunition or either.

London, Jan. 17.—There is every indication that the Boers are about to make another attempt on a large scale to throw off the British yoke, and that Lord Kitchener is aware of their intention, and is concentrating a formidable force at Pretoria to defeat them. Botha and De Wet are said to have joined forces north of the Vaal, and it will undoubtedly be under these redoubtable leaders that the next attempt will be made. The attack of General Beyers upon Kaalfontein is now explained, for it was assuredly in pursuance of his design to cross the railway south of Pretoria and proceed to Carolina that he attacked the post there and made his way east. A great gathering of Boers is to take place south of the line of British communication between Pretoria and Delagoa Bay, and in the neighborhood of the places along that line recently so fiercely attacked and so bravely defended. According to Lord Kitchener 3,000 of the enemy are already assembled at Caroline, which is only 30 miles south of Belfast on the railway. What the point of attack is likely to be it is hard to divine, although indications point to the railway at some point south of Lydenburg, though what good any success would be to the Boers is not apparent, seeing that Kitchener is not dependent upon the Delagoa Bay line, and even if captured it would be useless to the enemy. It is possible that the concentration may be connected with some scheme of De Wet to be soon disclosed, or that the Boers contemplate an attack upon Pretoria itself. However, Lord Kitchener is quite capable of taking care of himself. In Cape Colony Lord Kitchener reports the presence of Boers to the south-west of Graaf Reinet, where 300 of them were defeated by a hundred British infantry. The invasion has not yet assumed a serious phase.

BOERS ARE CONCENTRATING.

London, Jan. 17.—Gen. Kitchener, telegraphing from Pretoria, under date of Wednesday, January 16, says the concentration of three thousand Boers at Carolina (Transvaal) is reported.

He adds that Colville's mobile column was engaged near Van Tonde's Hock. The Boers were driven of with heavy loss.

Three hundred Boers entered Aberdeen, fifty miles west, and slightly south of Graaf Reinet, yesterday, looted the stores, and retired on the arrival of a hundred British infantry.

DE WET CROSSES THE VAAL.

London, Jan. 17.—It is stated that General De Wet has crossed the Vaal River, and joined the commandoes in the Transvaal.

This, if true, probably means the concentration of seven thousand Boers, with several guns, for another big attack.

There is a rumor current in Cape Town that several Boer leaders are urging an attack upon the mines.

Koekoemoer, a Boer, who took the oath of neutrality, was to-day found guilty of having arms in his possession, and was sentenced to death.

Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

The Royal is made from the most highly refined and wholesome ingredients, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is cheaper at its price than any similar article.

Samples of mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food, and in many cities their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a corrosive poison, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

DRIGGS AND HIS ADJECTIVES

Hazing and Hazers Denounced in the Most Scathing Terms.

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 17.—At the Congress Committee's investigation of hazing at the Military Academy yesternoon, Cadet A. B. Dockery testified that Cadet Haskell was sick with convulsions after the hazing he received. Mr. Driggs, of Brooklyn asked:—

"Did you think it was cruel?"

"Yes sir."

"Well, young man, for your information, I will tell you that I think it was malicious, base, detestable, disgraceful, dishonorable, disreputable, henious, ignominious, ill-famed, nefarious, odious outrageous, scandalous, shameful, shameless, villainous and wicked," said Mr. Driggs, and his torrent of adjectives almost took away Dockery's breath.

Judge Smith got Dockery to admit that when he found that McArthur was ill he felt anxious on account of his responsibilities for the young fellow's condition.

"Instead of exercising this young man to such a degree, who did you not give him a chance to fight?" asked General Dick.

"He could have fought instead, if he had chosen to do so."

"Was he so notified?"

"Every fourth-class man known that, sir."

"Can you think of anything more cruel than to exercise a man into convulsions?"

No. sir."

"Was there anything soldierly about it?"

No, sir."

AFRAID OF DISMISSAL.

"Then you and the other boys who took part in the hazing of McArthur ewre afraid to report his serious condition, fearing that by so doing so the facts would become known to the authorities, and you would be dismissed from the Military Academy?"

"Yes, sir."

General Dick switched to the methods of calling out fourth-class men and putting them against well-trained upper-class men. He warned the witness against such practices, and scored him heavily for taking part in unmanly methods of practically forcing a new-comer to sure defeat and a sound drubbing at the hands of a picked representative of an upper class.

SPOKEN OF IN THE SENATE.

Washington, Jan. 17.—During the debate on the army re-organization bill in the Senate yesterday, the practice of hazing at West Point was alluded to by Messrs. Allen, Money (Mississippi) and McCumber (North Dakota), who all denounced it as "an evidence of brutality and cowardice," the Mississippi Senator, maintaining that a cadet whom others attempted to haze would be justified in killing his assailants. He declared that if he were a cadet upon whom such cowardly brutality were attempted he would kill those who assaulted him if he had to wait 100 years for the opportunity.

BRITISH WARSHIP REPORTED ASHORE

Cruiser Sybille Employed Against Boers Aground Near Lamhert's Bay.

Cape Town, Jan. 17.—According to reports received here, Great Britain is minus one of the 54 second-class cruisers which help to form the navy. It is stated that the Sybille is ashore near Lambert's Bay, about 140 miles north of Cape Town. At first sight this story may not appear to have a close connection with the invasion of Cape Colony by the Boers, but as a matter of fact the relation is near, and important. The Sybille, which has a crew of 273 officers and men, was sent to Lambert's Bay on January 11th, in order to land men and guns, and construct entrenchments on shore so as to oppose the march of the invaders to the seacoast, as it was feared they might attempt to gain possession of some position on the shore, thus enabling them to cover the landing of supplies and recruits, which their European sympathizers are undoubtedly trying to send them. At that time the Boers were near Clan William, only thirty or forty miles from the coast, which town they have since occupied, according to reports. The incapacity of the Sybille, even if only temporary, will, of course, interfere with the British plans to guard this particular part of the coast, both from within and without, although it is likely that another of the war vessels of the African station gathered in force at Cape Town will be immediately sent to take her place. Meanwhile, the Sybille's crew are safely ashore, and most probably in occupation of their entrenchments. The disabling of their vessel may possibly make it impossible for their position to be covered by guns from the sea, but they will no doubt be able to hold their own if attacked, until supported by a second cruiser. The Sybille is a vessel of 3,400 tons displacement, is 300 feet in length, has 43 feet beam, and a depth of 16 feet 2 inches.

OFFICIAL CONFIRMATION.

London, Jan. 17.—The British Admiralty have received a despatch from the Commander-in-Chief at the Cape reporting that cruiser Sybille, which was landing blue jackets to intercept the Boers was ashore at Stembockfontein, near Lambert's Bay, and adding that active measures were being taken to assist her. The official despatch does not say that the Sybelle was wrecked.

Dear Ladies:

What to you has been for many months the saddest, yet sweetest hour of the day? Surely that when in silence, alone, or in sweet communion with relatives or friends, you have let your thoughts dwell on the dear absent ones in Africa. Your hopes and fears, your prayers and tears have gone forth to them. And was not that the hour of afternoon tea?

Your soldiers' comrades—the British planters—make the delicious GREEN teas of Ceylon and India. This alone should incline you to try these teas. Japans have no such claim on you, and are, besides, of inferior qualities. Monsoon, Salada and Blue Ribbon brands are all good.—Colonist.

A BOER SPY'S STORY

How General Buller Was Led Into a Trap.

Commandant Baron Ginsburg Claims to Have Led Gen. Buller Into the Trap at Spion Kop.

Boston, Mass., January 18.—Commandant Baron H. L. de Ginsberg of Paris, Pretoria and Johannesburg, a Frenchman who claims to be a Boer spy, addressed several hundred members of the United Irish League last evening at the Parker House. The baron is a short man, rugged, with a slight stoop, and wears a Van Dyke beard. He speaks English imperfectly, and it was with some effort that he addressed the gathering last evening. He had on the clothes in which he travelled from Pretoria to Durban and Natal, and back again, and consequently made a picturesque appearance. Mr. Michael P. Curran, editor of the Republic, presided.

The other speaker of the evening was Mr. J. A. L. Carberry, a member of the first commission on Irish fisheries and former governor of the "Fr. Davis Fishing Industrial School" at Baltimore, county Cork. Mr. Carberry pointed out how Ireland's fisheries have been injuriously affected by English legislation.

Commandant Ginsberg said he lived in the Transvaal for eight years and he served all though the war, up to the time he left Africa, as chief of the intelligence department of the South African Republic. He said the Transvaal knew two days in advance of Jameson's celebrated raid. He rehearsed the conditions from his standpoint, leading up to the war. When the war broke out he was commissioned by Gen. Joubert and President Kruger to go to see Gen. Sir George White and Gen. Buller with telegrams which he was to say were stolen from the Boer intelligence office. Ginsberg claims that he performed this mission.

He described in detail his travel over the country to deliver his message, how he passed through frightful rain storms; walked for miles where the railroads were destroyed; was captured by Boer scouts and brought to the commandant's office, and only on the threat of death told his secret to the head Dutch officer; how he was captured by a British scout, and brought to the general's headquarters. He told of his meeting with Sir George White, and of how Sir George White offered him wine, but he refrained, saying water was good enough for him, and he told Sir George that the Boers would probably make the English swim back to England.

He described Gen. Buller as a man with a very deep, harsh voice. Gen. Buller was somewhat skeptical of Ginsberg's telegrams, but Gingberg managed to make the general believe they were genuine. The meeting with Gen. Buller was on December 12, the next day the Spion Kop disaster came; Buller was deceived by the Boer spy. Commandant Ginsberg made his escape from the field on the day of the battle. In Charlestown after his return to Pretoria he found £980 sterling in a bag marked "N. G. R." (Natal General Railway.) This treasure he buried, and says he will find it when he goes back.

He said that at the opening of the war the Dutchmen were somewhat afraid to take the initative, and it required the Irish brigade to break the ice, which they did.

He denounced the English officers and soldiers in the worst English words that he could call to his command without insulting his women hearers. British officers he called blackguards. The English soldiers, he declared, assaulted little Boer girls 10 and 12 years of age. He spoke with considerable feeling on these points, and said that if the English had not treated the Boer women so outrageously the war would have been over long ago. He said if the ladies were absent he would tell horrible stories about the British. He saw these insults to women committed with his own eyes. He reported these outrages to Col. A. W. Morris, commander at Durban, and Col. Morris said. "Such is war."

Baron Ginsberg saw Winston Churchhill escape at Pretoria, and took a snapshot of the young English correspondent, which he exhibited to show that the pretended escape of Churchill was winked at by the Boers.

Resolutions were passed condemning the United States Government allowing the shipment of horses and mules from New Orleans to the British troops in South Africa, saying it was a violation of the neutrality laws.

Two cheques were received: one from P. A Collins for $94.96, and the other P. H. Costello for $43 for the Tenant's Defence Fund. Both these cheques were held many months by the signers, awaiting the unification of the Irish party A committee on orginization was appointed.

RAILWAY NOTES.

—The successor to Mr. E. Tiffin, general freight agent of the C. P. R. has not yet been appointed. Mr. G M Bosworth, the general traffic manager, was in Toronto for a short time yesterday and then went on to Hamilton. The general impression among those interested is that Mr. W B Lanigan will be named and that Mr. Grant, of Hamilton, will succeed Mr. Lanigan as assistant general freighy agent. Mr. Tiffin is in Ottawa consulting with Hon. Mr. Blair of the I. C. R. He will return to Toronto Wednesday to confer with Mr. Bosworth, when it is expected, offical notice of the changes will be made.

The Grand Trunk authorities will officially open their double track between Hamilton and Jordan for general traffic to-morrow.

The test made by the Grand Trunk officials of their bridge over the Don, near Toronto, was considered very satisfactory. With one of the new heavy engines, tender, and two cars of coal, the total weight of which was nearly 300 tons, the officials feel satisfied.

The entertainment which was given Wednesday night in the hall of the Society by St. Peter's T.A.S., was largely attended and the programme was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

THE TIMES LEADS.

This Great Family Journal is Away in Advance.

John Billings says: "I luv a rooster for two things—one iz the crow that is in him, and the other iz the spurs that air on him to bak up his krow with."

The Times has become a popular paper, not only amongst the people of the town and Ashburnham, but also amongst the residents of the surrounding towns and villages.

Mr. Geo. B. Hilliard, of Lakefield, says the Times is regarded in Lakefield as the brightest paper that comes to that burg, and is read by very many in the village.

Wm. O'Brien, the genial clerk of Douro, who has long been a subscriber to the daily edition, says that the Times is the popular paper in that township, 75 per cent of the people being readers. He hopes that it may be long keep up its onward pace.

Mr. Wm. Gallon, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, states that the whole back country reads the Times, and regard the paper as one of the very best. He says that it is always full of good things.

Mr. P. P. Young, Young's Point, says everybody reads the Times in that locality it is admirably conducted.

Mr. James Stevenson, ex-M.P., says the Times is the brightest and best newspaper published in Peterborough.

Commodore Calcutt says he would sooner miss his breakfast than miss getting the Times. It is a famous appetizer, only equalled by Calcutt's celebrated ale.

Mr. J. B Thornton, Omemee, says the Times is very popular in that village, and is widely read.

Rev. Mr. Bastow thinks the Times deserves great credit for its progressive spirit. It is up-to-date, giving all the news up to four o'clock in the morning.

Recently Mr. Sage and another, of North Smith, brought us in a couple of clubs for the Weekly Times of 80 names. Here are 80 names from one section of Smith alone, that are constant readers of the Times.

Mr. Harry Garbutt, Reeve of Smith, says that the Times is the popular paper in his locality.

Mr. James Baptie, Springville, gives similar evidence, and says you can hardly go into a house in his locality that the Times is not present.

Mr. Pearson, the great horse buyer, of Montreal, told the Times the other day that he has better results from the advertisement in the Times than from any other paper. He says he finds the Times is read by almost everybody in the district. He knows this, for almost every horse he buys is the product of the Times advertisement.

Mr. T. Donaldson, Cavan, member of the Counties' council of Northumberland and Durham, says that the Times is very popular in Cavan.

Mr. James Chambers, Manvers, bears similar testimony in regard to Manvers township

David Healy says that in Asphodel, Hastings and Norwood everybody literally reads the Times.

Dr Bingham, the popular city Medical Health Officer, missed his Times the other morning, and came to the office for a copy. He said that he was not feeling well, and wondered what was the matter, until he remembered he had not had his Times.

The above are a few of the many evidences we have in our possession of the high regard in which this great family journal is held by the people. Merchants and other advertisers should remember that hundreds upon hundreds of families throughout the town and country cannot be reached by any other way except through the Times.

Congregational Social

The congregational social in St. Paul's Church last night was largely attended, and was a decided success. Refreshments were served between 7 and 8, after which a very pleasant evening was spent in social enjoyment. A choice programme of vocal and instrumental music was also provided.

HON. SIR FRANK SMITH IS DEAD

A Prominent Canadian Passed Away at Toronto --Builder of the C. P. R.

Toronto, Jan. 17.—After a painful illness extending over a period of two years, the Hon. Sir Frank Smith departed this life peacefully at a few minutes after noon to-day. His death has been momentarily expected since Friday night, and since then the family have been constantly at his bed side. This morning Sir Frank took an alarming turn for the worse and sank rapidly.

There were present at the death bed: James Austin Smith, son of the deceased; Mrs. John Foy and Mrs. Bruce Macdonald, daughters; and Mr. John Foy and Mr. Bruce Macdonald, sons-in-law. Rev. Father Brennan administered the extreme unction of the Catholic Church. Dr. Burritt, who has attended Sir Frank during his long illness, has spent the last two days constantly at the bed side.

Sir Frank Smith's illness began with rheumatism, which affected his stomach and had kept him confined to his bed almost continous for the past eighteen months.

HUMAN VOICE MAY GIRDLE THE GLOBE

Great Future Predicted for the Invention of Prof. Pupin.

New York, Jan. 17.—Ocean telephoning is not only feasible, according to electrical engineers who have studied the discovery of Professor M. I. Pupin of Columbia University, but the prediction is made that within the lifetime of the present generation the sound of the human voice may be made to encircle the globe. Officials of the American Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company maintain profound secrecy as to the invention and the experiments which they have been conducting, but admit the purchase of Dr. Pupin's patents.

The price paid is said to be between $400.000 and $500.000 in cash, and an annual royalty of $15,000 during the life of the patents, which is seventeen years. This would aggregate nearly three-quarters of a million dollars, and is probably the largest sum ever paid for any invention.

"In my estimation the invention of Dr. Pupin is the greatest since that of the telephone," said Stephen L. Coles, managing editor of the Electrical Review, who has been watching the development of Professor Pupin's work for five years, and is familiar with the theory and its application to commercial uses.

"Dr. Pupin is one of the foremost scientists in the United States," Mr. Coles said. "His experiments have been through, and he has demonstrated beyond a shadow of a doubt that telephoning any distance over land or under water is practicable. At present we can talk, say, one thousand miles over specially constructed land lines, and short distances under water.

"It was considered a great achievement when we first talked with Chicago, but with Professor Pupin's system of indication coils at regular intervals along the line it will be possible to talk with San Francisco or to telegraph the same distance withoug relays. We now talk under the Hudson River, but telephone cable messages are limited to short distances. By using Dr. Pupin's system a telephone cable to Europe or any distance becomes practicable.

"It is difficult to summarize his invention so that it can be grasped by the lay mind, but it consists in taking the elements of impedance in an ordinary telephone or telegraph line and balancing them against each other so that their effect is neutrailized and a clear passage is left for the transmission of electrical waves.

"In all probability the first use of the new sustem will be on long distance land wires.

At the offices of the Commerical Cable Telegraph Company and the Western Union Telegraph Company officials expressed great interest in Dr Pupin's invention, but declined to discuss its feasibility, on the ground that the details that have been made public are not clear. They say that many difficulties must be overcome before a cable to Europe was induction coils, as described in Professor Pupin's patents, can be used. The cost of an ordinary telegraph cable to Europe is said to be from $3.000.000 upward, and the proposed telephone cable would cost much more. The increased weight and the difficulty of lifting the cable to inspect a portion of it or to made repairs to an induction coil are matters that, together with the great cost, may cause capitalists to hesitate before advancing funds for construction.

An Important Suit

The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, have won a signal victory in their case against the influential department house, T. Eaton & Co., Toronto, which will be of interest to merchants everywhere. The charge which was laid against the department store about two years ago by the Association, for selling "cheap silverware, and representing it as a "quadruple plate," and which has been fully described in these columns, has been gradually travelling step by step through the various law courts of the Dominion—first the Police Court, then the Court of General Sessions, then the High Court of Justice, and finally the Supreme Court of Canada, the Highest Court in the Dominion. In every one of these courts the Eaton Co. was found guilty and sentence was passed upon them on Dec. 31. They were fined $50 and costs, which are estimated to be between $3,000 and $4,000.

From the Veldt

Another South African volunteer returned to town yesterday morning, in the person of Gunner Reynolds, of Montreal, formerly of Peterborough, who is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs J. H. McClellan, Gilmour street. He is receiving a hearty welcome from all his old friends.

Body in a Trunk.

New York, Jan. 17.—The body of Michael Weisberger, covered with blood, was found in a green trunk in the East River yesterday afternoon. Weisberger, who was a married man with a large family, left his employment at nine o'clock and was seen alive at noon. He had $200 worth of jewellery on him and it is believed that he was robbed and murdered.

Money Lender's Millions

London, Jan. 17.—Samuel Lewis, the Jewish money lender, left an estate computed at £4,000,000. With the exception of £500,000, divided among relatives, the widow gets everything. Lewis willed that his widow give in her name £400,000 to provide dwellings for poor persons of all creeds, £250,000 to the Princess of Wales' Hospital fund, £100,000 to the Jewish Board of Guardians, and £200,000 to various hospitals.

U. S. COMPETITION FEARED

Lord Rosebery Thinks the Big Republic is Developing More Rapidly than Great Britain in Trade Matters

London, Jan. 17.—At a meeting of the Wolverhampton Chamber of Commerce yesterday, former Prime Minister Rosebery made a speech in which he dealt in a most serious strain with the industrial and commercial competition by which Great Britain was faced. He declared that the future was dark and gloomy. It was difficult, even unwise, to try to prophesy what it might have in store. The war, he feared, was not military. It was that great war of trade which was inevitable coming, and which, so far as he could see, would be one of the greatest and most serious that Great Britain ever had to cope with. While not putting other nations out of the category, it was from the United States and Germany that the British

HAD THE MOST TO FEAR.

America, with its almost incalculable resources and enterprising spirit of its people, was the most formidable of all competitors. The Germans, although somewhat slow and unwieldy, were scarcely inferior rivals, owing to their silent and presistant methods and unconquerable spirit.

Lord Rosebery remarked upon one striking feature of the American competitor, namely, that the great individual fortunes being made in the United States were not employed as they probably would be in England, to enable their makers to retire an enjoy social and other pleasures, but were invested in great trusts and syndicates, to form power for concentrating attacks on British trade. Those millions, so invested, could be welded as in such irresistible form as to constitute a danger which the British could not afford to ignore. If one or two of the trusts combined for the purpose of completing with any branch of British trade by underselling, they might obtain such a monopoly in that branch as almost to drive Great Britain out of the market.

After a further reference to Germany Lord Rosebery asked what Great Britain was going to do to avoid defeat. He, as a layman, hesitated to attempt to answer, but, if he did attempt to reply, he should say that the remedy lay in education. He believed that the British people were the

in the world, but he was convinced that their commerical men required to be educated and trained scientifically from bottom to top. Their training, as it was was both insufficient and too insular. For instance, they did not send their young men abroad, as others did, to learn methods of business and manufacture. He suggested that the Chamber of Commerce should consider the question of devoting a certain sum annually for travelling scholarships, which he was inclined to believe would yield fruit a hundred-fold.

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 18, 1901

THE CENTURY'S EMIGRATION.

During the 19th century 30,000,000 people emigrated from Europe, that is, a population equal to three-fourths of the present population of Great Britain and Ireland. This emigration is one of the salient features of the 19th century, and, to find its parallel, one must go back to the days when the Aryan race moved westward from its old home or when the Goths and Franks took possession of the Roman provinces. The emigration of the century which has closed was, however, a movement not of war, but of peace, and directly and indirectly it has left a deep impress upon both the old and the new world. Of these 30,000,000, Great Britain and Ireland furnished 10,500,000; Germany, 6,000,000; Italy, 3,750,000; Austria, 1,100,000; Norway and Sweden, 1,200,000. The balance is made up from different countries, Spain and Switzerland each sending out about 800,000, and Russia 500,000. France is credited with 1,750,000, a small quota compared with that of Britain, Germany or Italy. And this is a remarkable thing, that, notwithstanding their large emigration, the three latter countries should have grown so rapidly in population, while France with a small emigration, should have grown so slowly. Of these 30,000,000 more than half went to the United States; while British North America absorbed 2,000,000; Brazil 1,000,000; and the Argentine Republic about 2,000,000. Speaking of this, it is to be remembered that the Argentine Republic has with the exception of the United States a larger percentage of foreign-born population than any other country, the Argentine percentage being 24, and the American 30. To Australasia have gone from England about 2,000,000, while a considerable part of the remaining 2,500,000 are of foreign birth. It is a great problem, that of the emigration of population, and the influence of the movement upon national life. The Americans are beginning to feel its force in connection with the large influx from Southern Europe. It is quite possible, however, that the emigration from Europe will not be so large in the future as it has been in the past. Economic conditions are being equalized throughout the world, and the tendency now in the United States is rather from the west to the east than from the east to the west. The decreasing birth-rate also will render emigration less necessary as the years go by.

TESLA AND THE MARTIANS.

Mr. Tesla, if he has not already opened correspondence with the inhabitants of Mars has received communications from them and expects before long to establish an interchange of intelligence with those enterprising people. It has been suspected for some time that the Martians were sending messages to the earth, but until now no one has been able to catch them. The Martians, it is surmised, are more advanced than we in twentieth century science and our clumsy apparatus did not respond to the etherial waves which they set in motion.

Naturally it is Mr. Tesla who has first among us attained the Martian development. He has recently invented a method for the transmission of power through the atmosphere without mechanical aids, and has gone to Colorado to perfect it. It is well known that there is a great deal of energy lying around loose, in the sun, the earth and other planets. Tesla is going to gather this up and deliver it wherever needed, thus dispensing with all our present cumbersome machinery. The apparatus designed for this purpose is necessarily very sensitive, and the other day, as Tesla was experimenting, he found that it was responding to other than terrestrial influences. It was in short, receiving signals, and while he has not yet had time to work out the code, he has no doubt that these signals were sent from Mars, and that he will eventually decipher them and be able to return them.

Mr. Tesla is thus on the very eve of a discovery even more remarkable than the many others on whose eve he has been so often and so long. It may be asserted confidently that if any one on earth can understand the language of Mars it is Tesla, and conversley, that if any one can understand Tesla, it must be an inhabitant of Mars. And this is only the beginning of the twentieth century.

New South Wales is going to try the scheme of old age pensions. The new bill provides that any person of good character over the age of 65, who has continuously resided for twenty-five years in the colony, shall receive a pension of £26 per annum, except where husband and wife are both entitled to a pension, in which case they will receive £19 10s per annum. The pension is diminished by £1 for every £1 of income possessed by the pensioners. The act will be administered by district boards appointed by the governor.

The Marriage Problem

"How to be happy though married," has been entirely solved to the satisfaction of hundreds of thousands of women. There can be no happiness without health. The general health of woman is dependent on the local health of the delicate womanly organs. When there are debilitating drains, or inflammation, ulceration or female weakness, happiness in marriage is practically impossible. A host of happy wives testify that the secret of happiness in marriage is found in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It dries the drains, heals ulceration and inflammation and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Mrs. Anna Willy, (Michigan House), Northville, Spink Co., S. Dak., writes: "I am enjoying good health, thanks to your kind advice and valuable remedies. I suffered very much with female weakness and other ailments for more than two years, when I wrote to you for advice. After carefully following your advice and taking six bottles each of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' I am now a well and happy women."

Women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LO AND HIS BUFFALO HORNS.

How the Red Man Utilizes a Product of the Slaughter House.

The Montana Indian is something of a schemer himself. He comes to town and sometimes walks all over the place without saying a word to any one. Sometimes he brings in a few sets of polished mounted cow's horns, which he sells for a dollar or two a set. He never frequents saloons. He looks into clothing store windows, but never bucks the slot machines in cigar stores. He frowns as he passes a restaurant, but smiles while walking through the sweetscented alleys back of cheap boarding houses.

In a horse trade he takes the prize, if there's one to be taken, for he was never known to get the worst of such a bargain. The reason of this, however, may lie in the fact that he begins the negotiations with nothing to lose and everything to win. However, he has the reputation of a schemer.

Where his schemes shine brightest is in the scale of polished "buffalo" horns. He lives out near one of the slaughter houses on the south side, and there he secures his "buffalo" horns, all sizes, curves and consistencies. He picks out a set of ox horns of symmetrical proportions, scrapes the scales off and boils the horns in a solution of glycerine, wood ashes and water. This treatment softens the horns, so hat a case-knife will easily remove all the exterior accumulation. Then fine sandpaper is used to give the first polish, followed by a thorough rubbing with a flannel cloth slightly saturated with oil. A varnish or shellac is then applied, and the horns are in condition for mounting. Then the work is turned over to the squaw, who does the really artistic work. Red flannel and braid, beads sometimes, and a strip here and there of buckskin, a few brass-headed tacks and the mounted "buffalo" horns are ready for the market.

Mr. Buck comes to town and the tenderfoot asks him where he "ketchem buffalo horns."

"In Yellowstone Park," grunts the big buck.

"How much?" asks the intending purchaser.

"Two dolls."

"Too muchee."

"No, no; cheap; thue dolls, ugh."

The tenderfoot inspects the work and satisfies himself that they are really the horns of an almost extinct specie of the majestic Western animal, and he hands over the coin and walks away proudly with his prize.

The Indian moves off down the street, turns the first corner and disappears up an alley.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. Those are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00. Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 68 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. M. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Callyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. [illegible] is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 508 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

RETIRED.

The strong tide breaks upon the narrow pier,
The ships go by; and one who knew them well
Sits at the close of day, and sits alone

Captain no more! But he remembers yet
The little town in dear old Maryland
Where first he learned by star and wind and tide
The track of the ocean, and the way of war,
Upon the wave that smote his native land.

Now all is done: a warship rides the bay,
With shining hull and blackened funnels high,
And his old heart leaps at its prisoned side,
For that his boy is there! He minds the time
When little arms were twined upon his neck,
And ears bent low to hear the thrilling tale
Of ships that fought in battles long ago.

He thinks of her who stood beside him then
With shining eyes—the light-house of his heart—
And outward passed, like to a little sail,
That, rocking in the mist, returns no more.

So comes the dusk; he hears the booming gun,
He sees the lowered flag, the night-lamps set;
And watching on the pier he falls asleep,
And dreams of golden anchors far away.

—John J. Meehan, in Leslie's Weekly

MY DOUBLE DILEMMA.

Thoroughly tired of the pier, the esplanade, and the tennis-court, one afternoon, during my stay at the seaside, I took a solitary ramble round the coast.

With the tall cliffs on one side of me and a vast expanse of ocean on the other, I made my way over sand and shingle, careless of everything save the appearance of my immaculate flannel trousers, until the town of Brinybay was hidden by a chalk promontory, and I found myself alone, or apparently alone, with Nature.

As, however, I approached an irregular mass of rock lying together at the foot of the cliff, a scarlet object appearing above them attracted my attention, and, on nearing the spot, I discovered it was a parasol shading one of the most bewitching girls I had ever beheld in my life—and I have seen a good many.

Comfortably seated on a mossy boulder and deep in the perusal of a yellow-backed volume, she was becomingly attired in a dress of pale pink, and as I passed her I fancied she peeped at me from beneath her shady straw hat; but young men always think that girls notice them, especially when like myself, they are Oxford undergraduates with their college arms emblazoned on the breast of their blue serge jackets.

I had not left this siren very far behind when my progress was suddenly brought to a stop by the sea, which had covered the beach and was lashing the base of the cliff. I at once realised the unpleasant fact that the tide was flowing, and that if I did not speedily retrace my steps, my return to Brinybay would be prevented in the same manner as my advance.

Hastening back, and passing the maiden in pink, who was reading as unconcernedly as ever, I again found my path barred by a sheet of water several yards in width. I was completely shut off from the mainland.

To scale the cliff was utterly impossible, and although I might have resumed my homeward course after wading through the water, I could not have deserted the fair girl near me, who was evidently unconscious of her critical situation. The waves were rapidly advancing towards the rocks among which she was seated, and the seaweed clinging to them told me that at high water they were totally submerged.

Approaching the parasol, I coughed.

"Excuse me," I said, "but the tide is coming in very fast, and, I am afraid, will soon be up here."

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed, blushing, and hurriedly looking around her. "Oh, dear, how very stupid of me not to notice it; whatever shall I do?"

"The only possible way of getting back," I remarked, as she slowly closed her book and left her seat, "is across this piece of water, but it is rather deep."

In silence she followed me to the spot, and after gazing upon the fast-widening barrier, looked up at me and smiled.

"I think I know how we can overcome the difficulty," I said, "but I hope you won't be offended at my suggestion."

"Oh, no, no," she exclaimed, with a little laugh; "anything as long as I can get out of this horrid fix."

"Then, I believe I could manage to carry you across if you wouldn't object," I said, after some hesitation.

Another smile illumined her fair countenance, and she replied in tones of the deepest sincerity—

"Oh, thank you, thank you; I should feel so grateful if you would, so very much obliged."

Throwing off my shoes and socks, and tucking up my immaculate ones, I put the yellow-covered book into one of my capacious pockets, deposited my stick with the scarlet parasol on the beach and gently lifting its fair owner in my arms, in another moment had waded the water and deposited her on terra firma.

She returned with me to Brinybay. Her thanks were overwhelming, and ere long we were chatting together like a couple of old friends.

A proposal I made for taking her mother for a sail in my yacht pleased her more than ever, and when I parted with her near the pier—though ignorant of her name and connection—I thought she was the most charming girl I had met with for a long time.

On arriving at my apartments I found that the yellow-covered volume which she had entrusted to my care was still in my pocket. I opened it and found on the title-page the following: "Bessie Cragg, Sea View Villa, Brinybay."

Not displeased at my discovery, I penned a polite little note to "Miss Cragg"—who was evidently the bewitching possessor of the scarlet parasol—in which, after briefly referring to her book, I had the boldness to fix a day for the proposed yatching expedition.

Neatly enclosing the epistle with the volume, I left the parcel that evening at Sea View Villa.

Next morning I was told that a gentleman desired to speak to me in private. I ordered my landlady to show the visitor in, and forthwith a black-looking man, of middle age, entered my parlor.

"Mr. Lyon, I presume?" he began, eyeing me unpleasantly.

"I am Mr. Lyon; what is it?" I said, annoyed at the stranger's manner.

"What is it?" he sneered; "what is it, indeed young man! What do you mean by sending my wife such stuff as this, and by asking her to accompany you in a yacht, etc., you impertinent fellow?" and he threw my little note to Bessie Cragg on to the table.

"Your wife?" I exclaimed in confusion, "your wife, sir? I think you are in error; I think that you have made a mistake, sir."

"Mistake!" cried the stranger fiercely; "mistake—fiddlesticks. I am Mr. Joseph Cragg, young man, and if ever I catch you insulting my wife with another such billet doux it's ten to one you won't have a chance of repeating the offense!"

With this terrible threat, my visitor left the house.

I threw myself into a chair and groaned aloud—a pretty ending, forsooth, to the romantic incident of the preceding day.

During the next week I had little bliss; it made me miserable to think that fair and frolicsome Bessie was bound for life to such a wolfish monster as Joseph Cragg.

On reflection, I wondered why she hadn't informed her husband of her adventure by the seaside (for I presumed he was unaware of it,) and why, when she was with me, she had appeared so eager to accept my invitation.

I met Mrs. Cragg several times alone in the town and on the pier, but always passed her without any token of recognition. On one occasion I fancied she smiled faintly at me, but taking no notice of her familiarity, I thought, for a married person, that her behaviour was extremely improper.

Just a week after my eventful ramble round the coast, while strolling listlessly on the esplande, I was surprised on being accosted by a pleasant-looking old lady who, grasping my hand, exclaimed—

"Are you the gentleman that saved my dear little Marie from being drowned when almost caught by the tide some days ago?"

I was absolutely bewildered, nor was it until I was seated in the gushing old lady's drawing-room conversing with her and her fair grand-daughter Marie—the identical possessor of the scarlet parasol—that an explanation of the whole affair took place.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cragg was a friend of Marie's and had lent her the yellow-backed volume which, on being returned to its original owner, had fallen into the hands of Mr. Cragg.

Without showing either the book or the note to his wife, this gentleman had opened the letter with the above recorded unpleasant result.

It may interest the reader to know that Marie and I took our yachting trip as proposed, and thoroughly enjoyed it, too; but beyond the information contained in the appending newspaper cutting, I cannot furnish further particulars of the consequences of my eventful ramble when, although I eluded the clutches of Neptune, I fell a victim to the snares of Cupid.

Lyon—Brading.—August 4, at St. Old's, Brinybay, by the Rector, the Rev. P. Prosy, M. A., Charles Lyon, eldest son of John Lyon, Esq., of Harrowfield, Hants, to Maria, daughter of Colonel John Brading, Royal Slashers.

How to Read the Tongue.

The perfect tongue is clean, moist, lies loosely in the mouth, is round at the edge and has no prominent papilae.

The tongue may be furred from local cause or from sympathy with the stomach, intestines or liver.

The dry tongue occurs most frequently in fever and indicates a nervous prostration or depression.

A white tongue is diagnostic simply of the feverish condition, with perhaps a sour stomach. When it is moist and yellowish brown it shows disordered digestion. Dry and brown indicates a low state of the system, possibly typhoid.

When the tongue is dry and red and smooth, look out for inflammation, gastic or intestinal.

When the papilae on the end of the tongue are raised and very red it is called a strawberry tongue, and that means scarlet fever.

Sharp pointed red tongue will hint of brain irritation or inflammation, and a yellow coating indicates liver derangement.

The world contains an oversupply of average man.

The gold handled by dentists always at a premium.

Keep Yourself Strong.

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY

LOCATION OF OUR MINES

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY is fortunate in being the possessor of five splendid showing properties in the great Salida copper belt, the principal copper producing region of this portion of the rockies. All of our claims have been more or less developed and it is our purpose to put the same on a paying basis at once.

Our Company owns, clear of incumbrances the following claims.—The Sedalia Extension, the Sedalia Extension No. 2, which property adjoins the great Sedalia mine, which has been a big producer for upwards of seventeen years; the Copper King of Colorado, which immediately adjoins the above; the Copper Queen of Salida, a very promising property, only a few steps from the depot in Salida. This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 18, 1901

—There was a young lady from Spain,
Who sought a position in vain.
She was downcast and sad
Till she tried a TIMES Ad.
Then she ne'er was unhappy again.

Town Solicitor Wanted.

We are prepared to pay a good salary to a good man to act as city solicitor for the Times. Steady employment to a good man.

To-night's Event.

Peterborough's social world is in a state of excitement. The cause is the annual play to be presented by "the society tarts" of the Golf Club. That wealthy organization will no doubt see it through. The actors and actresses may be trusted to make the worst out of the works in hand, viz., two farces. The reserved seats are going off well, and everything points to an evening of enjoyment. There is no likelihood of their being in "the hole."

To Restock the Lakes.

District Passenger Agent Dickson of the Grand Trunk Railway and Mr. William Charlton of Montreal had an interview with Mr. Bastedo, Fishery Commissioner, a few days ago. The railways want to co-operate with the Government in restocking the inland lakes with game fish. Letters have been received from the Canada Atlantic, and the Canadian Pacific Railways on similar lines. An effort should be made to restock Stony Lake and Otonabee River, from Lakefield down to Rice Lake, with bass and maskinonge.

A Very Mild Form.

There are several cases of diphtheria in town, but fortunately it is of a very mild form, and the patients are, we understand, doing well. The cases of scarlet fever are also of a very mild type, the patients in many cases not taking to their beds. In Toronto there were 96 cases of diphtheria reported yesterday. A prominent physician told the Times that the outbreak will continue until we have clear, cold weather, with enough snow to keep down the germs.

Close Watch on Passes.

According to the statements of several railroad men, close watch is being kept upon how the pass agreement is being observed by the different railroads. It has been subjected to a severe test, but so far no instances of a disregard of it have been discovered. So strictly is it being enforced that a number of officials and employees, unable to secure applications from their general offices for transportation, are paying their fares. The new law reads regarding passes that no official or employee will receive such unless the application is signed by their general manager or president.

Spit Carriers.

There is considerable feeling amongst the ladies of Peterborough as well as other towns and cities in regard to the filthy habit of spitting on the sidewalks, by which disease germs are spread broadcast. Women can show in two ways the sincerity of their endeavors to stop this abominable practice of expectoration on the sidewalks. One way is to publicly agitate in favor of this reform. Another way is to cut off a foot or two of their trailing skirts. This great family journal is of opinion that in the matter of spreading disease germs, the woman who wears a trailing skirt is an ally of the man who spits.

Cost Him $15.

Mr Arthur W. Bolyea, of Belleville, representing the Great Eastern Lyceum Bureau, is in town in the interests of the People's Popular Course. Mr. Bolyea was a member of the first contingent to South Africa, and returned last fall with the 500 that came over together. Mr. Bolyea was the soldier who was arrested for "overhauling" a chicken, when out foraging, and when he and his comrades were suffering from hunger. It will be remembered that this incident created a good deal of feeling at the time. Mr. Bolyea says it cost him $15, and he didn't get the chicken, either. Mr. Bolyea was accompanied by Mr. Brown, of Belleville, who is also interested in the People's Popular Course, and who is well and favorably known to many in town.

NORTH MONAGHAN

The council elect met in the Town Hall on Monday, January 14th, at 1.30 p.m. There were present Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, the Reeve, and Councillors Madill, Smith, Dobbin and May.

After each had made and subscribed the Statutory Declaration of Qualifications and of office, the Reeve, Mr. Bradburn took the chair, and in a few well chosen remarks congratulated the members upon their selection by the rate payers to manage the affairs of the township for the year and welcoming Mr. I. Smith as a new member opened the first session of the municipal council in the century. Mr. Bradburn referred to the mutual good fellowship displayed by the members of the council during the year he had been connected with it, and hoped to see this continue throughout the year 1901. He asked for a full and free discussion of public matters and urged economy in public expenditures, if such was the case and with their support he would endeavour to reduce the taxation of the municipality and would always keep in view efficient service and a good condition and maintenance of the public highways and bridges &c., under municipal control.

The minutes of the meeting of Dec. 14th, 15th, and 22nd, 1900 were then read and confirmed.

Communications were presented and read from, D. H. Price, Secretary Ontario Beet Sugar Association; I. I. Kehoe, offering for sale a municipal guide; Peterborough Review Printing Company, regarding the municipal printing for the year; John Ross Robertson, Chairman of the Sick Childrens Hospital, Toronto; Municipal World, seeking subscriptions for 1901, and F. In Committee of the Whole Council on the second reading of those bylaws, the following appointments were made,—Auditors—Messrs. Yelland and Arnott. Assessor—Mr. W. Whitefield; Caretaker—T. R. Sanderson. Member of the Board of Health—John McLure.

The Clerk was instructed to subscribe for the Municipal World for the year.

The ex-Reeve, Mr. T. M. The Council then adjourned until called to meet by the Reeve.

Dear Sirs,—In accordance with your wishes I have had both the red and white wines and the champagne tested by several connoisseurs, French and English. All of these expressed surprise that an article of such merit was produced in Canada, and even manufacturers admit that the brand "L'Empereur" is of excellent quality.

This opinion from critics who are by no means easy to please should be very satisfactory to you, and it gives me pleasure to congratulate you upon it. Yours faithfully,

GENERAL KITCHENER'S FINAL EFFORT

He is Collecting His Strength to Crush or Capture the Commondoes.

London, Jan. 18.—British offensive operations have ceased for the present. It is supposed that Lord Kitchener is collecting his strength for a final effort to crush or to capture the commandoes by a repetition of the tactics which caused the surrender of General Cronje and Gen. Prinzloo. It is alleged that the Boers who are concentrating at Warola and Ermelo are preparing to descend into Natal.

60 MILES FROM CAPE TOWN.

Mr. Bennett Burleigh, who has returned to Cape Town, sends to The Daily Telegraph an enigmatical despatch, saying:

"All our soldiers, whether from Orange River Colony or the Transvaal, look the picture of health, and it is hoped that the end is steadily coming nearer. The few recent successes of the Boers are annoying. Twenty thousand reinforcements have arrived, and they are very welcome in Cape Colony, where the Dutch decline to rise. The raiders are 60 miles north of the town, and are being pressed by our troops." This presumably means that Lord Kitchener has sent 20,000 men into Cape Colony.

COMMANDOES COMING SOUTH.

The Boer commandoes are extremely active on the northeast border of Cape Colony. Under Kritzinger, a Boer descended from German parentage, aged 28, a daring and energetic commando is said to be coming south through Griqualand. Another commando has just visited the farm of a British subject in Middleburg and seized food and storage.

LORD METHUEN'S COLUMNS.

Lord Methuen's column has left Vryburg and commenced operations in the Southwestern Transvaal. It is understood that the operations of this column will be extended to the southeastern part of Bechuanaland. Vryburg is strongly defended by redoubts and wire entanglements.

LORD ROBERTS' APPEAL.

London, Friday, Jan. 18.—Lord Roberts has issued from the War Office a stirring appeal to the country for a prompt response to the call for 5,000 Yeomanry.

JUMPED OCERBOARD

It is reported that twnety Boer prisoners on the transport Catalonia jumped overboard as the vessel was entering Colombo harbor at night. The guard fired on them, but with what result is not known. It is believed that the fugitives took refuge on a Russian vessel and escaped.

COCKBURN AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Lieut. H. Z. C. Cockburn, of the Canadian Mounted Rifles, reached Southampton on the steamer Galeka, from Cape Town, yesterday. He is in splendid health. Capt. Weeks, who was with the first Canadian contingent, but who remained in Africa on special service, was also on board. He is in good health.

RETURNING TO CANADA.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—Lieut. Ecclestone has reported to the Postoffice Department that he and Mr. Murry of Woodstock, of the Canadian postal corps, will return to Canada with the Strathconas.

KRUGER HAS MADE NO DECISION.

Brussels, Jan. 18.—Mr. Eloff, Mr. Kruger's private secretary, denies the report which has been in circulation for some days past that Mr Kruger has decided to visit the United States.

KITCHENER CONCENTRATES.

A despatch from Pretoria reveals that General Kitchener is making a big concentration of troops there, and other correspondents report their conviction that the Boers are gathering strongly in the Bethel and Emelo districts. The report that General De Wet is marching north is doubtless connected with this movement. All the reports concur in stating that Gen. Kitchener's efforts in the direction of securing peace has fallen absolutely flat, notwithstanding the extraordinary endeavors to ensure his offer reaching the individual Boers as well as the leaders. While the work of the burgher Peace Committee is regarded as doomed to failure, the Boers are showing less disposition to surrender than ever.

BOER FAMILIES FED

Boer families and their stock are being systematically brought into convenient centres from all over the country. They are kept in camps and fed with those who surrender voluntarily and are supplied with full rations, and those whose husbands are still in the field are provided for on a reduced scale which is raised when the husbands surrender to a full allowance.

PEACE ENVOY ARRESTED.

Boer woman brought into Standerton by the military report that William Steyn, who was appointed a delegate of the Boers there to ask the fighting Boers to surrender under Lord Kitchener's prochamation, was made a prisoner and sent to Pietrewief, accused of high treason. The Boers are still active around Standerton.

BOERS STILL ADVANCING.

In the Cape Colony the loyalists are reported to be still enthusiastically arming, and the Dutch are said to be withholding from active participation in the invasion. The Boer eastern commando, however, is still advancing. It has occupied Aberdeen, forty miles south of Graaf Reinet, and 145 miles from Port Elizabeth.

Killed the Man who Kissed Her

New York, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Rosa Lang of 372 East Tenth street was held for the coroner yesterday in the Essex Market police court on a charge of homicide. On New Year's eve she attended a celebration in a saloon in East Tenth street and there met Florence Melchar of 520 Sixth street. He is alleged to have amused himself by kissing the women present. Mrs. Lang resented being embraced and in struggling with him cut him slightly on the arm with a bread knife. Blood poisoning set in and he died on Tuesday in Bellevue hospital.

The Revival Had Charms.

Hiawatha, Kansas, Jan. 18.—City Councillors who prefer the attractions of a church meeting to the attractions of a council meeting and who repel the earnest solicitations of the sheriff to leave spiritual affairs to attend to temporal matters are indeed a raity. But the exception proves the rule. Because a majority of the Hiawatha city councilmen refused to leave a revival meeting and attend the regular weekly council meeting Mayor S. Hunter has tendered his resignation. Unable to secure a quorum to transact business Mayor Hunter sent a sheriff to the revival to compel the councilmen to present themselves at the city hall. A majority sent word that they "had to attend the revival and could not come."

Walter's Great Bluff

Toronto Telegram: Walter English, of Peterborough, is a careless sort of a cuss and cares no more for the wrath of the crowd at a hockey match than he does for a cigarette. The other night this lion-hearted fellow went to Campbellford to referee a match between Madoc and Campbellford. The rink was packed and the crowd became so excited that they started banging sticks on the sides and made a horrible noise. English could stand it no longer, and mind you the score stood 19-0 against the Madoc team. He whistled for play to cease and waving his hand majestically in the air, he said: Ladies and gentlemen, unless this 'er noise stops I'll give the match to Madoc." After which you could hear a pin drop. He stopped the noise, but ran the risk of being mobbed by the local spectators.

FRANCE'S WAR ON CHURCH

Chamber of Deputies Throws Down the Gauntlet to Hierarchy

New York, Jan. 16.—The Journal has the following special cable from Paris:—The vote in the Chamber of Deputies on Monday threw down the gauntlet to the clergy—to the Bishops and Archbishops and to the Pope himself.

Monday's vote was merely a preliminary skirmish, but was such an overwhelmingly strong endorsement of the Government's action in suppressing the religious associations that the passage of the bill to that end is certain.

It is the Pope's move now, and all France is feverishly waiting to see what it will be. Every one expects that the Papal Legate will be recalled from Paris. This would necessarily be followed by the recall of the French Minister from the Vatican and the severance of all diplomatic relations.

As virtually all the Bishops and Archbishops are Royalists at heart and restrained from active work in the Royalist cause only by the express order of the Pope, a recrudescence of Royalist agitation is imminent, for the Pope's restraining orders will doubtless be withdrawn. While most of the parish priests are Republicans, they are absolutely under the orders of their superiors and subject to transfer at the whim of their Bishops, so they cannot be depended on to counteract the work of the latter.

It must be understood that under the Concordat—or treaty between France and the Pope—the French Government pays the salaries of all these secular clergy, from the Cardinal Archbishop of Paris down to the priest of the humblest parish. Active interference in politics can lead only to the suspension of salary, not to removal from office.

THE OPPRESSIVE MEASURE.

This matter was precipitated by the introduction into the Chamber of a measure amending the Law of Associations. This bill excludes all religious orders, such as the Assumptionists, Franciscans, Dominicans, Sisters of Mercy, and even the Salvation Army, from owning property, and hedges them about with such restrictions that existence would be impossible.

The bill contains a clause debarring any person educated at other than a public school from holding any office, drawing pay from the State, thus keeping all men educated at church schools from the army, navy and police force; in fact, from all Government appointments.

The Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau made a speech at Toulouse a few months ago, defending these measures. This drew from the pope an interview printed in Le Matin which was followed by a letter to Cardinal Richard, Archbishop of Paris, in which the Holy Father protested against the measure and made a thinly veiled threat to withdraw the clerical support from the republic.

Leo also pointed out that the religious orders of France maintained almost all the Catholic foreign missions, and intimated that if they were suppressed he would feel himself in duty bound to appoint others than Frenchmen to these missions.

So to-day M. Sembat, Radical-Socialist, representing one of the City of Paris constituencies, "interpellated" the Government on what he called the "interference of the Pope in the domestic affairs of France." Everyone knew that the vote on this question would be a test, and the galleries were jammed with an excited crowd.

RIBOT DEFENDED THE POPE.

Former Premier Ribot defended the Pope, who, he said, was right in raising his voice to protest against the infringement of religious liberty.

The Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, said he saw no threat in the Pope's letter. "The Government," he continued, "will not tolerate the organization of resistance to the laws of the country. No interference on the part of the Pope will be allowed in the law of Associates when it is voted upon. The Pope has rights as the spiritual head of the Catholic Church, but the State also has rights written in the Concordat, which it will see respected."

A motion to separate Church and State was voted down. Another annulling the Concordat was also rejected both by overwhelming majorities.

Then the Government was sustained by a vote of 310 to 110.

This tremendous victory has elated the Ministerialists and caused the Monarchists and Bonapartists to look about for an heir to the French throne upon whom they can unite in an effort to secure clerical support in the movement to replace the republic with a monarchy.

A FARMERS' COMPANY

Organized to Manufacture Binder Twine.

A GREAT STEP FORWARD

Peterborough to be the Headquarters of a Strong Farmers' Company.

The Dominion Cordage Company Limited, Starts Under the Most Favorable Conditions and Auspices—Farmers Subscribing Liberally for Stock—A Company for Farmers and Managed by Farmers.

Elsewhere will be found the prospectus of the Dominion Cordage Manufacturing Company, Limited, which is exciting wide-spread interest amongst farmers throughout the country. The organization and establishment of an industry for the manufacture of binder twine and kindred wares, is one that farmers are naturally interested in, and one which will be of great benefit to them as well as to the community generally, for whatever helps the farmer is of vital service to mankind. It is exceedingly gratifying to know that the farmers of this district are progressive and sufficiently enterprising to organize such a company, and the hearty response given to the appeal for stock takers is evidence that the success of the undertaking is assured. That the headquaters of the Company will be in Peterborough, is additional reason for congratulation, affording employment, as it will, to a considerable number of persons.

A Great Field.

The fact that over ten million pounds of binder twine and similar manufactures was imported into Canada last year, is evidence of the splendid opening that exists for a concern of this kind. The farmers in every part of Canada are interested in the Company, and it is expected that stock will be sold in every county and township in Canada, from ocean to ocean.

Objects of the Company.

Every farmer understands the demand that exists for binder twine. It is an article that the self-binder makes essential to every farmer, and it is the progressive and wide awake agriculturalist who takes steps to place himself beyond the reach of the combines or the trusts by manufacturing for himself that which he must have in the carrying on of his business. The Dominion Cordage Company has been organized on the co-operative basis in that its stock is sold only in small blocks and to the consumers or users of the articles manufactured. This principle is the one one which will commend itself at once as the right one if the desire is to prevent a combine from raising the price, or an object to be sought is to make it impossible for a few to gain control to the detriment of many. The directors of the Company in their prospectus state their object concisely and clearly. They say their object is:—

(a) To sell the shares to farmers, users and sellers of binder twine, rope and cordage in every part of Canada.

(b) To sell the stock preferably in small blocks of from one to eight shares and to get the greatest possible number of shareholders for small amounts.

(c) To have nothing whatever to do with any trust or combine.

(d) To manufacture first-class binder twine, rope and cordage, and sell them at the lowest market price.

(e) To keep the absolute control of the Company in the hands of the farmers and users of binder twine.

The wisdom of and the advantages which follow such a policy as that stated in the above is at once apparent to the man who gives the matter a moment's thought. The selling of the shares to farmers or users and sellers of binder twine places the company in the hands of those who are interested in (1) having a first class article for their requirements produced; (2) in having that article given to the consumers (themselves) at the lowest possible price, and (3) in having as large a quantity of this Company's manufactured goods used as possible. The selling in small blocks of from one to eight shares (from $25 to $200), is a source of strength in that it will result in thousands of farmers at once becoming interested in the concern and the sale of its goods.

This policy will make the farmer his own manufacturer as regards binder twine, will place him out of reach of the combine or the trust that might desire to reap an unfair profit out of his (the farmer's) necessity. In doing this a great deal of good is accomplished and a direct benefit is reaped by the consumer.

A Co-operative Concern.

But the system or plan which will be followed by the company has a feature which makes the co-operative principle stronger or more effective or insures benefit to the shareholder. Any shareholder who procures and sends an order for 400 pounds or more of binder twine will have the order filled at wholesale prices. There will be no middleman's profits to be paid, and the shareholder secures his twine at practically the first cost. Thus, in the thousands of shareholders scattered throughout the Dominion the Company has active, interested agents in a large field, and the very best results of the most lasting and substantial character may confidently be expected.

Then the organization of the company presents other strong features. There is, for instance, the appointment in each county of Advisory Boards. These Boards will be composed of men of recognized standing and ability, and they will give every district or community of shareholders, as it were, a close touch with the direction and management of the concern, and it will be a guarantee that business will be done in all localities. The duty of this Advisory Board is thus indicated by the Directors in the prospectus:—

(a) To supply the head office of the Company with information and advice which they or any of the shareholders in that particular county consider to be in the Company's interest.

(b) To supply the Company with such information as in their judgment will help to increase its customers and extend its trade.

(c) To recommend to the Company the names of responsible persons who will undertake to sell twine to farmers and users of twine.

Such an advisory Board has been organized for Peterborough County already, and its personnel shows not only the importance the advice of such a body will be, but illustrates the confidence that is felt here in the Company, the system upon which it has been organized, and the future which is before it in a field where some concern on a co-operative basis was sorely needed.

LAKEFIELD'S HEARTY WELCOME

Extended to the Returned South African Soldiers.

Lakefield once again extended a hearty welcome to her sons who have come back from the war. The occasion was the return of Ptes. Herdren and Marling, who arrived in the village on the afternoon train on Thursday.

The soldiers were carried on the shoulders of enthusiastic citizens from the railway station to the Town Hall, followed by an immense crowd, with a band of music. The hall was soon packed to the doors, and a formal welcome was extended to all the returned soldiers by Reeve Hull.

On the platform were the heroes of the occasion, Messrs. Herdren, Marling, Thompson and Hayward, as well as "Kid" Turner, from Peterborough, who happened to be in the village, and who, with the others, responded in suitable words.

Patriotic addresses were delivered by the Reeve, and the ministers of the village, the proceedings terminating in cheers for the boys and for the Queen.

FIGHT WITH AN OSTRICH.

An Experience in Africa—Army Chaplain With Lord Roberts Force Met with an Enemy More Terrible Than a Lion.

The Rev. John Ingram, Chaplain in Her Majesty's army, writes from Bloemfontein the details of a remarkable fight with an enraged ostrich, which was as dangerous and exciting as any battle waged by Britons and Boers on that blood-stained veldt. Here is his story:

"My friend, the Rev. Mr. Crewdson, of the Soldiers' Christian Association, and I, determined to visit some soldiers' graves eight or nine miles distant.

"It was a terrible tramp across the hot sizzling, sandy veldt — a lonely, trying walk, and a sad sight at the end of it. The last rough resting place of a score of brave fellows was marked only by a few big stones piled upon the muddy upturned earth where they had been hurriedly buried.

"Soon after noon we saw a big ostrich, a male bird, stalking rapidly towards us. It had evidently seen us from its nest, where it was sitting, and probably thought we were going to interfere with its eggs, or it may have been with its brood of fledglings. As it sailed along it was not difficult to see that the bird was in a frenzy of rage. It sped like the wind, leaving a cloud of dust in its wake, and within three minutes it was close upon us.

"We stood as it approached, taken and amazed, not knowing what to do and I noticed that its body towered high above my head.

"When the ostrich reached a point a dozen paces from us it stopped and whirled around, flapping its huge wings. Crewdson quietly produced his pocket-knife, and opened the largest blade as the horrible thing went circling around us, getting nearer and nearer each moment.

"Crewdson's voice seemed hoarse and strange as he whispered that if it came to close quarters our only chance would be to spring up and attack it in the neck. I was wondering how I should do this, for all I held in my hands was a pair of field glasses, but I replied, 'All right, but let us keep together.'

"I don't know if Crewdson heard me, but it is certain that at that moment he turned and walked a few paces away. I felt that to separate or to take our eyes off the brute meant to be attacked, so I commenced to walk backward, but the bird no sooner saw that I was a yard or two nearer than my companion than it dashed at me like a whirlwind.

"For a second I was transfixed with horror. Death seemed certain, and though, as it were, I mentally said adieu to life, instinct impelled me to drop my field glasses and, without waiting for it to reach me, in which case it would have picked my eyes out and struck me with its gigantic claws, probably tearing my chest open, I sprang to meet it. We met with a thud that seemed to take all the breath out of me, but with both hands I had grasped its neck before it could lift a foot to strike, and together we rolled over in the sand.

"For a time I was sensible only of a fierce struggle as with a demon, and great crashing blows which seemed likely to break the bones to splinters were rained upon my legs. Still, with the strength of desperation I clung on with both hands to the sinewy neck and gazed fascinated at the horny head which I expected each moment to shoot forward and bury its bill in my face.

"It seemed an age, though it was in reality perhaps less than two minutes, its back, so that it kicked into the air away from me, and I only got short arm blows—bruises instead of wounds.

"Mr. Crewdson, who had rushed back, not knowing whether I was dead or alive, when he saw the situation, tried to cut the bird's gullet with the knife, while I was gripping its throat with both hands in an effort to strangle it and rolling about endeavoring to avoid its terrible kicks and scratches.

"Crewdson was nervous and could not get near enough or feared to enter the zone of the cyclone struggle, but I reached out with my left hand, still holding the bird's neck with my right and grabbed the knife. With all my strength I thrust the blade under the bird's uplifted wing. It took effect, and the wing seemed to lose power, but the blade of the knife was broken off.

"I threw the knife away and Crewdson opened another blade, and as I again held the ostrich by both hands he contrived to cut a great gash in its gullet.

"The blood flew in showers in all directions and the bird gave a last awful struggle, and I feared that I should be kicked even then, but I put forth a last effort to overcome the monster, and gradually his struggle became more feeble. The blood was streaming over me in torrents, but it was the life blood of the bird, and gradually I was able to loosen my grip and climb out of danger.

"Even when we thought the bird was dead it made a wild attempt to rise, and kicked so that one blow would probably have fractured a Kaffir's skull. Then all was over. I fell back on the veldt and lay for many minutes in a dead faint.

"Covered with dirt and blood we plucked a few feathers from our fallen enemy as souvenirs of the battle, thanked God for our lives, and tramped back to Arundel, where we were told that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred a man attacked by a male ostrich would not have lived to tell the tale."

800 BOERS ARE COMPLETELY ROUTED

New Zealanders Put the Enemy to Flight--Colvilid's Column Inflicts Severe Loss.

London, Jan. 18.—General Kitchener, telegraphing from Pretoria under date of to-day, says Colonel Grey with New Zealanders and Bushmen has vigorously attacked the enemy eight miles west of Ventersburg and completely routed 800 Boers.

Gen Kitchener adds details of the insignificant casualties of both forces, and continues.

"Colville's mobile column was attacked north of Standerton on January 17 by a concentration of the enemy, who was driven off with severe loss. Our casualties were fifteen wounded and one killed."

KAISER WILHELM IS POSING AGAIN

Bi-Century Celebration of Prussian Coronation Provides the Occasion.

Berlin, Jan. 18.—I. William, Kaiser of Germany, has again advanced to the front of the stage and struck an attitude. The opportunity offered itself in the ceremonies attending the centenary celebration of the coronation of the first King of Prussia at Berlin to-day. The Kaiser of all the Germans has seized the opportunity to do some speechmaking to the army and navy, in which he urges continued devotion to the King and imitation of his spirit as being the basis principle of the progress and the sovereignty of the Empire. This time the Kaiser apparently forgets the second partner in that duo, "Me und Gott." He also grants his gracious permission to the fleet to wear as a special mark of distinction a fac simile of the Imperial signature on the sword knot and sash buckle of the navy. He has not yet granted his royal consent to having his picture worn next the heart of his loyal subjects, nor has he ordered them to cultivate the Imperial moustaches and salute each other with 'Hoch der Kaiser,' instead of "Guten Tag."

United States Ambassador White, at 11 o'clock this morning, presented to Emperor William President McKinley's congratulations on the bi-centenary celebration of the coronation of the first King of Prussia. This occurred during the court reception which was held in the Knights' Hall at the Schloss, after the newly-appointed Knights of the Order of the Red Eagle the Royal Order of the House of Hohenzollern had been presented to the Emperor and Empress. Divine service was held in the Schloss Chapel at noon, all the guests at the reception being present; and at one o'clock luncheon was served in the Schloss. Ambassador White and the other foreign representatives who had presented congratulations to the Emperor being present; also the the visiting princes and the new knights. Emperor William and the Empress attended the luncheon. A new order of merit of the Prussian Crown has been founded in commemoration of the bi-centenary. The decoration consists of a single clasp and ranks between that of the Order of the Black Eagle and the Grand Cross of the Red Eagle.

ADDRESS TO FORCES

The imperial addresses to the army and the navy have been gazetted. The former thanks the Prussian army for its devotion to his Majesty, and adds:

"So long as this spirit binds the army to its Kings, no storms need be feared; and the Prussian Eagle will probably and unswervingly pursue the lofty flight for the welfare of Prussia, and Germany."

To the navy his Majesty says, after alluding to the establishment of the Brandenburg fleet by the great elector, the navy's regeneration under the Kings of Prussia and the rigorous development in the new German Empire:

"The fleet requires steadfast work in order to become as strong an instrument for the German Empire as the Prussian Kings possessed in the army. The principal condition for the attainment of this end is fulfilled if the spirit of the great elector is alive in the fleet. In order to bestow a special mark of distinction on the fleet on the great anniversary I direct that fac simile of the Imperial signature be worn on the sword knot and sash buckle of the navy."

The receipt also bestows on naval bands the sole right to play the Dutch "March of Honor," and that a bronze statue of the great elector be erected at Kiel and given in trust to the navy.

GRASPING WAYS OF UNITED STATES

The London Times Reads the Americans a Little Homily.

London, Jan. 18.—The Times, in the course of an editorial on the Nicaragua Canal controversy, quotes from its New York correspondent, Mr. Smalley, the statement: "I do not believe that a majority of intelligent Americans either expect or desire Great Britain to submit to what is unmannerly."

"It may be taken for granted," continues the Times, "that, in some form or other, Lord Landsdowne will explain to President McKinley and Secretary Hay that we do not share the Senate's views of the freely repudiable character of an internatinoal bargain, and that we have no notion of allowing the Senate to accept all we offered by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and then to take all we retained as a condition of our offer.

"It will only be necessary to recall the terms of the agreement accepted a year ago with gratitude by American statesmen to refuse assent to a wholly different agreement and to intimate that until the agreement is ratified, or other reasonable proposals are courteously presented by the American Government, we shall continue to stand upon the Clayton-Bulwer treaty."

His Leg Broken.

Mr John Adamson, King street, was engaged yesterday afternoon in moving machinery from the Bridge Works, when a heavy piece fell upon him, breaking one of his legs. He was taken to the hospital and is doing as well as could be expected.

Got His Start in Peterborough

It is an interesting fact that the late Sir Frank Smith had his first business experience in Peterborough. He was sent here by a Toronto wholesale house, with which he was employed to close out a bankrupt stock of groceries. He managed the work so well that the wholesale men set him up in business for himself at Welland. The canal was then under construction, and Sir Frank, or plain Frank Smith as he was then, made money in dealing with the navvies.

THE CREEK INDIANS TAKE THE WAR PATH

Snake Band Ride Through the Country Maltreating Peaceable Natives.

St Louis, Jan. 18.—A special from Eufaula, I.T., says: Deputy Marshal Grant Johnson has brought the news that the disaffected Creek Indians known as the "Snake Band" are up in arms and are riding through the country whipping and maltreating peaceable Indians. Johnson says he saw yesterday a band of 50 headed by John Creek near Proctor. They were heavily armed and were arresting some Creeks whom they took to Hickory Ground, their headquarters, and whipped. It is stated that the man who resisted arrest was killed. The marshal says the country west of here is in an uproar, that several bands of disaffected Indians, numbering 50, each, are out. They claim to be the legally constituted authority in the nation. They have elected an independant chief council and other officers, and the peaceable people have applied to the federal authorities for protection.

These Indians are all full bloods, ignorant and stubborn. They are the anti-treaty party and say they will make no treaty and will not allow any Creek council to ratify one.

DE WET'S LATEST ATROCITY

Dewet's latest atrocity, the shooting of one peace emissary and flogging of two others, is calculated to reduce the wily Boer from heroic proportions to those of a clever, but none the less brutal cut-throat. Englishmen everywhere have been ready to recognize the abilities displayed by this wily Boer trekker, but white men cannot tolerate the treacherous murder of envoys on a mission of peace. Dewet has put himself outside the pale of human sympathy, and will probably get a short shrift when he treks once too often, and falls into the hands of his persistent pursuers.

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

SELWYN.

The schools in the neighborhood are all in regular working order. Mr. W. Oreba has commenced his fourth year of very satisfactory work in No. 10, in the 16th concession. Miss I. Robinson also remains for a third year, in No. 7, which is in a most prosperous condition. Mr. John Nicholls has taken charge of No. 9, Smith, where we wish him every success.

The Foresters and their families and friends enjoyed themselves at a social held in the "Temple" on Wednesday evening, 9th inst. An abundant supply of Selwyn's choicest baking was on hand to raise the spirits of the assembled company. The installation of officers took place, the ceremony being performed by Mr. Fred. McKee, acting in the capacity of High Chief Ranger, assisted by Mr. Ed. Sanderson, as High Marshal. After the installation a programme was presented, the chair being filled by Mr. Harry Garbutt, reeve of the township. The programme consisted of a number of songs and recitations by Mr. Benson, of Lakefield, a recitation by Master Allan Sanderson, duet by Miss Georgia Preston and Mr. Fitzgerald, and speeches by some of those present.

Evangelist Jenkins on Sunday, 6th inst., commenced a series of special services at the Methodist church, Selwyn. These have been carried on ever since, and are attracting a great deal of interest, the church being filled every night. Mr. Jenkins is a good singer and a good speaker, and in his first addresses spoke chiefly to the church members.

We are sorry to learn that the condition of Rev. S. A. Dover is considered quite serious. The people of Wesley circuit, among whom he labored and by whom he is highly esteemed, hope for his speedy recovery. Mr. Roadhouse of Albert College, is supplying during his absence.

We regret that Mrs. J. C. Manning is not recovering as speedily as might be expected, after her recent severe accident. We hope that she may soon be around again.

We extend congratulations to Messrs. Albert and Willie Whiting, of Chemong village, on their recent entrance into the realm of wedded bliss.

THE TIMES LEADS.

This Great Family Journal Is Away In Advance.

John Billings says: "I luv a rooster for two things—one iz the crow that is in him, and the other iz the spurs that air on him to bak up his krow with."

The Times has become a popular paper, not only amongst the people of the town and Ashburnham, but also amongst the residents of the surrounding towns and villages.

Mr. Geo. B. Hilliard, of Lakefield, says the Times is regarded in Lakefield as the brightest paper that comes to that burg, and is read by very many in the village.

Wm. O'Brien, the genial clerk of Douro, who has long been a subscriber to the daily edition, says that the Times is the popular paper in that township, 75 per cent of the people being readers. He hopes that it may be long keep up its onward pace.

Mr. Wm. Callon, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, states that the whole back country reads the Times, and regard the paper as one of the very best. He says that it is always full of good things.

Mr. P. P. Young, Young's Point, says everybody reads the Times in that locality It is admirably conducted.

Mr. James Stevenson, ex-M.P., says the Times is the brightest and best newspaper published in Peterborough.

Commodore Calcutt says he would sooner miss his breakfast than miss getting the Times. It is a famous appetizer, only equalled by Calcutt's celebrated ale.

Mr. J. B. Thornton, Omemee, says the Times is very popular in that village, and is widely read.

Rev. Mr. Bastow thinks the Times deserves great credit for its progressive spirit. It is up-to-date, giving all the news up to four o'clock in the morning.

Recently Mr. Sage and another, of North Smith, brought us in a couple of clubs for the Weekly Times of 80 names. Here are 80 names from one section of Smith alone, that are constant readers of the Times.

Mr. Harry Garbutt, Reeve of Smith, says that the Times is the popular paper in his locality.

Mr. James Baptie, Springville, gives similar evidence, and says you can hardly go into a house in his locality that the Times is not present.

Mr Pearson, the great horse buyer, of Montreal, told the Times the other day that he has better results from the advertisement in the Times than from any other paper. He says he finds the Times is read by almost everybody in the district. He knows this, for almost every horse he buys is the product of the Times advertisement.

Mr. T. Donaldson, Cavan, member of the Counties' council of Northumberland and Durham, says that the Times is very popular in Cavan.

Mr. James Chambers, Manvers, bears similar testimony in regard to Manvers township.

David Healy says that in Asphodel, Hastings and Norwood everybody literally reads the Times.

Dr. Bingham, the popular city Medical Health Officer, missed his Times the other morning, and came to the office for a copy. He said that he was not feeling well, and wondered what was the matter, until he remembered he had not had his Times.

The above are a few of the many evidences we have in our possession of the high regard in which this great family journal is held by the people. Merchants and other advertisers should remember that hundreds upon hundreds of families throughout the town and country cannot be reached by any other way except through the Times.

ON THE ROAD

All the time, eating irregularly, sleeping irregularly, exposed to every disease latent in bad cooking or poor food; that's a summary of the traveling man's life. The result is "stomach trouble"; that general term which covers various forms and stages of disease of the organs of digestion and nutrition. The traveling man can't avoid the troubles which spring from his business obligations. But he can avoid "stomach trouble." If Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is used when the early symptoms of derangement of the stomach manifest themselves, the cure will be quick and radical. But even if the disease has become chronic the "Discovery" will cure ninety-eight times out of every hundred if tried fairly and faithfully.

Mr. Ned Nelson, the celebrated Irish comedian and mimic, of 577 Royden St. Camden, N. J., writes: "We fulfilled an engagement of twelve weeks and the constant traveling gave me a bad touch of that dreaded disease called dyspepsia. I had tried everything possible to cure it till last week, while playing at B. F. Keith's Bijou theater Philadelphia, in the Nelson trio, a professional friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I tried it, and, thank God, with good results."

Free! Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps, to cover cost of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the same book cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

One of the unique institutions of Kansas City is State Line street. Kansas City is located in the border line between Missouri and Kansas, occupying a liberal stretch of territory on each side of the boundary. The Missouri State laws prohibit gambling within its borders, while Kansas is famed for its prohibition laws. A choice array of gambling resorts lines the north side of State Line street, which is located on Kansas soil; while the opposite side of this thoroughfare in the State of Missouri is made up chiefly of saloons.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. "Caliber 54"—Story of a Little Hero

When General W. T. Sherman was alive, he was often greeted with the shout, "Caliber 54." Old soldiers would shout it sometimes without understanding its significance, says the Pittsburg News. Its origin is well deserving of a place in history, especially as it proves that even the little drummer boys who were in the field in the Civil war, like the late T. C. E. Ecclesine, often did as efficient service as the older boys.

"Caliber 54" had its origin at the battle of Shiloh. General Sherman was riding along over the field hurrying to get to his troops when he heard a delicate voice calling: "General Sherman! General Sherman!" The old war hero stopped, and the boy piped out:

"The —— Illinois regiment is over there on the hill holding the rebels back as much as they can and they're all out of ammunition and they want some." And then, with as much volume of voice as he could muster, he added. "Caliber 54." That was the most important part of the message, for the wagon trains might have gone with loads of ammunition and if it hadn't been caliber 54 it would not have been of the least use.

General Sherman got down from his horse to pat the urchin's head, and to call him a "noble little fellow," when he saw three or four tears on the boy's cheek and he said: "There, don't cry, my little fellow; get right along back, for we're going to whip them."

"I know that," said the boy, "but when I was coming here to give you the colonel's message, a rebel's bullet struck me here," pointing to the calf of his leg. "I was crawling along the ground the best I could, and I knew I could catch you."

Then the general assisted the lad to the hospital, and a few days later he went home to his mother in Vermont. But "Caliber 54" lives in history.

Testimony of a Babylonian Brick

It is marvellous what a mass of detailed information has come down to us from the perishable brick tablets inscribed, or rather stamped before firing, with minute and complicated inscriptions and preserved in the buried libraries beneath the mounds of the Tigris and Euphrates Valley. Prof. Sayce is able, for instance, to tell us from one of these tablets how "a widow brought action before the royal judges to recover her husband's property. She stated that after their marriage she and Ben-Hadad-Nathan had traded together and that a house had been purchased with a portion of her dowery. This house, the value of which was as much as 110 manehs, 50 shekels, or £62 10s., had been assigned to her in perpetuity. The half-brother now claimed everything, including the house. The case was tried at Babylon before six judges in the ninth year of Nabonidus, and they decided in favor of the plaintiff," for a woman's dowry was her own property. This might be an extract from the law reports of the Times, and other details of ancient Babylonian and Assyrian life are not less precise. "In the reign of Ammizadok three men rented a field for three years on terms of partnership, agreeing to give the owner during the first two years one gur of grain upon each acre. The whole of the third harvest was to go to the lessees and the partners were to divide the crop in equal shares on the day of the harvest." This seems a pleasant kind of agreement, worthy of imitation. The third year free of rent must have been delightful.

What a Whale Weighs.

Have you any idea of the size of the common Greeland Whale? Nilson, the zoologist, estimates the full-grown animal to average 100 tons, or 224,000 pounds. That is to say, a whale weighs as much as about eighty elephants or 400 bears. Of course some run larger than this. There are tales among old whalers of whales 110 feet long, and weighing at least 150 tons, but they are not seen in these days. A seventy-foot whale is a big one now. Still, it may give some idea of what monsters are occasionally killed when we mention that a ton of oil has been extracted from the tongue alone of a single whale.

A Well Trained Boy

Mr. Goodfather had brought up his son according to the good old model which teaches that children shall be seen and not heard, say "Yes, sir," and "No, sir," and respect their elders.

When Johnnie went to college he arranged with his father that on his arrival there, if he found everything satisfactory, he would telegraph "Yes." When the telegram arrived the busy father had forgotten what "Yes" referred to, so he wired back, "Yes, what?" and Johnnie answered, "Yes, sir."

The Athletic Girl.

The athletic girl is apt to be influential, to have power—and most of us like this—and when she expresses an opinion she is generally listened to with respect. A sound mind in a sound body is the superlative of attraction, and this a girl may and should possess. For most girls, as for many older women too, it is well to strive for the rounded life, the life of symmetry, the life which is not unduly developed in one direction at the expense of another.—Ladies' Home Journal.

CURES HUSBAND AND WIFE

Powley's Liquified Ozone, an antiseptic preparation of liquid oxygen, which kills the germs, should be in every home in Canada.

THE NEW SYSTEM OF TREATMENT.

Mr. Banks Cured by Ozone of a Fearful Case of Eczema in the Leg.

For twenty years I was terribly troubled with eczema in my left leg. My leg was swollen three times its natural size, and, apparently, mortification had set in. The skin had broken out in places, and matter was oozing from the ulcers. The leg was black and rawish red in parts right up to my hip, and the itching was frightful. My wife had been much benefited by Ozone, so I decided to give it a trial. It was not long before I noticed an improvement in my blood. The humors began to disappear, and soon my leg had resumed its natural healthy tone. I believe that Ozone has saved my life, and I give this testimonial for the benefit of others.

Ozone also cured me of bad kidney disorder and a most painful eye trouble.

(Signed) J. B. Banks,

787 Queen street west, Toronto.

Mrs. Banks Had Three Hemorrhages of the Lungs. Ozone Gave Her a Permanent Cure.

I was afflicted with bronchial and lung trouble for three years. The disease became firmly seated in my system and I began to despair of ever being well. I had the best medical advice in the city, and spent a lot of money in medicine. I became a complete wreck physically, at the end of three years, and at night had to be propped up in bed with pillows, so that I could breathe. I had three hemorrhages of the lungs. My system was entirely run down, and I suffered exceedingly from female troubles. A friend of mine living in Muskoka told me to try Ozone, the new system of treatment, as she had been greatly benefited by it. I purchased one bottle, but did not get much relief. At the end of the second bottle I felt much improved, and when I had taken nine bottles I had quite recovered.

My husband did not know that I had taken Ozone, and thought that I had stopped the doctoring altogether. He said to me: 'Didn't I tell you that you would get well when you stopped taking medicine?' When I told him about Ozone he was surprised, and thought that it would do his eczema good. He took some, with the result that it cured him.

We are both very thankful for Powley's Liquified Ozone, and consider it the best household remedy to be obtained. I have never yet been troubled with a return of my old complaint, and feel wonderfully well.

(Signed) (Mrs.) Irena J. Banks, 787 Queen st. west, Toronto.

There is no other thing a household needs more than Powley's Liquified Ozone, the new system of treating disease. There are a thousand and one ailments which spring up, of more or less severity, which can be promptly relieved and ultimately cured by such a preparation. A family may have a good physician near at hand, in whom they have great confidence, yet a household remedy cannot be spared. Now, Powley's Liquified Ozone, the new and only proper way to treat disease, is antiseptic. It kills the germs which cause disease. Remove the cause and you effect a cure. Be the disorder ever so trifling, on the one hand, or of the most frightful deadliness, on the other, Powley's Liquified Ozone will be of benefit. Testimonials published for this preparation can be verified. You can assure yourself of the value of Powley's Liquified Ozone before you take one single drop. Mr. J. B. Banks has conducted a successful fancy goods and picture framing business at 787 Queen street west, Toronto, for 20 years. He can be consulted in regard to this testimonial at any time.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is $1.00 a bottle, large size, small size 50 cents at druggists', or from the laboratories of the Ozone Company, Toronto, Limited. 48 Colborne street, Toronto.

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 19, 1901

Held Over.

The report of the annual meeting of the Murray Street Baptist Church, which was held on Thursday evening, is unavoidably held over until Monday.

Mr. Rork Appointed.

Norwood Register: Mr. Thos. Rork of this place, has received official notice of his appointment to the position of Deputy Collector of Inland Revenues at Peterborough, and expects to enter upon the duties of his office shortly.

Joined the Regulars.

Pte. McNess, who was formerly employed by the Light & Power Company of Peterborough, and who went to South Africa with the first contingent, left on Thursday for Quebec, where he will enlist in the regular service.

No Personal Liability.

Another feature is that the company is a limited liability one, and therefore a shareholder can only be held responsible for the amount for which he subscribes in stock. There is therefore no risk whatever to stock holders.

A Good Showing.

The Lindsay Central Fair managers have reason to feel grateful at the financial condition of the society. At the annual meeting held the other day $20 was voted to the President. The statement showed that the society had assets of $6,661 and liabilities of $1,686.

He is Recovering.

Mr. Redfern, the well known sausage manufacturer and meat curer, who has been confined to his home through illness during the past few weeks, desires the Times to state that he expects soon to be at the market as usual. His many customers, we know, will withhold their orders until he is at business again. Orders sent to 101 Rubidge street will receive prompt attention.

The Times in Lakefield

Dr. Bell, Lakefield, told the Times yesterday that when the Times fails to reach Lakefield by the morning mail, as it sometimes does, considerably annoyance and disappointment is the result. During the very short days it is not always possible to catch all the early outgoing mails, but we will, in view of the above, try to make the connection hereafter. Our many readers in Lakefield and elsewhere may rest assured that we will do our best to have the paper in the Post Office in time for all early outgoing mails in every direction.

The Success of Others.

The principle underlying the organization of the Company, the co-operative system, is not a new one. It has been tried and is more and more being recognized as the proper one for the consumers if they are in sufficient strength as regards numbers and their requirements are such as to create the demand. These conditions exist as regards binder twine, and therefore the principle is the best that could be proposed and adopted. In fact figures given from the official report of the Department of Trade and Commerce for the official year ending June 30th, 1899, show that the demand is greatly on the increase. For instance, in 1896 there were 3,023,894 pounds of binder twine imported into Canada, and in 1899 the amount had grown to 10,619,284 pounds. The demnad is almost unlimited.

The Farmers' Binder Twine Company, of Brantford, has this co-operative principle in its organization, and its success is known to all who are at all informed on the question of Canadian companies. Speaking of this company, the Farming World, a purely agricultural journal of high standing, says in its issue of December 4th, 1900:—

> "The Farmers' Binder Twine Company, of Brantford, has declared a dividend of ninety per cent. on the present season's business. This company has had a most successful career. Since its organization it has paid five 10 per cent. dividends, one of 60 per cent., one of 100 per cent., and the present one of 90 per cent., an average of 37 1-2 per cent. per year for eight years' business. A most remarkable record."

The "Ralston Health Club" with a membership of over ten millions of members in the United States and Canada, eat to maintain strength of body and brain. The Ralstonites have made Malt Breakfast Food their special breakfast dish. Hundreds of letters received from private members of the Club, declare that Malt Breakfast Food has fully met their desires and expectations in every particular as a health food. The following letter from the noted Webster Edgerly, President of the Club, is worthy of note:
The Malted Cereals Co.,

We have been using your Cereal, and as you will learn from investigation at Washington, your MALT BREAKFAST FOOD has had an increased sale. After giving it a thorough test and after consultation with a leading chemist who analyzed it, we are about to call the attention of the Ralstonites to the food. This will probably increase the sale many thousand dollars per annum. We do this all freely, and we do not accept any remuneration, directly or indirectly, our sole object being to help the public get pure goods. If we shall have saved you anything in the way of advertising we hope you will give that much to the public in reduction of the cost to them.

Very truly yours,

Sleigh Riding Under Difficulties

Sleighriding is the popular pastime for many of our citizens, both old and young, particularly when the roads are good, as they are at present. Bus loads of merry young people may be seen almost every night enjoying themselves in this way. Recently two prominent young men, for the novelty of the thing, hitched up a couple of dray horses to two coal carts, after having erected temporary seats therein, and invited a number of their friends of both sexes for a drive. The horses were not of the best, but they managed to get over the ground with amazing rapidity. Although they puffed and panted like a pair of locomotives the animals were equal to the occasion, and at the start gave the young people a unique and not altogether unpleasant outing. All would have ended well had not Kris, in his efforts to make a steep grade, overstepped the bounds of prudence, and used the whip on his foaming steed. The horse decided to go home, regardless of the wishes of the driver, and abruptly turned around, spilling the entire party in the deep snow. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt, and beyond the fact that they were a trifle shaken up, there was no harm done. The driver of the other "caravan" met with better luck, and reached home without any mishap, the only trouble being that he was obliged to unload, whenever it was necessary to make an upward grade.

CAMP AND FOOD.

Getting Close to Nature.

It would hardly seem possible to some people that a man could, on food, cure himself of tuberculosis. "I was sent by my doctor to camp in the mountains and to live largely on Grape-Nuts food. My case was pronounced tubercolosis of the bladder by a famous New York specialist, the best authority of all American specialists in that line.

"I went into camp and used Grape-Nuts as I would meat, bread or potatoes. I was careful not to over-eat, but used the food three times a day, and at the end of 10 weeks, went for a new examination, when not a trace of tubercolosis could be found. My physician looked at me and said, 'I don't believe there is such a marvelous case as this on record.'

"Both the doctor and myself give the credit to the Grape-Nuts food. To be sure, I took outdoor exercise and this no doubt helped me some, but with all the outdoor air and exercise in the world, I could not build up my blood to a condition where it would kill off the bacilli unless I had good food of the character of Grape-Nuts to do it on. For family reasons I wish to avoid having my name appear in public print." Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., will furnish this name upon application.

AVENGED AT LAST

BOER WHO SHOT DAN SPENCE MEETS DEATH.

He Was Driven Into a Swamp and Shot by Canadian Scouts—Lieut. Morrison Tells the Story of His Death.

Lieut. Morrison, of "D" Battery, who in a former letter gave a graphic description of the death and burial of Dan Spence, in his last letter concerning his experiences in South Africa, has the following paragraph:—

By the way, in the rush of events before we left Belfast, I forgot to mention the interesting incident at Nooitgedacht, being the killing of the leader of the Boer party who shot young Spence and Rattliffe, of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, so treacherously, several months ago. Villamon, the man in question, was known to both the Dragoons at Belfast and the C.M.R.'s at Nooitgedacht. One fine day in November, he forsook his usual stamping ground around Belfast, and rode over Nooitgedacht way, where he did not know the country so well. "Casey" Callughan and Davis, the halfbreed scout, were returning in the early morning from an unsuccessful attempt to catch a field cornet (pronounced "falconet"), whom they had been laying for all night, when they sighted Villamon riding along all gallant and gay. They knew the country, and they raced for a point to cut off the Boer's retreat, and succeeded. He raced for another koof and was soon floundering girth deep in one of those treacherous Transvaal bogs. This was what the Canadian scouts had been playing for. They rode down to the edge of the bog, dismounted with much deliberation and proceeded to take potshots at Herr Villamon at 500 yards. Finally his horse hopelessly mired, and he jumped off and ran on through the bog. They hit him the first shot but did not drop him. He ran on screaming with fear. They hit him three times in five shots. As Casey graphically described it, "he squealed like a pig." The last shot caught him in the back of the head, scattering his thoughts upon the grass, and he died. They took his rifle, horse and bandolier, and told some Kaffirs to bury him. The killing of Herr Villamon made a considerable impression on the surrounding commandos.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Workingmen's Building and Saving Society was held in the office of the Stevenson Coal Co. on Wednesday evening, the 16th inst.

The report of the transactions of the Society for the year 1900 was submitted to the members, showing that the business done had been of a satisfactory and prosperous nature.

The Board elected for the year 1901 is as follows:—

President—Mr. T. B. McGrath.
Vice-President—Mr. A. J. Gough.
Treasurer—Mr. Jas. Murty.
Directions—Messrs. M. Railey, W. S. Merrill, H. LeBrun, A. Murty, E. A. Peck, R. Sheehy, P. Simons, Geo. Ball James Lynch, John McCabe and G. H. Giroux.

Mr. F. E. Bell was re-appointed auditor.

The Board of Management were authorized to use all possible efforts to increase the business of the society during the current year.

A Vicious Tramp.

Norwood Register,—Mrs. R. F. Haddon, near Peterborough, had a rather frightful experience on Thursday last. She was sewing upstairs when she heard a knock at the door. Thinking it was Miss Rossie Price she came running down stairs with the lamp in her hand. She unlocked and opened the door, and there stood a tramp, carrying a walking stick and a beggars satchel. He said "good night" before she could see him, and she said "good night." He went to go in but she closed the door and said, "Oh but you are not going to come in;" but as she closed it a piece of his ragged coat caught it. He said "Let go my coat will you!" She opened it slightly, then closed and locked it. He said "The door will be closed on yourself some day and you will not like it." He talked to himself for a while but she could not hear what he said; then went away. She heard the next day that he had gone to the school house about half a mile away and as he could not get in the door, he broke a pane of glass and took the nails out of the window and got in. The teacher said that he had cut himself for there was blood all around.

Will Be Up To Date.

The Dominion Cordage Company will have buildings erected particularly adapted to the needs of the manufactory. These buildings will be equipped with the most modern and improved machinery that can be obtained, and this will enable them to turn out the best quality of goods. The binder twine machinery will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000, and the rope machinery about $20,000, and the machinery for making cordage from soft fibres about $15,000, and the buildings and other equipment about $10,000. It is proposed to manufacture about five tons of binder twine per day, but owing to the fact that the whole season's twine has to be carried for nearly a year before the season for selling begins, it takes a large amount of capital to do this without the necessity of borrowing money and paying discount, which should properly be saved for the shareholders.

Then the best men obtainable will be secured to manage the business. Negotiations are in progress for such men, who have experience and business ability that will ensure the very best results; so that with the best possible organization, the advice of all those most interested and the management of experienced men of the highest ability, the success of the company is placed beyond ordinary chances of failure.

The place that existed for such a company and the confidence felt in its success are well evidenced by the interest which has been created and the manner in which the proposition has been received in this district before the plans were fully laid before the people as they now are by the prospectus which is published to-day. Enquiries are coming in from all quarters and applications for stock have been received already from Prince Edward county, Northumberland, Durham and Victoria, besides those from scribe large amounts, but the rule of limiting to small blocks, in order to create a widespread and direct interest and ensure the rights of the small shareholders, the rule is being adhered to and subscriptions limited to eight shares.

"Better Be Wise Than Rich."

Wise people are also rich when they know a perfect remedy for all annoying diseases of the blood, kidneys, liver and bowels. It is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is perfect in its action. It so regulates the entire system as to bring vigorous health. It never disappoints.

Goitre—"For 42 years I had goitre, or swellings on my neck, which was discouraging and troublesome. Rheumatism also annoyed me. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me completely and the swelling has entirely disappeard. A lady in Michigan saw my previous testimonial and used Hood's and was entirely cured of the same trouble. She thanked me for recommending it." MRS. ANNA SUTHERLAND, 406 Lovel Street, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Poor Health—"Had poor health for years, pains in shoulders, back and hips, with constant headache, nervousness and no appetite. Used Hood's Sarsaparilla, gained strength and can work hard all day; eat heartily and sleep well. I took it because it helped my husband." MRS. ELIZABETH J. GIFFELS, Moose Lake, Minn.

Makes Weak Strong—"I would give $5 a bottle for Hood's Sarsaparilla if I could not get it for less. It is the best spring medicine. It makes the weak strong." ALBERT A. JAGNOW, Douglastown, N. Y.

REV. MR. ARMITAGE HONORED

The Popular Pastor of All Saints' Presented With a Chair

After choir practice at All Saints' church on Thursday night the choir presented the Rev. Mr. Armitage with a handsome chair, accompanied with an address. On behalf of the choir, Messrs R. H. Shepherd and George Ames made the presentation, while Mr. A. E. Brundrette read the following address:

To the Rev. W. Leslie Armitage, All Saints' church:—

We, the members of All Saints' choir, beg to take this opportunity of wishing you a happy new year, and long and useful life in the new century opening with this new year season.

We wish, also, to express to you our thanks and appreciation of the interest you take in us, not only as a body, but as individuals, and we hope you may always have the same hearty enthusiasm for our part of the church work as you have shown since you have been with us.

We would beg to assure you that we will give you all attention and service that is necessary to further the work that you have so much at heart.

In conclusion, we request that you will accept this chair for your study, and may you enjoy many restful moments in its arms.

Signed on behalf of the choir.

MARY SAWERS,
MAY HOPKINS,
A. E. BRUNDRETTE.

Rev. Mr. Armitage in reply expressed his entire surprise, and thanked the members of the choir for their kind appreciation of his services in the choir. He hoped that the hearty good will and constant attendance would continue, and assured them that, whatever was done, was done with the sole object of advancing the interest of the church in which the work of the choir was a most important part.

After paying the above tribute to their popular pastor, the members of the choir held a very pleasant social time, during which refreshments were served.

SUING FOR DIVORCE

A Former Resident of This District Wants Legal Separation.

Mansfield, Ohio, Jan. 19.—J. W. Curts, a former resident of Port Perry, Ont., is at present living here, where he is suing to obtain a divorce from his wife. His solicitor, Col. Paterson, has secured an order for a commission to examine witnesses living in the neighborhood of Port Perry.

Mr. Curts claims that his wife has not lived with him, and makes other graver charges.

The Dominion Cordage and Manufacturing Company, Limited, was organized for the purposes set forth in their Charter under "The Ontario Companies' Act." A snyopsis of its powers are as follows:—To Manufacture, Buy, Sell, Trade and Deal in Rope, Cordage, Twine, Oakum and other products, and Manufactures of Hemp, Jute, Flax, Manilla, Sisal, Cotton, Paper and other Fibres, and to Manufacture, Buy, Sell, Trade and deal in Wood and any and all articles manufactured wholly or partly from wood.

POLICY AND MANAGEMENT.

The object of the directors is:

(a) To sell the shares to farmers, users and sellers of binder twine, rope and cordage in every part of Canada.
(b) To sell the stock preferably in small blocks of from one to eight shares, and to get the greatest possible number of shareholders for small amounts.
(c) To have nothing whatever to do with any trust or combine.
(d) To manufacture first-class binder twine, rope and cordage, and sell them at the lowest market price.
(e) To keep the absolute control of the Company in the hands of farmers and users of binder twine.

The directors of the Company prefer that no person will subscribe for more than eight shares of stock in the Company. The object of this is to prevent a few wealthy shareholders from controlling and owning a majority of the stock and reaping the profits of the Company.

The Company would prefer to have each shareholder take from one to two shares, as it is not for the purpose of getting money the company wants to sell the stock in small blocks to shareholders, but it is to get the greatest possible number interested in the success of the Company, because it gives the Company more supporters and agents and customers, and that will be its strength and success.

As a further inducement to consumers of binder twine, the directors propose that any shareholder of the Company who will procure and send in an order to the Company for 500 lbs. of binder twine or upwards will be entitled to have the order filled at wholesale prices.

By adopting this policy the Company will secure a large market among its own shareholders in every part of Canada, and a still larger market among the neighbours and friends of the shareholders, who may be influenced or induced by them to purchase their twine from the Company.

That will tend to do away with expensive agents and travellers, and it is expected that in this one item alone great expense will be saved.

The Company are negotiating for the best men in the business to manage it, who will be keen, shrewd business men, who thoroughly understand the business and are thoroughly up to date.

By carrying out these principles there is no reason why the Company should not succeed in a very short time in building up a very large and valuable trade.

EQUIPMENT.

The Company will be equipped with the most modern and the most improved machinery that can be obtained, and this will enable the Company to turn out the best quality of goods. The binder twine machinery will cost in the neighbourhood of $60,000, and the rope machinery will cost in the neighbourhood of $30,000, and the machinery for making cordage from soft fibres about $15,000, and the building and the other equipments, about $10,000.

The Company propose to manufacture about five tons of binder twine per day, and about three tons of rope per day, but owing to the fact that the whole season's binder twine has to be carried in stock for nearly a year before the season for selling begins, it takes a large amount of capital to do so without the necessity of borrowing money from the bank and paying discount to the bank, which should properly be saved for the shareholders.

There is no reason why this Company should not pay a large dividend with an economical and business-like management, equipped with the latest and best machinery, manufacturing twine of first-class quality and at the lowest market price, with a constant and increasing market, unhampered for the want of capital and with willing agents in the persons of its shareholders, working for its success in every Province of the Dominion.

UNLIMITED MARKET.

There is an unlimited market in Canada for binder twine, rope and cordage, and the demand is increasing year by year, owing to the increased number of self binders, etc., that are being used. For instance, according to the report of the Department of Trade and Commerce for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1899, at page 179, it appears that during the following years, the following quantities of cordage twine for harvest binders, etc., were imported into this country:—

In 1896............	3,023,894 lbs.	In 1897............	3,394,455 lbs.
In 1898............	8,678,823 lbs.	In 1899............	10,629,286 lbs.

LOCAL ADVISORY BOARDS

It is the intention of the Directors of the Company to establish Local Advisory Boards in every county. These Advisory Boards will be composed of shareholders, whose duty will be as follows:—

(a) To supply the head office of the Company with information and advice, which they or any of the shareholders in that particular county consider to be in the Company's interest.
(b) To supply the Company with such information as in their judgment will help to increase its customers and extend its trade
(c) To recommend to the Company the names of responsible persons who will undertake to sell twine to farmers and users of twine.

The Company is a limited liability one, and hence no shareholder of the Company is in any way responsible for any amount beyond the amount for which he subscribes.

Any person who desires to apply for stock in the Company may fill out the application hereunder written, cut it out and send same, addressed: "Dominion Cordage and Manufacturing Company Limited Peterborough."

VOL. 27. NO 17 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO MONDAY JANUARY 21 1901 PRICE TWO CENTS

WERE SURROUNDED BY THE BOERS

Garrison of a Town in Griqualand West Stood a Short Siege.

London, Jan. 19.—To make good the discrepancy between precept and practice revealed during the South African war is now the heartbreaking task of the British Government. It is stated that the army reform which has been decided upon will consist chiefly in an endeavor to improve the existing methods of general military training rather than in any attempt to eradicate individual defects. With a more fully developed home army, the adminstration belives many of the drawbacks existing at present will gradually disappear, whereas ruthless reform would only result in disorganization and chaos.

THE MANOEVUVRES BILL.

With this end in view a new manoeuvres bill will be introduced, giving the Government plenary power to select large tracts of country, espically in Ireland and Scotland, where the home army will have the opportunity of manoeuvres in considerable numbers over a rough and unknown country where the generals will have the opportunity o flearning to handle divisions. In the opinion of the Secretary for War Mr. William St John Brodrick, it is futile to eriticize officers and men who have never been handled or who have never co-operated except in the restricted confines of Aldershot—and some not even there— where every inch of ground is known to almost every officer of the service. The barracks building on Salisbury Plain will it is believed, aid this plan; but it has become generally recognized by the War Office that it is absolutely essential to have rough contry and a good deal of it at the disposal of the forces. Many difficulties lie in the way of securing this.

THE MOORS SUITABLE.

The moors of Ireland and Scotland are almost all the private property of aristocratic owners, who either use them or let them for shooting purposes. One season's manouvres over these estates would probably ruin the game. Hence, large compensation must be paid. This, Mr. Brodrick hopes to get appropriated, in spite of the present heavy taxation, believing it would be an investment which would save the country millions in case of another war. Many other changes are likely to come in force in the course of time. The Board of Army Re-Organization is sitting day in and day out dealing with the immense problem, but the cardinal point of the deliberations, on which public opinion is unanimous, is the necessity for the new manovuvres bill. To use the words of Lord Raglan.

"You might a swell critise the admiral who is always obliged to keep his fleet in harbor a sto critise the army, for which the country provides no manoeuvring facilities."

SURROUNDED BY THE BOERS

London, Jan. 19.—A despatch from Cape Town, says that the Duke of Edinburgh's Volunteers, a Cape Town regiment, which has been garrisoning Daniel's Knil, Griqualand West, was surrounded by 400 Boers from January 5 until yesterday, when the Boers, who were without big guns, marched away in the direction of Rietfontein. The Boers fired on the garrison every day from five o'clock in the morning until seven o'clock in the evening, but only three men were seriously wounded. Kirsmen, the Boer commandant, demanded the surrender of the garrison, which was refused. The Boers threatened that if the surrender was not forthcoming they would raze all the houses in the place.

DEWET AT ERMELO.

The Boer commandoes are still active. A report comes from Durban that Gen. Dewet is at Ermelo, where 8,000 Boers are concentrated preparatory to an invasion of Natal, which Gen. Dewet is urgently advocating.

The Boer commando which lately occupied Sutherland has now gone west toward Calvinia. Scattered commandoes have appeared at Ceres, apparently proceeding to Vanrhynsdorf. The Aliwal commando has recrossed the Orange River. Still another commando is moving toward Willowmore. The Government reports that under 500 Cape Dutch altogether have joined the invaders.

Lonis Botha recently paid several visits to Bethel and urged the burghers to continue fighting to the bitter end, saying that even if they were all killed their children would carry on the struggle.

THE NEW COUNTY COUNCIL

The Names of Those who Constitute that Body.

The elections made little change in the personnel of the County Council. Mr. Joseph Forster, the late Warden, will be missed from his place, as will also Mr. Ed. Hawthorne, of Dummer, who was defeated by Mr. W. H. Casement, of Lakefield.

The following are the members: Messrs. E. A. Peck, Anderson, J. B. Pearse, Dr. Jeffs, W. H. Casement, R. Crowe, Geo. W. Fitzgerald, P. Costello, Shaw, and T. G. Eastland.

The first duty of the Council on assembling to-morrow will be to elect a Warden. It is said that the choice lies between Mr. Geo. W. Fitzgerald and Mr. T. G. Eastland, two of the best known and most popular members of the Council.

PROPOSES TAX ON BACHELORS

Michigan Lawmaker Would Levy a Tax of $5 a Year on Single Men.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15—Representative McFarlane has introduced a bill levying an annual tax of $5 on each bachelor over thirty years of age in the State. The introducer of the bill is 31 years old and unmarried, and says he has no immediate prospects of matrimony. The bill provides that the revenue shall be used in defraying the expenses of poor students in the state Normal schools.

Senator Murfin will seek to keep small dealers who sell most of the cigarettes smoked by children out of the business by imposing a tax of $50 per year on each retailer.

Representative McCall has a bill increasing from three to five per cent the specific tax paid by express companies, and Senator Loomis has introduced one which absolutely prohibits the use of fire insurance, except through local agents, thus doing away with overhead writing.

Other bills offered prohibit the docking of horses or the importation of docked horses; prevent the adulteration of white lead, provide for the taxation of drawing-room, palace, and sleeping car companies, which now wholly escape taxation in this State; prohibit Sunday performances in theatres and other places of amusement; bring private banks under the supervision of the State Banking Department, and make insanity for five years, with no hope of recovery, ground for divorce.

JUSTICE ROSE HAS PASSED AWAY

He Succumbed to an Attack of Pneumonia Saturday Morning

Toronto, Jan. 19.—At four o'clock this morning Mr. Justice Rose, prominent as a member of the High Court of Justice of Ontario, succumbed to an attack of penumonia after an illness of ten days. He died peacefully, surrounded by his sorrowing wife and children. On Tuesday, the 8th instant, his Lordship, who was an ardent Imperialist, attended the Bar dinner given by the Osgoode Hall Legal and Literary Society, and proposed the toast, "Canada and the Empire," Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the guest of honor, responding. It is supposed that his illness developed from a chill contracted on hi sway home, Dr. W. P. Caven was called in on the 10th of January, and immediately realized the serious nature of his Lordship's illness. When the disease reached the second lung on Thursday last his condition was pronounced to be critical. His Lordship would have been 58 years old at his next birthday. He was called to the bar in his 24th year, and became a judge at the age of 49. Associated with him on the Bench, and forming the Common Pleas Divisional Court, were Chief Justice Meredith and Mr. Justice MacMahon. Justice Rose was very popular among members of the bar.

The deceased jurist was the son of the late Rev. Samuel Rose, D.D., a Methodist clergyman, his mother being the daughter of John Street, of the Niagara district. He was born at Willowdale, Ont., on October 4th, 1844 and educated at the Dundas Grammar School and at Victoria University, Coburg. He received the degree of B.A. in 1864; M.A., in 1867; L.L.B. in 1867; L.L.D. in 1885.

Called to the bar in 1867, he commenced the paractic of his profession alone, but his business grew to such an extent that he was soon forced to call in outside assistance. Hence the firm of Rose, Masdonald, Merritt and Blackstock, of which he was the principal member for many years, and which controlled one of the largest legal business in the Province.

As a barrister, Mr. Rose was retained in many important cases, and was the advisory council of the Methodist church and of numerous corporations. As a lagal authority, he published the "Canadian Conveyancer and Handy Book of Property Law," which reached its 3rd edition in 1884. Created a Q.C. by the Marquis of Lorne, 1881, he was raised to the bench as a puisne Judge of the Common Pleas Division of the High Court of Justice of Ontario on December 4th, 1883.

His Lordship was a member of the Methodist church, and at one time was a Senator of Victoria University. He was appointed a commissioner for the revision of the Ontario statutes in 1886 and 1896, and also in the same year was made a commissioner for the revision and consolidation of the Rules of Practice under the Judicature Act of Ontario.

Politically his Lordship was a Conservative. As a judge, he has tried some cases of more than ordinary interest, including the Queen against Connolly and McGreevy, and what are known as the St. George Railway accident cases, the trial of which began February 28th, 1890, the verdict being given on April 24th, following.

His Lordship married in December, 1868, Kate, daughter of the late Donald Macdonald, Toronto, He had a family of two sons and two daughters.

The information in the above sketch was largely obtained from Morgan's splendid work "Canadian Men and Women of the Time.

The funeral will take place on Monday, but it has not yet been decided whether it will be private or not. If the family consent to a public funeral the judiciary and the benchers will attend in a body.

The Court of Appeal cancelled its engagement to sit this morning and other appointments were declared off as a token of respect for the deceased gentleman.

TWO PARTIES TO HUNT THE MISSING LINK.

Bones Found in Java Afford a Slight Clue.

MR. DUBOIS' PITHECANTHROPUS.

Dr. Gill of the Smithsonian Institute Explains the Object of the Search and its Prospects.

Washington, Jan. 12 — Two expeditions are now being organized to hunt in Java for the remains of the Pithecanthropus, better known as the missing link, that half man, half ape, creature long sought to fill the gap in the Darwinian chain. George Vanderbilt is to defray the expenses of an American party, which will be led by David J. Waiters, of New Haven, Conn. A German party is being organized by Prof Ernst Haeckel, the eminent naturalist, of Jena Dr. Theodore N. Gill, of the Smithsonian Institute, gives the following information concerning the hopes and aims of these expeditions.

"Of course the expeditions hope to find only the fossil remains of Pithacnathropus," said he. "They are going to make their researches in Java, because it was there that Dr. Dubois, a Dutch army surgeon and paleontologist, recently found partial remains of what many naturalists believe to have been a creature intermediate between an ape and a man. Dubois made the discovery on the bank of the Bangawan, near Trinil, in the central part of the island. The remains lay in a bed of rock thirteen or fifteen yards below the vegetable sail. Then consisted of the upper portion of a skull, two molar teeth and a thigh bone. From the size of the skull it has been judged that the brain of the creature must have been greater than that of any ape yet found, and too small for any human being, that is in proportion to the size of the body as indicated by the other remains. The teeth have been pronounced similar to those of a man in that they are hollow at the crown, yet like those of the ape in that they diverge at the roots. The thigh bone indicates that the creature walked in an upright position—in the posture of a man. The name pithecanthropus, which, from its Greek derivation, means ape man, was first used in 1868 by Prof. Haeckel. The full technical name now is Pithecanthropus erectus. In other words, an ape man standing erect. Dubois found the pithecanthropus bones in earth deposits representing the tertiary age or geologic period. This fact indicates that the animal lived and died during that time, hundreds of thousands of years ago."

THE LENGTH OF TIME.

"How long was probably required for the complete change from ape to man?"

"A couple of hundred thousand years was sufficient time, I should think.

"We will suppose, that back in these ages there was an ape, like the present chimpanzee, which exhibited superior intelligence and learned to fight with sticks or clubs rather than with tooth and nail. This new faculty he transmitted to his descendants, who developed shorter arms, more efficient for the new mode of warfare Those having the shorter arms, therefore, survived and multiplied in the struggle for life. The canine teeth were less used on this account and became smaller, and were reduced to a level with the others. The gaps between the teeth gradually closed as the jaws, used for fighting, became smaller. The muscles of the jaws, likewise, became reduced and the ridges which held them to the skull became less prominent. As this superior intelligence developed, the brain and its cavity grew larger. As the arms grew shorter the legs became more and more convenient for locomotion and thus was the erect posture developed. The ape ancestor, of course, had no tail; hence that appendage was not a part of the pithecanthropus at any stage of his development.

"The area in which man was evolved from the ape I believe to have been India and I include Java under the general head of India. In the late tertiary of India there existed a genus ape to which the chimpanzee belonged. It is very possible that man was evolved from his stock. Although man's nearest relatives now living are the African chimpanzee and gorilla, that old ape of India was probably nearer the line of our ancestry than any of the African species. The latter were, in a geologic sence, probably later comers into Africa. It would be useless to seek pithecanthropus in Europe. Moreover, there was never a tribe of such creatures in America. Man had perfectly developed before he came to this continent. The first man in America was not very different from man as found here to-day. In the course of time everything varies and man has undoubtedly varied in color and physique from his ancestral patents who came to America. The first man to reach our shores from Asia arrived ten or twenty thousands years ago, roughly guessing."

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. William Aldridge, chairman, presented the report of the Finance Committee as follows.

To the Pastor and Members of the Murray Street Baptist Church,—

Your Finance Committee beg to report for year ending December 31, 1901, as follows: Our total receipts for the year, as you will have noticed from the treasurer's statement just read, were $2,355,32, as against $2,243.40 the previous year, a gain of $111.92; Our expenditure was $2,444.79, as against $2,107.54 the year before, being an increase in expenditure of $337.25 This is largely accounted for in the increase of salaries paid, $133.35, and the increased offerings for denominational objects, $142.43. These with other special expenses, more than provide the increase in expenditure.

Our receipts are obtained as follows:

Open collections and envelopes for church purposes	$1660 28
Mission envelopes	215 62
Special offerings	479 42
	$2,355 32

In Dec. we sent to each church member a circular letter referring to the church's finances, enclosing a pledge card, which we asked to be returned. There are a few increased subscriptions but we do not feel that contributions for church expenses will be much in excess of last year, unless it is from new members.

Our collection by Mission envelopes was $215.62, which was divided among the four great missions as follows. Foreign, 40 per cent.; Home, 33 1-3 per cent.; Manitoba, Northwest and British Columbia, 15 per cent. and Grand Ligne, 11 2-3 per cent.

We are pleased to be able to state the arrearages are small. We wish to impress on all the necessity of first being liberal in their promises, and afterwards fulfilling their pledges to the last cent. If possible.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

QUEEN'S DEATH IS MOMENTARILY EXPECTED

She is now Unconscious--It is Doubtful Whether the Prince of Wales and Emperor William will Arrive Before Her Death.

Cowes, January 21, 4.00 a.m.—No official bulletin has been issued since midnight. Douts are expressed as to whether the Prince of Wales and Emperor William will arrive here before the end. An enormous crowd of newspapers representatives and others, with carriages, bicycles and lanterns has collected at the lodge gaits, waiting in intense excitement to convey the new momentarily expected that the Queen has breathed her last.

London, Jan. 21. 3 a.m.—The Press Association has read the following dispatch:

Cowes, Jan. 21, 3.15 a.m.—The members of the Royal Family are still gathered in a room adjoining the Queen's bed-chamber. Her Majesty is unconscious and the end is expected at any moment.

Cowes, Jan. 21, 3.00 a.m.—The worst is expected at any moment and the members of the Royal Family are now assembled in the Queen's bed-chamber.

Cowes, Jan. 21, 2.10 a.m. The Queen is in a comotose condition, and is regarded as passing away.

Cape Town, Jan, 20.—The news of Queen Victoria's illness caused consternation in Cape Town. Sir Alfred Milner and his staff attended service this morning in the cathedral where prayers were offered for Her Majesty's recovery.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan 21.—Her Majesty's physicians hope that she may rally by 5 o'clock this "Monday" morning, if she does it is expected that she will live through the day, if she does not all hope will be abandoned Immediately on the occurrence of the Queen's collapse about 10 last evening, a message was sent to London summoning the Prince of Wales and Emperor William. The Prince of Wales was in such a condition of health that it was utterly impossible for him to leave London at that hour but it is hoped he will start for Osborne House at 8 this morning.

BISHOP OF LONDON MADE USE OF SLANG

None Could Roll a Cigarette More Deftly Than the Ecclesiastic.

London, Jan 19.—Death removed two remarkable personalities from the Metropolis this week—the Bishop of London, Right Rev. Maandell Creighton, and the money-leader, "Sam" Lewis—known far and wide for very differing qualities. Both possessed two things in common—humor and a broad insight into the affairs of men and the world. Dr. Creighton had many attainments, and was accounted one of the most erudite theological historians of the day. Yet none could roll a cigarette more deftly or retort more quickly in up to date slang. He wore his learning as lightly as a flower, but his addresses to the clergy were hardly ever equalled. In ruling his episcopate during the troublous times of the keen ritualistic controversies, he avoided stern, legal measures, yet generally secured obedience to his will. He was an athlete in his youth, and rowed in an Oxford eight, but he was more famous for his velveteen coat than for any achievements. Children adored him, and London showed how greatly such an ideal bishop was appreciated by according him burial in St Paul's Cathedral.

HIS FANCIFUL HUMOR

"Sam" Lewis' humor took a fanciful turn. Whenever he saw an opportunity to make life miserable for sprigs of the aristocracy, he never missed it. Once he was able to taunt his victim, he did not seem to care whether he got his money back or not. Yet, a beggar never asked him for alms in the street without a substantial reply. He frequently said that he had so much money that he scarcely knew what to do with it. The true character of the man is best judged by his enormous bequests to charity, which have not been equalled in the recent history of England. It seems that he devoted his life to robbing the nobility in order to enrich the poor. Lewis lived in a gorgeous house in Grosvenor Square, where his wife entertained lavishly. His tight trousers, shorty clothes, and immense diamonds gave him the appearance of a flash racing man

Town of Peterborough vs G. T. R. Heard in Court of Appeal at Toronto.

In the Court of Appeal, Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Friday, was heard the case Town of Peterborough vs. G.T.R. Co, Edwards, Q.C., for plaintiffs, appealed from judgment of Street, J. (32 O.R. 154) dismissing action brought to have it declared that defandants are liable to rebuild and repair the bridge over the creek, as diverted by defendants, where it crosses Smith-st., in the town of Peterborough and to restore the highway to its former state, or so as to impair its usefulness. The Midland Railway, in 1882, made a cutting across Smith-st., for the purpose of diverting the creek, and filled in the original bed, providing a culvert still in use and the plaintiffs allege they allowed the cutting to be made without passing a by-law giving permission, but on the agreement between the Township of Smith the Town of Peterborough and the company that the latter would build and maintain a proper bridge across the cutting. The land in question has benn part of the town since 1894, and the Midland Railway has been leased by the defandants since 1883. The trial Judge held that the alleged agreement had not been proved, and that as the defendants had acted within their rights the plaintiffs only course was to proceed compensation under the Railway Act, and that mandamus should not be granted in this action. It was contended inter alia for plaintiffs that the portion here in question of the Midland Railway was built under 44 Vict., ch. 67 (O), and did not by the Railway Act of 1879, come under its provisions as to powers lands and valuation by sub, sec. 2; see also Bowen vs. Canada Southern R. W. Co., 14 A.R., 1, and the railway company was, therefore still liable under sub, sec. 5, sec. 9, R.S.O., ch. 165, to restore the highway to its former state, or to such a state as not to impair its usefulness. This is a condition and a continuing one, attached to the right to maintain the railway. Van Allen vs. G.T.R., 29 U. C.R., 436. W. Nesbitt, Q.C., for defendants, opposed appeal. Reserved.

EMBARK FILIPINO PRISONERS

Thirty Rebel Leaders Placed on Transport at Manila for Deportation.

Manila, Jan. 19 Thirty of the Filipino leaders who were ordered to be deported to the Island of Guam were placed to-day on the transport Rosecranz, which will sail to morrow. The prisoners are in charge of Major Orwig. Their families and friends accompanied them to the Luneta wharf, where they bade them a sad farewell. The prisoners, however, were unmoved. Two priests, who were included in the original order of deportation, have by General MacArthur's orders been kept here in confinement.

Superlative Wickedness.

At the time when New York is widely advertising what she regards as her unparalleled wickedness, Chicago hastens to declare that New York's vice, as compared with hers is too mild to be really worth talking about. The Inter-Ocean quotes, as "the plain, unvarnished truth," known to be such by every observant Chicagoan who has ever visited New York, a local expert, who says.—"A man walking from the Inter-Ocean office to the Auditorium Annex will be accosted by more beggars, solicited by more abandoned women, and if the walk is taken after dark, will have to dodge more footpads and hold-up men than would cross his path in New York if he were to walk from Union Square to Central Park every day for a month. A walk through the slums and red-light districts of New York is attended by about as much excitement born of danger as would attend a walk through Lincoln Park on a summer afternoon." This critic asserts that Tammany Hall at its worst would be surprised as well as shocked by the depths of depravity calmly endured by the Chicago public as represented by its Municipal authorities and the police.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Best, Mount Pleasant, was the scene of a very pleasing event on Wednesday evening, January 9, 1901, it being the occasion of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lottie, to Mr. Joseph Donaldson, a prosperous and popular young farmer of Emily Township.

Rev. W. M. Kannawin, B. D., performed the ceremony in the presence of seventy-five guests. The bride, who was given away by her father, was assisted by her sister, Miss Addie. Miss Amy Best, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honour. Mr. W. J. Elliot of Peterborough, was groomsman. Miss Lizzie Nelson, of Otonabee, played the wedding march.

A sumptuous wedding breakfast, which had been prepared for the occasion, was partaken of by all present.

The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents, showing the high esteem in which she is held by a large circle of friends. Among the presents were a gold watch and chain presented by the groom, and a parlour suite presented by the parents of the bride.

OTONABEE.

In Otonabee Friday morning occurred the death of Alice Kennedy, relict of the late Cornelius Driscoll. The cause of death was bronchitis. Ever since her birth, some sixty-seven years ago, in Douro, Mrs. Driscoll has been a resident of this vicinity. Her late husband died some years ago, and there is surviving but one son, Mr. Florence Driscoll, of Otonabee.

THE TIMES LEADS.

This Great Family Journal is Away in Advance.

John Billings says: "I luv a rooster for two things—one iz the crow that is in him, and the other iz the spurs that air on him to bak up his krow with."

The Times has become a popular paper, not only amongst the people of the town and Ashburnham, but also amongst the residents of the surrounding towns and villages.

Mr. Geo. B. Hilliard, of Lakefield, says the Times is regarded in Lakefield as the brightest paper that comes to that burg, and is read by very many in the village.

Wm. O'Brien, the genial clerk of Douro, who has long been a subscriber to the daily edition, says that the Times is the popular paper in that township, 75 per cent of the people being readers. He hopes that it may be long keep up its onward pace.

Mr. Wm. Gallon, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, states that the whole back country reads the Times, and regard the paper as one of the very best. He says that it is always full of good things.

Mr. P. P. Young, Young's Point, says everybody reads the Times in that locality. It is admirably conducted.

Mr. James Stevenson, ex-M.P., says the Times is the brightest and best newspaper published in Peterborough.

Commodore Calcutt says he would sooner miss his breakfast than miss getting the Times. It is a famous appetizer, only equalled by Calcutt's celebrated ale.

Mr. J. B. Thornton, Omemee, says the Times is very popular in that village, and is widely read.

Rev. Mr. Bastow thinks the Times deserves great credit for its progressive spirit. It is up-to-date, giving all the news up to four o'clock in the morning.

Recently Mr. Sage and another, of North Smith, brought us in a couple of clubs for the Weekly Times of 80 names. Here are 80 names from one section of Smith alone, that are constant readers of the Times.

Mr. Harry Garbutt, Reeve of Smith, says that the Times is the popular paper in his locality.

Mr. James Baptie, Springville, gives similar evidence, and says you can hardly go into a house in his locality that the Times is not present.

Mr Pearson, the great horse buyer, of Montreal, told the Times the other day that he has better results from the advertisement in the Times than from any other paper. He says he finds the Times is read by almost everybody in the district. He knows this, for almost every horse he buys is the product of the Times advertisement.

Mr. T. Donaldson, Cavan, member of the Counties' council of Northumberland and Durham, says that the Times is very popular in Cavan.

Mr. James Chambers, Manvers, bears similar testimony in regard to Manvers township.

David Healy says that in Asphodel, Hastings and Norwood everybody literally reads the Times.

Dr. Bingham, the popular city Medical Health Officer, missed his Times the other morning, and came to the office for a copy. He said that he was not feeling well, and wondered what was the matter, until he remembered he had not had his Times.

The above are a few of the many evidences we have in our possession of the high regard in which this great family journal is held by the people. Merchants and other advertisers should remember that hundreds upon hundreds of families throughout the town and country cannot be reached by any other way except through the Times.

The Way That Women Work.

It's enough to wear any one out. First it's washing, in damp and draft. Then it's ironing with the hot stove and the hard work to endure. And in between whiles, meals to get, house to clean, and children to tend. It's bad enough for a well woman but for a weak woman it's slow torture. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the diseases of the delicate organs which weaken women. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free of charge. All correspondence strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"My health is the best now that it has been for four years," writes Mrs. Phebe Morris, of Ira, Cayuga Co., N. Y., Box 52. "I have taken but two bottles of your medicine, 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines have done me more good than all that I have ever taken before. Before I took your medicines I was sick in bed nearly half the time. I couldn't do my work only about half the time, and now I can work all the time for a family of four. My advice to all who are troubled with female weakness is to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery'—the most wonderful medicines in the world."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets sweeten the breath.

THE MINSTREL AND MAID.

He stood before her window; his breast was full of love,
And this is what he warbled to the maid who slept above:

"Ah, must I say good-by, good-by?
Is this to be the end—
To meet in future and to greet
Each other but as 'friend?'

"Ah, must I say good-by good-by?
And must I haste away,
Nor come again to claim your heart—
Your heart and hand some day?

"Ah, must I say good-by good-by?
And must I leave you here,
And wander far from you who are
So dear, sweetheart, so dear?

"Ah, must I say good-by good-by?
Ere you have learned to know
The secret that I long to tell,
Dear heart, before I go?"

He fell below her window—he sang no more of love—
Some brute had hurled a pitcher down from the flat above!

First and Foremost

In the field of medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It possesses actual and unequalled merit by which it cures all diseases caused or promoted by impure or impoverished blood. If you have rheumatism, dyspepsia, scrofula or catarrh you may take Hood's Sarsaparilla and be cured. If you are run down and feel weak and tired, you may be sure it will do you good.

The favorite family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

The Times in Lakefield

Dr. Bell, Lakefield, told the Times yesterday that when the Times fails to reach Lakefield by the morning mail, as it sometimes does, considerably annoyance and disappointment is the result. During the very short days it is not always possible to catch all the early outgoing mails, but we will, in view of the above, try to make the connection hereafter. Our many readers in Lakefield and elsewhere may rest assured that we will do our best to have the paper in the Post Office in time for all early outgoing mails in every direction.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism [illegible], my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by it. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Bush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. [illegible] Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

A FARMERS' COMPANY

Organized to Manufacture Binder Twine.

A GREAT STEP FORWARD

Peterborough to be the Headquarters of a Strong Farme's' Company.

The Dominion Cordage Company Limited, Starts Under the Most Favorable Conditions and Auspices—Farmers Subscribing Liberally for Stock—A Company for Farmers and Managed by Farmers.

Elsewhere will be found the prospectus of the Dominion Cordage Manufacturing Company, Limited, which is exciting wide-spread interest amongst farmers throughout the country. The organization and establishment of an industry for the manufacture of binder twine and kindred wares, is one that farmers are naturally interested in, and one which will be of great benefit to them as well as to the community generally, for whatever helps the farmer is of vital service to mankind. It is exceedingly gratifying to know that the farmers of this district are progressive and sufficiently enterprising to organize such a company, and the hearty response given to the appeal for stock takers is evidence that the success of the undertaking is assured. That the headquarters of the Company will be in Peterborough, is additional reason for congratulation, affording employment, as it will, to a considerable number of persons.

A Great Field.

The fact that over ten million pounds of binder twine and similar manufactures was imported into Canada last year, is evidence of the splendid opening that exists for a concern of this kind. The farmers in every part of Canada are interested in the Company, and it is expected that stock will be sold in every county and township in Canada, from ocean to ocean.

Objects of the Company.

Every farmer understands the demand that exists for binder twine. It is an article that the self-binder makes essential to every farmer, and it is the progressive and wide awake agriculturalist who takes steps to place himself beyond the reach of the combines or the trusts by manufacturing for himself that which he must have in the carrying on of his business. The Dominion Cordage Company has been organized on the co-operative basis in that its stock is sold only in small blocks and to the consumers or users of the articles manufactured This principle is the one one which will commend itself at once as the right one if the desire is to prevent a combine from raising the price or an object to be sought is to make it impossible for a few to gain control to the detriment of many. The directors of the Company in their prospectus state their object concisely and clearly. They say their object is:—

> (a) To sell the shares to farmers, users and sellers of binder twine, rope and cordage in every part of Canada.
> (b) To sell the stock preferably in small blocks of from one to eight shares and to get the greatest possible number of shareholders for small amounts.
>
> (c) To have nothing whatever to do with any trust or combine.
>
> (d) To manufacture first-class binder twine, rope and cordage, and sell them at the lowest market price.
> (e) To keep the absolute control of the Company in the hands of the farmers and users of binder twine.

The wisdom of and the advantages which follow such a policy as that stated in the above is at once apparent to the man who gives the matter a moment's thought. The selling of the shares to farmers or users and sellers of binder twine places the company in the hands of those who are interested in (1) having a first class article for their requirements produced; (2) in having that article given to the consumers (themselves) at the lowest possible price, and (3) in having as large a quantity of this Company's manufactured goods used as possible. The selling in small blocks of from one to eight shares (from $25 to $200), is a source of strength in that it will result in thousands of farmers at once becoming interested in the concern and the sale of its goods.

This policy will make the farmer his own manufacturer as regards binder twine, will place him out of reach of the combine or the trust that might desire to reap an unfair profit out of his (the farmer's) necessity. In doing this a great deal of good is accomplished and a direct benefit is reaped by the consumer.

A Co-operative Concern.

But the system or plan which will be followed by the company has a feature which makes the co-operative principle stronger or more effective or ensures benefit to the shareholder. Any shareholder who procures and sends in an order for 500 pounds or more of binder twine will have the order filled at wholesale prices. There will be no middleman's profits to be paid, and the shareholder secures his twine at practically the first cost. Thus, in the thousands of shareholders scattered throughout the Dominion the Company has active, interested agents in a large field, and the very best results of the most lasting and substantial character may confidently be expected.

Then the organization of the company presents other strong features. There is, for instance, the appointment in each county of Advisory Boards. These Boards will be composed of men of recognized standing and ability, and they will give every district or community of shareholders, as it were, a close touch with the direction and management of the concern, and it will be a guarantee that business will be done in all localities. The duty of this Advisory Board is thus indicated by the Directors in the prospectus:—

> (a) To supply the head office of the Company with information and advice which they or any of the shareholders in that particular county consider to be in the Company's interest.
> (b) To supply the Company with such information as in their judgment will help to increase its customers and extend its trade.
> (c) To recommend to the Company the names of responsible persons who will undertake to sell twine to farmers and users of twine.

Such an advisory Board has been organized for Peterborough County already, and its personnel shows not only the importance the advice of such a body will be, but illustrates the confidence that is felt here in the Company, the system upon which it has been organized, and the future which is before it in a field where some concern on a co-operative basis was sorely needed.

No Personal Liability.

Another feature is that the company is a limited liability one, and therefore a shareholder can only be held responsible for the amount for which he subscribes in stock. There is therefore no risk whatever to stock holders.

The Success of Others.

The principle underlying the organization of the Company, the co-operative system, is not a new one. It has been tried and is more and more being recognized as the proper one for the consumers if they are in sufficient strength as regards numbers and their requirements are such as to create the demand. These conditions exist as regards binder twine, and therefore the principle is the best that could be proposed and adopted. In fact figures given from the official report of the Department of Trade and Commerce for the official year ending June 30th, 1899, show that the demand is greatly on the increase. For instance, in 1896 there were 3,023,894 pounds of binder twine imported into Canada, and in 1899 the amount had grown to $18,619,286 pounds. The demand is almost unlimited.

The Farmers' Binder Twine Company, of Brantford, has this co-operative principle in its organization, and its success is known to all who are at all informed on the question of Canadian companies. Speaking of this company, the Farming World, a purely agricultural journal of high standing, says in its issue of December 4th, 1900:—

> "The Farmers' Binder Twine Company, of Brantford, has declared a dividend of ninety per cent. on the present season's business. This company has had a most successful career. Since its organization it has paid five 10 per cent. dividends, one of 60 per cent., one of 100 per cent., and the present one of 90 per cent., an average of 37 1-2 per cent. per year for eight years' business. A most remarkable record."

Will Be Up To Date.

The Dominion Cordage Company will have buildings erected particularly adapted to the needs of the manufactory. These buildings will be equipped with the most modern and improved machinery that can be obtained, and this will enable them to turn out the best quality of goods. The binder twine machinery will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000, and the rope machinery about $20,000, and the machinery for making cordage from soft fibres about $15,000, and the buildings and other equipment about $10,000. It is proposed to manufacture about five tons of binder twine per day, but owing to the fact that the whole season's twine has to be carried for nearly a year before the season for selling begins, it takes a large amount of capital to do this without the necessity of borrowing money and paying discount, which should properly be saved for the shareholders.

Then the best men obtainable will be secured to manage the business. Negotiations are in progress for such men, who have experience and business ability that will ensure the very best results; so that with the best possible organization, the advice of all those most interested and the management of experienced men of the highest ability, the success of the company is placed beyond ordinary chances of failure.

The place that existed for such a company and the confidence felt in its success are well evidenced by the interest which has been created and the manner in which the proposition has been received in this district before the plans were fully laid before the people as they now are by the prospectus which is published to-day. Enquiries are coming in from all quarters and applications for stock have been received already from Prince Edward county, Northumberland, Durham and Victoria, besides those from scribe large amounts, but the rule of limiting to small blocks, in order to create a widespread and direct interest and ensure the rights of the small shareholders, the rule is being adhered to and subscriptions limited to eight shares.

Renewed the Grudge.

Even an old sore will give its owner a twinge if it is roughly handled, says the Youth's Companion. Two elderly men met at a reception one evening, and after they had been introduced to each other, one of them said:

"I beg pardon, Mr. Yarty, but are you related to the family of that name who lived in Plattston about fifty years ago?"

"I am a member of the identical family," replied the other. "I resided there myself fifty years ago."

"Then you are Columbus Yarty?"

"Yes."

"I am delighted to meet you again. Do you remember Wesley Weston, with whom you played when a little boy?"

"Surely! Are you he?"

"I am."

They shook hands again, and after a little pause Mr. Weston said:

"You remember we had a quarrel about something or other the last time we met, and you pushed me over into a tan-vat and ruined a suit of clothes for me?"

"Yes, I remember it very well. Ha! ha!"

"Ha! ha! We can afford to laugh at it now, but it was a serious matter to me then. I have thought of it many times since and made up my mind long ago that if we ever met again I would tell you freely and fully forgive you for the mean little trick."

"But as I remember it, you were entirely to blame in the matter."

"Not at all. I hadn't done anything to you. However, as I said before, I don't hold any spite over it now. I forgive you——"

"But I don't want your forgiveness, sir! I won't have it! I told you——"

"Sir!"

"Sir! Good evening, sir!"

"Good evening!"

And the grudge of fifty years ago resumed business, so to speak, at the old stand.

CHAT WITH A PAWNBROKER

The Oddest Thing Ever Offered to Him—The Business Not All Profit.

"The oddest thing I ever had offered to me," said a pawnbroker, "was a skeleton; and I didn't take it. I hadn't any doubt that it was all right, that the man that offered it owned it and had a right to sell it. I suppose he was a medical student who wanted money just then more than he wanted the skeleton. But I didn't know anything about the value of skeletons, and how much to advance on it, and so I didn't take it. But that will give you some sort of an idea of the variety of things that the pawnbroker has offered to him.

"Of course, you understand that not all pawnbrokers take everything; there are men who advance money on nothing but watches and jewelry and diamonds and pictures and that sort of thing and who wouldn't give anything on the handsomest satin-lined overcoat that ever was, because it isn't in their line. They have no place to put such things; no conveniences for taking care of them. And then there are pawnbrokers doing a general business who take all sorts of things, watches and banjos, boxing gloves and silver spoons, practically anything and every thing that offers. They might occasionally run across something that they wouldn't take, as I did with the skeleton, but not often; there's practically nothing but what they will take, and practically nothing but what is offered at one time and another.

"On some things the amount advanced is very small; but still I've got things in safe that I never should get my money back on if I had to sell them. You'd suppose it would be easy for the pawnbroker to give on a thing no more than he could get for it if he had to sell it, and so it would be; but as a matter of fact he may give more than he could get back. He would be governed by circumstances, and by his judgment of the person offering the goods.

"I might have a customer bring in a diamond ring that I would lend so much on, whatever it was, and that would be a safe loan; the ring would be good for it if it was never reclaimed. But may be the next week the same customer, hard up and needing money, would bring in a pair of trousers, spotted and worn: not worth much if you had to sell them. And very likely I would lend more on those trousers than I could ever get for them; lending that because he's a customer and I want to accommodate him, and want to keep him as a customer and because the chances are that he'll take the trousers out again; but if he doesn't why then I'm out.

"The question of whether a man who wants a loan is likely to redeem what he offers is often taken into account. It is a common thing for the pawnbroker to look at the man, maybe a stranger, and lend on his judgment of the man as well as on his knowledge of the value of the thing the man puts down on the counter. Of course, he makes mistakes in this, but he takes the chances, and I suppose he oftener gets it right than not. There might come in here you, or anybody, needing money, with an old-fashioned key-winding watch that I could not get $1 for, and want to borrow $15, and very likely I'd lend it though I know I never could get my money back if the watch wasn't redeemed. But I know, or I think I know, at a glance, whether he will redeem the watch or not. what sort of a man he is, and how much he values the watch for its associations; and I go according to my judgment.

"No doubt as a general proposition the pawnbroker sets out to lend on things no more than he could sell them for; there are times when instead of making money he loses it; what he tries to do is to get a profit as the net result."

A MIGHTY OVERTHROW

Powley's Liquified Ozone, the New System of Treatment, Cures Where Old Methods Fail---It is Concentrated Oxygen.

MR. GIBBS, HARDWARE DEALER, 724 QUEEN ST. E. TORONTO, SAYS:—"GREAT GUSTS OF BELCHING WOULD NEARLY CHOKE ME, OZONE GAVE ME RELIEF."

Stomach disorders are due to germ life. The germs attack the delicate membranes which line the stomach and cover them with an unhealthy mucus, which prevents the gastric juices from digesting the food. The oxygen is not extracted from the food, and the body becomes ill-nurtured and bloated with fermentations.

Powley's Liquified Ozone kills the germ life, cleans off the diseased mucus, so that the gastric juice can operate to the utmost advantage, and gives the body oxygen in pure, concentrated form.

It is not mere statement to say that Powley's Liquified Ozone will cure disease of any kind. Thousands of cases have received benefit permanently. J. Gibbs, Esq., 724 East Queen street, Toronto, a most successful hardware dealer, was a very sick man with stomach trouble. This is what he says: "I suffered the most intense agony from dyspepsia, and found it impossible to get a cure from physicians or patent medicines. Anything I would eat would not digest, and my stomach would become distended with the sour fermentation. Great gusts of belching would sometimes nearly choke me. Pieces of food would be thrown from my mouth and I would be terribly sick. I was so bad that food would not remain on my stomach half an hour, and I suffered intense pain and depression.

"I started taking Ozone and it made a difference in a very short time. I was soon able to eat all kinds of food without any after distress. I have had no return of this stomach disorder, and to-day am a well man through Ozone. I visited Nova Scotia occasionally, and found that my dyspepsia would leave me. When I returned to Toronto my trouble would come back as badly as ever. In the light of my recent experience I feel satisfied that my relief in Nova Scotia was due to the ozone in the atmosphere. Yours very truly, (Signed) J. Gibbs, hardware dealer, 724 East Queen street, Toronto."

Powley's Liquified Ozone is $1.00 a bottle, large size; 50c small size; at druggists, or from the Laboratories of the Ozone Company of Toronto, Limited, 43 Colborne Street, Toronto.

Bobcaygeon Beat the Millers

The Auburn Mills Hockey Team braved the cold of Saturday and drove up to Bobcaygeon to play a match with the team of that village. The Peterborough players, who report that they were roughly treated, were Messrs. Dignon, G. Hayes, T. Thornton, R. Parnell, H. Long, M. Shaw and J. Davis.

A Pleasant Outing

On Friday evening the members of the George street Methodist church choir spent a most delightful evening at the residence of Mr. Dawson Kennedy, Otonabee. Two busses conveyed the members of the choir, and the few miles drive down into the country to their destination was not the least enjoyable part of the affair. Several hours were pleasantly spent in songs, music and progressive games. Those carrying off prizes were Mr. F. W. Walden, Mrs. McGuire and Miss Irene Grey. Refreshments were served, and the party returned to town in good time, well pleased with the hospitality extended to them by Mr. Dawson Kennedy and his family.

Died at Kingston

On Thursday the death occurred at Kingston of Mrs. Flanigan mother of Mrs. Dr. O'Sullivan, of town. The Kingston News says:—"To-day, at 2.30, Mrs. Flanigan, relict of the late Michael Flanigan, who was for over fifty years city clerk, passed away after an illness extending over a number of years. The deceased's maiden name was Mary Sarah Boyd. She was married to her late husband early in life, and for many years she was his loving helpmate. She was an affectionate wife and kind mother. She leaves seven daughters, Mrs. O'Sullivan, of Peterborough; Mrs. O'Brien, Sarah, Mary Royd, Madeline Gertrude, and Charlotte, and two sons, Michael and William. The deceased was a member of St Mary's Cathedral. She was always active in deeds of charity. The funeral will be of a private nature."

THE WAYFARING MAN.

Though a Fool Would Have to Draw the Same Conclusion.

"Coffee soup" was a common dish on our table during my boyhood. My family were farmers and we used to have early breakfast, then a lunch at 10 and at 3 p.m. beside the regular meals. We always had the coffee pot on the stove and 'coffee soup' was a regular part of each meal.

"I very well remember when 11 years old, overhearing my teacher say of me, 'the most nervous child I ever saw.' I was a constant sufferer with dyspepsia, sour stomach, and indigestion in its worst form, belching, etc. Finally a liver trouble came on and I had three different attacks of gall stones.

"In addition to this I was a complete nervous wreck, sleeping but very little at night. I was thin, sallow, and exhausted, with a billious complexion. After all these years of suffering, when I reached the age of thirty it gradually dawned on me, three years ago, that I was a coffee fiend and a coffee wreck.

"Some one told me to quit coffee and go to using Postum Food Coffee. I am a professional man now, doing a large amount of mental work. Within a short time after leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee, I began to improve. Now I am proud to say that the indigestion and dyspepsia have disappeared. The liver and stomach are sound. I sleep like a log and have gained thirty pounds in flesh.

"My spirits are at the top notch. I am fresh, rugged and rosy. The old dull, sallow complexion is gone. My habits are in every particular the same as in the years before, except that I have abandoned the coffee habit for all time. Am I not right in drawing the conclusion that the wayfaring man, though a fool, would have to draw, that the change is entirely due to leaving off coffee and the use of Postum Food Coffee?

"I have a friend, Mr. Frank Furbish, who was as bad a wreck as I, with like symptoms, plus excessive nausea and vomiting. Six months of no coffee and the use of Postum has put him right. He is now as fresh as a new born babe. His wife, who was also a sufferer from coffee, has recovered, and they are both in a fine condition of health, but I was compelled to hold a coffin before them, metaphorically, before I could scare them out of the coffee habit. Please omit my name." Name given by Postum Cereal Co. Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

Number of teachers and officers on roll, 29

Average attendance of teachers and officers, 24.

Average attendance of scholars, 118.

Number of visitors to our school during the year was 237.

The attendance of teachers throughout the year was fair.

Some of the scholars have been very regular in attendance, those deserving special mention being Bella Elcome, Mamie Montgomery, Annie Hardill, Hattie Rush and Kathleen Martin. The first two mentioned were absent only one Sunday out of the 52.

Our school has contributed to Missions $232, an increase of $91 on last year. The special quarterly class collections for Missions show an advance of $17.11 on last year, and yet they do not reach the results that should be expected from that source.

This year twelve of our scholars have been baptised and united with the church. This is encouraging and should be an incentive to our faithful teachers. It is now as it was in the days of old,' when "Precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line, here a little, there a little," as was urged by the faithful prophet, Isaiah, xxviii, 10. "In the morning sow thy seed and in the evening withhold not thy hand, for thou knowest not whether shall prosper either this or that, or whether they both shall be alike good."

REPORT OF MISSION CIRCLE.

The report of the Women's Mission Circle was read by Miss M. Nicholls, Secretary of Circle, as follows:

The year closes with a membership of 67, four more than last year. Average attendance 21. Number of contributors to Home Missions, 49; to Foreign, 46; No. of subscribers to the Visitor, 60, the Link, 18. Our Circle is now taking the Missionary Review. This periodical is valuable for its general missionary literature, and is world-wide and undenominational. A report in two columns of the Ecumenical Council held at New York, has also been secured by the Circle.

Last year we supported a Bible woman in India, but the native women have undertaken the support of their Bible women. The amount devoted to that object has been transferred towards the support of a lady medical missionary.

Two of our number attended the annual meeting of the Society held at Brantford. We were also represented in the Associational meeting at Campbellford. Very full and interesting reports of these gatherings were given by our delegates. The autumn thanksgiving service was one of unusual interest. On invitation we had with us one who attended the meetings of the Ecumenical Council held in New York, and another who was at the Winnipeg conventions. The reports of these two so full of enthusiasm seemed to blend the sisterhood of the west, east and the whole world, in one common cause, "Christ and His Kingdom."

REPORT OF B.Y.P.U.

The annual report of the Baptist Young People's Union was presented by the Secretary of the Union, Miss Mary Garbutt, and was as appended:

Another year has drawn to a close, and looking back we feel it has been a successful year for the B.Y.P.U. The active membership numbers 60, associate, 6; last year active, 53; associate, 6. The increase has been small for although many new names have been added to the roll, many have left town, thus leaving the number about the same.

The Monday evening meetings have throughout the year been well attended, spiritual life of the Union being wonderfully quickened, those who attended being richly blessed and better equipped for the week's duties for the Master. These meetings, which are of a devotional character, have been led by the different members of the Union, many of the younger members leading.

The missionary meetings which have been held, proved to be helped and instructive. The social evenings which we as a society spent together have been enjoyed by all. One discouraging feature of the work is that little or no money has been raised for any missionary cause.

Mr. Raddon has been a faithful president and much of the success of the society has been due to his faithfulness. Some time ago we appointed Mr. Schooley for our president for the coming year, and it was with deep regret that we accepted his resignation, as he has left town. Another president has not yet been chosen, and Mr. Raddon has kindly consented to act as president for three months.

Our annual business meeting was held on December 31st, 1900, when we heard the reports of the different committees, all giving good reports. Our officers were also appointed for the coming year.

We as a society, enter the new year—the first year of the new century—hoping and trusting that we will be more faithful and true to the Master. Let us take for our motto, "Loyalty to Christ."

In closing our report we desire to extend a sincere wish that the older portion of our brethren and sisters in the church would sometimes visit our Union, and by their presence and sympathy encourage us in our work for Christ and the Church.

The officers of the B.Y.P.U. are—

Vice-Pres.—Mr. Merrill.
Rec.Sec.—Miss Mary Garbutt.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS

The congregation at last night's meeting authorized the trustees to go forward with the alterations of the church as soon as practicable.

The alterations consist of taking out the front part of the church and extending it about fifteen feet, so that the steps leading up to the church will be enclosed, and it will also considerably increase the seating capacity. The outside of the chuch is to be re-painted and the brickwork tuck-pointed. The alterations when completed will cost between $3,000 and $4,000.

A NEW PIPE ORGAN

It was also decided to purchase a new pipe organ for the church, and alterations will necessarily have to be made in the rear to accommodate the new organ.

Catarrhal Headaches. — That dull, wretched pain in the head just over the eyes is one of the surest signs that the seeds of catarrh have been sown, and it's your warning to administer the quickest and surest treatment to prevent the seating of this dreaded malady. Exposition Universelle de 1900.

Paris, July 25th, 1900.

MESSRS. J. S. HAMILTON & CO, Brantford, Ont., Canada:

Dear Sirs,—In accordance with your wishes I have had both the red and white wines and the champagne tested by several connoisseurs, French and English. All of these expressed surprise that an article of such merit was produced in Canada, and even manufacturers admit that the brand "L'Empereur" is of excellent quality.

This opinion from critics who are by no means easy to please should be very satisfactory to you, and it gives me pleasure to congratulate you upon it. Yours faithfully,

A SORROWING EMPIRE AWAITS DEATH

Annual Memorial Service of Prince Henry of Battenberg Occurred While Her Majesty Waited at the Gates of Death.

Osborne House, Ise of Wight, Jan. 21, 8 p.m.—The following official bulletin has been posted: "The slight improvement of the morning is maintained. (Signed) James Reid, R. Douglass Powell, Thomas Barlow."

London, Jan. 21.— Yesterday at Osborne, hedged around with intense secrecy, began with a touching scene. Amid the bright sunshine, in marked contrast to the gloomy skies of Saturday, there drove out from the Palace grounds a carriage containing wreaths for the tomb of Prince Henry of Battenburg, in the little church at Whippingham, about ten miles' ride from the royal residence. Then followed carriages containing the Princess of Wales, the Princess of Battenberg, the Princess Louise, and others, all dressed in the deepest black. The face of the Princess of Wales showed signs of the anxiety she was undergoing.

The annual memorial service for Prince Henry, always a sad occasion, was more than usually sorrowful, for the shadows of a still greater bereavement was uppermost in all minds. The Princess of Wales and the Princess of Battenberg sobbed bitterly, and there was scarcely one of those royal heads bent in prayer that did not shake with a grief which could not be suppressed.

The departure of the Prince of Wales shortly after 12 o'clock to meet Emperor William was very quietly accomplished. The Queen had been informed of the Kaiser's coming, and had signed her desire that the Prince should go to meet him. Rather against his will, the man who for the moment was practically King of England, obeyed his mother's wishes. It was rumored that the Queen wanted the Emperor to postpone his visit to Osborne House, as she did not wish to receive him in her present condition. Apparently, in her lucid moments, she believed she would be able to conquer the dread disease which had fastened itself upon her.

During the afternoon the long, hilly road in the palace grounds was crowded with people, particularly young men and women, arrayed in their Sunday garb, dotting the landscape with vivid patches of color. The local gentry, after a church service, wrote their names in the visitors' book at the lodge.

Inquiries of importance all come by telegram, and there were legion. Hundreds of people, all sorts and conditions of men, clergymen predominating, flooded Cowes with telegrams asking for the latest news.

MINISTER SAW DOUBLE SAYS THE MAGISTRATE

Sepuel to the Charges Made by a Cobourg Preacher.

Cobourg, Jan. 21.—The sequel of the remarkable scene in the Congregational church a couple of Sundays ago, when Rev. Mr Shaver, produced liquor bottles on the pulpit, was a couple of suits at the Police Court early in the week, which were quite as interesting as the preliminaries promised.

The first case was against William Delancy, the young fellow who, at the request of some one, Rev. Mr. Shaver, he said, had made an attempt to get liquor after hours.

Delaney is only a boy, but the evidence was that he had attempted to get liquor, and had been refused.

Delaney said he did not know that he appeared during prohibited hours.

Magistrate Dumble said he could not help but find on the evidence that there had been a clear breach of the law in this case. It was a very unfortunate one, too. It was hard for him to believe that any man, or any Ministers of the Gospel, could so far forget himself as to ask a small boy like this to break the law, or to ask such a small boy to induce a tavern keeper to break the law.

"I cannot believe that an honorable man or any gentleman, or any gentleman with any sense of honor, would offer to do it himself, or get a small boy to make a sneak of himself and ask for a thing under a false pretense. I cannot believe that any respectiable man, let alone a Minister of the Gospel, should descend to such a despicable trick, and I won't believe it. I believe you are guilty of asking for liquor after hours. For what object it was, you know best yourself. I will fine you $10 or two days in gaol, and if there should be any truth in what you say—and I hope there is not—that you were asked to do it by another party, I dare say the other party will pay the fine and get you out of the scrape."

The fine has been paid under protest, and an appeal will be made.

CASE AGAINST HOTELKEEPER.

On Thursday morning the Police Court was crowded to the doors to hear the case of Albert E. Woods, of the British hotel, who was charged before Police Magistrate Dumble with keeping his bar-room open on Sunday, 30th December, last. The charge was laid at the instance of the Rev. Melville A. Shaver, and the Rev. Wm. Beattie.

Rev. Wm. Beattie went to the British hotel on Sunday night, 30th Dec., about 11.10 when he saw in the bar five persons besides the defendant. He looked into the bar-room, through a small window, over six feet above the sidewalk. He was under six feet, and raised himself by catching the window-sill. The window was of stained glass, but there were a few panes of clear glass in the centre, through which he peeped. There was a large mirrow behind the bar.

Rev. Mr. Shaver, in addition to corroborating the evidence of the first witness, said he saw glasses on the bar; saw Woods filling them, and men drinking, and heard the register ring twice. "The Rev. Beattie held me by the foot, while I peeped through the window, I could stand this way a few seconds, then came down. I did not examine the glass of the windows. I had two peeps."

Messrs. Currutbers and Woods denied that there were more then two persons present in the bar. The bevelled glass made one see double, and the mirror disturbed the vision.

CASE WAS DISMISSED

The Magistrate disapproved of the methods of the rev gentlemen. He did not think it was dignified to go about hoisting each other up to windows. They might have well left this kind of work to the proper authorities. The case was extraordinary all the witnesses were equally respetable. It was strange the only men identified were the two who admitted being present as they had a right to be. In the midst of so much that was mysterious and contradictory he must dismiss the case

LAMPTON MILLS SUFFERED HEAVY LOSS

Well-Known Woollen Factories Were Destroyed by Fire.

Toronto, Jan. 21.—

On Sunday afternoon, at Lambton Mills, fire destroyed the Anada Woollen Mills Company's works, involving a loss of nearly $75,000, and throwing sixty people out of work. Last summer $30,000 was spent in renovating the mill, and six carders, costing $18,000 were added. The place had also been supplied with automatic sprinklers, which emptied 11,000 gallons of water over the place. A city steam engine from the Brockton Fire Hall and the Junction Hose Company saved three outbuildings and stock worth $30.000

The origin of the fire is a mystery. It started near the elevator shart and spread rapidly.

The building and contents are insured in the American Mutual Fire Insurance Company. It is not known whether the works will be rebuilt or not. The Lambton Woollen Mill was owned by a syndicate, which have factories at Carleton Place, Markham, Hespeler, and Collingwood.

STRATHCONAS TO COME VIA ENGLAND

Another Change in the Arrangements for Their Return.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—The following cablegram was received at the Militia Department to-day from Colonel Biggar:

"Cape Town, Jan. 21— Strathconas going by way of England. (Signed) Biggar."

A militia order from the department provides that colonels who have obtained that rank after July, 1900, will require to retire after 63 years of age, retaining rank. This regulation will not apply to Colonels Aimer and Otter, who were promoted previous to that date.

THE I. O. F. WIN

Dr. Coulter's Suit Against the Order Dismissed.

A small suit by Dr. C. L. Coulter, of New York, against the I. O. F., the amount involved being $150, which has been made this basis of some sensational newspaper articles and press despatches lately, came to trial in the New York court of the plaintiff's choice on Wednesday. After a full hearing of evidence in the case judgment was given in favour of the I. O. F. Dr. Coulter, who had some time ago employment with the I. O. F. as an organizing officer, was claiming $150 for services alleged to have been rendered after the termination of his regular engagement. The answer of the I. O. F. was to the effect that he had been paid in full for all such services, and the judgment of the court before which the case was tried sustains the position taken by the society.

A Tribute to the Great Family Journal from Atlin, B. C.

The Times received a letter yesterday from Mr. James T. Regan, of Atlin, B. C. Mr. Regan is an old Peterborough boy, and has many relatives residing in Peterborough, including mother and sisters. Mr. Regan says:

"I enclose you $1, which kindly place to my credit on account of the Weekly Times. I also send you a picture of my return to Atlin from Peterborough last winter and three oxen hitched to sleighs. These oxen draw 750 dozen eggs and 91 bushels potatoes. The eggs brought him $450, or 60c. per dozen, and the potatoes $850. The oxen when killed brought, for best cuts, 40c. per pound, down to 25c. per pound, or a total for the cattle of $187.20 each. I take great pleasure in reading the Times, which reaches me regularly. It is a live paper and full of news. There are quite a few copies of the Times taken by the mining camps in the neighborhood. Remember me to all the boys"

The Directors have been negotiating for the purchase of further Town Debentures in which to invest this surplus money and hope to obtain debentures therefor, very shortly.

Dated 21st day of January, A.D., 1901.

J. STEVENSON,
Acting Chairman.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the President, Directors and Shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit the following Report of the improvements made at the Cemetery for the year ending December 31st 1900.

An extension to the waterworks system of 200 feet of pipe was laid and four hydrants erected in Section 8.

In Sections N, D and F, the foot stones and Lot markers which were standing out of the ground from two to ten inches have been set down low enough to allow the lawn mowers to pass over them, the letters cut on the top and painted black, also the grave mounds were lowered and made to an even height.

With the consent of the Lot owners the last of the fences of marble posts and iron railings have been removed, and it is a matter of congratulation, as they are most unsightly objects, that mar the landscape beauty in a Cemetery, and it is to be hoped that the few iron fences which remain will soon be removed as they detract from the beauty very much.

Several of the walks have been filled in and sodded over, which saves considerable expense in hoeing, etc. The walk leading from the office to the Chapel has been excavated and the foundation of stone put in, ready for the concreto in the Spring.

At the South end of the grounds, in Section L, a change has been made in the plan, and some special lots have been laid out, which will be an essential source of revenue to the Cemetery.

At the Single Grave Plot one half of a block has been graded and some trees planted and seeded down.

The gates and fence at the entrance have been repaired and painted. About one hundred feet at the East side of the Cemetery has been riprapped with the large rocks that have been taken from the graves, etc. When the riprap is finished and the bank graded and planted with ampelopsis veitchii, it will be a pretty piece of scenery to view from the boats passing up and down the river.

I would recommend that further draining be done in Sections C and D, the coming season.

I append hereunto my financial statement for the year ending December 31st, 1900.

W. H. FOORD,
Superintendent.

"The Saddest Event that Could Happen to the English Speaking World."

OUR FUTURE KING MEETS GERMANY'S EMPEROR

London, Jan. 21.—The great event which is, in a sense, the saddest that could happen to the whole English-speaking world, seems at last on the verge of coming to pass. The hand of death, that has been so long and so mercifully withheld, is at last falling upon the most beloved Sovereign the world in all its history has ever known. And an Empire stands at her death-bed, with brave, wet eyes and bowed head, smitten with a sense of impending loss it yet cannot realize to the full.

In all the long, long years that she has ruled over England and the Greater England beyond, no breath of criticism of her personal acts has sullied the record of Victoria's goodness and loving kindness. And this has been from no reverence for that legal fiction, "the king can do no wrong." Allied with her native goodness of heart she has ever exhibited the most consummate tact and the most sympathetic knowledge of her people. Of late years, as those who surrounded her in youth and in the prime of life fell away one by one, and with increasing loneliness, increasing grandeur and pathos came upon the aged but imperial figure of the ruler, the love of her people has deepened into veneration almost akin to idolatry. Nor have other nations, bitter haters of England among them, been blind to the majesty of that lonely figure. The infamous cartoons of Le Rire a year ago were not without their value because of the general denunciation and scorn with which all that is respectable in France repudiated them, even though anti-British feeling was at its zenith in the land. By her restraining influence in her own country, and yet more by her dynastic connections, she has been a mighty factor in the peace of Europe, and for this she has earned the gratitude of many a hard-taxed peasant and many a mother in widow's weeds.

Nor have the races of civilization alone paid their tribute of admiration to Victoria. "The great queen-mother" has been venerated and beloved by millions of swarthy savages, of Oriental tribes, of every race and creed and color, and over their interests she has watched as over those of her own people.

She was worked with an energy and persistence few of her subjects have equalled, and has kept in touch with every detail of her administration with a masterly equal to genius. And in all things she has looked with a single eye, not to the devine right, but to the devine duties and responsibilities, of kings.

GLOOMY SUNDAY IN OLD LONDON

Prince of Wales Leaves His Mother's Bedside to Meet the Emperor of Germany in London.

London, Jan. 21.—Throughout the United Kingdom yesterday was a Sunday of anxiety and suspense. No one in England outside the circle of the Court knew the real condition of the Queen or the nature of her disease. The bulletins threw but little light on the universal question whether death was imminent. The London newspapers had not learned that Her Majesty had suffered a shock of paralysis. Extra editions of the Sunday papers contain no information beyond the official bulletins, but there were many of them, and they were eagerly sought.

There were small gatherings in the vicinity of Buckingham Palace and Marlborough House, as well as other centers where the bulletins were posted. Crowds assembled to witness the arrival of Emperor William. Apart from such instances, however, the customary quiet of a London Sunday was not disturbed.

The most alarming reports of the day came in the forms of telegrams from the Princesses at Osborne House. The coming of Emperor William and the news that King Leopold was about starting for London inspired fears that death was at hand. On the other hand the fact that the Prince of Wales was able to leave Osborne House had an encouraging effect.

PRINCE MEETS EMPEROR.

When the Prince arrived from Osborne at Victoria Station, London, at 4 o'clock, with Sir Francis Knollys attending, several hundred people were there to greet him. But there was no demonstration beyond a respectful lifting of hats. The Earl of Clarendon and the Earl of Pembroke received the Prince. When they enquired regarding the Queen's condition he replied: "You see they have let me come away."

Two hours before Emperor William's train was due in London, people began to gather about Charing Cross Station. The crowd included not only the usual hangers-on, but many fashionable people, and hundreds of Germans, anxious to see the Emperor on his first appearance in London for years. The throng became so large that the railroad authorities erected wooden barriers, and a hundred of the tallest police of the metropolitan force, with squads of mounted men, lined up the people on the streets, forming a lane for two blocks to Nelson's monument, in Trafalgar Square. Through this lane moved a procession of royal carriages, each bearing two footmen in yellow livery behind. The carriage entered the railway station and drew up near the track.

The Prince of Wales arrived just before the train entered the station, which was at 6.20 p.m. The Duke of York, Prince Christian, Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein and Prince Arthur of Connaught completed the group of royal personages.

Emperor William stepped out of a saloon car, wearing a travelling suit and a soft hat. He saluted the Prince of Wales by kissing him on both cheeks, and the Prince returned a similar salutation. He then embraced the Duke of York, and shook hands with the others. The people, who looked on as the carriages drove off, uncovered their heads, and Emperor William and the Prince of Wales acknowledged the courtesy by raising their hats. No cheers broke the mournful silence.

The crowd in the vicinity of Buckingham Palace maintained the same demeanor when the Emperor and the Prince of Wales entered the grounds.

PRAYERS IN THE CHURCHES.

At 10 p.m. the Prince of Wales began a conversation by telephone with Osborne House which lasted nearly an hour. As a result of this the Emperor and the Prince decided to start for Osborne this (Monday) morning. Orders were given that a royal yacht should be kept in waiting to convey them to the Isle of Wight.

During the day the members of the diplomatic corps and other notable persons entered their names in the visitors' book at Buckingham Palace.

In churches of all denominations prayers were offered at the morning services, and in most of them the latest bulletin regarding the Queen's condition was read.

The chief rabbi of the synagogue requested special prayers.

The following note was read in the Roman Catholic pro-Cathedral at Kensington.

"The prayers of the congregation are asked for Her Majesty the Queen, the condition of whose health is a cause of anxiety to us all. We pray that by God's help Her Majesty's recovery may be speedy and complete."

The Dean of St. George's Chapel, Windsor read the prayer for a sick person when there is little hope of recovery, beginning: Forasmuch as to all appearance the time of her dissolution draweth near."

New York, Jan. 21.In reference to the accession of the Prince of Wales to the British throne, the London correspondent of The Tribune says:

When William IV. died it was necessary to summon a new Parliament on the accession of Queen Victoria, and Lord Melbourne ordered a general election. A Treasury official is authority for the statement that the opening of a new reign now will not involve the necessity for a general election, however, which is fortunate for the Salisbury Government. Parliament stands adjourned to a definite date, and its second meeting will be virtually a continuation of the session already begun, although it will naturally be opened by a speech from the throne.

The Victoria reign has been a period of unbroken constitutional practice, and all old time questions of royal prerogative and parliamentary privilege have been settled.

Precedent takes the place of law to a large extent in England, and what happened in 1837 is likely to be repeated at Osborne with few variations. The Prime Minister and the Home Secretary are already there, and a meeting of the Privy Council will be the earliest act of a new reign The Lord Chancellor, probably, will be close at hand to administer the oath to the Prince of Wales after the death of the Queen, and Princes, Ministers, Councillars and court officials will hasten to take the oath of allegiance. The old custom of having the new reign proclaimed by heralds at the palaces probably will be followed.

GEO. M'HUGH MAY GET IN

Lindsay's Ex.-M. P. Mentioned for a Senate Vacancy.

Toronto Telegram, — Sir Frank Smith's death creates a vacancy in the senate, and for some time past politicians have been discussing his likely successor in the Upper Chamber. That it will be an Irish Catholic is not doubted, but that he will be a Toronto man is not so certain. In fact, a high authority is responsible for the statement that the choice will be George McHugh, late M.P. for South Victoria, a representative Irish Catholic, and a man who distinguished himself in the last Parliament for his energetic attention to public affairs. He is one of the best known citizens of the Midland district and is universally respected by all classes of citizens.

THE LATE MR. A. H. MELVILLE

Death of Well Known and Respected Citizen.

It is with great regret that we are obliged to chronicle the death of Mr. Alex. H. Melville, which sad event occurred early yesterday morning. On Saturday Mr. Melville was around as usual, and although suffering from a slight cold, was well. On Sunday he was in his usual health, and spent the day as was his custom with his family. He retired at the usual hour feeling well.

About one o'clock Mrs. Melville was awakened by the sound of his heavy breathing. The alarm was given and medical aid summoned but the end came before anything could be done, death resulting from heart disease.

Mr. Melville was born in Vermont 56 years ago. He came to Canada 10 years later, and resided at Perth. He spent several years in business in Peterborough when a young man, afterwards going to Lindsay, where he conducted a business of hatter and furrier for 20 years. He returned to Peterborough about ten years ago, and has resided here ever since. Several years ago he purchased the hat and fur business of Messrs. Mills Bros., which he conducted until a few months ago.

Mr. Melville leaves a wife and one son, Harry, and three daughters—Miss E. Melville, Winnipeg, and Miss Ada and Hattie, who reside at home.

The deceased was a member of Faithful Brethern Lodge, Lindsay, and Peterborough Lodge, A.F. & A.M. and the funeral will take place under Masonic auspices to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock.

Mr. Melville was a gentleman of kindly disposition, and had a large number of friends who extend their sympathy to the sorrowing wife and children in their irreparable loss.

STORIES OF THE WAR

Thrilling Experiences of Returned South African Soldiers.

The Story of Price's Rescue by Trooper Knisley—Gunner Brown Says Col. Hughes is a Good Fellow and a Good Fighter.

The Lindsay Watchman Warder makes interesting references to experiences of Peterborough members of the C. M. R. in South Africa. Speaking of the return of the contingent recently, and of the trip from Halifax west, a representative of the Watchman-Warder says:—

Three of the men were from Peterborough, and that town was in festive attire for their reception. The boys were Trooper "Chill" Turner, son of Mr. J. J. Turner; Gunner Brown, of the Kingston Military College, but home on three weeks leave, and Trooper Percy Price, a nephew of Lord Roberts. The last named is probably the best rider and shot that went from Canada. He broke the horses before they went on board ship at Halifax. This was learned from his companions. He distinguished himself in action, and was promoted several steps while away. His father is a farmer near Peterborough. His brother a member of the N. W. Mounted Police, was with that force at the Queen's Jubilee, and Lord Roberts went to his tent and asked about his parents, one of whom, as has been intimated, is a close relative of the great soldier.

Sergt. Price said the Boers are a very hard people to get at. They appear suddenly in small bands, shoot terrific volleys into the enemy, and then fly. Their horses are the best saddle horses in the world. They are easy to ride and do not stumble into the badger holes that are such a dismay to British horses.

It was carrying Mr. Price out of danger that Trooper Knisley, (in the papers Kingsley) is one of the four or five recommended for the Victoria Cross. Mr. Price told of the incident as follows: "We were advancing about 20 yards apart when we were fired upon from a kopje. We dismounted and prepared to return the fire, when all of a sudden a lot of Boers rode right at us from the foot of the hill, and fired heavy volleys at us. Many of our horses stampeded. Mine was among them. Our fellows had to retreat. I fired a couple of shots and ran as far as I could, but my breath gave out, and I dropped behind a boulder and fired a dozen more shots. Then I got up, threw my rifle and ran as hard as I could. It was nearly up with me when Knisley rode back and took me up behind him."

Trooper Price was among 34 of the boys who were poisoned by eating some cheese when near Bloemfontein on the way down the railway. He shot several Boers. From one of them he took a beautiful Mauser rifle and bandolier, but when sick from the poison lost both, for which he was very sorry.

They spoke in disgust of the house burning they were compelled to do. For days they went through the country turning the women and children out of their homes. If there were several bags of corn in the house only one or two would be given these poor people. "Where did they go?" was asked. "Oh, God knows," said the boys, "but it was a job we hated. The houses were burned by shoving a torch in the thatch. It was too bad."

"Chill" Turner declared that if it had not been for the chickens the Canadians "commandeered" they would have died. Several of the fellows who would not go out and rob roosts were compelled to turn back from weakness. All they got on the march was dried beef and hard tack that was terror to teeth. It was almost impossible to get wood to cook the fowls and he had seen fine pianos smashed up to make fires of. The boys had all the soldiering they wanted.

Trooper Price was close beside Pte. Milloy, of Eastern Ontario, when he was blinded in both eyes by a bullet. Milloy is at home, and now is able to do his correspondence on a typewriter.

"Chill" Turner saw Charley Graham. He intended coming home with them, but through neglecting to get a discharge from Brabant's Horse, he could not be received into the returning body. He was very much disappointed. Gunner Brown, of "D" Battery, saw Col. Hughes when they and "E" Battery were together for a while. He spoke in the highest terms of the colonel as a good fellow and a good fighter.

THE TIMES LEADS.

This Great Family Journal is Away in Advance.

John Billings says: "I luv a rooster for two things—one iz the crow that is in him, and the other iz the spurs that air on him to bak up his krow with."

The Times has become a popular paper, not only amongst the people of the town and Ashburnham, but also amongst the residents of the surrounding towns and villages.

Mr. Geo. B. Hilliard, of Lakefield, says the Times is regarded in Lakefield as the brightest paper that comes to that burg, and is read by very many in the village.

Wm. O'Brien, the genial clerk of Douro, who has long been a subscriber to the daily edition, says that the Times is the popular paper in that township, 75 per cent of the people being readers. He hopes that it may be long keep up its onward pace.

Mr. Wm. Gallon, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, states that the whole back country reads the Times, and regard the paper as one of the very best. He says that it is always full of good things.

Mr. P. P. Young, Young's Point, says everybody reads the Times in that locality It is admirably conducted.

Mr. James Stevenson, ex-M.P., says the Times is the brightest and best newspaper published in Peterborough.

Commodore Calcutt says he would sooner miss his breakfast than miss getting the Times. It is a famous appetizer, only equalled by Calcutt's celebrated ale.

Mr. J. B. Thornton, Omemee, says the Times is very popular in that village, and is widely read.

Rev. Mr. Bastow thinks the Times deserves great credit for its progressive spirit. It is up-to-date, giving all the news up to four o'clock in the morning.

Recently Mr. Sage and another, of North Smith, brought us in a couple of clubs for the Weekly Times of 58 names. Here are 58 names from one section of Smith alone, that are constant readers of the Times.

Mr. Harry Garbutt, Reeve of Smith, says that the Times is the popular paper in his locality.

Mr. James Baptie, Springville, gives similar evidence, and says you can hardly go into a house in his locality that the Times is not present.

Mr Pearson, the great horse buyer, of Montreal, told the Times the other day that he has better results from the advertisement in the Times than from any other paper. He says he finds the Times is read by almost everybody in the district. He knows this, for almost every horse he buys is the product of the Times advertisement.

Mr. T. Donaldson, Cavan, member of the Counties' council of Northumberland and Durham, says that the Times is very popular in Cavan.

Mr. James Chambers, Manvers, bears similar testimony in regard to Manvers township.

David Healy says that in Asphodel, Hastings and Norwood everybody literally reads the Times.

Dr. Bingham, the popular city Medical Health Officer, missed his Times the other morning, and came to the office for a copy. He said that he was not feeling well, and wondered what was the matter, until he remembered he had not had his Times.

The above are a few of the many evidences we have in our possession of the high regard in which this great family journal is held by the people. Merchants and other advertisers should remember that hundreds upon hundreds of families throughout the town and country cannot be reached by any other way except through the Times.

The Times in Lakefield

Dr. Bell, Lakefield, told the Times yesterday that when the Times fails to reach Lakefield by the morning mail, as it sometimes does, considerably annoyance and disappointment is the result. During the very short days it is not always possible to catch all the early outgoing mails, but we will, in view of the above, try to make the connection hereafter. Our many readers in Lakefield and elsewhere may rest assured that we will do our best to have the paper in the Post Office in time for all early outgoing mails in every direction.

LO AND HIS BUFFALO HORN

How the Red Man Utilizes a Product of the Slaughter House.

The Montana Indian is something of a schemer himself. He comes to town and sometimes walks all over the place without saying a word to any one Sometimes he brings in a few sets of polished mounted cow's horns, which he sells for a dollar or two a set. He never frequents saloons. He looks into clothing store windows, but never bucks the slot machines in cigar stores. He frowns as he passes a restaurant, but smiles while walking through the sweetscented alleys back of cheap boarding houses.

In a horse trade he takes the prize, if there's one to be taken, for he was never known to get the worst of such a bargain. The reason of this, however, may lie in the fact that he begins the negotiations with nothing to lose and everything to win. However, he has the reputation of a schemer.

Where his schemes shine brightest is in the scale of polished "buffalo" horns. He lives out near one of the slaughter houses on the south side, and there he secures his "buffalo" horns, all sizes, curves and consistencies. He picks out a set of ox horns of symmetrical proportions, scrapes the scales off and boils the horns in a solution of glycerine, wood ashes and water. This treatment softens the horns, so that a case-knife will easily remove all the exterior accumulation. Then fine sandpaper is used to give the first polish, followed by a thorough rubbing with a flannel cloth slightly saturated with oil. A varnish or shellac is then applied, and the horns are in condition for mounting. Then the work is turned over to the squaw, who does the really artistic work. Red flannel and braid, beads sometimes, and a strip here and there of buckskin, a few brass-headed tacks and the mounted "buffalo" horns are ready for the market.

Mr. Buck comes to town and the tenderfoot asks him where he "ketchem buffalo horns."

"In Yallowstone Park," grunts the big buck.

"How much?" asks the intending purchaser.

"Two dolls."

"Too muchee."

"No, no; cheap; thue dolls, ugh."

The tenderfoot inspects the work and satisfies himself that they are really the horns of an almost extinct species of the majestic Western animal, and he hands over the coin and walks away proudly with his prize.

The Indian, moves off down the street, turns the first corner and disappears up an alley.

Exercise and Health.

Exercise is a splendid thing for a healthy person. But when the body is weakened by disease, exercise strains rather than strengthens. Exercise will not cure a "weak" stomach. It may increase the appetite, but it won't cure dyspepsia, and an increased appetite is a curse not a blessing to the sufferer from dyspepsia.

Take exercise by all means but also take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery if there is a deranged or diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. This medicine is not a cure-all but a specific for diseases of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. It strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood, and increases physical vigor.

There is no alcohol contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and every other narcotic. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

"I wish to say that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved a great blessing to me," writes Mrs. Ellen E. Bacon, of Shutesbury, Franklin County, Mass. "Prior to September, 1897, I had doctored for my stomach trouble for several years, going through a course of treatment without any real benefit. In September, 1896, I had very sick spells and grew worse; could eat but little. I commenced in September, 1897, to take Dr. Pierce's medicine, and in a short time I could eat and work. I have gained twenty pounds in two months."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a cure for constipation.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer riflemen. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money.
